NEW YORK, Dec. 4.—(AP)—An additional appropriation of $375,000 will be asked of the state legislature for the completion of the equipment for the 1932 Olympic games at Lake Placid, Dr. Godfrey Dewey, chairman of the winter games committee, announced today.

This appropriation, if granted, will bring the state's total contribution to $500,000. The remainder of the estimated total cost of $800,000 is to be borne by the township of North Elba, the American Olympic association and private contributions.

The fund will provide for a bob sled run which is nearly completed, an open air stadium seating 4,000, a ski jump and an arena for skating and hockey events.

YARN WILL BE SENT TO ENGLAND FOR RACING

NEW YORK, Dec. 4.—(AP)—A. C. Bostwick's Yarn, winner of two important three-year-old stakes in Canada and runner-up to Gallant Fox in the Jockey club gold cup, will be shipped to England Saturday. Although no plans have been announced for the colt, it is probable that Bostwick will train the son of Friar Rock for steeplechase racing. Yarn showed great staying power in his races but failed to win an important event after returning from his successful invasion of Canada.

SPORT BRIEFS

LONDON, Dec. 4—(AP)—Dave Shade, California middleweight, and Jack Hood, champion of Great Britain, fought 12 slashing rounds to a draw tonight before a capacity house at Albert Hall.

KNOXVILLE, Tenn.—Councilman W. N. Smithson announced that Knoxville had given up hope of taking over the Mobile baseball franchise of the Southern association, voted them at Memphis several months ago.

MIDDLETOWN—The schedule for the Wesleyan swimming team this winter shows a list of 10 meets, including the New Englands, which will take place in the Wesleyan pool.

MILWAUKEE—"Mule" Wilson, former Texas Aggies halfback has been signed by the Green Bay Packers to play in the game against the Chicago Bears at Wrigley field Sunday.

SPRINGFIELD, Mass. — Henry Knowlton, of Winchester, right halfback on the Springfield college varsity football eleven, today was chosen to lead the 1931 team. Knowlton has been a letter man for two years, although not obtaining the status of a regular until this season.

NEW HAVEN—Lawrence Spellman, of Medford, Mass., was tonight elected captain of next year's football team of Hopkins school, at the annual banquet tonight. Clarence Blakeslee, Herster Barres and Johnny Lindenbergh, of the Yale eleven spoke.

CHICAGO — The Chicago Blackhawks regained winning form tonight and scored their sixth victory in eight starts, at the expense of the New York Americans, 4 to 2.

OTTAWA—The Ottawa Senators used Philadelphia as a stepping stone to move into second place in the Canadian division standing of the National Hockey league tonight but it took a stiff fight to bring a 5 to 2 victory.

PHILADELPHIA—A first period bombardment, in which the visitors scored all their goals, gave the Springfield Indians a 5-2 victory over the Philadelphia Arrows tonight in a Canadian-American Hockey league match at the Arena.

CHICAGO—Loyola university of Chicago, a Catholic institution with an enrollment of 7,000 students, tonight announced its decision to abolish inter-collegiate football.

MONTREAL—The Montreal Canadiens maintained their home ice winning streak tonight by taking a high scoring, rough National Hockey league game from the New York Rangers, 5 to 4. The Canadiens, undefeated at home this season, went into a tie with the Toronto Maple Leafs for the lead in the Canadian division.

SHYMA SPORT FLASHES

Boxing

In the opener we pick Lacy to win the decision from Allen in four rounds. We think Rodman's ability to hit often should give him a decision over James. Peloquin has licked Caprio once and we pick him to repeat. Reed is our choice over Cayer. In the star bout we pick Koziol to lick Darr and would not be surprised if it were by a K. O. within five rounds.

Volleyball League

Monday night's games saw many changes in the league standing. The weak team grew weaker and one of the strong teams also was much weaker.

Columbia played good ball to defeat Harvard three games.

Princeton also kept up its winning streak to win three straights from Army.

Yale proved to be the flops of the evening, losing two games and winning one from Notre Dame.

Yale won the first game by staging a brilliant comeback. The last two games were lost because of lack of team work. Labarre and Pingree gave the crowd the impression that they had either an off night (of which we doubt) or being unable to cooperate with each other. Both played poor volleyball.

League Standing

	W.	L.
Columbia	7	2
Princeton	6	3
Yale	5	4
Notre Dame	5	4

Annual Election

Wednesday evening the following officers were elected to hold office at the Shyma club for the year 1931:

President, Ernest Phaneuf; vice-president, Emile Raymond; recording secretary, Leo Bellerose; financial secretary, Amede Dugas; treasurer, James White; auditors, Nelson Lemieux, Albert Dugas, Joseph Snow; janitor, Zike Lurette.

All-American Football

The Shymas Sport Flashes are about to issue a series of mythical All-American football teams to be picked by picked members of the club. These teams will be made up of players of teams which games have been broadcast over the radio. At the end of this series a team will be picked from these teams and called The Shyma All-American Team.

Lefty Wilk's All-American selection: Team No. 1—End, Carl Mark, Army; tackle, Vincent, Yale; guard, Metzger, Notre Dame; center, Siano, Fordham; guard, Bromberg, Dartmouth; tackle, Price, Army; end, Messinge, Army; quarterback, Carideo, Notre Dame; halfback, Hipper, Georgia; halfback, Swartz, Notre Dame; fullback, Macaluso, Colgate.

SLICED DRIVE IS NOT NEGLIGENCE, RULES COURT

LITTLE ROCK, Ark., Dec. 4.—(AP)—Is it negligence when you slice a drive?

Ask any golfer, and to substantiate his answer add the opinion of a circuit court jury here. It took the jurors just one minute today to decide that Dr. F. D. Woods couldn't help it if his shot slithered off in the wrong direction and popped Olaf D. Kyster. Kyster had sued for $556.

The Ice House Accept Challenge.

The Ice House will play the Sons of Rest at the Mohegan park at 2.30 p. m. Sunday Dec. 7. The Ice House Gang are not the Ice House Wonders, but we will play the Sons of Rest and after we get through with them they won't look like the Sons of Rest, but will look like the Sons of Peace.

NOTRE DAME ON SHORT END OF WAGERS NOW

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 4.—(AP)—Notre Dame gridiron grenadiers dropped into the unusual role of short-enders in the betting odds here today with their football frolic with the University of Southern California only two days away.

Reports from Tucson, Ariz., where the Ramblers held secret practice, that Larry Mullins, fullback, might not be able to start the game, was given as the basis for the shift of favoritism to the Trojans.

Strengthening this trend was the apparent certainty that Coach Howard Jones' chief absentee, Ralph Wilcox, left end, would be able to play.

Coach Knute Rockne's statement that his California-bred fullback would not be able to start resulted in the wagering shifting to ten to eight in favor of Southern California.

The Trojan board of strategy lent no ear to the tidings of woe from Notre Dame as they put the men of Troy through another snappy session on defense.

The squad went through two hours of dummy scrimmage and finished off with a light touch of offensive tricks, all behind locked portals.

Notre Dame's stars in effigy galloped on the offense against Southern California teams but less effectively than before. Ray Sparling, second string end out with a bad knee, jokingly assumed the role of Mullins as he limped about the field. The Trojans frankly expect Mullins to pop out on the field against them Saturday.

Coach Jones had no statement to make concerning his plans outside of the general hope of ending Notre Dame's string of 18 straight victories.

Notre Dame's team will leave Tucson at 3 a. m. tomorrow, and will arrive here at 5:12 p. m.

JUNIOR COURT LOOP IS TAKING FORM

Activity for the proposed new junior basketball league is beginning to take definite form. Requests have come in for time for the various schools to get in some practice sessions and within a few days no doubt everything will be humming right along in preparation for the opening a week from today.

The make-up of the circuit is still in doubt. Four schools have definitely decided to enter and Paul Bitgood, Academy basketball coach, and Howard Demarest, Y coach, who are in back of the league, have hopes of at least two more entries. This league, no doubt, would be a big boost for the sport, giving many boys a start at the sport who, in previous years, have had no chance to get acquainted with the sport.

W. F. BAKER, PRES. OF PHILLIES, DIES SUDDENLY

MONTREAL, Dec. 4.— (AP) —The baseball world today lost one of its leading figures, William Frazer Baker, president of the Philadelphia National league club. He died of a heart attack in his suite at the Ritz Carlton hotel early today.

Baker, who was 64, was head of the Phillies for 17 years and ranked second among the National league club presidents in length of service.

Baker, Mrs. Baker, his secretary, Jerry Nugent, and Mrs. Nugent, arrived here Monday night to attend the sessions of the minor league convention. He apparently was in good health, although he had been under treatment for a heart ailment at intervals during the last few months.

He suffered a slight attack early last night but quickly recovered and had dinner with Mrs. Baker and Mr. and Mrs. Nugent. At 10 p. m. he was taken seriously ill and a physician was summoned. The patient failed to rally, however, and died at 5:30 o'clock this morning.

Baker was born in Pittsburgh in 1866. He first became interested in baseball when his cousin, William Locke, became owner of the Phillies with Baker as his sponsor. Upon Locke's death in 1913, Baker bought a controlling interest in the club and had held it ever since.

The body will be taken to New York, where the Baker home is located. Funeral arrangements have not been completed.

BANTAMS PLAY FAST NEW HAVEN TEAM TONIGHT

The Baltic Bantam basketball team will play the Tocotsky Stars from New Haven on the Baltic gym surface tonight. Manager Deschamp of the Bantams says the boys had an off night when they played the Shyma Juniors Tuesday night and lost, but the team will be in good shape for a hard struggle. The Stars are sending the following lineup to Baltic: Alderman and Fleischman, forwards; Staff, center; Chidell and Richards, guards; utility, Kupin, Roth, Biance.

For the Bantams: Deschamp and Charron, forwards; Passmore, center; Blanchette and Depot, guards; utility, Rondeau and Andrews.

Arthur Guillotte is making a good job handling the whistle.

CITIZENS OPEN SEASON WITH WIN OVER OCKFORDS

The Polish Citizens opened up in basketball just as they ended in baseball—tormenting New London—when they trimmed the New London Ockfords Thursday evening at Parish hall, 37 to 31. The Ockfords had recently defeated the Taftville Shymas so that this victory is a good starter for the Cits in their first whirl of the court game.

The Ockfords were in the lead for most of the game, having a 20 to 12 margin at halftime and generally outplaying their opponents. Les Pingree, at left guard, was the leading scorer with 11 points and Capt. Lemieux had nine. Edwards of the visitors had 12 tallies and Long was right behind with 11.

Next week the Cits play on Friday night and will have the Westerly Collegians as the opposition.

ROWE BEATS GENARO IN EIGHT ROUND BOUT

NEW HAVEN, Dec. 4—(AP)—Al Rowe, of Philadelphia, defeated Mickey Genaro, of Waterbury, in an eight round headliner here tonight. Rowe weighed 130 1-2, and Genaro 133 1-2.

In the semi-final Billy Bridges, of Norwalk won an eight round decision over Al Rossi, of Newark. Bridges weighed in at 135 1-2 and Rossi at 139.

Ruby Bradley, 116, New Haven, defeated Johnny Andrews, 123, of New Haven, in six rounds.

Rocco Murolo, 128, New Haven, defeated Kid Cement, 131, Norwalk, in four rounds.

BOTH DARR AND KOZIOL CONFIDENT OF KAYOING THE OTHER TONIGHT

TONIGHT'S CARD
Three All-Star Bouts
Al Koziol of Norwich vs. Vic Darr of Norwich—8 rounds
Eddie Reed of Hartford vs. Joey Cayer of New Bedford—8 rounds
Rene Peloquin of Danielson vs. Tony Caprio of Providence—8 rounds
Preliminaries
Al Rodman of Goodyear vs. Pat James of Providence—6 rounds
Snooks Lacy of Norwich vs. Whitey Allen of Manchester

Bubbling over with confidence, Vic Darr and Al Koziol will enter the ring tonight in the main bout of the Shyma Boxing club show at Parish hall at even money as far as the betting goes. This bout between the two local youngsters has aroused more interest than any bout in recent years and a packed house is expected for the affair. That it will be a torrid affair goes without saying, as everyone who knows anything about the boys knows that they are two hard-hitting boys whose main desire is to knock out the other.

Whether this will be accomplished by either one is another story that can only be told after the bout. But whether there is a knockout or not both boys will know that they have been in a fight. Darr, spurred on by his decisive win over Koziol six weeks ago, has little doubt as to the outcome of the bout. Koziol, on the other hand, knows that he is in much better shape than he was in the first bout and is absolutely without fear of Darr knocking him kicking. If the bout goes the limit it will be a great surprise to the majority of the cash customers who look for a K. O. in the early rounds of the bout.

Both Darr and Koziol are in perfect condition. Darr is tipping the scales at 142 1-2 while Koziol is down to 143, with not an ounce of fat on him. In his last bout Koziol was a trifle flabby about the waist line, but last night he was hard as nails. Koziol plans to shoot for the Darr chin at the first gong while Darr will devote his attack to the Koziol midriff, which seems to be the Laurel Hill boy's weak point. These youngsters have put in some intensive training during the past two weeks with the result that both are in the best condition that they ever were in their careers.

For the under card there are two good eight-rounders, a six and a four. The eight-rounders bring together Eddie Reed of Hartford and Joey Cayer of New Bedford, and Rene Peloquin of Danielson and Tony Caprio of Providence in a renewal of their feud which started a month ago with Peloquin getting a six-round verdict.

For the six-rounder, Al Rodman, blond-haired battler of Goodyear, will take on Pat James, Brown university dancing master, in what should be a real fast little bout.

Opening the card will be Snooks Lacy of the West Side pitted against Whitey Allen of Manchester, protege of Frankie Busch. Lacy is one of the cleverest defensive boxers that ever entered a Taftville ring but he lacks the hitting power to slow up his opponents and he appears to tire after three rounds of fast boxing.

This will be the last card of the year, the Shymas laying off the game until about the first of February.

COOPER LEADS QUALIFIERS WITH TWO ROUNDS OF 69

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 4.—(AP)—Shooting two brilliant 69's, Harry Cooper, of Chicago, led the field with a 138 today in the 36 hole qualifying trials of the $7,500 San Francisco open match play golf tournament.

Cooper's rounds, one over the Lake course and the other over the Ocean links of the Olympic club, each were two under par. He finished three strokes ahead of Frank Walsh, another Chicago pro, who posted rounds of 70-71——141.

Horton Smith of the Cragston Country club, New York, qualified with 69-74—143, while Gene Sarazen of the Flushing Country club, Long Island, N. Y., a former national open champion, turned in 72-72—144.

Another former national open champion, Tommy Armour, of Detroit, won a place in the select 32 who will continue in the tourney, with 75-71—146.

Only three amateurs qualified. They were Jack Wolf, San Francisco, with 73-76—149; Malcolm McNaughton, Stanford university, 77-72—149, and John McHugh, San Francisco, 74-75—149.

H. Chandler Egan, Medford, Ore., twice former national amateur champion, had a 79-84—164, and failed to qualify.

Ten tied for the last two places with 151. In the play-off George Von Elm of Detroit, stayed in the running by taking a four on the extra hole. Three others, Hutt Martin, Reno; Ed Gayer, Chicago, and Vic Owens, San Pedro, Cal., tied with fives and will play off the deadlock for 32nd place tomorrow. The other six who dropped out on the extra hole were Lew Waldron, Chicago; Arthur Bell, Honolulu; Clarence Clark, Tulsa; Ken Jeffries, Portland, Ore.; Earl Fry, Alameda, and George Le Cornec, San Rafael, Cal.

ORIOLES BUY CLARKSON FROM FT. WORTH CLUB

MONTREAL, Dec. 4.—(AP)—The Baltimore club of the International league today purchased Bill Clarkson, former major league pitcher with the New York Giants and Boston Braves, from Fort Worth of the Texas league. Another deal by the same clubs sent Outfielder Jimmy Dalrymple to Fort Worth in exchange for Catcher Johnny O'Connell, formerly with the Pittsburgh Pirates.

BOTH Y TEAMS GET VICTORIES AT WESTERLY

(Special to The Bulletin)

WESTERLY, Dec. 4—The Y Seniors broke into the win column in their second start of the season here tonight, taking the Battery E five into camp by the slight margin of 26 to 25, in a thrilling battle. In the preliminary the Norwich Y seconds, formerly the Y Emps, walloped the Battery E seconds, 44 to 8.

The Norwich team had a 19 to 8 lead at half-time but the local soldiers staged a strong comeback in the second half and almost pulled the game out of the fire. They, however, were not figuring on the fighting qualities of the Seniors who battled fiercely to hold the game and succeeded.

Tommy Lynch at left forward and Cecil Henschel, center, were the mainstays of the Seniors, scoring 19 points between them. In the preliminary, Ruzzitto tallied 12 points.

MINORS WILLING TO MEET MAJORS ON DRAFT QUESTION

MONTREAL, Dec. 4.— (AP) —The draft situation, in a critical condition for several days, took a sudden turn for the better tonight as definite signs of peace appeared on the horizon.

After another joint conference of the American association, International and Pacific Coast leagues, it was announced that a committee of nine, three from each league, had been named with authority to act at any time the National and American leagues should wish to discuss the draft.

DARR VS. KOZIOL

The battle of the year—that is locally. And it is a good bet that it will be just as hectic and torrid as any bout ever staged in Madison Square Garden. Who is going to win? Might just as well try to name the first man who will fly to the moon. A person just can't tell who will win this bout. I was quoted as picking Darr to win. The only trouble with that was that I wasn't quoted far enough. I said, and still say, that according to past performances Darr has the best chance but I don't pick him to win. Neither do I pick Koziol. It's an even toss up and either boy may win without creating anything of a surprise. My only prediction is that the boy who gets in the hardest blows early in the bout will be the boy that will take home the bacon.

There is very little difference in the hitting powers of the boys, both hit so that they stay hit. If Darr lands solidly Mr. Koziol is very liable to take a short snooze on the canvas. On the other hand if Koziol lands one on Mr. Darr's chin the said Darr will listen to the referee calling numbers but yet not be able to hear them. Darr hits much straighter from the shoulder than Koziol and he swings fewer blows. Koziol throws glove after glove at his opponent and they come so fast that his adversary has little time to do any leather pushing on his own account. Koziol's method of attack is his best defense. Darr has considerable the edge in the defensive end of the game but does not have that unlimited stamina to keep throwing punches. So, from sizing the boys up according to their relative merits it looks very much like an even bet as to who will win.

Tony Brusso, manager of Darr, and Barney Keenan, the advisor of Koziol, both are emphatic in their assertions that their respective charges will win. Last night Barney and Tony met and each asserted to the other that after tomorrow night his boy would be the local champion. Tony and Barney got together for a little side bet on their boys.

One of the faces at the ringside that will be missing will be that of Romeo Kane, an ardent supporter of Koziol. Mr. Kane is ill at his home.

BOXING COMMISSIONER BUCKLEY ATTACKED AT PUBLIC HEARING

BITGOOD TELLS STORY OF ACCIDENT IN SUIT AGAINST H. O. WILLIAMS

(Special to The Bulletin)

WESTERLY, Dec. 4—Dr. Edwin J. Knerr, M. D., of Hope Valley, R. I., was on the witness stand Thursday afternoon at the adjournment of Washington county superior court with Justice Jeremiah E. O'Connell on the bench in the third day of the automobile damage case trial, Elisha R. Bitgood of Hopkinton, R. I., vs. Harry O. Williams and Edith C. Williams of Westerly. The previous witness was the plaintiff, who had occupied much of the day's time in a detailed description of his recollection of the accident which occurred in the early morning of Oct. 5, 1926 on the Nooseneck Hill state highway near Cord Wood corners. It is expected that the case will not be concluded in Friday's session of the court. The spare jurors who have been previously excused to report Friday morning, will undoubtedly be again excused by Judge O'Connell to report at the court session on next Monday morning.

Mr. Bitgood, a former Hopkinton democratic state senator from Hopkinton to the Rhode Island general assembly, on the witness stand, testified that he is 51 years old and is in the lumber and box making business in Hope Valley. On Oct. 5, he started out in his automobile for Providence, and upon reaching the Nooseneck Inn found that he left his pocketbook at home. On the way from Hope Valley to Nooseneck the witness said he encountered heavy fog on the road. As he came near Cordwood corners he saw a steamroller beside the road and the smoke from the stack of the roller was settling toward the ground. He said he recognized Henry Heath as operator of the roller.

On returning from Nooseneck Inn to Hope Valley the witness said he realized that the roller might be operating near Cordwood corners. He stated that he slowed down his car and applied the brakes as he approached the locality.

The witness said he saw the steam from the roller, and it was settling down over the road. Out of this cloud of steam and fog, he said, came an automobile which was straddling the center line of the highway.

The Buick sedan driven by Mr. Williams caught the front end of his car and his machine then went backward.

The next thing he knew, the witness said, he was lying in the road. The plaintiff testified that the smoke and fog was thick 50 to 75 feet ahead of him and the auto which struck his car came out of that cloud. The witness said his machine was on the right hand side of the highway, and he was bringing his machine to a complete stop as he approached the smoke and fog.

The witness said that the car coming toward him was traveling very fast and was straddling the center line and swerved toward the right when it caught his machine. Bitgood testified as to his suffering from the bruises and injuries he had sustained and that he was placed on a cushion which had been taken from his machine. Later, the witness said, he was placed in a truck of the state board of public roads and carried to the office of Dr. Knerr in Hope Valley. After receiving first aid he was taken in the jitney of William Kay to his home, where he was placed in bed. He said he remained in bed for three weeks.

Walter E. Perkins of Auburn testified that on Oct. 5, 1926, he was driving a truck for a Mr. Fish of Hope Valley and he was bound for Providence. He said he saw a Nash and Buick automobile in an accident.

The witness said that about 500 yards from the scene of the accident the Williams' car passed his Mack truck. The witness said he judged the machine was going between 20 and 25 miles per hour. He said he heard a bang and then he soon arrived at the scene of the accident. He told of seeing Bitgood lying on a cushion with blood on his face. The witness placed the Bitgood car as being on the right hand side of the road and the Williams car, he said, had the bumper dropped down or bent back, and the left front wheel was a little over the center of the line.

Hope Valley Garagemen Herbert C. Blacklock and Elbert Stanton, in the early Thursday morning court session testified to their visit to the scene of the auto collision and of the completely wrecked condition of the front of both cars. One of the garage men was warned by Judge O'Connell to either swallow his chewing gum or to remove it from his mouth so that his testimony could be understood.

JOHN MARTIN DIES FOLLOWING LONG ILLNESS

(Special to The Bulletin)

WESTERLY, Dec. 4—The death of John Martin, well-known Pawcatuck resident, and for 41 years employed at the printing press plant of the C. B. Cottrell and Sons Co., in the buffing department, until ill health compelled his retirement about four years ago, occurred at his home, on Burdick avenue, Wednesday night in Pawcatuck.

Mr. Martin was born in Trowbridge, Wiltshire county, England, on March 4, 1850, the son of John and Susan (Hutton) Martin. In Birmingham, England, on Oct. 8, 1878, he was united in marriage with Mary Jane Sharpe, and their golden wedding anniversary was observed several years ago in Pawcatuck. In 1888 Mr. and Mrs. Martin came to America and settled in Westerly where they have continued to reside.

Mr. Martin held membership in the First Baptist church and was a charter member of its men's class, being its second oldest member with John Coy his only senior. He held no membership in fraternal orders.

Of his immediate family, he was the eldest of eleven children and the last member. Besides his wife, he is survived by three sons, William E. Martin, of Pawcatuck; Alfred J. Martin, of Newport, R. I., and Herbert Martin of Hartford. A fourth son, Frank, died several years ago. There are six grandchildren, members of the families of the three surviving sons.

On Thursday section men on the New Haven railroad were engaged in the vicinity of the Westerly waiting station on roadbed work to have it in readiness when real winter weather begins. The snow signs in the Westerly section have already been placed in position in anticipation of the first fall of snow of this winter season.

Masonic Club to Elect

Westerly Square and Compass club will hold its 11th annual meeting in its club rooms in the Potter-Langworthy block on Monday evening, Jan. 7th next. A nominating committee, consisting of William H. Browning, Ernest H. Ozanne, Robert F. L. Barr, James H. Blackler and Samuel Bailey, named by the board of governors, has posted the following slate of club officers for election to serve during the 1931 year:

President, Charles M. Lamb; vice president, Farquhar Smith; secretary, Byron C. Taylor; treasurer, Lewis Stanton; board of directors, (for three years) Theodore Samuels, George Smith; (for two years) Harold Dickins Livingstone, L. Ward Alger; (for one year), Dwight L. Freeman; auditors, George E. Broughton and Fayette F. Freeman.

The Girls' Friendly society of Christ Episcopal church on Friday afternoon will hold a tea in the church school rooms with special decorations for the occasion. The party and tea will be held for the parents of the members and the principal guest speaker for the afternoon will be Miss Edith Sharpe of Lonsdale, R. I., the diocesan head of the Girls' Friendly society. The annual Christmas festival with play by church members will be observed this year on the week following Christmas.

William Russell Dower, field deputy, from Westerly of the United States internal revenue service, District of Rhode Island, is a daily Providence business caller this week in the interests of the federal department.

Miss Maude Price, formerly a representative of the Mothers' Aid department, Westerly, and later hostess at the Lorraine Community house, Pawcatuck, returned by auto on Wednesday to Westport, Conn., after being the Thanksgiving vacation guest of Mr. and Mrs. Alexander M. Blake and family.

Stephen Wesley Macomber, well-known Westerly artist, was a Providence business caller on Thursday.

Miss Clara Dodge was a Westerly business caller in Providence on Thursday.

Frank W. Smith of Wakefield, R. I., wife and mother, were Westerly visitors on Wednesday evening, the guests of Councilman and Mrs. George H. Broughton.

Jack E. Bowler of Peace Dale, R. I., visited on Wednesday evening with friends in Westerly.

Mrs. C. Byron Cottrell, after closing her Elm street home on Thursday, left Westerly to pass the winter at the Hotel Lombardy, New York city.

Lower California's government has ordered Americans working in Mexicali to live in Mexico instead of just across the border in Calexico, Cal.

NOANK

The young people of the Methodist church will present a musical program in the church, under direction of Miss Marion McDonald. The program will consist of all old-fashioned songs. Several musicals of this kind were presented last winter and were greatly enjoyed. A meeting of the Crusaders of the Baptist church will be held after school this (Friday) afternoon in the lower Sunday school room.

Mrs. Mary Luce, of Groton, called on relatives in the village Wednesday.

Close of Term Dec. 19

The Noank grammar school closes Friday, Dec. 19, for the Christmas vacation. Plans are being made for special exercises. There will be Christmas trees for the pupils in the lower grade rooms.

Liberty council, D. of A., met in their hall Wednesday evening. A number of members are planning to attend a session of Rachael Thayer council, D. of A., in Woonsocket, R. I., Friday night. At the close of the business session refreshments were served by the good of the order committee, Mrs. Esther Andrews, Mrs. Mae Oles and Mrs. Abby Brooks.

H. H. Park has returned, after a visit with relatives in Providence.

William Terry, of New London, was a caller here Thursday.

A large flock of wild geese was seen flying over the village Thursday afternoon, headed west.

Mrs. Camille Benoit called on friends in New London Thursday.

Edward Morgan was a caller in Providence Thursday.

The Reading club met at the home of Mrs. Jessie Bagnell, of Church street, Wednesday afternoon. After an enjoyable period spent in reading, refreshments were served by the hostess. Others present were Mrs. Jessie Smith, Mrs. Esther Andrews, Mrs. Lucy Fitch, Mrs. Stella Rathbun, Miss Grace Knapp, Miss Annie C. Spicer, Mrs. Minnie Palmer, Miss Edie Lamb, Mrs. Mabel Spicer and Mrs. Jennie Ashcroft.

Charles Dewey, of New London, was a business caller in the village Thursday.

T. E. Andrews was in Center Groton Thursday.

The Ladies' Aid society of the Baptist church will hold an all-day session in the vestry Tuesday. At noon dinner will be served and the afternoon will be spent in sewing on patchwork. The birthday bags are to be brought in at this meeting. The committee in charge of the dinner is Mrs. Jennie Ashcroft and Mrs. Marion Park.

After Nervous Breakdown

"I had a nervous breakdown and could not do the work I have to do around the house. Through one of your booklets I found how Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound had helped other women and I went to the drug store and got me six bottles. It has done me good in more ways than one and now I work every day without having to lie down. I will answer all letters with pleasure."—Hannah M. Evensmeyer, 707 N-16 Street, East St. Louis, Illinois.

4¾ MILES UP! Captain Boris Sergievsky makes "history" in his famous amphibian with the new Socony Motor Oil. At 6 below zero it flowed freely! Ordinary oils would have "frozen."

FIRST, we subjected the new Socony Motor Oil to a "cold weather" test . . . in an airplane flying 25,200 feet high. There, at 6 below zero . . . where ordinary oils usually become sluggish . . . it flowed freely!

Then, we gave it a whole year's driving test in 5½ days, 7290 miles on the Indianapolis Speedway—at close to a mile-a-minute pace. The new Socony Motor Oil refused to break up . . . kept engine wear down to a minimum . . . continued steadily to give full lubrication value.

Finally, we tested it in a speed-boat, pounding through choppy seas, throttle wide open, for 10½ hours. At the end of the run (equal to 1400 miles of continuous driving in an automobile), again the new Socony Motor Oil was in excellent condition. Only a slight smudge of soft carbon showed on the engine parts!

These brutal tests on land, on sea, in the air, proved in actual service what we already knew in our laboratory to be true—that in this new oil every characteristic needed to provide ideal lubrication is present . . . to a degree never before attained in any motor oi

BRUTAL TEST! Around the torturing Indianapolis Speedway these test cars crammed a whole year's driving into less than a week! The new Socony Motor Oil stood the gaff like a champion.

AFTER SPLITTING THE ROUGH SEA in this fleet speed-boat for 10½ hours the new Socony Motor Oil finished in excellent condition. Only a slight smudge of soft carbon showed on the engine parts. What a record!

Five reasons why you should change to the new Socony Motor Oil—today!

1. Perfected Lubrication (Less wear on your motor). The new Socony Motor Oil is made from a Paraffine Base crude, selected because of its greater inherent oiliness (adsorption). Refined by the new and exclusive Socony process which gives additional lubricating value.

2. Minimum Oil Consumption. Will not break down. No engine heat or pressure severe enough to decompose this oil or destroy its lubricating value. Only through contamination by foreign matter which finds its way into the crankcase can the life of this oil be limited.

3. Easy Starting in Coldest Weather. Selected Paraffine Base oil . . . completely dewaxed. More fluid at low temperatures than any other oil. Instant lubrication. Less drain on your battery.

4. Fuel economy and increased Power. Maintains proper "body" at all engine temperatures. Result: perfect piston seal, maximum power, and minimum fuel consumption.

5. A Clean Motor. New refining process reduces to a minimum all harmful elements which cause carbon, gum and sludge. The new Socony Motor Oil insures a clean motor.

Socony Winter Gear Oil, the superior lubricant for cold weather, insures proper lubrication and easy gear shifting. Switch to it today. And for a quick starting gasoline try Socony Special plus Ethyl. Remember, too, the importance of lubrication during the winter months. Take no chances. PLAINFIELD

Plainfield has answered to the annual Red Cross roll call in its usual generous manner. No doubt the membership would have been even larger had business been better.

Joan Kirby, chairman of the town of Plainfield has expressed thanks to all those who joined and in any way helped to put the drive across.

She had as her assistants in the village of Plainfield Miss Annie Tillinghast and Miss Constance Smith, in Moosup, Miss Florence Baker and Harold Burgess, in Wauregan, Miss Tracey; in Central Village, Mrs. Cora Day.

Benefit Holiday Fund

Mrs. William Veit and Miss Anna Hansen gave a whist party at Grange hall at Canterbury Friday evening for the Holiday Fund for Uncas-On-Thames. About 18 tables were played. The prizes went to Miss Viola Boudiz of Plainfield, George Kinnie of Canterbury. Among those present from Plainfield were Misses Katherine and Joan Kirby, Miss Annie Tillinghast, Miss Doris Baxter, Miss Blanch Hollingsworth, Mrs. James Muldoon, Miss Viola Boudion, Mr, and Mrs. William Collins.

Mrs. Willard Staples and daughter Percilla of New Bedford, were registered at the Lawton Inn during the past week.

The O. J. S. held its annual meeting Monday evening in the vestry of the First Congregational church. The following officers were elected: Mrs. Ernest DuBreuil, president; secretary, Mrs. Henry Fontaine, treasurer, Mrs. Ruth Hall. Ice Cream and cake were served by Mrs. Harold Lewis and Mrs. Lloyd Phillips.

Nardine Prentiss returned to her duties, Sunday, after spending the holiday with his father, Rev William C. Prentiss.

UNION

The second cold wave has passed and Wednesday morning, Dec. 3, showed normal temperature again. On the hills, 5 to 6 degrees above zero was the lowest reported, but doubtless the mercury was several degrees lower in the valleys. The "southwest gale from Cape Hatteras" arrived on schedule time, and roared all night, but evidently did no serious harm here.

Miss Helen Hutchins, of Red school spent the holiday recess at her home in Danielson, and Miss Mary Daley at her home in Worcester.

Tuesday evening, Nov. 25, the teachers attended the banquet held in Putnam to celebrate the close of the 15-week period of a course in social studies, given for Supervisor Stanley's teachers. Instructor Howe, of New Britain Normal school, who had led the course in social studies which had been held in Abington during the fall, attended the banquet in Putnam. He and Supervisor Stanley were among those who took part in the speaking Tuesday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Grant Foster, of Worcester, came out to their cottage at Lake Mashapaug for the holidays and entertained relatives and friends from Worcester and Southbridge, Mass., Stafford, Stafford Springs and Union, on Thanksgiving day.

Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Oliver and family, of Enfield, were guests Sunday at the Gaudette home. Miss Julia Heck, graduate nurse, of Springfield, Mass., was at her home in Rock Meadow for the holiday.

Miss Emma Gaudette, Miss Bernice Young and Miss Evangeline Horton, of Stafford high school, were at their homes for a whole or part of the holiday recess. Randolph C. Barrows, a junior in Suffield school, was at home for the recess. Miss Margaret Oliver, of Enfield, was a guest of her aunt, Mrs. Nelson Horton.

Oscar Willis and family were guests of Mr. Willis' brother, Gilbert E. Willis, and family, in Manchester, on Thanksgiving day. Ella and Betty Tinker spent their recess with their grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Tinker, in Springfield, Mass. Mrs. Charles Wanerka and son Raymond were guests of relatives in Valley Stream, L. I., N. Y.

At Lake Homestead

Miss Bessie G. Moore, of Bridgeport, is at the Moore homestead at Mashapaug, while Mrs. Ida G. Moore is staying with her daughter, Miss Esther, at the Springfield hospital. Miss Esther is slowly recovering, following an operation for appendicitis.

LAUREL GLEN

Mrs. Bard Bill was a guest of her father, Eugene Congdon Sunday.

Michael Kavanaugh has installed electricity at his home and station. It adds much to the attractiveness of the place.

Mrs. Skinner of New York was with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. William Puttker for the Thanksgiving recess, returning Sunday.

Fred Main and son, Lester, of Wakefield, R. I., were callers Sunday at W. L. Main's.

Guests Monday at the home of William Main were Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Slocum of Westerly, Mr. and Mrs. John Geer and son, Bourden, the event celebrated being Mr. Main's birthday.

Government-owned railways in Queensland, Australia, are planning to use an alcohol mixture as fuel for rail motors.

D. A. R. CHAPTER HEARS ABOUT ANCIENT TREES

The December meeting of Fanny Ledyard chapter, D. A. R., was held Wednesday afternoon in Masonic temple, Mrs. Estelle B. Bailey, the regent, being in charge. Following the roll call and devotional exercises, the reports of the secretary and treasurer were read and approved. Mrs. Elsie P. McGaughey, chairman of the patriotic education committee, reported that a box had been sent to Hillside school at Marlborough, Mass. Included in the contents of the box was an encyclopedia, given by Mrs. Mary Avery, of Old Mystic. The National society urges all members everywhere to vote at the elections; Mrs. S. E. Chesebro kept track of local members on the Stonington side of the town and Mrs. C. C. McGaughey kept track of those on the Groton side, at the last elections. The former reported that all but three voted, one being a teacher away and the other two being invalids. Mrs. McGaughey reported that nearly all of those on the Groton side also voted. A letter was received endorsing the name of Mrs. Frederick P. Latimer, of Hartford, as candidate for state councilor, the election to be held at the next annual meeting. A letter was read from Mrs. George Maynard Miner, of Waterford, ex-president-general, that she would like to have the chapter form a Children's American Revolution society, saying that she would come later and give a talk on the benefits of such. Mrs. Latimer also sent a letter giving a list of articles wanted at Ellis Island, to be placed in the box which is sent by the chapter annually. More articles are needed for men than women at present. Miss Julia Foote sent in her report on Conservation and Thrift, which was read. The calendars were on exhibition and orders were taken for same. Four new members were elected: Mrs. William I. Allyn, of Ledyard; Mrs. Walter C. Morgan, of Pequotsepos; Mrs. William L. Main and Miss Hazel I. Main, of Mystic. The regent reported that she had visited two of the old cemeteries and Mrs. Abby Phillips gave a typewritten copy of the inscriptions on the tombstones in the Burrows cemetery, High street. The local chapter is trying to locate all the old cemeteries nearby and keep them in condition. All the data on them will be put together in a book so as to be kept for future generations. At the close of the business session, Mrs. Mary Park Denison gave a very interesting talk on "Our State Forests," as given at a recent meeting of Mystic Garden club. The principal forest was the one at Litchfield on the Farmington river, purchased by the D. A. R., and turned over to the state. There are 15 state forests and 38 state parks. The historian, Mrs. Emily Wheeler Williams, gave the paper on "Old Trees": "There are a number of historic trees situated in this and nearby towns. One stands on the old Post road or Pequot trail, an elm of great age. It seems impossible that it can survive many more years. A tablet was placed on this tree, Sept. 2, 1896, by The William Latham Jr., or Powder Monkey Children of the American Revolution, when Mrs. B. F. Noyes was the president and I vice-president, in memory of Rev. George Whitfield, who preached from a platform erected under this tree July 18, 1747, 183 years ago, the large meeting house which stood then on the opposite side of the road being unable to hold the large audience. This tree then was an enormous one with outspreading branches. It stands beside the road on the farm known as the Center farm, in front of a two and a half-story Colonial house built in 1790 and for many years the home of the late Ferdinand Wheeler, which has recently been sold to Dr. Roy W. Miner, curator of the Metropolitan Museum of Natural History in New York. I have been told that the oldest elm in Connecticut stands on Wethersfield Green. It requires 13 people with outstretched arms clasping each other's hands to encircle the trunk. Near my home stands a very tall elm, estimated about a hundred feet in height, with the first limbs beginning at 30 feet up, with the circumference 13 feet at the base. My father said it could be seen for many miles away, even from the village of Stonington, nearly five miles distant. It stands like a giant in the lot among other trees and he used to say it looked about the same size and height when he was a boy, over 85 years before, and that it now 36 years ago. After a severe wind storm he always wanted us to look and see if it was still standing. A very handsome old oak stands in front of the residence of George A. Wheeler, in Stonington; the circumference at the base is 27 feet and five feet above, it is 18 feet in circumference. Tree experts have recently been trying to preserve it by filling a large cavity where decay was seen. They estimated it must be 400 years old and thought it must have been standing as long ago as when the Indians inhabited the town. The old Larabee tree—at Gales Ferry—is near the summer home of Dr. and Mrs. Charles B. Graves, of New London. This immense old oak, which has been viewed by many coming from far and near, is 85 feet high and the circumference at the smallest part is about 30 feet; it has a spread of 133 feet. This tree, as well as the others, is worthy of attention and many people do pause and read the tablet on the elm tree at the Center farm." Mrs. Williams then read a verse written to the aged oak at Gales Ferry, composed by Clarence Gallup.

Refreshments were served by the committee, Mrs. Florence Boylan, chairman.

Children's Christmas

The December meeting of the Ladies' Aid society of St. Patrick's church was held in the vestry, Tuesday evening. Plans were made for a Christmas tree and entertainment for the children to be given in Columbus hall, Sunday, Dec. 21.

There were ten tables in play at the whist given at St. Mark's Episcopal church, Wednesday evening. High scores in bridge were made by Moses Wilcox and Mrs. Harry Hill; low scores by Carroll Bliven and Mrs. Moore. High scores in straight were made by Walter Backus and Mrs. Moses Wilcox; C. C. McGaughey and Mrs. John Fribance were low. Refreshments were served by the committee.

At the quarterly conference meeting of the local Methodist church, Wednesday evening, Rev. Robert J. Chrystie, Ph.D., was invited to remain with the church another year.

Helen Starkey chapter of St. Mark's Episcopal church met in the parish house Wednesday afternoon.

Mrs. Jane Woodbury was a guest of friends in Groton Wednesday.

Horace Frink, of North Stonington, was in the village Thursday.

Mrs. George Berkander, of Providence, was a recent guest of Mrs. Carl C. Cutler.

A dance was held in Grange hall Wednesday evening with a good attendance. Lyle Davis was chairman of arrangements.

A number of local residents attended the supper at Old Mystic M. E. church, Wednesday, in the parish house.

Mrs. Annie Coggeshall was in New London Thursday.

Mrs. Charlotte Wilcox, Mrs. Fanny Pendleton, of Stonington, Mrs. Emily W. Williams and Miss Grace Wheeler, of the Road district, and Mrs. Anna B. Caswell, of Old Mystic, attended the meeting of Fanny Ledyard chapter, D. A. R., Wednesday afternoon.

Mrs. George E. Miner is ill.

LEDYARD

The Happy Maid's club held its meeting at the home of the leader, Mrs. Carl Holdridge. All the members were present but one. Laura Wieman cooked carrots and Virginia Hagen cooked turnips. A business meeting was held while the vegetables were cooking. The members sang a song and repeated the pledge. The vegetables were then ready to be served and all enjoyed the meal. The meeting then adjourned.

On the recent holiday, the largest gathering was the Clark and Lamb families, who gather each year and have their dinner in grange hall. This year 38 partook of a bountiful chicken pie dinner.

Mrs. Isaac G. Geer entertained her children, Earl Geer and family and Mrs. Ernest Smith and family, on the holiday.

Archie Holdridge of Farmingdale, L. I., was with his parents over the holiday.

Start For California

James N. Holdridge and Richard A. Burton left Monday morning in Mr. Burton's car for California. They will take a southern route in going and expect to be gone about two months. Mr. Holdridge will visit his brother, Jacob Holdridge, who has lived in California for a number of years and amassed quite a fortune.

Timothy Main was leader of the C. E. meeting Sunday evening. The topic was: "Our Responsibility for Spreading the Gospel."

The Busy Buddies' Handicraft club recently elected as officers for the ensuing year, Alfred Clark, president; Karl Wieman, Jr., vice president; Ellsworth Bennett, secretary and treasurer.

Frederick Allyn, of Cornell university, was a week end visitor with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. I. Allyn.

S. E. Holdridge, secretary of the town school committee has completed the enumeration of school children between the ages of 4 and 16 and finds a total number of 231. This is an increase of 13 over the previous year.

Mrs. Mary Soule was a holiday visitor with her son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Howard, in Union.

The Missionary society of the Baptist church met Thursday afternoon with Mrs. Charles H. Phillips.

Gustave Bochman will speak at the Baptist church, Sunday morning and evening.

UNDERSEA VALLEY FOUND OFF NEW ENGLAND COAST

WASHINGTON—(AP)—An undersea valley on the westbound trans-Atlantic steamship lane between Europe and the United States has been discovered by the coast and geodetic survey.

This depression, the coast survey says, may be used for fixing the position of ships by means of electrical devices which measure the time required for electrical vibrations to travel to the ocean bottom and back.

The valley located off the New England coast is two miles wide, eight miles long and 1,800 feet below the general level of the transcontinental shelf.

Palm Beach, Fla., has a city ordinance forbidding bull fights within its corporate limits.

THE FARMER'S TALK TO FARMERS

FARMER HAS REASONS FOR THANKSGIVING

(Written Specially for The Bulletin)

One of the big New York city newspapers had what I believe they call a "symposium" the other day, being a sort of free-for-all discussion by its readers of the comparative merits of town and country.

For some obscure reason the editor seemed inclined to rhapsodize over the country life, though he probably couldn't tell carrot seed from alfalfa without a seedsman's label to distinguish them. Most of his correspondents, however, rooted for the city.

The only clue I got to the cause of their differences was found in the observation that practically all the diatribes against country life were dated from rural postoffices, while the editor's eulogium was presumably in some tall city tower overlooking the Vanity Fair that squattered and squalled below his windows.

As it appears to be a fairly general trait of human nature always to be dissatisfied with whatever happens to be its lot, and always to be wishing that it were somewhere else, the fact that the city man was cheering for the country while the country men were longing after the city was, at least, suggestive.

Some years ago a high ecclesiastical dignitary issued his anathema against a somewhat sentimental hymn which had become more or less popular at funerals, entitled "Beautiful Isle of Somewhere." I'm not enough of a theologian to appreciate his prelatical objections. They may have been impregnably strong, canonically considered. But they were the least bit inhuman—perhaps it would be nearer accuracy to write un-human. They undertook to deflate or decapitate one of the most nearly universal of human tendencies, and to vilify one of the most nearly universal of human dreams, i. e. the dream that there is a "beautiful isle somewhere," which would be the perfect home—if only we could get to it.

The closer one gets to life as it is lived the more his finer feelings are rasped by its roughnesses, and the more his taste is revolted by its rawnesses. He wishes he could get away from both and his imagination paints a Utopia, somewhere over the horizon's rim, where life will be all "beer and skittles," without any trouble attending either.

Of course, to the city-bound slave of conventions and timetables and tailors and barbers this fairyland is where such things do not exist, that is, out in the country. To the country-limited farmer, who sees in life just a concatenation of bugs, blights, weeds and sick cows, on the other hand, it is the city which is free from such bothers which appeals as a glorified rest-house.

They both think that "The-Other-End-of-Nowhere" must be a vastly pleasanter residence than This-End-of-Somewhere.

Which, really, is taking a good deal more for granted than scientific exploration of both regions warrants.

Those of us who have lived in both city and country know that each one has certain manifest advantages, and that each one has certain equally manifest disadvantages as compared with the other. All that debate and argument bring out are opposing lists of these respective debits and credits. It's a dispute which can be kept up forever and ever without coming to any decision, for the simple reason that it is orbited in a circle which, as everyone knows, has neither beginning nor end. You must keep on going 'round and 'round till the cows come home or till Gabriel blows his horn. You'll never get anywhere or have anything more to show than your trouble for your pains.

Allee samee, some of the contributions to the newspaper discussion were more or less interesting. One of the pro-city, anti-farm champions outspokenly asserted that the real reason for the cityward trend is that farm work is too hard and farm hours too long.

He wrote: "The actual conditions of tilling the soil cannot be counterbalanced or even mitigated by the most beautiful or appealing surroundings. The physical labor in a farmer's life is of the hardest," etc., etc.

Another summed up his opinion in two lines from a hitherto unknown poet:

"Some folks say there ain't no hell,
But they never tried farmin', so they can't tell."

Another admits that the cityward drift complicates many economic problems. "If the popular trend (to the city) was reversed, many of our worst problems, especially the high cost of living, would be in a fair way toward solution." But "only the rich can bask contentedly in the sunshine and beauty of rural districts. The tillers of the soil are too busy even to notice them."

I wonder how nearly true that last sentence may be? The just passed November was an unusually warm and cheery month up here among my hills. And the preceding October displayed a simply unprecedented glory of color on the forest-clad ridges. Did the "tillers of the soil" notice these things? Seems to me the commonest remarks I used to hear, as I flivvered about of the fairs. were such as, "Ain't that mountain a picture?" or "D'ja ever see such weather in November?"

Sorta looks as if some yokels did occasionally notice the sunshine and the beauty, doesn't it?

Another contributor to the newspaper's symposium had been making a tour among the state fairs of the so-called "corn-belt." He remarked that the exhibits of cereals, meat animals, butter factories, etc., were only parts of the fairs."

Here one comes in intimate contact with the fruits of the kitchen garden, the home orchard, the barnyard poultry flock, the home dairy, the skill of the housewife as well as the handwork of the husbandman. And viewing them the stranger is likely to conclude that nearly all farmers can and do live pretty well regardless of the state of the market.

"When he takes a bird's eye view of the well-dressed, well-behaved crowd and the auto park filled with low and medium priced cars he comes to the conclusion that the farm problem is not, perhaps so much, a matter of relieving actual distress as it is of a readjustment of farm values to meet an advancing standard of living."

It seems that even farming has its compensations. Going to live on a farm isn't going "back to Eden" in any sense of the phrase. Nor is it a sentence to hard labor for life with no rewards.

There come times into almost every farmer's life when he wishes he had taken up other work. But what other would have been perfectly and unexceptionably satisfactory.

The other day I was talking to a fairly typical clergyman. He didn't hesitate to aver that the average minister had about the hardest job and the poorest pay of anybody between the Atlantic and the Pacific.

It is only a short time since my mail was loaded down with appeals to lend my name and my influence to the movement to secure for school teachers at least as high an average wage as hod-carriers.

At a recent meeting of a prominent medical society, the chief topic of discussion was how to make it possible for the average country doctor to earn enough to pay his gasoline bills and buy a new medical book, once in a while.

The papers are full of woeful tales about unemployment in the cities and congress is "all het up" over the deplorable conditions in practically all forms of productive work.

It's all very natural when things are going wrong to hanker after a life on some "beautiful isle of somewhere," where all one has to do is to lie on his back in the warm sands and take an occasional nibble at the manna which drops into his mouth or at the ready-roasted little pigs which run up against him, squealing to be eaten.

The trouble seems to be that "thar ain't no sech place." Not on this extremely pesky world, anyway.

And there is a time-honored saying, based on the wisdom which comes from long experience, that it isn't wholly judicious to jump out of the frying-pan into the fire.

However poets may croon and self-appointed "reformers" drool, the unfortunate fact is that life is usually a choice between evils. And what says the book of wisdom? "Of two evils choose the least."

It doesn't really matter very much whether you live in a penthouse atop a Park avenue place, or in a slab shanty on Hardscrabble mountain, you aren't going to have everything exactly as you want it, and you are going to have an assorted variety of things you most emphatically don't want. Few of us have such a hemispheric difference of condition as that above. But the truth remains the same, whatever grades we may be in.

All that most of us can hope for is not the ideal best, but the attainable best. Which is almost always a compromise; a gift with strings tied to it; a long ways short of perfection.

Just at present, if one-half of what I read in the papers about soup-kitchens and bread-lines in the cities is true, it seems to me that the farmer has more reason for Thanksgiving than a great many thousand poor devils in town who don't know where their next meal is coming from.

It's really somewhat more comforting to look at a bin full of potatoes, and boxes full of apples, and a barrel of salt pork or corned beef in the old farm cellar, than to stare at the empty shelves of a pantry in a city tenement with the children hungry and no work in sight to enable the bread-winner to fill their mouths.

Of course, we'd all prefer to be angels, if we had our choice. But since that is, for the present, denied us, isn't it better to be a hard-worked, underpaid, horny-handed farmer with enough to eat, such as it is, than a starving "out-of-work" in even New York city?

THE FARMER.

HUMOR OF THE DAY

First Law Student—Know how to go about addressing a jury?

Second—Sure. Write a love letter to a gold digger.—Brooklyn Eagle.

"Those girls look exactly alike. Are they twins?"

"Oh, no. They merely went to the same plastic surgeon."—Life.

Officer (to sentry guarding powder magazine)—Suppose a bomb were to drop on this magazine, what would be the first thing you would do?

Sentry—Go up instantly with the report, sir.—Boston Transcript.

Liza—Dey says dat dat young niggah Exodus Johnsing done got a terrible position wiv de army.

Mandy—Is dat so? What sort ob er position is it?

Liza—Why, dey says he's done attached to a flyin' corpse.—The Pathfinder.

"And is there any instrument you can play?" asked the hostess, who was pressing her guests to provide entertainment.

"Not away from home," Jenkins replied.

"That's queer! What do you play at home?"

"Second fiddle!"—Montreal Star.

Casey (after seeing Riley fall five stories)—"Are yez dead, Riley?

Riley—"Oi am that."

"Shure, an ye're such a liar Oi don't know whither to believe yez or not."

"An' that proves O'im dead. Yez wouldn't call me a liar if Oi wuz alive."—Bystander.

An illusionist performing in a northern town put a woman into a box from which there was no apparent outlet, and shut the lid. When he opened it again there was nothing inside, but a couple of rabbits.

After the performance a Scotsman went to the illusionist and asked him if he could perform the same trick if his (the Scotsman's) wife were to get into the box.

"Why, yes," answered the illusionist. "But are you anxious to get rid of your wife?"

"Weel," answered the Scot, "it's no sae much that, but wee Wullie got me tae promise him twa rabbits for his birthday!"—Sporting and Dramatic.

LEBANON

Thirty-three members braved the wind and rain Sunday evening to be present at the installation service in the First Congregational church. Mr. and Mrs. H. I. Muttart of Norwich were present, Mr. Muttart being the installing officer. Mr. W. P. Blakeslee led the meeting after which the officers were installed, the installation taking the form of a candle light service, Mr. Muttart delivering a charge to each officer. Refreshments were served at the close. The society expressed its appreciation of Mr. and Mrs. Muttart's visit by a hearty vote of thanks.

A congregation of fifty was present at morning worship. Mrs. F. N. Taylor sang a very beautiful solo, "In the Hollow of His Hand." The sermon was "The Souls Attachments," Text, Psalm 131, "My Soul is Like a Weaned Child."

Rev. W. Vey attended the ministers' meeting in the United church study in Norwich Tuesday.

Plan for Canvass

The deacons, trustees and members of the standing committee met at the parsonage Wednesday evening to arrange for the annual every-member canvass. A social hour followed.

Mr. and Mrs. H. W. Sweet were in Stafford Springs Wednesday to attend the funeral of Mrs. Sweet's cousin, Anthony Jacobson, drowned off Fishers' Island recently.

GUTHRIE GIVES TRANSPORTATION TALK TO NORWICH ROTARIANS

"The Relation of the Public to the Railroad" was the topic of a very interesting and instructive talk on the problems of the railroads in competition with the motor truck, the pipe lines and the inland water routes, given by H. J. Guthrie of New London, superintendent of the southern division of the Central Vermont railroad, at the luncheon meeting of the Norwich Rotary club on Wednesday. Mr. Guthrie's talk followed the business session of the club at which President Harold Larrabee presided.

At the business meeting it was voted to assist the Boy Scouts in the collection of toys to be distributed to the needy families in the city at Christmas time. Henry Vignot made the very generous offer to repair the toys at his place of business on Franklin street. The people of Norwich whose children have discarded toys are asked to leave them at the Y. M. C. A. or call the Boy Scout headquarters and they will be called for.

Besides Mr. Guthrie the club heard a short talk on the Y. M. C. A. service in Russia by Edgar MacNaughten, recently returned from Russia where he has been in charge of vocational schools for the refugees.

Address By Mr. Guthrie.

Mr. Guthrie was introduced by Arthur M. Thompson, chairman of the program committee for December.

Mr. Guthrie covered many sides of the subject as he spoke upon the general topic of "Transportation" as follows:

Public Relations

Your chairman of the entertainment committee has chosen a live subject.

The function of transportation, first: is the completion of production. Production is the creation of economics value, the making of wealth available for human wants. Transportation, therefore is not a goal but is a means to the goal of ultimate production.

The thought is sometimes expressed that the motor vehicle is invading railroad territory and taking that which belongs to steam transportation. There is absolutely nothing to the proposition because we have no right to say that all of the transport trade and all of the commerce of the country must be carried by steam transportation. We have no just vested right. The farmer, if he chooses, may haul his potatoes to the market in a wheel barrow, even though he lands in the bankruptcy court when he gets there.

We hear nothing today about the railroad monopoly.

The railroads have done more for civilization and the development of this country than any other agency. History tells that before the railroads came, the people travelled by stage coach over the national highways and that the transportation over these same highways represented a business of considerable proportion. When the railroads came, their development was encouraged through huge government land grants and other subsidies. The railroads have more than repaid by reduction in rates to the government in transportation of freight and movement of troops for these grants. Therefore, it is my contention that the railroads owe the government nothing for these land grants and other subsidies.

Railroads are the largest industry, directly and indirectly in this country. They employ directly a million and a half of wage earners and consume 25 per cent of all fuel, lumber, iron and steel produced besides other commodities in a lesser degree.

When the Adamson law was passed reducing the hours of service from ten or twelve to eight, the number of employes in railroad service increased to two millions and through efficient operation and improved equipment, was reduced to one million and a half.

The wages paid to railroad employes in 1929 was $2,940,868,690, an average annual compensation per employe of $1743.36. This represents the highest wages paid to any similar class of employes in the world.

The railroads pay in taxes $420,000,00 a year and their combined payments for interest on their mortgage indebtedness amounts to $600,000,000 annually and in 1929, they paid $505,000,000 in the shape of dividends to the 825,000 persons who own the outstanding railroad shares.

The valuation of the railroads is over $26,000,000,000 and you hear nothing in these days of "watered stock" for the reason that the valuation is $6,000,000,000 more than the net capitalization. By the net capitalization, I mean stocks, bonds and shares in the hands of these 825,000 persons.

Operating Efficiency Improved

The improvement in the efficient operation of the railroads during the last five years has been enormous as the following figures will show. It must be remembered that 1929 was a banner year in the ton miles of the railroads, and notwithstanding this,

	1925	1929
Net tons of coal consumed	90,724,621	80,817,338
Freight cars per train	48.8	48.6
Average gross tons per train	1673	1866
train	746	804
Net tons per car	26.9	26.9
Freight train speed	11.8	12.2
Gross ton miles per train hour	19,775	24,553
Net ton miles per train hour	8,822	10,585
Pounds of coal per thousand gr. ton miles	138	125
Car miles per day	28.2	32.4

The tolta freight locomotives on all railfodas in the United States in 1925 was 32511 and in 1929 was 29,131.

The total passenger locomotives in 1925 was 14330 and in 1929 was 12,285.

The increased efficiency in operation of the railroads is saving the people of this country over a billion dollars per year in reduction of inventory according to the national chamber of commerce.

The total number of cars loaded with revenue freight in the year 1929 amounted to 52,789,760 or a little over one million cars per week. Car loadings from week to week are the best barometer of business conditions that I can find anywhere. Nothwithstanding the large car loadings for 1929, there was no shortage of equipment at any time during the year, and at the present time there are 465,000 freight cars idle in serviceable condition and every railroad has a surplus of locomotives stored.

In the 30 years preceding 1920, railroad freight in the United States increased between 60 and 80 per cent each decade, but in 1929, the figures show about 8 per cent, and in some parts of the country there was scarcely any increase.

In the 30 years preceding 1920, passenger business in terms of passenger miles travelled, increased even more than freight business but in the last ten years, passenger business on this basis has decreased 24 per cent.

The latest figures that can be obtained, partially estimated show the total traffic in the United States in 1929 was equivalent to carrying 650,000,000,000 tons one mile. Of this, the railroads carried only 77 per cent. This may assume to reflect among other things, the increased use of pipe lines, rivers, canals and motor trucks.

Taxation

The increase in railway taxes from 1890 to 1928 increased from $31,000,000 to $412,000,000, an increase of 1,220 per cent. That taxes must be paid before net railway operating income is reached in the income account, the mounting railway tax has exerted a definite unfavorable reaction on the amount of the net income.

During these same years, railway investment, earnings, expenses and traffic also grew rapidly, but railway taxes grew faster than any of the other factors. The rate of increase for railway taxes in the past 38 years was more than 13 times as great as the rate of population growth; nearly 3 times as great as the rate of increase in national wealth; more than twice as great as the increase in national income; nearly 3 times as great as the rate of growth in our foreign commerce. It was more than 6 times as great as the rate of growth in property investment of the railroads; 2 1-2 times as great as the rate of increase in railway gross earnings and more than 3 times as great as the rate of growth of net earnings. The railway taxes growth was more than one-quarter greater than that of the tax bill of other industries and individuals combined. Therefore, one-fourth of the net earnings of the railroads go to the tax gatherer.

Water Competition

Federal government has spent more than $1,500,000,000 on rivers and harbor improvements since 1824, and of this amount, about one-half has been expended in inland waterways according to a survey by the bureau of railway economics.

The sum of $211,317,000 spent on flood control is included in the bureau's figures on government expenditures.

The bureau finds that the length of all navigable highways and canals is 27,400 miles, of which 17,600 miles are less than six feet in depth. Nearly one-half of the total mileage is on the Mississippi-Ohio river system.

The bureau asserts that commercial freight traffic totalled 620,000,000,000 ton miles in 1928, of which 77 per cent moved by railway, 14 per cent on the Great Lakes, five per cent in pipe lines, two per cent on inland waterways and two per cent on motor trucks, electric railways and airplanes.

I think much may be said by the railroads in support of a policy whereunder the government will spend money raised by taxation for deepening and improving the rivers so they can be made navigable, but, having done that, and then having made such facilities available for service practically free of cost, if private capital will not or cannot operate boat lines on such waters on a basis to justify private investment, then such operation by the government is economically unsound and cannot be defended from any fair and reasonable standpoint and ought not to be continued.

The Inland Waterways corporation was organized by the government for experimental purposes. Its chief object is to design craft that can successfully operate on our inland streams. The power boats and the barges designed and built under the direction of that corporation are for the purpose of ascertaining the kind of craft that will carry the heaviest load in the shortest time and at the lowest cost. That is to say that the government is striving to ascertain the most economical craft for operation on the inland streams.

It is claimed by the secretary of war that on the Ohio, the Black Warrior, and portions of the lower Mississippi, private lines are now profitably operating; also that the Inland Waterways corporation operating on portions of the Mississippi river and the Black Warrior is already operating at a profit.

The secretary of war stated before the Mississippi Valley association at St. Louis on Nov. 24, 1930, that the government does not intend to stay in the transportation business after it has succeeded in doing for waterways what it did in years passed for the railways. He stated: "The commerce created by waterway transportation will add to the general prosperity of the railways."

I do not understand his method of arriving at this conclusion for the reason that the inland waterways are paralleling the railroads and between specific points competing at reduced rates. Of course, they may take traffic from one railroad to give it to another, but that is not adding to the general prosperity of the railroads.

Competition By Pipe Lines

It is estimated that about 102,000 miles of oil trunk and gathering pipe lines are in the United States. These lines gather and transport to tank farms, refining centers and ocean terminal points, almost 1,000,000,000 barrels of crude oil annually. Oil pipe line companies engaged in the transportation of oil, it is estimated, have invested, including equipment, approximately $2,000,000,000.

Approximately 60,000 miles of natural gas pipe line are said to be in operation in the country today. Almost $2,000,000,000 is said to be invested in the natural gas industry.

The transportation of gasoline and natural gas through pipes for long distances is a comparatively new development that threatens to reduce the revenues the railroads has been receiving. In the last year or two, trunk pipe lines from the important gas producing fields have been built to the thickly populated centres, with the result that natural gas has largely supplanted coal as a fuel in many localities. The movement of gasoline through pipe lines for long distances has not reached large proportions yet, although several gasoline trunk pipe lines are under construction.

Highway Competition

The railroads have no quarrel with highway competition. Some of the railroads have gone into highway transportation, both in freight and passenger, and it may become necessary for them to go into it more extensively in order to protect their railroad earnings and economize in the reduction of train service.

In the matter of transporting passengers, it is interesting to note that 90 per cent travel by private automobiles, 3 per cent by bus and 7 per cent by rail. It is also interesting to note that 80 per cent of those traveling in private automobiles, travel less than 35 miles per trip.

Highway transportation has developed very fast in the past ten years so that today the value of the highways upon which motor vehicles are operated for hire and the motor vehicles thereon, exceeds the value of the railroads.

I do not believe, at the present time, that these motor vehicles are being operated at a profit, and I am of the impression that time will prove this to be a fact. That is another reason why they should be regulated and required to file tariffs with the I. C. C. so that they can be operated at a profit if it is thought desirable by the people. The trucks are taking the "cream" of traffic leaving the less profitable freight for the railroads to carry. If regulated by law, they will be required to carry all commodities, the light and bulky as well as the heavy packages.

For four years white robins have appeared at the home of D. B. McAllister of Portland Ore.

EASTERN VOLUNTOWN

Mr. and Mrs. William Bitgood and Lizzie Maynard spent Thanksgiving with Mr. and Mrs. Bitgood's son and family at Pachaug there seven there besides their own family. They all sat down to a turkey dinner and all the goodies to go with it. They have got a nice radio. They had that running. Had some good music on it and also talking.

Albert Dawley is putting an addition on his barn. He and his boys do their sawing and building. He has a son that can run a sawmill. They have one.

Mr. and Mrs. Albert Dawley had all of their children and grandchildren home for Thanksgiving. They had two turkeys and all the goodies to go with them.

Mrs. George Kenyon and Annie Bitgood had a nice turkey dinner for Thanksgiving and all the goodies with it. They had people from Hope Valley, R. I., Plainfield and Moosup, Sterling and Pomfret, Conn.

Mr. and Mrs. Lee Remington of Oneco had a goose and duck dinner for Thanksgiving and everything nice with it. They had relatives and friends to eat with them.

Three gentlemen called at the Pine Grove farm Sunday from Jewett City, also Harold Bitgood from Pachaug and Albert Dawley from Eastern Voluntown.

Jefferson Barber looked after the house for Mrs. Bitgood Thanksgiving. She left him a roast duck for his dinner, besides cake, pie and fruit. When he went home that night he found a nice chicken cooked and everything good to go with it and cake and bread and mince pie and pumpkin pie.

Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Congdon and son went to Mrs. Congdon's parents to spend Thanksgiving in Norwich.

Mr. and Mrs. James Congdon had no one with them Thanksgiving but their family.

Old Eastern Voluntown has another good old cold snap.

The thermometer at Mr. Bitgood's Tuesday morning was five above zero.

John Ray Barber of Rhode Island was at Mr. Bitgood's mill with apples Saturday. It has been so cold that it was impossible to grind them.

Mr. Bitgood's hired man is drawing firewood to the mill. Then they will saw it up for the stoves. He also cuts it in the woods.

PRICES MOVED LOWER THROUGHOUT DULL SESSION OF STOCK MARKET

NEW YORK, Dec. 4— (AP) — The latest stock market decline broadened in its second day today, although the volume barely exceeded a million and a half shares.

Losses in active stocks were larger than yesterday, with railroad, utility and merchandising issues making the widest recessions.

Prices went lower throughout the session, with the exception of a momentary improvement late in the forenoon. Until the last hour the turnover was very small. Total sales amounted to 1,501,020 shares.

The lukewarm bond market had a relapse in all but the best grade listings. Governments, coincident with Secretary Mellon's request for authority to provide for the future refunding of Liberty loans, were dull.

Speculative commodities moved against the trend of stocks, although marked strength in the three leading staples was absent. December wheat gained again; advances in the other active months were small. Some of the support was rumored to have come from the grain stabilization corporation. Corn was firm, reflecting small receipts and unfavorable weather, and finished 1-8c lower to 1-2 higher. Cotton, irregular, showed net gains of 5 to 7 points.

For the tenth successive week federal reserve brokers' loans declined. The drop in the week ended Tuesday —11,000,000—was the smallest for the period, in which the total has fallen $1,111,000,000 to $2,111,000,000, the smallest since April, 1925, for the old tabulation, ended in 1926. Loans for New York city member banks own account rose $8,000,000.

The weekly federal reserve bank statements showed changes normal to a week that covers a month end. Open market purchases of bills, discounts and purchases of government securities all increased. Currency circulation gained $29,000,000.

Disappointment over the November retail sales figures, to which Woolworth contributed a report of a 7.4 per cent drop from last year, contributed to the change in speculative sentiment toward that group of stocks, which have made several bullish gestures in the past fortnight. The fact that the Woolworth decline was larger than the average loss for the year to date, was partly explained by the shortness of the month, for November this year contained one less business day than November, 1929. However, the market viewed the returns bearishly, and Woolworth, Sears Roebuck, Montgomery Ward, Safeway Stores, and others lost one to three points.

The interstate commerce commission's recommendation for repeal of the legislation permitting the recapture of excess railway earnings, was in line with forecasts made some time ago. This provision was intended to aid some of the weaker lines and its removal would probably be regarded as constructive. Burlington's rumored $5 extra became an actuality; the payment will benefit Northern Pacific and Great Northern which own 97 per cent of the stock. Rail shares were weak and New York Central, Lackawanna, Frisco, Nickel Plate and St. Paul preferred made new lows. Atchison recovered part of a four point decline.

The market generally closed above the lows, with net losses of one to two in American Can, U. S. Steel, General Electric, Union Carbide, Eastman Kodak, Anaconda, American Smelting and Westinghouse. American Telephone regained only a fraction of a 4 point drop. American Water Works was another heavy utility, losing nearly 3 on the day. Weakness of silver metal sent International Silver down 14 points. Johns Manville, Case and Underwood Elliott Fisher yielded 4 each. Radio "B" preferred slumped 9, apparently reflecting continued concern over earnings. Postal Telegraph preferred was firm at 66. The directors declared the regular dividend of $1.75 part of which will be paid from surplus.

Foreign exchanges firmed, with minor rallies in sterling, the French franc and the Italian lira. The Spanish peseta was an exception, losing several points.

BOND MARKET

NEW YORK, Dec. 4—(AP)—The bond market fell under the spell of sagging stock again today and only a small list of high grade domestic bonds resisted the downward trend. The foreign section was busy due to the large turnover in a few Europeans which maintained a firm trend.

United States governments were apparently unaffected by the request of Secretary Mellon that congress authorize the treasury to issue eight billion dollars in bonds to refund Liberty issues that are callable within the next three years. The secretary made plain that he was seeking congressional authorization far in advance of actual needs.

The volume of trading expanded on the reaction, and bonds lost the steady tone that has characterized their movements during the past few days. The liquidation affected both first and second grade rails, sending more than a dozen to new 1930 lows. The movement was irregular, however, and some old line legals that are selling at or above par advanced. Utilities were fairly steady, but industrials moved lower in sympathy with stocks.

The reaction was sufficiently marked to carry the averages for rails and industrials and also the general average for 30 domestic bonds to a new 1930 minimum. Railroad bonds at new lows for the year included Northwestern 4 1-2s, Milwaukee 5s, of 1975, and 4 3-4s, Monon 6s, Erie 5s, of 1975, Chicago and Western Indiana 5 1-2s, Illinois Central 4s, Wabash 5s, Western Maryland 5 1-2s, and Missouri Pacific 4s.

The three percent bond of the Chicago and Alton railroad which will be auctioned next week, dropped 2 points and similar recessions occurred in Rock Island general 4s, Cleveland Union Terminal 5 1-2s, Denver Rio Grande and Western 5s, Northern Pacific 4 1-2s. Seaboard bonds declined 1 to 2 points. Erie Genesee River 6s, sagged 5 points.

There were some large declines among industrial liens and stock privilege bonds. Pathe 7s which advanced sensationally yesterday yielded 4 points of their 15 point rise. And Shubert 6s and Loew's 6s reacted 2 points each. Adams Express 4s, seldom traded, were readjusted to the lower level of industrials with a 6 7-8 loss. California Petroleum 5 1-2s, Remington Rand 5 1-2s, National Radiator 6 1-2s, Keith 6s, Cuban Sugar 7 1-2s were weak. Colon Oil 6s dipped nearly 8 points. Most of the active convertible issues moved lower. American Telephone 4 1-2s of 1939 led the decline in this group, touching a new year's low with a loss of 5 3-4 points.

Reports that Chancellor Bruening had received further support for his emergency financial program, helped sentiment towards German bonds. The German 5 1-2s gained 5-8. German bank issues were steady. Several industrials in the group were well bought. French 7 1-2s were very active at a small fraction below the year's top. South Americans were very quiet, and a shade lower.

CHICAGO GRAIN MARKET

CHICAGO, Dec. 4—(AP)—Stimulated by wheat purchase orders apparently from farm board allies, grain values took a late upward slant today. Shipping call for wheat was better than for some time, and there was an improvement in domestic milling demand. Future delivery purchases of rye also was a bracing influence, especially as December deliveries at Winnipeg sold approximately 13c under Chicago, putting Canadian rye on an import basis, the United States tariff on rye being but 15c a bushel.

Wheat closed irregular, but mostly showing an advance, ranging from 1-4 off to 1c higher than yesterday. Corn closed at 1-4 decline to 7-8c gain, oats 1-4 at 1-2c higher, and provisions from 15c lower to a rise of 10c.

THE CURB MARKET

NEW YORK, Dec. 4—(AP)—The curb market eased off again today in spiritless trading. The day's turnover was only 476,200 shares, but that exceeded the previous day's by 61,900.

Electric Bond and Share again received considerable attention from professional traders. It was depressed 1-1-2 points to 45 3-4, then came back to 46 1-4, as shorts covered. American Gas and Electric and Insull Utility Investment lost more than 2 points.

Hydro Electric and Middle West lost about a point, and United Light "A" eased fractionally.

In the oils, Gulf recorded a new low at 73 1-4, then recovered to 74, where it was off 1 1-2 net. Cities Service was again under pressure, touching 17 3-4, and closing at 18 1-4, off 5-8. Vacuum and Standard of Ohio, lost about a point, and Indiana eased a fraction. In the coppers, Noranda was actively sold, losing a point. Newmont declined as much. Bunker Hill was a firm spot among the mining stocks, rallying 2 in a small turnover.

Industrials and specialties were mostly lower. Foremost Dairy "A" having closed previously at 3, was depressed to 1-2, losing five-sixths of its quoted value. The preferred shares, however, were slightly firmer. Silica Gel, Blaunders, and General Theatres preferred, were among issues sagging to new lows. Richman "B" shares sold at 60, off 14 1-2 from the previous close.

NEW YORK, Dec. 4—(AP)—The Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing company is reported to be planning changes and improvements at its South Philadelphia works, involving expenditures in excess of $300,000. The plans call for conversion of part of the manufacturing space into a new shop where all locomotive equipping and testing activity in connection with Westinghouse oil-electric and electric locomotives will be concentrated.

The gold statement of the federal reserve bank of New York for the week ended December 3, shows imports of $1,618,000 from Colombia and $281,000 chiefly from other Latin American countries. There were no imports and there was no net change in gold earmarked for foreign account.

A project calling for elimination of 33 grade crossings in New York state in 1931 increased the past week's total value of all classes of proposed engineering work in the United States, except highways, to $62,224,00, against $43,761,000 the previous week and $39,360,000 in the same week last year. Construction Daily reports.

General Foods corporation announced the purchase of the Atlantic Gelatin company of Woburn, Mass., by the newly created Atlantic Gelatin company, a wholly owned subsidiary of General Foods. The acquisition comprises a dozen buildings and 90 acres of land and becomes the 31st producing organization in the General Foods group.

George L. Harrison, governor of the New York Federal Reserve bank, who returned Tuesday from Europe, made a report today at the weekly meeting of the board of directors of the bank on his conferences with the heads of the central banks of England, France and Germany.

COMMUNISTS DISPERSED BY POLICE IN NEW YORK

NEW YORK, Dec. 4—(AP)—Communists clashed again with police today near the Pennsylvania station, the eighth such disorder in front of the cafeteria at 257 West 34th street, but were quickly dispersed by emergency squads of detectives, patrolmen and mounted policemen.

Singing and waving banners, the communists marched into 34th street from the arcade to the Pennsylvania station.

Mounted policemen spurred their horses to the sidewalks and herded the paraders into the street, shunting them into 33d street, where they broke ranks.

A hundred detectives pushed recognized communists into doorways and searched them for needles. After a recent outbreak at the same spot, the police department veterinary reported that many of the mounted policemen's horses were wounded by needles.

The cafeteria has been heavily guarded because of disorders apparently precipitated on account of an injunction restraining communists from picketing it.

ALIENISTS DECIDE GARRETT NOT INSANE

BOSTON, Dec. 4—(AP)—Oliver B. Garrett, erstwhile head of the Boston police liquor squad, is not insane. This is the opinion of alienists, who examined him upon his return from a five months' disappearance, it was announced today.

Drs. Abraham Myerson and James May, appointed by Chief Justice Walter Perley Hall to examine Garrett at the Charles street jail where he is being held pending trial for extortion filed their report with the clerk of the superior court this afternoon.

The report also dealt with Garrett's habits, specifyin goccasional use of alcohol but not of drugs. His interest in social life was found to be "apparently normal," the doctors said.

ALLEGED BANDIT IDENTIFIED BY THREE POLICE OFFICERS

BRIDGEPORT, Dec. 4—(AP)—Carleton Searles, alleged West Haven bandit, charged with assault with intent to murder on three counts, heard three police officers identify him as the man who shot and wounded them at the opening of his trial before a jury and Judge Alfred C. Baldwin, in superior court here today.

If convicted on the three counts, Searles faces a minimum of sixty years and a maximum of ninety years in state prison. He aided Public Defender Harry Silverstone in selecting jurymen today and the trial started at 2:45. It will be continued Friday morning.

SEIZURE OF LUGGER WITH CARGO OF LIQUOR

BILOXI, Miss., Dec. 4—(AP)—The gasoline lugger "Fidelia" of New Orleans was seized yesterday about 15 miles east of Chandelier Island by the coast guard cutter Mahoning.

Coast guard officers said the boat had a heavy load of assorted liquors, valued at about $75,000.

Charles H. Briggs, 44, of Brooklyn, ascended a Third avenue elevated railway platform at 14th street, New York, looked for a moment at an approaching train and, swiftly crossing the platform, leaped 30 feet to the pavement. His skull was fractured.

A HISTORY OF CONNECTICUT INDUSTRY

Released by Manufacturers Association of Connecticut

The Gong Bell Manufacturing Company East Hampton.

The Gong Bell Manufacturing company was organized as a partnership in 1866 by H. H. Abbe, E. C. Barton, E. G. Cone, and A. H. Conklin to manufacture door bells. In 1872, E. C. Barton designed and patented his first toy, which was a pair of cast brass gongs, mounted between two malleable iron wheels and was given the name of "revolving chimes." This was the original bell floor chime made in America and is still being made, with many improvements.

The production at that time for two men was about 500 bells per day, but today 25,000 can be made by one man on a punch press.

Among the items of early manufacture was the "chestnut bell," a popular novelty in the "gay '80's." The sleigh bell was another product which has been replaced by a line of floor chimes.

In 1921 the toy telephone was invented and perfected by C. M. Watrous with bell and movable receiver hook and is now made in 15 different styles including talking, dial, mama and television plaphones.

The officers who were installed at the time of reorganization in 1912 and who are still active are: Mayo S. Purple, president; Chauncey G. Bevin, vice president; J. Howell Conklin, secretary and treasurer; Clifford M. Watrous, assistant secretary and treasurer and general manager; Harold D. Allen, purchasing agent and factory manager; and George T. Cavanaugh, superintendent.

These men are responsible for the growth of the business from a force of seven men and 5,000 square feet of floor space in 1912, to a personnel of about 100 and a floor space of 50,000 square feet in 1930.

JEWETT CITY

QUESTION OF R. R. RIGHTS STILL BEING DISCUSSED

Everywhere the wonder grows. All day Wednesday and Thursday the general topic of conversation on the street and in many homes was, "I wonder if they can?" and "I'll bet they can't." All of which speculation is directed toward the question of the legal right of the all-powerful New Haven road to divide the borough of Jewett City in halves by means of the handsome fence they have caused to be erected across Main street. Some time during Wednesday night, somebody of parts unknown, evidently with a set of "No Man's Land" wire cutters, snipped a hole through the north and south barriers of the crossing, large enough to accommodate a person, if inclined to crawl through the wires. Everyone here, interested or not in this particular act of the railroad, if he or she reads the papers, knows that the public utilities commission is after the railroads all the time, with hammer and tongs, insisting that they close more grade crossings.

The local closing constitutes, not only a great inconvenience to hundreds of people and school children but it sets up ruinous conditions for a number of thriving business places. It is believed here that there would be less criticism directed against the railroad company if they were to adopt less high-hatted policies in their procedure where public welfare is concerned.

This fence at the crossing was erected by a swarm of laborers, in short meter, and now it appears that the attitude is assumed: "What are you going to do about it?" Often times it isn't how a thing is done, but the manner, that invites contention. Facts to date read like a fairy tale in four chapters. Proposed to build a bridge; proposed to close a crossing; built bridge; closed crossing—Selah.

Aids Holiday Fund

The response to the call for the tuberculosis sanatorium Christmas fund has been very pleasing to date. Miss Dorothy Paul sent the first list of names Thursday. It was stated that outside of Norwich, Jewett City has always made the most generous response to this call.

Additional names received in the Red Cross membership drive: Mrs. Herman Bitgood, Elsie Lord, Mrs. Anna Shelly, Mrs. S. H. Lord, Susie Morgan, Mrs. Joseph Koncinsky, Mrs. William Bitgood, Mrs. Wayland Stetson, William P. Helmes, Dr. Frank D. Browning, George Edmond, Mrs. W. B. Montgomery, Mrs. F. D. Browning, Mrs. George Edmond, Benjamin Goldstein, Arba Browning, Mrs. J. Goldstein, Mrs. Frank Wilcox, Mrs. Arba Browning, Mrs. Ellwood Newton and Sarah Hitchcock.

SALE AND SUPPER AT CONGREGATIONAL VESTRY

A Christmas sale and roast beef supper was held in the Congregational church vestry under the auspices of the Ladies' society, Thursday evening. The general chairman was the president, Mrs. Abraham Zegeer. Mrs. N. B. Parkhurst and Mrs. F. E. Robinson were at the fancy and apron table. A White Elephant table was in charge of Mrs. E. A. Faust and Mrs. L. G. Buckingham. Mrs. Andrew McNicol and Mrs. Zegeer sold homemade candy. Home-cooked food was sold by Mrs. F. D. Ballou and Mrs. G. F. Goodenough. Mrs. C. L. Howe and Mrs. W. H. Payne were in charge of the grabs, Santa Claus selling them impersonated by Lynwood Mort. A supper of hot roast beef and gravy, mashed potatoes, creamed peas and carrots, cranberry sauce, rolls, cake and coffee was served by Mrs. C. D. Wolf, Mrs. A. P. Anderson, Mrs. Fred Whalley, Miss Helen Hull, Mrs. T. B. Keen and Mrs. Walter Marshall. The waitresses were in charge of Mrs. E. H. Hiscox and were Mrs. George Palmer, Mrs. Carl Benjamin, Mrs. Walter Benjamin, Mrs. Earl Robinson, Misses Bessie Thompson, Eleanor Stetson, Margery Webster, Susan Terry, Ellen Faust and Christine Marshall. The after-dinner committee was Mrs. E. H. Hiscox, Mrs. W. A. Richardson and Miss M. A. Burdick.

Local people were interested last week to read in the Putnam column of The Bulletin that one of the reasons why the common council of that city turned down the proposed great white way was because they did not believe it would stimulate trade. When the matter of a great white way for Jewett City was brought up for discussion before the board of borough government, the question of trade stimulation was not mentioned. Instead, it seemed to be the main desire and purpose of the warden and burgesses to "beautify the borough and make it more attractive to any and all who should become visitors, or pass over the splendid highway.

The wire on the railroad crossing barrier which was cut Wednesday night was repaired Thursday.

During the past week amateur photographers have taken several attractive groups of pictures of outstanding items which are included in the borough's recent extensive building program. A progressive album and borough boom card may now be prepared, in which will appear several photographs which may justly bear the slogan.

See our $80,000 new bank building, our $160,000 new school, our new $400,000 bridge and viaduct, and above all don't fail to notice our 75-cent cow pasture fence across Main street.

BLACK H'' '

Benjamin Cornell and family spent Thanksgiving week at Lincolnville, Maine, Mrs. Cornell's former home. They plan to move soon from the cottage on the Sugar Brook estate to a house on Phillips street, Plainfield.

Milliard Cornell has gone to spend some time with his daughter, Mrs. Stanley Moore, of Phoenix, R. I.

A family gathering of fourteen was held Thanksgiving day at Nathan Exley's, including Mr. and Mrs. Frank Bailey and children of Danielson, Mr. and Mrs. Claude Griggs and family of East Hampton.

Miss Josephine Bailey remained for a few days' visit with her grandparents.

In Party Of Thirty

Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Brown attended a Thanksgiving reunion of the Gallup family at Sterling Hill where a party of thirty was present.

Visitors at Elbridge Kinne's last week were Mr. and Mrs. Jennie Clark and sons, Harold and Ray, and Mrs. Ray Clark, all of Plainville.

William and Amos Cornell enjoyed their holiday dinner with their sister, Mrs. Kenneth Stetson of Brooklyn.

Elbridge Kinne was a guest of his niece, Mrs. Thomas Mellen of South Canterbury.

Misses Fanny and Helen Brown, Mrs. Stanley Brown were Worcester visitors Friday and Saturday.

Guests Sunday at Nathan Exley's were Mr. and Mrs. Alexander Brown and two sons, of Groton. Mrs. Brown is a niece of Mrs. Exley.

NUTMEGS ABROAD BUT TRYING TO REST AWHILE

Writing from Florida, Ernest E. Brown says:

We have at last reached Winter Park —a week ago and glad we are! They used us well at Gainesville but we were thankful to be able to spend Thanksgiving in our friends' home. We have been busy this week with doctors. Mrs. Brown went early in the week to the Florida sanitarium nearby for examination and treatment; four days later the doctor lanced the swelling and with daily treatment since, we hope the worst is over, although we are not out of the woods yet. We are pleasantly located with Mrs. Brown's cousin, who was Mary Francis of Plainfield. Her husband was Dr. Thomas Baker connected with Rollins college and curator of its museum at the time of his death. Mrs. Baker's home is situated just across the street from the corner of Rollins campus and as we sit on the front porch the lawn of the campus slopes gently down to the edge of beautiful Virginia lake, one of many beautiful lakes hereabouts. She is an ideal hostess and her great knowledge of botany and of Florida plants in particular makes it most interesting to talk with her. She is the author of a book published a few years ago on the flowers of Florida which is considered an authority. She has been growing on her grounds some four hundred varieties of trees, plants, and vines are a most interesting sight to nature that are a most interesting sight to nature study lovers.

She has over a dozen varieties of oranges and grapefruits, besides a number of lime, lemon and hybods of these; kumquats, loquats, guavas, figs, bananas, berries, etc., and a great number of ornamentals in tree, shrub and vine. These are of great variety and interest, and she is adding to them from time to time.

Climbing Fern.

One plant that especially interests me on account of my years of interest in ferns is a climbing fern from Japan that will climb 20 feet and is very attractive. Also a tree from Brazil called the ja caranda which has a beautiful lacy leaf that makes you think of a fern. One shrub by the gate with glossy leaves is the tea plant from China, but as I haven't learned how to cure the leaves I haven't had any tea from it yet.

Damage By Low Temperature.

Winter Park was very attractive when we reached here with many beautiful shrubs, vines and plants in bloom, but a few days ago the mercury went down to 35 degrees and many things were injured—tomato plants, beans, squash and other edible plants, but greater havoc was wrought in the beautiful poinsettias hibescas, jasamins, allamandas and a multitude of other ornamentals cut back three feet with frost. They look pretty sick. Of course, if trimmed, they will come again but look draggly now.

Out of our window we look daily at a "flame vine" growing to the top of a tall pine which looks to be 100 feet high, with a circle 25 feet around. When it blooms later in the winter it should be gorgeous. When we were in Florida 10 years ago it was the most brilliant thing of any of the many beautiful vines that we saw. They say this spell was "unusually cold." I have heard that story before!

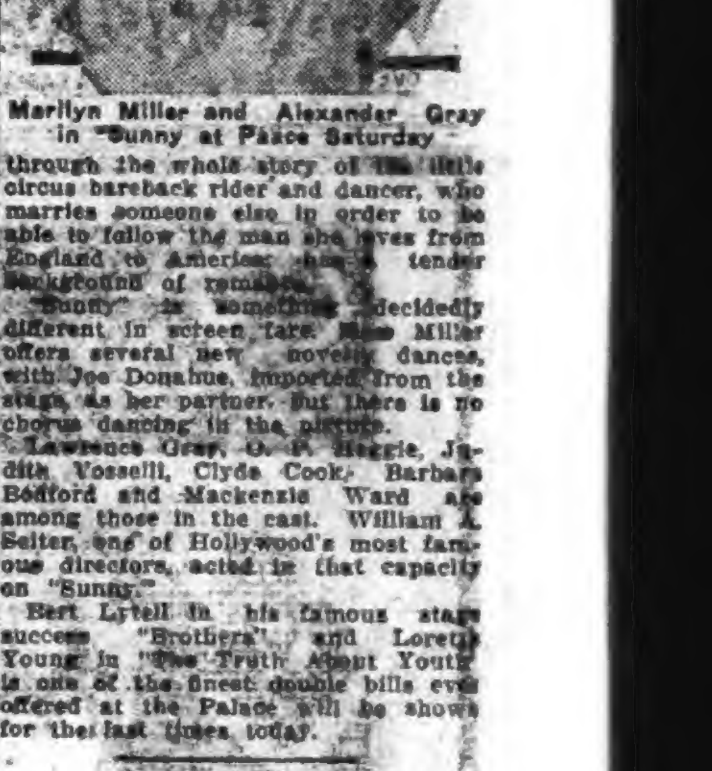
Palace Theatre

Another big treat for patrons of the Palace, when Marilyn Miller opens her four-day engagement tomorrow in her latest hit with the ten star cast. "Sunny" is a delightful comedy-romance, a First National and Vitaphone production.

"Sunny" was Miss Miller's famous stage success. The lines and situations fairly sparkle with wit, while through the whole story of the little circus bareback rider and dancer, who marries someone else in order to be able to follow the man she loves from England to America, there is a tender background of romance.



Marilyn Miller and Alexander Gray in "Sunny at Palace Saturday

"Sunny" is something decidedly different in screen fare. Miss Miller offers several new novelty dances, with Joe Donahue, imported from the stage, as her partner. But there is no chorus dancing in the picture.

Lawrence Gray, O. P. Heggie, Judith Vosselli, Clyde Cook, Barbara Bedford and Mackenzie Ward are among those in the cast. William A. Seiter, one of Hollywood's most famous directors, acted in that capacity on "Sunny."

Bert Lytell in his famous stage success "Brothers" and Loretta Young in "The Truth About Youth" is one of the finest double bills ever offered at the Palace will be shown for the last times today.

Broadway Theatre

Do you want to be thrilled? To hold your breath while a drama of life and death, of hate and love unfolds itself in ever mounting action against a background of storms at sea, of ships crashing in the night, of daring rescues and perilous encounters?

Then see "Derelict," the feature which opens Saturday, a four days engagement at Warner Bros. Broadway theatre in which the great George Bancroft depicts a masterful character, taken right from the salty ocean, in a manner that is thoroughly moving and convincing, in a drama of deep-sea love and hate that will stir you to the very depths of your soul.

A belligerent, two-fisted sea captain, fighting to keep a sluggish tramp steamer afloat through the fury of a tropical storm. Out of the angry night comes the frantic staccato signal of a ship in distress—"S. O. S." "S. O. S."—and he knows that, aboard the floundering craft is the one man in the world he hates, and the woman who double-crossed him.

That's the climatic situation of "Derelict," and if you can imagine anything more full of possibilities for dynamic Bancroft action, we can't. William Boyd, seen with Gary Cooper in the "The Spoilers," is Bancroft's rival in "Derelict," a fighting seaman, who can battle with both fists when the occasion demands. Jessie Royce Landis is both beautiful and capable. She adds distinction to her part in "Derelict."

Will Lecture On Sweden.

Arrangements have been made for Rev. George Svenson of Bohuslan Sweden, to give an illustrated lecture on Sweden at the Salem Evangelical Lu heran church on Hickory street. Rev. Svenson is touring the states in the interest of the orphan home work of his district, but is charging no admission for his lecture on Dec. 18. A large gathering of Scandinavians of Norwich and vicinity is expected for this lecture.

Old Cannon Revered

DULUTH, Minn.—(P)—The Duluth board of education has learned that local citizens regard an old Spanish-American war cannon as a "sacred institution." The board recently ordered the cannon junked but scored of protests were filed by citizens.

E. M. HILTON FATALLY INJURED BY JEWETT CITY MAIL TRUCK AT BASE

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Dec. 4—Ernest M. Hilton, 30, a private in the United States marine corps, stationed at the submarine base, was fatally injured early this morning when struck by a mail truck, owned by Adam Kojeske, of Jewett City, and driven by Frank Cierzeuski. Hilton died from his injuries, which were principally a punctured lung. He sustained several fractured ribs and one of the bones penetrated the lung. He died at the sick bay, at the base. Cierzeuski was arrested by State Police Officer Eric Swanson on a technical charge of manslaughter, but was released upon furnishing a surety on his bond of $2500 pending a finding by Coroner Edward G. McKay. Hilton is survived by his parents, who reside in Bremert, Ga.

Hilton was on guard duty at the entrance to the base and at about 5 o'clock when a milk truck headed south, arrived at the base. Hilton went to the side of the truck where he conversed with the driver. When the conversation was concluded and Hilton attempted to walk to the opposite side of the highway he did not observe the mail truck, which was headed for Norwich and Putnam, having received the mail here about 4:45 o'clock. As Hilton continued to walk across the highway and before Cierzeuski had opportunity to reduce the speed of the vehicle, Hilton was hit with terrific force, being thrown to the road. He was carried to the sick bay and given emergency treatment, but died two hours after the accident.

N. Y. AUTHORITIES INQUIRE ABOUT BOAT NO. 4

Assistant Chief Inspector John J. Sullivan, New York police department, this evening made inquiry in an endeavor to ascertain the whereabouts of a boat supposed to have been picked up by a United States coast guard destroyer. Inspector Sullivan reported that the destroyer had taken charge of a boat the identification of which was "No. 4." Inquiry was made both at the coast guard section base, state pier and the submarine base, but no advices had been received of a boat having been picked up. Inspector Sullivan was advised to that effect and was also notified to communicate with the third naval district at New York.

OBITUARY

Mrs. James Apicilli

Mrs. Rafaela Apicilli, 66, wife of James Apicilli, died this evening at her residence, 69 Ledyard avenue, Groton. Besides her husband, Mrs. Apicilli is survived by six sons, Nicholas, Frank, John, Louis, Harry and Joseph Apicilli, all of Groton and New London. Mrs. Apicilli had been ill about a year, and recently her condition became critical. She was born in Italy, but had resided in Groton many years.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas E. Troland have returned to their home, Niles Hill road, after having visited in Boston for several days.

GERWATOSKI AND WIFE HELD ON ARSON CHARGE

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Dec. 4.—Charged with arson as a result of a fire that damaged their home early today, Anthony Gerwatoski, 42, and who gave his occupation as that of a real estate representative, and his wife, Anna, of 45 Terrace avenue, were presented in the police court this morning. The case was continued to the 10th inst., and the husband and wife obtained a surety on their respective bonds of $2500, after having been locked up several hours. The fire which caused damage estimated at $1200 is being investigated by Detective Sergeants Nelson Smith and John Cavanaugh. Today the report of Fire Marshal Calvin Edmunds was forwarded to Superintendent of State Police Robert Hurley, alleging arson against Gerwatoski and his wife. It is anticipated that Supt. Hurley will cause one or more officers to be assigned to the case. The maximum penalty for conviction of the crime is life imprisonment.

Since their arrest a short time after the fire by Automobile Patrol Officer Thomas Cavanaugh and Patrolmen Dennis Murphy and John Clifford, Gerwatoski and his wife have made conflicting statements to Fire Marshal Edmonds.

The fire occurred about 2 o'clock and was subdued by Thomas Hose company, which was summoned by Gerwatoski, who did not use the telephone to summon the firemen, but traveled several blocks to the hose house.

According to Gerwatoski's statements he was aroused about 2 o'clock by a strong odor of smoke and upon arising discovered that the house was filled with smoke. He investigated further and found one of the living rooms a mass of flames. Gerwatoski then aroused the members of his family, some of whom were asleep on the second floor and there were seven altogether. Gerwatoski did not use the telephone to summon the firemen, but went to the Thomas Hose company's quarters on Williams street. He failed to arouse the firemen and then sought and found Patrolman John Clifford to whom Gerwatoski told of his home burning. Clifford had the firemen aroused and the apparatus made a quick trip to the burning dwelling. In the meantime a resident of Terrace avenue noticed the flames and telephoned to fire headquarters, resulting in Deputy Chief Edmunds responding. While the work of extinguishing the flames was in progress, Edmunds detected an unmistakable odor of kerosene and on the fire being subdued, it was discovered that rugs and furniture had been saturated with the inflammable liquid. A gallon container, but which held but about a pint of kerosene was found in a closet adjoining the room where the fire originated.

Edmunds took charge of the alleged saturated rugs and an oil stove as evidence. Gerwatoski had said that the oil stove exploded, but the stove does not bear evidence of having been used for a long time. When Edmunds was sure that the fire had been set, he made complaint to the police and the arrest of Gerwatoski and his wife followed.

Gerwatoski, it is understood, carried insurance of $7,000 on the building and $1,000 on the furniture. It is also understood that Gerwatoski was unable to pay a mortgage of $1,000 that became due last Monday.

CYCLE IN ACCIDENT BELONGED TO SAILOR KILLED

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Dec. 4.—A motorcycle, believed to have been operated by a member of the United States coast guard, stationed at the state pier, collided with a motionless truck owned by the Beacon Oil company and in front of the gasoline supply station at the approach to the Thames river highway bridge this afternoon. The motorist sustained a lacerated eye and left the cycle at the gasoline station, stating that he was going to the state pier to receive medical treatment of his injured optic. He did not return and an investigation revealed that the cycle is registered in the name of Lehmon Frazier, a former member of the coast guard who was killed in an automobile accident at Lyme several weeks ago. The cycle was taken in charge by the state police and was removed to the barracks at Groton.

"AUNT LUCIA" COMEDY MAKES COLCHESTER HIT

(Special to The Bulletin)

COLCHESTER, Dec. 4.— Over 300 people, the largest crowd of spectators seen in Colchester Grange hall for many years, were in attendance this evening to witness the presentation of the famous three-act college comedy, Aunt Lucia, under the auspices of Colchester grange. The play was one of the biggest hometown shows ever stage in this community and included a cast of 100 local people. The play was a burlesque comedy of American college life and has a number of hilarious comedy features. Everyone who saw the show claimed that no one could afford to miss it. The show was a story of the home-coming at Bula-Bula college and besides the play proper it has a number of special features, which included the men's flapper chorus, men's glee club, baby pageant and high school girls' chorus. All these features were much applauded.

The main cast of the play, headed by Edward McCall, Jr., of Lebanon, as Aunt Lucia, included Herbert Finley, Arthur Stebbins, Jr., Mrs. George Boson, Mrs. M. J. Cornwell, Miss Hattie B. Brown, Tax Collector Harold Clark, Gilbert J. Murray, Fire Chief Harold Brown, Mrs. Robert S. Brown, Rev. A. W. Canney, Mrs. Earl Stevens, Constable Nelson Stern, Edwin Stebbings, Barrett Tompkins, Sam Berman, Edward Seger.

TAFTVILLE

Peter Gallan post, No. 104, American Legion, held its regular meeting Monday evening in the Red Cross rooms in the Ponemah Community building with Commander Arthur X. Bessette presiding. The various committees which have been working on a number of social functions for the coming season reported progress. Membership was discussed and dues for 1931 were declared payable. A dance which was to have been held under the auspices of the post was announced as having been postponed until after New Year's. A campagin was launched for the collection of old newspapers. Schoolchildren are to be asked to collect them and leave them at George G. Grant's while on their way to school. It was also voted to hold a medical clinic for World war veterans and their families. All cases are to be reported to state fund chairman, Thomas Perkins Sears. A letter from Department Commander Edward L. Newmarker was read by Secretary Kelly. In the letter, the department commander urged the establishment of medical clinics, as follows:

"It is now admitted, and our state and nation have taken cognizance of it, that all industrial nations of the world are in the throes of economic depressions. Although incomes, in many instances, have decreased, due to part-time work, most of our people possess the foresight and the thrift which make it possible for them to pass through the depression on their own resources.

"There are many instances of less fortunate situations. Responsibilities of some individuals to provide for large families are burdensome when economic conditions are favorable. Small incomes have made it imperative to consume less food and to burn less fuel, with sickness resulting from such practices. Many World war veterans and their families are sick and destitute.

"The following suggestion has been received by me, and I recommend that it be adopted by all posts in our department. Each post organize in its community a medical clinic, to be made up of Legionnaires who are doctors and will give free medical treatment to the destitute World war veterans and their families during the present emergency upon recommendation of the state fund chairman.

"It is desirable that this be handled through the state fund chairman since he is familiar with, and has a record of, all homes in which need and sickness prevail. In addition, doctors will then be assured that only worthy cases will be brought to their attention, in which case they will be asked to give free service.

"Most doctors have a broad professional viewpoint, and our posts can get results along the lines suggested without much effort. This would be a worthy piece of work to undertake and would reflect much good for the Legion. Kindly give it your earnest consideration."

CARPENTERS SOUGHT TO AID WITH BOY SCOUT CABIN

Through the able assistance of two carpenters, Mr. Christensen and Mr. McKenna, and Dr. R. R. Agnew, the floor of the Boy Scout cabin has been entirely completed. A fireplace 8 1-2 feet in length has been cut out and the scouts have started to lay the base foundation of stone. The men worked Thursday from 1 until shortly after 4 in the afternoon, while the scouts, together with Scout Executive Sellman, came out after school and worked.

According to the local scout headquarters, an effort will be made to get a few carpenters to go out Saturday and sometime next week a carpenters' day will be held where carpenters from all parts of the city who have the time and wish to do a good turn for the scouts will be given the opportunity to meet and go out to the camp in machines and spend most of the day, with a substantial dinner meal being served by the scouts for all those who volunteer.

If such a day can be held, the cabin can be practically completed in the one day. The local scout office and Dr. R. R. Agnew intend to speed up the collection of materials so that by Tuesday or Wednesday of next week such a carpenters' day can be held. The scouts are very anxious to have their cabin completed before the Christmas holidays, that they may spend many of the holiday nights out in the cabin in front of the great fireplace, listening to stories of great adventure.

The cabin of the scouts will be 20 by 30 feet and on the outside will be covered with hemlock slabs and on the inside be covered with flooring wood. The cabin will contain one and possibly two doors and a number of windows. Twelve double-decker beds have already been contributed and it is expected that the ceiling will be covered in order that a considerable attic can be made.

Contributions of two by fours and wood for the roof and tar paper and wall board are still needed by the scouts. Construction of the side of the cabin will start Saturday.

Public Speaking Class Supper

The public speaking and civic leadership class of business and professional men which has been successfully carried on this fall at the Y. M. C. A., will complete its course by a supper on Tuesday, Dec. 16, at 7:30 p. m. It was decided at the last meeting to continue the last two lessons next Tuesday, Dec. 16. An interesting program will be given, including remarks by several, including Mayor Lee R. Robbins, Judge Nelson J. Ayling, Rev. David A. Pitt, D.D., Secretary Hill and others. This course has been enjoyed by the members and a number have evinced marked progress in the art of speaking.

SETTLEMENT FOR $2,000 IN MRS. BERADI'S SUIT

A $15,000 damage suit brought by Mrs. Carlisle Beradi of New London against Mr. and Mrs. Hyman Schwartz of Norwich was settled out of court for the reported sum of $2,000 after the case had been partially heard by Judge Ernest A. Inglis and a jury in the superior court here Thursday.

The trial was started in the morning and four witnesses had been heard when a recess was taken and the settlement effected. Those who testified before the case was terminated were Edward Dondro, Dr. George P. Cheney, both of New London, the plaintiff, and Joseph B. Williams of New Britain, a civil engineer.

It was charged in the complaint that Mrs. Beradi received serious injuries as a result of being struck by an automobile at Bank and Golden street in this city Feb. 7, 1930; the automobile operated by Mr. Schwartz and owned by Mrs. Schwartz.

An agreement for settlement of the case was reached during the noon recess. The jury which had been chosen consisted of William H. Allen Patrick T. Connell, Norwich; Otis Browning, Walter S. Tarbox, Preston; Fred W. Holmes, Colchester; Everett H. Wilcox, Jewett City; Christie H. Foster, Lebanon; Irving R. Main, North Stonington; Leroy E. Lathrop, Bozrah; George A. Miller, Franklin; Albert A. Rist and Paul Geist, Lisbon.

Norwich Girls on Honor Roll

Miss Constance E. Chapman and Miss Dorothy E. Hutchinson of Norwich were among the students who were listed on the honor roll just issued at Bay Path institute, Springfield, Mass., for the first 12-week term of this school year. Miss Chapman received first honors (all grades above 80 and one-half above 90), and Miss Hutchinson received second honors (all grades above 80 and one-third above 90). Miss Chapman is a junior in the two-year accounting-finance department at Bay Path, and Miss Hutchinson is taking a secretarial course.

Won Fourth Place in Contest

Word has just been received from the president of the New England Conference Luther League of the Augustana synod that the Luther league of the Salem Lutheran church of this city came in fourth in a recent contest for increasing the subscriptions to the official Luther league paper. The league of Woburn, Mass., came in first and North Grosvenordale second. The standing of the Norwich league is excellent considering the size of the league. Elmer Pierson is president and had charge of securing subscriptions.

WILL HAVE CHRISTMAS ILLUMINATION FOR STREETS IN HOLIDAY SEASON

Strings of colored electric lights will be erected on the main streets of the city by Dec. 15, according to an announcement made Thursday by President J. F. Fleming of the Norwich Retail Merchants bureau. As was the case last year, the lights will be erected by the gas and electric department of the city and will be lighted from the 15th of the month for the entire holiday season.

It was also announced Thursday that a large Christmas tree with electric lights will be placed in the safety zone at Franklin square within the near future. The bureau has secured permission from the city to have the tree erected in the square. Street Commissioner H. B. Wightman will secure the tree for the bureau.

INTRODUCES RESOLUTION FROM NORWICH MEETING

WASHINGTON, Dec. 4.—Senator Frederic C. Walcott of Connecticut presented the following resolution to the senate yesterday:

Resolution adopted by the Woman's Christian Temperance Union of Connecticut, in annual convention at Norwich, Connecticut, favoring the enactment of a law for the federal supervision of motion pictures establishing higher standards for production for films that are to be licensed for interstate and international commerce.

Conducted Hartford Hearings

Commissioner A. J. Bailey was in Hartford Thursday to conduct several workmen's compensation hearings.

MAKING TWO-WAY TRIAL ON CHURCH ST. TRAFFIC

As a trial, two-way traffic is being allowed on Church street, with a view to keeping the street open to two-way traffic permanently. The street has been a one-way street for several years. Should the plan work out a special meeting of the court of common council will be held next week to receive a proposed ordinance with that end in view.

Since the recent improvement of a part of the street from the corner of Court street easterly by putting in a new roadbed and flattening out the grade and deep gutters, the street is in better condition for two-way traffic.

Will Give Christmas Aid

A meeting of the Children of Mary sodality of St. Patrick's church was held this week, and a committee was formed to conduct a food sale. The proceeds will be used for the poor at Christmas time.

TALKED ON AUTOMOBILES AT LIONS' CLUB MEETING

William R. Frisbie was the speaker at the weekly meeting of the Norwich Lions' club at noon Thursday at the Wauregan hotel. Mr. Frisbie gave an interesting talk on automobiles. Jean Kieffer, chairman of a committee to arrange for the installation of radio sets in the homes of blind people, reported that arrangements have been made for the placing of two sets. Other sets will be installed later. Acting with Mr. Kieffer on the committee are Dr. Kopland K. Markoff and Abner Schwartz. President Louis M. Crandall conducted the meeting and Dr. Markoff was the song leader.

REP. MARY T. NORTON CALLS PROHIBITION A "NIGHTMARE"

New Jersey Woman Says She Stands For Repeal of the 18th Amendment Because It is the Source of the Greatest Political Graft and Corruption in the History of Our Government—Mrs. Carroll Miller, Democratic Committeewoman From Pennsylvania, Announced "We Are in This Fight Until the 18th Amendment is Abolished"

WASHINGTON, Dec. 5.—(AP)—Two women prominent in the democratic party dubbed prohibition a failure tonight and in militant addresses before the Women's Organization for National Prohibition Reform pledged themselves to fight for repeal.

Mrs. Carroll Miller, of Pittsburgh, democratic national committeewoman from Pennsylvania, announced "We are in this fight until the eighteenth amendment is abolished."

Representative Mary T. Norton, of New Jersey, added that "a fairly good start toward repeal" already had been made and would be completed after the next election.

Mrs. Norton urged support for her own resolution to provide a constitutional prohibition referendum and said "surely even the most ardent dry will not deny us the right of expressing our convictions on that which so intimately concerns ourselves and our children."

Mrs. Norton called prohibition a "nightmare" and said the country's younger generation was "the real victim of this class legislation." The New Jersey representative contended repeal of the law, in contrast, would alleviate this condition, provide a new market for unwanted crops, relieve unemployment and put millions of dollars into the treasury.

"In one election," she said, "we have gained 70 repeal representatives and I do not hesitate to predict that in the next election this question of repeal will hold the attention of the entire country and that we will then gain a sufficient number of votes to overthrow the eighteenth amendment and thereby insure a return to states' rights and decent government."

Mrs. Miller said "no longer will we women be satisfied with party platforms that prate about general law observance and enforcement or with candidates who straddle or evade the issue."

"We want to repeal the eighteenth amendment because it is the source of the greatest poltical graft and corruption in the history of our government," she said.

"We want to repeal the eighteenth amendment because it has brought about the election to office of the greatest number of hypocrites that have ever assembled in the state legislatures or the halls of congress.

"For training no royal child ever had such councillors as little boy prohibition. Just think of it. For years he has had a celebrated secretary of the treasury for his tutor; attorney generals for his godfathers; distinguished lawyers like Mitchell and Woodcock for his coaches, and Mrs. Mabel Walker Willebrandt for his wet nurse, and yet at the end of ten years just look what kind of a boy we have."

COMMUNISTS CONSIDER RELIGION AN "OPIATE"

WASHINGTON, Dec. 5.—(AP)—The American flag, property rights and religion were attacked today by witnesses who told the special house communist investigating committee that a revolution would end capitalistic domination of the United States.

One of the titular heads of the party in the United States, William Z Foster, twice a candidate for president, said communists believed in government confiscation of the necessities of life and that religion was "an opiate."

After lengthy questioning by Chairman Fish he added that the "more advanced workers of this country look upon the soviet union as their country."

"They have but one flag—the red flag," he testified. "The other flags are flags of the capitalists and we owe no allegiance to them."

Foster previously had declined to name directors of communist activities in the United States. Later he said he would "prefer not to name" the Moscow head of the American section of the communist internationale.

"He happens to be a native-born American worker," Foster testified.

NEEDY WOMEN DEFRAUDED BY "HOMEWORK" COMPANIES

NEW YORK, Dec. 5.—(AP)—The "homework racket" was assailed today by Frances Perkins, state industrial commissioner, who said hundreds of persons, mostly women, had been defrauded of deposit money paid in anticipation of work which could be done in the home.

Cases of needy women who took money needed for their children's food to swell the "homework" companies' profits were described by Miss Perkins.

"Fake homework firms," she said, "have been taking wicked advantage of the unemployment situation. Their system is to set up an office in New York with a clerical force and circularize the entire country, especially the small towns, promising high pay for easy homework, the work to be sent on receipt of a deposit."

DENSEST FOG IN YEARS OVER SOUTHERN ENGLAND

LONDON, Dec. 5.—(AP)—A choking yellow fog, 1,000 feet thick, hung over southern and eastern England today. In some places it was the densest experienced in years and both the surrounding sea and sky were made perilous for traffic.

Incoming airliners were unable to land at Croydon and instead used the coastal field at Lympne. Departing planes, however, took off blindly to fight their way through the fog to sunlight above.

Some channel steamer lines halted service entirely, while others operated on disrupted schedules. One channel steamer arrived 36 hours late and many others were delayed for hours

BERNARD SHAW HAS GOOD WORDS FOR RUSSIAN MOVIES

LONDON, Dec. 5.—(AP)—Bernard Shaw compared Russian movies with those from home and from Hollywood today.

"I don't know whether it's possible to make Hollywood blush," he said, "but I am quite sure it's impossible to make Hollywood's British imitators blush.

"When you see Russian films and remember that never for a moment have they had to fall back on that last refuge of decaying art—sex appeal—we wish we could make arrangements for the soviets to come here and take charge of our educational affairs."

FOUR TRAINMEN INJURED BY BOILER EXPLOSION

SAVANNAH, Ga., Dec. 5—(AP)—Seaboard Airline railway said four trainmen were injured late today when the boiler of a freight train exploded near Lobecoe, S. C.

Names of the injured were given as B. F. Smart, engineer; C. B. Grubbs, conductor; W. P. Frayman, trainman, and a Negro fireman named Collins, all of Savannah. None was believed fatally hurt.

The explosion occurred while the train was en route from Savannah to Charleston, S. C. The cause was not given.

DARING ROBBERY OF FUR SHOP IN NEW YORK

NEW YORK, Dec. 5.— (AP)— Four gunmen tonight climaxed a day of daring robberies by holding up a fur shop in a thickly populated uptown section and making off with furs which the proprietor valued at $25,000 and $235 in cash.

The robbers, after binding Jacob M. Schechter, the store owner and three employes and locking them in a back room, drove away with their plunder.

As in several other recent robberies the hold-up band used adhesive tape to seal the mouths ofthe store employes.

The storekeeper and his aides had just taken some coats from a display window and were putting them in two large safes when the robbers entered the store, revolvers drawn. According to Schechter, they had a bright red automobile.

There was no money in the cash drawer but Schechter was relieved of $200 from his pockets and Doris Moulson, girl bookkeeper, $35, before the robbers trussed them with rope and made them lie face down on the back room floor.

A passerby caught a glimpse of the operations of the robbers and summoned a policeman but he arrived too late to pick up the trail of the robbers' car.

A $14,000 payroll hold-up in Brooklyn, theft of $1,981 from the offices of the Breslin hotel, Manhattan, and the robbery of a real estate firm's east side office of a $600 payroll during the day had kept detectives on the jump.

G. A. COCHRAN, MILLIONAIRE TURFMAN, FOUND DEAD

NEW YORK, Dec. 5.—(AP)—Gifford A. Cochran, millionaire turfman, manufacturer and social leader, was found dead today by a milkman in the hallway outside his Madison avenue apartment.

Examination by Dr. Robert Fisher, assistant city medical examiner, showed death was due to a heart affection and alcoholism. Mr. Cochran was 50. He had been in poor health for several years.

He was apparently stricken about 4 o'clock this morning when he entered the building to go to his luxuriously furnished two-room apartment on the fifth floor. There is no elevator attendant after 6 p. m.

RESCUED AFTER DRIFTING MORE THAN FOUR DAYS AT SEA

CHARLESTON, S. C., Dec. 5.—(AP)—After drifting for more than four days on the wind lashed Atlantic, ten men, nine of them Negroes, comprising the crew of the fishing launch U-11, were rescued this afternoon a mile and a half off Folly Beach.

The men were well, despite their trying experiences. They had been missing since Monday while coast guard and naval vessels sought them. They were transferred from their disabled boat to a coast guard patrol boat which had gone from its Charleston base to their aid.

TEMPORARY TRUCE IN STRIKE OF COAL MINERS IN SCOTLAND

LONDON, Dec. 5—(AP)—The 85,000 striking coal miners in Scotland will go back to the pits on Monday under terms of a temporary truce reached today.

Decision to call off the strike, which has been in effect the past week, was made at a conference of miners' leaders in Glasgow. No settlement, however, has yet been reached between th mine owners and the men and negotiations will be continued at a joint conference tomorrow.

Meanwhile, the men will work on an arrangement based on the rate of wages prevailing before adoption of the new mines act, which became effective last Monday.

PROVIDENCE YOUTH FOUND GUILTY 1ST DEGREE MURDER

PROVIDENCE, Dec. 5.—(AP)—Langdon Stringer, 30, of this city, was found guilty of first degree murder, when the jury returned its verdict in superior court before Judge Charles A. Walsh today. Stringer was on trial for the murder of William W. Jones of this city last May.

Belgium Epidemic Like "Bl[illegible] Death"

Has C[illegible] 58 Deaths — M[illegible] Valley Residents [illegible] Become Terrified

LO[illegible]ON, Dec. 5—(AP)—The startling [illegible]ggestion that the mysterious epidemic which has taken nearly 60 lives in the fog-bound Meuse valley of Belgium is "something like the black death," was made tonight by Prof. J. B. S. Haldane, one of Great Britain's most eminent scientists.

"I don't believe the epidemic can have been caused by war gas," he said, "because deaths have occurred in different villages. They have been having floods in that district lately and it is possble that may have something to do with it."

The "black death" was the name given to a mysterious plague which raged in the 14th century and caused deaths which some historians say amounted to a third of the population of western Europe. It is believed wet and above all foggy conditions are particularly favorable to sperad of the disease.

Seven Days in the Week

When you want to go somewhere in a hurry you take the car.

When you want to ask a question of a friend a mile or so away you telephone.

When you want to buy any one of the many things that you need in your home or in the car or about the place you look in the advertising columns of the newspaper. You buy through the advertisements because they save you time and effort, because it pays.

When you want to get the news you also go to the newspaper and while foreign, domestic, state and local news has been furnished you at the breakfast table each morning for many years by The Bulletin a seven-day service is now available through The Bulletin's Sunday edition—The Norwich Sunday Record.

This means advertising and news service every morning in the week, a new service that is complete each day, a news service by a special corps of correspondents without delays or repetitions. The news of the Sunday edition is not repeated in subsequent issues any more than the news in Wednesday's issue is republished on Thursday.

Get the news while it is fresh. Read the advertisements for results. Bulletin service covers its entire field.

During the past week the following news matter has appeared in The Bulletin's columns—two cents a day:

MYSTERIOUS POISON FOG OVER THE MEUSE VALLEY

BRUSSELS, Belgium, Dec. 5—(AP)—A mysterious poison fog, blanketing the Meuse valley in Belgium for three days, has terrified the countryside and already caused 58 deaths.

Many domestic animals also have fallen as victims.

For 72 hours an extremely heavy fogs has hung over the valley, and peasants groping through the dense clouds of mist have died in sudden and horrible asphyxiation.

At first it was believed the casualties were caused by the choking mists aggravating respiratory complaints, but the magnitude of the epidemic has brought fears that poison gas is responsible.

It is known that great quantities of German war material are buried around Liege, where most of the fatalities have occurred, and some believe this to be responsible. Others the trouble to some noxious by-product of an industrial works which has mixed with the fog and drifted slowly down the air currents of the valley. Still others believed a secret store of poison gas has been loosed in some manner.

Authorities are working frantically to determine the exact cause, performing post mortem examinations and otherwise investigating.

Most of the terrified inhabitants are convnced that buried stories of German war gas, remnants of the supply dumps concentrated in this area during the World war, are responsible. The victims have died just as did soldiers without gas masks in the war.

SEARCHING FOR FUGITIVES FROM MATTEAWAN ASYLUM

NEW YORK, Dec. 5—Search for seven inmates of the Hospital for the Criminal Insane at Matteawan, six of whom escaped early yesterday, was concentrated in two cities tonight.

Six of the fugitives lived in New York. Their homes were being watched and police had been provided with their photographs.

In Rochester, where lived Harry Gordon, the "mad butcher," more than 50 persons sought armed protection against his possible return.

Dr. Raymond F. C. Kieb, superintendent of the Matteawan hospital, exonerated the four attendants who were overpowered by Frank Nelson, an inmate who escaped 10 days ago, and two armed thugs.

Guards at the hospital go unarmed, he said, because of the danger of a madman seizing a weapon. He added six guards today as a precaution against further trouble.

SINCLAIR RENEWS LICENSE TO PRACTICE PHARMACY

ELDORADO, Kan., Dec. 5—(AP)—Harry F. Sinclair, multi-millionaire oil man, can practice pharmacy again in Kansas if he so desires.

Mac Childs, of El Dorado, secretary of the state board of pharmacy, last month wrote to Mr. Sinclair informing him his license which expired in 1909 would be restored on payment of back dues totaling $42 and a $5 fee.

Mr. Sinclair sent a check for the amount.

COMMUNIST DEMONSTRATIONS IN VARIOUS PARTS OF BERLIN

BERLIN, Dec. 5—(AP)—Communists formed demonstrations in fifteen widely separated points tonight and kept the Berlin police on the run.

Near Buelow Platz, the favorite communist rallying ground, shots were fired at the police from a house but no one was wounded.

Most of the manifestations were dispersed by use of clubs.

Financial Program Before Reichstag

Communists and Socialists Oppose Government Measure—Vote Probable Today

BERLIN, Dec. 5—(AP)—Both communists and national socialists trained their heaviest guns today on the government's emergency financial measures which were fighting their way toward a final vote, due probably tomorrow.

Chancellor Brueing conferred with President Von Hindenburg this morning then went straight to the Reichstag and solemnly warned that house that any delay in making his financial plan effective might have dire consequences for the nation.

Advices from all parts of the country, he declared, made it plain that his plan was generally approved as the most feasible under the present difficult circumstances.

Communist hecklers roundly challenged the chancellor's statement and asserted that there was discontent throughout the country at the government's apparent inability to force commodity prices down as wages sank.

Later the national socialists entered the fray, shifting the ground to that of foreign policy. Alfred Rosenberg, editor of Adolf Hitler's organ, the Voelkischer Beobachter, upbraided the government for shirking its responsibilities n connection wth the alleged ill treatment of German minorities in Poland and elsewhere.

Foreign Minister Curtius who had occasionally banged his fist on the desk in anger at Rosenberg's taunts jumped to his feet after another nationalist socialist, Freytag Loringhoven, had bitterly accused him personally of trifling with the most vtal foreign interests of the Reich.

The foreign minister said that the present was no time to break into the financial debate with questions of foreign policy which had already been fully threshed out in committee and would be given due consideration at the meeting of the council of the league of nations at Geneva in January. Stinging remarks were flung back and forth across the floor, but the excitement later subsided.

DOUMERGUE CONSULTING ON MINISTRY FORMATION

PARIS, Dec. 5—(AP)—France's parliamentary lobbies were in a turmoil of politics tonight as the leaders of the thirteen groups making up the chamber of deputies and the seven parties of the senate sought to clear up the atmosphere befogged by the defeat and resignation of the Tardieu cabinet.

A score of statesmen and politicians visited President Doumergue at the Elysee palace today to give their advice as to how the crisis should be resolved. Up to tonight, M. Doumergue had contented himself with making soundings of the political depths and had not chosen a pilot to steer the French ship of state into safe waters.

Among the president's visitors were Raymond Poincare, former president and former premier; former Premier Herriot, Paul Doumer, president of the senate, and Ferdinand Bouisson, president of the chamber. Others included the leaders of the most important parties in the two houses. When the consultations ended shortly after 7 o'clock, however, it was aid that the president had not offered the premiership to anyone and that little headway had been made in untangling the situation.

President Doumergue will resume his consultations with political leaders at 9:30 tomorrow morning, when his first visitor will be former Premier Paul Painleve,.

PATNODE SENTENCED TO LIFE IMPRISONMENT

HARTFORD, Dec. 5— (AP) —The deathbed statement of Miss Jeannette V. Carr, 25 years old Hartland girl, who was fatally shot October 13, in a barn at her home saved her slayer, George Patnode, of Hartland, from going to trial on a charge of murder in the first degree and today he was allowed to plead guilty to murder in the second egree and was sentenced by Judge Allyn L. Brown in the superior court to life imprisonment.

RUSSIAN TRAITORS MAKE PERSONAL PLEAS FOR LIFE

MOSCOW, Dec. 5—(AP)—Eight engineers who confessed to plotting the overthrow of the soviet government by foreign intervention made personal pleas for their lives tonight before the four supreme court judges in whose hands rest their fate.

Only a few hours previously, the eight men had listened to Prosecutor Krijlenko in a vitriolic address demand the death sentence for all of them as enemies of the communist state.

SEN. COMMITTEE FAVORS $60,000,000 DROUGHT LOAN

In Approving the McNary Resolution the Committee Ignored the Administration's Recommendation For a $25,000,000 Limit—Resolution Would Authorize Loans to Farmers Not Only For Feed, Seed and Fertilizer, But Also Food For the Farmers and Their Families

WASHINGTON, Dec. 5.—(AP)—The senate agriculture committee today unanimously approved the McNary resolution to authorize $60,000,000 for loans to storm and drought-stricken farmers.

The committee ignored the administration's recommendation for a $25,000,000 limit.

The resolution would authorize loans to farmers not only for feed, seed and fertilizer, but also for food for the farmers and their families.

Chairman McNary announced he would submit the committee's report to the senate Monday and ask for immediate consideration.

The committee deferred action on the Capper bill to authorize the use of 40,000,000 bushels of wheat now held by the farm board's grain stabilization corporation, for relief.

The farm board will be asked to send a representative to tell the committee what effect this plan would have on market conditions.

HOUSE PASSES $1,083,553,000 TREASURY-POSTOFFICE BILL

WASHINGTON, Dec. 5.—(AP)—The annual supply bill carrying $1,083,553,000 for operation of the treasury and postoffice departments during the next fiscal year, was passed today by the house and sent to the senate.

HOUSE WETS LOSE, BUT SHOW GAIN OVER LAST YEAR

WASHINGTON, Dec. 5.— (AP) — The prohibition controversy stalked through the house today and left the wets defeated but encouraged.

They lost again in their annual battle against poisoning industrial alcohol, but found comfort in comparing today's vote with that of last year.

The count was 106 to 54 against outlawing deadly denaturants. That of last year was 107 to 27.

TO HASTEN CONSTRUCTION OF NEW LONDON C. G. ACADEMY

WASHINGTON, Dec. 5.— (AP)— To expedite the construction of the new Coast Guard academy at New London, Conn., President Hoover today asked congress to authorize reimbursement of the supervising architect for outlays toward the $1,640,000 work provided for last session.

RELIEF LEGISLATION MAY LEAVE $355,000,000 GOVT. DEFICIT

WASHINGTON, Dec. 5.—(AP)—With the passage of pending relief legislation, the government faces a prospective deficit of at least $355,000,000 at the end of this fiscal year.

In his budget message on Wednesday, the executive predicted that the 1931 fiscal year would close with a deficit of $180,000,000, estimating total revenue at $3,834,000,000 and expenditure at $4,014,000,000.

Since that estimate was made, the president has asked congress for $150,000,000 for immediate speeding up of the government's public works and the senate agriculture committee approved $60,000,000 for seed loans to farmers. The latter amount was $35,000,000 more than asked for by the department of agriculture.

If congress ultimately reduces this figure to the $25,000,000 recommended by the department of agriculture, the addition to the $180,000,000 estimated deficit would bring the total to $355,000,000.

GOV.-ELECT W. L. CROSS APPOINTS MILITARY STAFF

NEW HAVEN, Dec. 5.—(AP)—The military family which Dean Wilbur L. Cross, democratic governor-elect, will have around him after he tasks office was made known today. Save two, Brig. Gen. William F. Ladd, the adjutant general, and Col. Charles W. Comfort, Jr., the surgeon general, the appointments are all new and politically democratic, as was to be expected.

Dean Cross has said that he wished all the traditional social functions, at which a governor, as commander-in-chief, is the guest, to be carried out as usual and with a staff of young officers in their blue gold braid-trimmed uniforms he will have a distinctive group about him.

The staff member upon whom eyes will be turned will be Major James J. (Gene) Tunney, retired heavyweight champion, now satisfying his ambitions as a student in the classics and English literature.

A lieutenant in the marine reserves the staff appointment brings to Tunney the gold leaf of a major, as he will serve as an aide-de-camp.

The new staff follows:

William F. Ladd, Hartford, adjutant general, who is brigadier general and chief of the staff.

Michael A. Connor, Hartford, quartermaster general and colonel.

Anthony Sunderland, Danbury, assistant to the adjutant general, and colonel.

Four appointees from the National Guard to serve as aide-de-camps:

Lieutenant Colonel Robert F. Gadd, Hartford, colonel.

Allen B. Lambdin, comptroller at the Connecticut College for Women, New London, colonel.

Captain John J. McGarry, Putnam, commander of the division headquarters company, major.

Lieutenant James A. Shanley, New Haven, opponent of Congressman John Q. Tilson in the recent election, major.

The four civilian members of the staff are:

Thomas Hewes, Farmington, colonel, and personal aide.

Edward L. Taylor, New Haven, official of the New Haven road, colonel.

Harold B. Pinney, Stafford Springs major.

James J. Tunney, Stamfrod, major.

Herbert L. Seward, member of the Yale faculty, naval aide with rank of lieutenant-commander.

GOVT. ADMINISTRATION OF INDIAN AFFAIRS ASSAILED

WASHINGTON, Dec. 5—(AP)—The government's administration of Indian affairs was assailed today by Senator Wheeler, democrat, Montana, as "little less than criminal."

He told interior department officials at a hearing by a senate Indian affairs sub-committee that the department was letting the government's wards "starve to death" and field agents were "sitting around doing nothing."

Wheeler, a member of the sub-committee, was joined in his condemnation by other members, but in some instances the Indian bureau was held blameless.

ANOTHER VICTIM TAKEN "FOR A RIDE" IN BROOKLYN

NEW YORK, Dec. 5—(AP)—The "grap war" claimed another victim tonight when Giuseppe Pizzigino, 37, was "taken for a ride" by gangster henchmen of business rivals and his body tossed from an automobile in the Bay Ridge section of Brooklyn, "grave yard" of gunmen. His body was identified by his wife, Conzetta.

TO PRESENT SCROLL TO PRESIDENT HOOVER

NEW YORK, Dec. 5—(AP)—The old guard of the city of New York will present a scroll to President Hoover at Washington Monday certifying him as an honorary member.

The president also will be asked to sign the membership roll, which carries the signatures of all the p[illegible] since 1568 and other dignitar[illegible]

THREE GUNMEN SENTENCED BY JUDGE ALLYN L. BROWN

HARTFORD, Dec. 5—(AP)—Three gunmen, one of them a graduate of the Sebastiano Aliano school, of bootlegging, who were arrested in Collinsville, October 20 by state police, who foiled their plans to hi-jack a load of liquor, were sentenced to state prison today by Judge Allyn L. Brown of the superior court after they had pleaded guilty to charges of carrying concealed weapons.

Sebastian Tarialio, described by State's Attorney Hugh M. Alcorn as a "protege of Sebastiano Aliano," who is now serving a 10 to 15 years term for manslaughter for the killing of his rival, Alphonse Minnitti, last December, was sentenced to from two to three years, Dominic Alfano, was sentenced to serve one to two years and Nicholas Sassano, one to one and one-half years.

State Policemen Kamesi and Ehlert of the Hartford barracks arrested the trio in an automobile in Canton. Two others had left the three taken prisoners to investigate conditions at Eva's inn, which, according to Mr. Alcorn, was to have been held up. These men are still at large. Five automatic revolvers with numbers filed off, alleged to have been stolen from the Colt Patent Firearms Manufacturing company, here, were displayed in court.

BELLE LIVINGSTONE HELD FOR MAINTAINING NUISANCE

NEW YORK, Dec. 5—(AP)—Belle Livingstone pleaded not guilty today to allegations of federal prohibition agents, who indicated their belief that her "salon" should be spelled with a double "o".

Miss Livingstone and eight employes were arrested in a raid last night on the 58th street club where she dispenses, "wit, culture and bon hommie." The raiders said all they could find was 40 bottles of assorted liquors.

It was La Belle's third encounter with the law in recent months and she described the raid as "most chic."

"They showed respect to the guests and to myself, those agents," she said. "Every one of them came in evening dress, and they were good looking."

But the night in a jail cell was not so chic. "I suppose that matron thought she was just doing her duty," she explained charitably, "but I thought she was awfully crabbed. Why, she got me up at 6 o'clock this morning."

Miss Livingstone said she was a former actress and gave her age as 56. She was released in $2,000 bail on charges of maintaining a nuisance, for hearing December 12.

LECTURER ARRESTED FOR FAILURE TO PAY $7,018 JUDGMENT

MILWAUKEE, Dec. 5—(AP)—A few hours before he was scheduled to make an address on "the new architecture" here, Frank Lloyd Wright, famous architect, was arrested in his hotel today.

Failure to pay a judgment of $7,018 to the estate of his divorced wife, Miriam Noel Wright, was charged in the civil warrant under which he was taken to the county jail.

Wright was immediately removed to the office of a court commissioner, where he said his only assets are his genius and common stock in Frank Lloyd Wright, Inc., a corporation formed by his friends to shield him from financial troubles that accompanied his marital difficulties.

He was allowed to depart for the lecture on his promise to appear tomorrow morning.

WEST HAVEN GUNMAN GETS 45 TO 75 YEARS IN PRISON

BRIDGEPORT, Dec. 5.—(AP)—After the jury had twice returned to its chambers in an attempt to reach a verdict, Carlton Searles, 24, alleged bandit and gunman of West Haven was sentenced late today by Judge Alfred C. Baldwin in superior court to serve 45 to 75 years in state's prison on three counts of assault with intent to murder policemen.

TWELVE MEMORIALS, ONE $100,000 REPORTED BY HOSPITAL WORKERS

(Special to The Bulletin)

WILLIMANTIC, Dec. 5—The half-million dollar fund for the new Windham Community Memorial hospital was swelled from $53,503 to $219,006.50 and the numbers of subscriptions increased from 264 to 912 in the reports made at the second rally meeting held with a supper at the state armory tonight.

There were 11 memorials totaling $37,800 reported by the teams and included in the team totals and the memorial committee reported one memorial for $100,000.

General Chairman James B. Fullerton was toastmaster of the meeting and announced that the next and third rally meeting will be held Monday night to start immediately at 6.30 o'clock for an early adjournment in view of the important city meeting to be held at 8 o'clock that evening. He introduced as a speaker Attorney E. Frank Bugbee, who told of the needs of a new hospital and gave his endorsement to the project. Chairman Fullerton welcomed the Andover team which was represented tonight for the first time.

The reports were then made of the various teams through Charles W. Hill, chairman, who also acted in that capacity on behalf of the women's teams, of which Mrs. Christopher C. Chase is chairman and Mrs. Charles W. Tryon is vice chairman.

Chairman George F. Taylor of the memorial committee then presented Charles L. Folsom, of New York, director of the campaign, who read the following announcement: "A lady, neither a resident nor a summer cottager of Willimantic, or its adjoining towns, desires to create in the new hospital a memorial to her father and mother and her grandfather and grandmother. She prefers that heridentity be not disclosed at this time. She is making her gift conditional upon the balance of the objective being raised, and as soon as such balance is subscribed, her gift will go into effect. The amount of such conditional gift is $100,000. The donor expresses the hope that at least one-half of the gift may be used for endowment."

This announcement was greeted with thunderous applause by the several hundred workers present and stands as the largest contribution to date.

The eleven memorials included in the team reports were as follows: Chaplin, Merritt Welch, chairman, one memorial, of $1,500, from Moses Goodwin, in memory of Cora A. Nichols Goodwin; team No. 8, Jeremiah E. Sullivan, captain, two memorials, the Willimantic Lumber and Coal Co., by P. J. Twomey, $1,500 for a ward bed, Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Sullivan, $1,500 for a ward bed; team No. 9, Stanley J. Sumner, captain, one memorial, from the faculty of the Willimantic State Normal school, of $1,500 for a ward bed; team No. 10, William B. Sweeney, captain, one memorial, from Mrs. L. J. Tubridy, of $1,600 for a ward bed in memory of Michael J. Tubridy; team No. 18, Mrs. John Reilly, three memorials, captain, John F. Ahern, $1,200, for a sterilizing room, in honor of Mrs. John F. Ahern, Mr. and Mrs. John F. Carr, $1,500 for a ward bed in memory of John Patrick Carr, Mr. and Mrs. John Reilly, $1,500 for a ward bed in memory of the late Rev. John E. Clark; team No. 19, Mrs. Albert E. Welch, captain, three memorials, E. Frank Bugbee, $12,000, for Room 121 in memory of Edwin Bugbee; E. Frank Bugbee, $12,000 for an operating room in memory of Sarah Preston Bugbee; Dr. Edward J. Ottenheimer, $3,600, for Memorial Room 311.

In the individual team races the team captained by J. E. Sullivan maintained the lead which it established on the first meeting night, Wednesday, and in the women's division the team headed by Mrs. Albert E. Welch took the leadership away from that captained by Mrs. John Reilly with a wide majority in the amount of memorials and a lead of several hundred dollars in subscriptions other than memoriols. An announcement was made by the Hampton committee, Charles E. Burnham, chairman, that sickness in the team membership and the fact that many of the residents are spending the winter out of town, was cause for a delay in the report from that group. The Chaplin committee, which took the lead of the surrounding town groups Wednesday night, continued to make an excellent showing but gave way to leadership by the Mansfield committee, Richard E. Dodge and A. J. Brundage, co-chairmen.

The women's division paved the way for the men's in totals reporting an amount of about three and one half times the former.

JUDGE FOSS HAS PLAN FOR ORGANIZATION OF JUDGES

(Special to The Bulletin)

WILLIMANTIC, Dec. 5 — Police Court Judge Frank H. Foss of this city today mailed letters of invitation to 120 judges and deputy judges of 60 lower courts in the state to hear a plan of organizing for better understanding for solving problems in police and juvenile ecourt systems, as well as to co-ordinate the methods of administration. The meeting is to be held at the county building in Hartford, Monday, Dec. 15, at 2 p. m., where the commssioners have placed a room at the disposal of the judges.

Judge Foss points out in his letter the fact that there has been a lack of organization of any sort among the lower court judges for several years. The juvenile court system is mentioned as a matter on which group discussions would be helpful. Judge Foss has been studying this organization plan for some time and it has met with the approval of lower court judges, judges of the higher courts and with the administrative officers of the Bureau of Child Welfare. Among those to attend the gathering will be Kenneth L. Messenger and Richard Goodwin of Hartford, members of the Bureau of Child Welfare.

A budget of $6,750 has been drawn up for the First Baptist church for the year and a member-canvass will begin next Sunday to raise the amount with Miss Inex Paton, chairman of the committee. Of the amount $5,600 is for church expenses and $1,150 for benevolences and missions.

A committee consisting of Mrs. Florence Burchnall, chairman, Mrs. Blanche Young, Mrs. Edith Peckham and Mrs. Louise Swanson has been appointed by the auxiliary to James J. Shea post, No. 14, American legion, to make the Christmas plans for the auxiliary. The exact nature of these activities has not been fully detrrmined as yet. Next week the members of the Mansfield and Coventry post and auxiliary will give a play in the local rooms and at the next meeting each member will bring a 10-cent toy which will later be given out. The auxiliary has voted the sum of $25 to the fund for the new Windham Community Memorial hospital. Many members are planning to attend the district meeting in Danielson next Sunday afternoon and to participate in the parade at 3 o'clock.

Azarie and Rose Rivard of this city have purchased from the American Land company a tract of land, comprising two and one-half building lots on Friendship street on so-called Ash street plat. Deeds of the transfer have been filed at the office of the town clerk.

Campaign memberships and donations in the Red Cross drive are still being received in numbers, according to Campaign Chairman James J. Lee. The report will be completed next week.

Prize winners at the military whist given by Gold Star post, No. 1724, Veterans of Foreign wars and auxiliary in the town hall Thursday night were: Mrs. G. Perkins and Arthur Woods, Mrs. A. BIGGER AND BETTER

THE GREAT AMERICAN VALUE

Fine-car distinction and quality in the new Chevrolet Six

Front view of the new Chevrolet Sport Coupe

Again, Chevrolet and General Motors have utilized their combined resources to establish a new and higher standard of value for the American motor car.

The new Chevrolet represents a type of economical transportation that America has long anticipated—a low-priced six styled with such striking talent and good taste, so smartly beautiful and complete in its perfection of detail, so advanced and refined mechanically that you will immediately recognize it as the Great American Value.

This great value is the outcome of four basic Chevrolet advantages: (1) The savings of volume production in nineteen immense, modern plants. (2) The economies which result from great purchasing power. (3) The benefits of continuous research in General Motors laboratories and on the General Motors Proving Ground. And (4) the close association with the Fisher Body Corporation who, this year, have surpassed all their previous achievements in developing bodies of outstanding quality, refinement and value

These basic advantages have made it possible to build a finer car at lower cost. They have enabled Chevrolet to offer a car with a longer wheelbase—greater roominess and comfort—strikingly smarter style—impressive new luxury—more thoroughly satisfactory performance—greater dependability. And to pass on these savings of efficient manufacturing to the buyer in the form of lower prices!

DANIELSON

PROVIDENCE POLICE ARE EFFICIENT, AND HOW!

(Special to The Bulletin)

DANIELSON, Dec. 5—Ask Leonard P. Morrison of this town as to whether the Providence police are efficient! They recovered his stolen car for him and held him up twice for having it as a stolen machine, all within the space of two or three hours late last night and early this morning.

Mr. Morrison left his car parked in a central part of the business section of Providence last night while he went for a cup of coffee. Returning within a very few minutes he found that the car had disappeared. He went to the nearest police station and reported the theft and the information was promptly broadcast. He was still in the police station talking over the matter when a call came in reporting the car recovered at West Warwick, a few miles outside the city, and the capture of two hard looking citizens who were in the machine. With two police inspectors Mr. Morrison hurried down to Warwick to get the men and the car. Arriving back in Providence he remained at the police station while the car thieves were booked and then, at about 1:30 this morning, while heading through Broadway on his way home was summarily halted by a trio of policemen who spotted his registration plates and recognizing the numbers as those of a machine reported to them as stolen refused to believe that it really was his car. Explanations availed him nothing, and he had to turn about and accompany the officers back to headquarters. Having established his identity to their satisfaction he set forth for home again, only to be held up at Olneyville square by another vigilant guardian of the law. His number again had him in a jam. However, this officer after hearing all that Mr. Morrison had to say about the incidents of the night called up headquarters, satisfied himself that Mr. Morrison really had a right to have his own car and with a cheery "good night and good luck," let the wearied Danielson man really get going for home, where he arrived not so many hours before the sun came up this morning.

William "Billie" Schofield, former Killingly high school faculty member and athletic coach, is sitting on top of Connecticut's scholastic football pile, having brought his Crisby (Waterbury) high school team through an undefeated season to win the mythical state championship. Never before has a Crosby high school football team achieved this distinction. The team had a hard schedule, too, playing two Hartford high teams, Bridgeport high, Wilby high and others, including the redoutable Naugatuck high team, the hardest and highest hurdle Crosby had to negotiate. Coach Schofield's friends here are indeed elated over his success.

Not Bad at All!

Business bad? Not at all! You just have to be out there operating to rake in the old shekels. Take the combined business genius of three Danielson youths, for instance. Last summer they bought an old Ford car for 50 cents. Yes, the price is right—50 cents. They put it through a few clinics, doctored it up and tuned it up and got it so it would buzz along without complaining too much. Rode around with it all summer, had a heck of a good time, and equally as good a one this fall. Now they have sold it for a tremendous percentage of profit—taking down a total of $3 for the old buggy. Business appears to be O. K. if you know how to make it click. These youths know how!

Silva's Bond Increased

Manuel Silva, Providence youth who gave himself up at the state attorney's office in Putnam Tuesday and who was in the Killingly town court Wednesday morning to answer to a charge of robbery with violence in connection with the raid on the silver-laden truck, was out of Brooklyn jail for a time this morning. He had been in jail in default of a bond of $4,000, fixed here. This morning he was taken out of jail on a bench warrant and brought into the superior court at Putnam. Judge Newell Jennings fixed his bond at $10,000, after setting December 17 as the date for the trial. Not being able to get it, he was brought back to jail.

Named Moriah Lodge Master

Byron F. Barrowclough has been elected master of Moriah lodge of Masons for the ensuing year, the other officers to serve with him being as follows: Senior warden, Homer G. Brown; junior warden, Charles B. Carver; treasurer, Charles S. Bill; secretary, A. M. Thompson; tyler Arthur W. Logee. The appointive offices have been filled as follows: Senior deacon, Arthur F. Bruton; junior deacon, Walter H. Evans; senior steward, Henry G. Gilbert; junior steward, Hubert Taylor; chaplain, Harry Brearley; marshal, R. W. E. L. Darbie. Howard S. Franklin, retiring master, was named a member of the executive committee for three years. The other members of this committee are Frank E. Kennedy and E. L. Darbie.

Lieut. Anthony L. Sunderland, attached to the Service battery of the 192nd field artillery stationed here, has been appointed by Governor-elect Wilbur Cross to be a member of his military staff. As an aide-de-camp Lieut. Sunderland will have the rank of colonel. Lieut. Sunderland happens to be the democratic mayor of Danbury and was a candidate for comptroller on the democratic ticket in the state election of last month. His brother officers here and the members of the local battery are pleased at the recognition he has received from the governor-elect.

W. R. C. Officers Elected

Newly elected officers of McGregor corps, W. R. C., are: Miss Lillian E. Bailey, president; senior vice-president, Catherine A. Piuze; junior vice-president Mrs. Fannie F. Brown; treasurer, Mrs. Hattie R. Bailey; chaplain Mrs. Ida F. Thomas; treasurer, Mrs Hattie R. Bailey; conductor, Mrs Flora E. Kennedy; guard, Mrs. Lillie Robertson; first delegate to department convention, Mrs. Ella C. Mills; second delegate, Mrs. Catherine A Piuze; first alternate, Mrs. Eva B. Shoales; second alternate, Mrs. Sarah A. Holley.

Mrs. May Saylee, who was president of the corps the past year, will entertain those who served with her as officers during the past year at her home next Monday afternoon.

Arrested on Forgery Charge

State Officer Lionel Poirier was on his way back to Danielson from Allentown, Pa., today bringing Ralph S. Long as a prisoner. Long will be in court here, probably on Saturday, to answer to a charge of forgery. The complaint will set forth that Long forged orders on banks, using the name of George E. Paine of the Green Hollow road, to get away with $1,250 of Mr. Paine's money.

Earl Bragg, Central Village, has been appointed sales manager of the Larkin Reed company, the only industry of its kind doing business in eastern Connecticut. Mr. Bragg, identified with the sales end of the woolen business in New York for a period of years, has a wide acquaintance among mill men. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Bragg of Central Village.

Married in Ware, Mass.

Announcement is made of the marriage in Ware, Mass., on Thanksgiving day of Miss Nora Bator, who lives here but whose parental home is in Ware, and Anthony Tombar, also of Danielson. Miss Celia Tombar, sister of the groom, was maid of honor and there were five bridesmaides. John Bator, brother of the groom, was best man.

The annual senior clas play, an event in the activities of the school each year, was capably presented this evening in the auditorium of Killingly high school. The title of the play was The Meanest Man in the World. The cast was made up of Gerard Gorman, Ruth King, Andreas Haveles, Arthur Cooper, Helen Schroll, Ruth Albro, Morrison Ennis, George Ingalls, George Seaver, Vincent Dvarcas, Isabelle Abbott and Eldridge Parker. The plot had to do with real estate and oil field problems, with a proper mixture of romance to make it such a pleasing affair.

Rev. Charles A. Downs of Goodyear was the speaker this evening at the meeting of the Westfield Men's club at the Congregational church.

Amazing sale of ladies' hats: $10 models reduced to $3, the $7.50 styles to $2.00, the $5 styles to $1.00 at the Georgie Hat Shoppe.—Adv.

CONTRACTOR HIT BY AUTO SUSTAINS SLIGHT HURTS

(Special to The Bulletin)

PUTNAM, Dec. 5.—Joseph Long, 70, of Leominster, Mass., contractor in charge of the water system reconstruction work, was injured tonight when struck by an automobile operated by Edwin Lowry of Eden street. Long was taken to the Day Kimball hospital in an ambulance, where an examination revealed that he had suffered no fractures, as was at first thought. His injuries consisted merely of slight bruises and shock. Mr. Long was crossing the street at the intersection of Front and South Main streets and was struck when in the center of the highway. Lowry was not arrested.

CASE OF FORMER MOOSUP TREAS. CONTINUED TO TUESDAY, DEC. 16

(Special to The Bulletin)

PUTNAM, Dec. 5.—Lewis A. Hoar, former treasurer of the Moosup Bank and Trust company, who was taken into custody this morning by Deputy Sheriff Lester H. Blish of Willimantic, appeared before Judge Newell Jennings at a criminal session of the superior court here today and was read a complaint prepared by State Attorney Howard C. Bradford, which contained three counts, one of perjury in filing a certain report to the office of the state bank commissioner, and two counts alluding to his alleged practice of violating state statutes pertaining to the making of excessive loans to individuals. The banker was without counsel and entered pleas of not guilty to all three charges and elected trial by court. Hoar, who is at liberty under bonds of $2,000, will appear for trial at the convened session of court to be held in Willimantic on Tuesday, Dec. 16th. This afternoon he engaged Attorney Irving H. Miron of this city to defend him. Hoar's Willimantic arraignment will be made on a bench warrant.

The complaint of the state attorney, which is quite lengthy, in no part makes any allusion whatever to Hoar having made any personal gain through his excessive and unauthorized loans. The document in the first count charging perjury alleges that Mr. Hoar on October 8, while he was treasurer of the Moosup bank, "did wilfully and corruptly swear to as true a certain report to the bank commissioner, which report was verified by his oath as such treasurer as required by law, and which purported to exhibit in detail and under appropriate heads the resources and liabilities of the Moosup Trust company at the close of business on the 24th day of September, 1930, and which form on the fourth page thereof called for the listing of all loans exceeding the limit of liability of any one borrower prescribed by Section 3921 (now 3900) of general statutes: that said report listed no loans made in contravention of said statute, whereas in truth and in fact on said September 24th, 1930, there were three loans made by said Moosup Trust company which exceeded the limits set by said last mentioned statute, to wit, a loan of $9,695.48 to Andrew L. Tackus of Hartford, Connecticut, and a loan of $15,000 to P. S. Massicot, agent, of said town of Plainfield, all of which was then well known to the said Lewis A. Hoar and was material matter as part of said report required by law as aforesaid,

"Against the peace and contrary to the form of statute in such case made and provided."

The second count in part reads as follows: "On the 23rd day of October, 1930, the said Lewis A. Hoar of the town of Plainfield, being then treasurer of the Moosup Trust company, in said town of Plainfield, which had paid in capital stock of $50,000, a surplus of $25,000, and undivided profits and reserves of $10,552.26 making a total of $85,552.26, was responsible in his official capacity for a violation of Section 3900 of the general statutes of this state, in this, that he, the said Lewis A. Hoar, acting as such treasurer had theretofore loaned to Edward Bilodeau of the said town of Plainfield, the sum of $32,811.65, evidenced by three promissory notes signed by the said Edward Bilodeau, of $2,349.40, $24,444.75 and $6,017.50, respectively, which said notes were secured by collateral then of a total market value of $14,524.76, said $32,811.65, the liability of said Edward Bilodeau to said Moosup Trust company as evidenced by his said notes being in excess of twenty percentum of said $85,552.26, the amount of its capital stock actually paid in on its surplus and undivided profits combined."

The attorney for the state further informed that: "On the 23rd day of October, 1930, the said Lewis A. Hoar, at said town of Plainfield, he being then the treasurer of the Moosup Trust company, a bank and trust company organized and existing under the laws of the state of Connecticut and located at the village of Moosup, in said town of Plainfield, which on said day had a paid in capital stock of $50,000, a surplus of $25,000 and undivided profits and reserves of $10,552.26, making a total of $85,552.26, was responsbile in his said official capacity for a violation of Section 3900 of the general statutes of this state, in this, that he, the said Lewis A. Hoar, acting as such treasurer, had theretofore loaned to Andrew L. Tackus of Hartford, Connecticut the sum of $9,695.48, evidenced by two promissory notes signed by the said Andrew L. Tackus of $9,195.48 and $500 respectively, said $9,695.48, the liability of said Andrew L. Tackus to said Moosup Trust company as evidenced by his said notes being in excess of ten per centum of said $85,552.26, the amount of its capital stock actually paid in and its surplus and undivided profits combined."

After being put to plea, Hoar furnished bonds for his release, hurriedly left the court room and conferred with Attorney Miron whom he later retained as counsel.

Although a front page story appearing in The Bulletin this morning assured depositors of the Moosup bank that the institution is solvent, additional surety to substantiate this statement was received tonight when it was learned from an absolutely reliable and unquestionable source that shrinkage in assets incurred by excessive loans has been fully covered to the very last dollar.

FIGURE IN WHITE SAID TO HAUNT ANCIENT CEMETERY

It is not a common occurrence for any considerable number of men to make a voluntary visit to a graveyard. But in the interest of unraveling a baffling mystery that has been the cause for considerable speculation here of late, four of the borough's bravest did just that thing one night last week. The burying ground in question is situated on the old Hope Valley road, somewhere down below Escoheag hill. One night in the early fall a Jewett City woman, in company with her brother, was driving up from over the Rhode Island line. This cemetery is at a point where two roads meet, with one running off sharply in a northerly direction. As the automobile came down the hill beyond the yard and turned to make the Jewett City road, the beam from the headlights swept across the white headstones and distant long gray walls. Sitting on the edge of one of the larger of the crumbling markers, as the lower boundary came into the field of light, the form of a woman dressed in white was plainly seen by both occupants of the car. Within the next two days, other reports began to come in, when two other persons saw the seeming reality of a female figure bent with age, standing by the graveyard gates. Quite recently a party of local men returning from a fishing trip, came through this section in the daytime. Stopping to investigate, everything about the ancient cemetery was found to be normal, with no evidence other than that the regular tenants were resting in peace. Now, the old lady has appeared again, with two stories coming to light. First, people living nearby have heard pistol shots, with some believing that a passing motor driver took a snapshot at the ancient apparation, as his machine drove around the bend. It is also reported that sleeping within this quiet enclosure there are a number of old captains, long home from the sea. This report is further to the effect that among these sea-faring men there are two, who in due course of legitimate succession, married the same woman. Even now, as happenings seemed to prove, though more than a century has passed, this dim form, clad in robes of spotless white, comes to this deserted graveyard, and appears to look around a bit, doubtless to learn how things are going with her partners of the tide.

Of the party of four, who now have cleared up the mystery, not much can be learned; they are keeping mum. Yet parts of their aliases have leaked out. The quartette, who may be identified by some of the knowing ones, are said to answer to "Bud," "Hitch," "George" and "Bill." The last week's visit was made at night, the four horsemen were armed to the teeth, and as the big Lizzie rounded into the curve, and the old monuments and moss-grown markers swung into the field of the spotlight, sure enough, there lay the old lady alongside the outer wall. Numbers inspire confidence. The four approached, to find a most ingeniously constructed figure, plastered with asbestos boiler covering. Made partly of tin with cross braces of wood, when sitting on the wall in a headlight's gleam, the illusion was perfect. Two bullet holes in the frame proved that the aim of the passing motorist was true.

First Mishap on Viaduct

Accident No. 1 for the new viaduct occurred at a few minutes after 5, Friday evening, when Le Roy Ford, driving Dufresne's delivery truck, collided with a Pontiac sedan which was being driven by William Winter. Officer Henry Vegiard checked up on the mix-up, the damage to the cars being considerable. Both men carry motor vehicle insurance and as they agreed to settle the matter between themselves the officer made no arrests. The accident occurred at the head of

PUTNAM

CAPTAIN McGARRY ON GOV.'S MILITARY STAFF

(Special to The Bulletin)

PUTNAM, Dec. 5.—Included in the list of military staff appointments announced today by Governor-elect Wilbur L. Cross is the name of Captain John J. McGarry, of this city, commanding officer of the headquarters company, 43rd division, C. N. G., who, on January 7th when Dean Cross takes the oath of office, will become an aide de camp to the chief executive and will acquire the rank of major. Captain McGarry, however, still holds his rank of captain and commandant of the local military outfit. As aide de camp, Major McGarry will serve in his new capacity on special occasions at the direction of Governor Cross.

Major McGarry is well known here in Putnam where he is engaged in business. He has served two terms as mayor and previous to incumbency in this position served in the common council.

NORWICH PRIEST RECEIVES MENTION IN CATH. HISTORY

(Special to The Bulletin)

PUTNAM, Dec. 5.—Copies of the recently published history, "The Catholic Church of Connecticut," written by Rt. Rev. Thomas S. Duggan, D. D., vicar general of the diocese of Hartford, are being received and read with much interest by Putnam Catholics. The history reveals the growth of Catholicism in Connecticut from the period of colonization to the present day. The book of 600 pages is divided into two periods—missionary and parochial. The missionary period concerns the diocese at large and the parochial the individual parishes. Much information, arranged in orderly form, chapters, subdivided and indexed, is offered in the volume in condensed and readable form. While the history confines itself to the activities of Catholic fathers rather than to the flock, the book will appeal to all Catholics alike, by virtue of its store of information.

One of the most interesting chapters in the book concerns itself with the activities of members of the Catholic priesthood in fields other than religion. In this chapter reference is made to priests who figured in journalistic fields and mention is made of Rev. George J. Donahue, pastor of St. Mary's Memorial church in Norwich and former pastor of Holy Trinity church, Pomfret, who is described by Monsignor Duggan as "an artist with words." Before his ordination Rev. Fr. Donohue was engaged in newspaper work and since receiving holy orders he has been a frequent contributor to Catholic periodicals and has successfully turned his hand to the writing of books. Three works have been published, the best known being his "Cardinal Newman." A fourth book which Father Donahue has recently completed will be published soon.

Contrary to statements which have appeared in certain newspapers of the state, the discontinuance of the textile department as a day school training program is of no particular indication of a changed economic aspect in Putnam, according to Director H. H. Ellis of the trade school, who states that editors of responsible newspapers have no authority for such statements concerning the discontinuance of the day-time textile course as have appeared. While evening school enrollment in the textiles has always been quite satisfactory the day classes were never commensurate with the amount of effort and facilities expended for the purpose since the department was organized in 1915.

Over a period of eleven years the textile enrollment figures for the month of September were as follows: 1917, 1; 1918, 4; 1919, 2; 1920, 6; 1921, 2; 1922, 5; 1923, 2; 1924, 1; 1925, 4; 1926, 2; 1927, 4; 1928, 3, making an average for the eleven years of 3 3-11ths.

It was felt that after this period of time when every effort and avenue had been explored in order to popularize textiles as a trade opportunity that it was time to make some definite readjustment of the situation.

Arrangements will probably be made to continue evening classes in textile instruction for the benefit of those locally employed who are interested in self-improvement and particularly to cooperate with the silk industries recently established in Putnam. A course in aircraft is to replace the day textile training program. Arrangements for its institution are being formulated at the present time.

TWENTY-ONE ALIENS ADMITTED TO CITIZENSHIP

(Special to The Bulletin)

PUTNAM, Dec. 5.— During a naturalization session of superior court in session here today and presided over by Judge Newell Jennings of Bristol, 21 aliens were admitted to citizenship in the United States of America, the applications of three others were dismissed for various reasons while the cases of 11 petitioners for citizenship rights were continued for further study, absence of witnesses, and actual absence of the petitioner.

Those admitted to citizenship were Axel Fritz Soderberg, Sweden; Ovid Guimont, Great Britain; Bortolomeo Lippiello, Italy; Seconda Rovero, Italy; Gemel Talha, Albania; Dionisie Becea, Albania; Elvy Maria Gusrafson Swanson, Sweden; Ellen Driscoll, Great Britain; Helen Hagerman Chase, Great Britain; Matthew Ranta, Finland; Apostole Panu, Albania; Anner Peterson Kallgren, Sweden; Paul Emile Noiseux, Great Britain; August Bertril Sundstrom, Sweden; Jahja Myrteza, Albania; Mike Kurtis Serbs, Croats and Slovenes; Johanna Supina, Czechoslovakia; Gerard Morissette, Great Britain; Antonio Alassi and Luciano Maisolisi, of Italy were admitted on soldier petitions.

SILVA CASE CONTINUED TO TUESDAY, DEC. 16TH

(Special to The Bulletin)

PUTNAM, Dec. 5.— Manuel Silva, South Killingly silver bandit, who was arrested in this city Wednesday following his surrender by pre-arrangement to State's Attorney Howard C. Bradford was arraigned before Judge Newell Jennings in superior court in this city today on a charge of robbery with violence. His appearance was secured on a bench warrant.

Silva pleaded not guilty and elected trial by the court. Judge Jennings granted a continuance in the case until Tuesday, Dec. 16, when the bandit will be brought to trial in Willimantic. Unable to raise bonds of $10,000 to secure his release, Silva was returned to the county jail in Brooklyn to await trial.

Although his attorney is Michael Pedro of Providence, the hold-up man was represented by Public Defender Harry E. Back of Danielson, since Pedro, because of alleged malpractice, is officially under ban in Connecticut courts presided over by Judge Jennings.

Mrs. Arthur S. Macdonald of Prospect street and daughter, Miss Kay, left Thursday for Sydney, Nova Scotia, being called there by the death of Mrs. Macdonald's father, Alexander Cameron.

The condition of Myron Perry, son of Mrs. Edith Perry of Grove street, who is a patient at the Day Kimball hospital suffering with encephelitis, was reported as considerably improved today.

Exhaust gases from automobiles contain from 4 to 10 per cent, of carbon monoxide gas, which is so dangerous when inhaled in a closed space.

INDIVIDUAL RADIO SETS

When a professor in a New York university puts forth the statement that the greatest need at the present time is one-man radio, he may be trying to eclipse the assertion by Thomas Marshall that the greatest need is a good five-cent cigar. Possibly he considers that that demand has been met by this time and recognizes a real up-to-date requirement.

Not only in connection with the abatement of needless noise, but where no such movement has been instigated, there are plenty who have voiced their objection against the loud speaker. They are not necessarily opposed to the radio, but they do not believe that the immediate neighborhood to every radio should be forced to listen to all kinds of music and lectures, political talks and seasonal sports, whether they happen to be interested in them or not. They take the view that radio owners have a perfect right to such entertainment as they desire, but they do not acknowledge that those radio owners are justified in forcing such programmes upon everybody within hearing distance. They do not believe that it is necessary for the pleasure of the radio owners, and they insist that they are jarred rather than pleased thereby. They maintain that conditions of that kind constitute a nuisance and more than one city has recognized the wisdom of adopting ordinances to regulate them.

The thought in connection with the one-man radio is that, with small and soft earphones and with the suggested individual sets, it will be possible for each person to listen to what pleases him, to get classical music or jazz, to hear the fights or get a talk on any pet subject without in any way interfering with the pleasure of his neighbors or even the other members of the family. That would protect the sick, cater to the nervous, relieve those who have long suffered annoyance and eliminate friction in the household, and do it without the sacrifice of a second's self-denial on the part of any radio fan. In fact, it seems as if one might carry his radio with him throughout the day and turn it on for his own pleasure and possibly listen to lectures on safety in the highways while actually preparing to cross the street.

Now that the need has been proclaimed to the world it is possible that the professor is prepared to announce that he is about to perfect just such a device.

INACCURACIES CALL FOR MACHINES

Since the election, more than a month ago, Rhode Island has been canvassing the vote. As is customary, it has found that plenty of mistakes have been made. The corrected count does not compare with the report of the election officials. It is not probable that there will be many upsets because of the errors that were made but it is evident that accuracy did not prevail in the election night returns and that upsets might easily be the result under such conditions, especially if the voting was close.

This is a common experience in the state to the east. It is the experience in most states where recounts are made or are ordered. Massachusetts has been discovering some enlightening situations as the result of the recounts which have been taking place there.

Under such circumstances it is only a logical reaction when advocacy springs up to do away with the method of using ballots for voting and substitute in its place voting machines. It is quite evident that such mistakes as are now being revealed after elections could not be made if voting machines were used.

What will result from the efforts that promise to be made in the legislatures of Rhode Island and Massachusetts this winter for legislation providing the use of voting machines is uncertain. Such a move invariably results in efforts to prevent and the authorization of an investigating commission. In no place were voting machines more bitterly fought than in the city of New York and yet, now that they have been installed there and the good results noted, men and horses couldn't remove them. The same sort of a fight is even now being waged in Philadelphia, but that city is due for quite the same awakening that others have experienced.

When it is realized that the mechanical method of voting assures accuracy, the counting of the vote as the voter intends and quick results, while preventing the throwing away of votes through unintentional errors and the quantities of errors that are made by counters, there can be little hesitation over the advisability of replacing the inaccurate and slow method by the certain and quick. It is time both Rhode Island and Massachusetts adopted machines.

EXPLAINING DIRIGIBLE DISASTER

Whether it will be possible to learn anything of a decisive character concerning the cause of the destruction of the R-101 will in time be determined by the court of inquiry which is now engaged in gathering all the facts and opinions bearing upon it. In the interest of aviation and particularly airships of that character it is impossible to allow such a tragedy to go without weighing every possible fact that may have had a bearing upon it, and from all indications that is being done.

When Dr. Hugo Eckener was called to give his opinion concerning the wreck it was apparent that he had no direct or indirect connection with the flight of the ship, but he is recognized as one of the leading experts concerning Zeppelins and his opinion is valued. According to the view that he takes of the affair as it is disclosed to him, there was a leakage of gas in the forward containers. When this gas escaped at the rear there was explanation for the decreased buoyancy and the dipping of the bow. As the gas escaped and the crew tried to get the ship back on a level keel there was a probable increase in the tears, more gas belched out and all that was necessary was an electric spark to ignite it and all was over.

Everyone knows the outcome of that attempted flight to India. There was no secret about there being an explosion and the destruction of the dirigible with much loss of life. The puzzle over which the court of inquiry is working is to determine what brought about the conditions prior to the explosion. Dr. Eckener has given his opinion of what caused the trouble. It is plausible. Others will advance views in keeping with such study as they have made of the known facts and out of the mass of evidence it may be possible to arrive at some answer to the enigma, or come reasonably close to it.

Certainly Dr. Eckener is one whose opinion cannot be ignored. He knows such ships, their weaknesses and the meaning of conditions which exist in handling them. His explanation brings to attention, of course, the protection that would have been afforded that big dirigible had it been filled with helium instead of the explosive gas which it carried. That wasn't the point Dr. Eckener was making, but it is an inescapable observation in the light of his opinion.

GET IT STARTED

When President Hoover urged upon congress the appropriation of a sum not to exceed $150,000,000 for the purpose of relieving unemployment he set forth that such expenditure should be carried out as early as possible and that, in order to get the necessary benefit, it should be applied to projects to which congress has given approval and therefore overcome long debate concerning the expenditure.

He has since given to congress a detailed plan of how the money should be used and has advised the leaving of such expenditures to a committee made up of cabinet members who are familiar with the work to be done and are prepared to see that it goes ahead as it should.

It is quite evident that if such a sum is going to have any beneficial effect upon the unemployment situation it must be put to work without delay. If there is to be discussion, possibly hearings, relative to new propositions it is quite evident that it will be weeks and months from now before anything is undertaken. That will simply mean that the expenditure will have no effect upon the present-day situation, and it is that which needs attention now.

If there is to be a political contest over where the money is to be spent and who is to spend it, there will not be much relief for emergency conditions. It isn't a political gesture that the president is making. He has set forth a definite programme, one that aims at real and early accomplishment, and if congress is half as ready to meet the situation as it pretends to be it will let the situation get double benefit from the proposed relief by giving its approval quickly. It is not a time to lay stress on filling a pork barrel.

CHANGING PREMIERS

Indications point to the fact that it is not because of serious conditions in France that a vote of confidence has been denied Premier Tardieu. On a number of measures he has been encountering rather stiff opposition, indicating the probability that at no distant date he might fail of support. That day came and though by a small margin he failed to get the necessary votes it was in regard to such a matter that he considered his resignation was necessary and it was proffered. Personal rather than economic conditions weighed against him. It represents the development of one of those situations which comes from time to time in French government when changes have to take place.

Tardieu by no means leaves a bad record behind him. He has remained in the premiership longer than many were willing to admit he would at the time he was chosen, and the fact that he was not able to command a confidence vote this week doesn't mean that he may not be called upon again in the near future to try to form a cabinet.

For the present attention is centered upon his successor. It is a case of getting ability and experience, a man whose leadership will get the support of the necessary political elements in France and whose policies are known to coincide with French needs. At such a time there are always those who have held such office whose names are promptly suggested. This is because of their fitness for the office and their grasp of the essential details of government in connection with prevailing conditions.

Poincare's name seems to lead all the others as speculation is indulged in concerning the new premier. If this means anything it means that he could at this time command the confidence that a premier must get. He is no novice at the job and but for the state of his health there might be little question over his acceptance of a call to the premiership.

EDITORIAL NOTES

While the U. S. bureau of biological survey reports a decrease in grizzly bears, the opposite seems to be the case in regard to the Wall street variety.

The man on the corner says: Barnum said a sucker was born every day. It takes an increased birthrate to satisfy the demand for gullibles these days.

If congress sees fit to fix the first class postage rate as two and a half cents it will probably be necessary to buy the new stamps in quantities, the same as is now done with the one and a half cent stamps.

THE MAN WHO TALKS

It is perfectly amazing how many fields of activity, totally unrelated, that science enters today. Some of these fields 100 years ago and less would have seemed unworthy of anything so stately and dignified as science. Even in these days of utility we think of science as working in the celestial hemisphere measuring the stars and telling us of the component elements they are made of. But within the last half century it has become more practical and deals with foodstuffs and other things of material value to man. For instance, in the great factories where cereals are manufactured the chemical department is of inestimable value. Science discovers and makes valuable those qualities of food that supply the human body with those ingredients that are necessary for a full and well-rounded general development of the human body.

Having spoken along the line of production in relation to the application of the principles of science, the writer now ventures to raise a laugh among the wiseacres who may scan these items (and there are times and seasons when it does one good to have a hearty laugh, so here goes): One of the most amazing application of the principles of science is in the better raising of turkeys. It may be that some who laugh at this absurd (?) idea may not have been informed of the fact that those who raise turkeys have been wondering why they have been gradually losing their rich flavor which they once had. Science gripped the problem and found out. It is because their little dainty feet (not the farmer's feet but the turkey's) come into contact with the cold, wet ground! The up-to-date turkey raiser has a wire floor several inches from the ground and the turkeys do not come in contact with the ground. All this may be foolish, but the old flavor has come back.

The old saying that "man learns from experience" needs to have after it an interrogation mark, because in so many instances it raises a question. It is doubtless true that many ignorant but honest men do learn from experience, and also many people of character and ability. But so many in all the walks of life, both high and low, rich and poor, ignorant and educated do not learn from experience, that it raises the question which of the two forms the exception; those that do form the exception belong as largely to the one class as the other. Just a concrete illustration from the lower ranks of life: Up in Windham county, an ignorant farm hand was arrested for driving when drunk. He could not pay the fine and was jailed. The second day after his release he was arrested for repeating the crime. Had experience much to do with it?

Now you may be inclined to say in relation to the above, "What an idiot!" How could he expect to get away with it? But wait a moment, what do you read every day in your papers about the big rascals who occupy high positions in the city government of New York who have gotten into places of trust that are very lucrative through bribery. It has been brought out in court that men make it a business of selling the political plums, among which are judgeships. Now these men do not come from the ignoramus ranks. They have been familiar figures in Columbia, Yale, Harvard and other universities. Have these men never heard of what happened to Boss Tweed and his gang of pirates years ago? New York is not easily aroused, but it is terrible when it is.

This brings us back to our original inquiry: Do men learn from experience, or from knowledge? The answer must be that some do and some do not, and the question of intellectual ability has very little to do with it. The main difference is that the educated rascal works the higher and more lucrative forms of depravity, while the poor ignorant devil confines himself to minor crimes urged on, in most cases, by poor bootleg whiskey. Where a man is lacking in moral fiber it makes very little difference as far as learning from experience and observation is concerned whether he is buying a judgship or running an automobile while under the influence of rum. In either case whether a man is able and educated or is poor and ignorant, he needs something more than self can originate to keep him from moral wreckage.

The thinking man could hardly fail to have been impressed with the magnitude of the Thanksgiving spirit and effort to relieve all suffering as far as possible. Never in the entire history of our country has there ever been a more generous and spontaneous outpouring of money and good will to alleviate suffering than at the very recent Thanksgiving season. The far reaching effect of this nation-wide attempt "to feed the hungry, and clothe the poor" cannot be measured by any material yardstick. Never has our wealth been invested in better paying dividends than that which was spent to better the condition of the great army of the unemployed. Our greatest assets are not our stocks and bonds, or our silver and gold, but our boys and girls, our men and women. A nation that has money but feeble men and women is poor. It is the strong man and not the fat pocket book that makes a nation.

One is compelled to confess that the Christian is not always consistent, but it is hardly fair to call him hypocritical because he falls short of the ideal that is set before him in the New Testament. The cynic says that if Christianity is what is purports to be and the individual Christian really believes it, how can he ever "be down in the dumps?" Now the cynic ought to remember that the Bible nowhere teaches that accepting the principles of Christianity and trying to live according to them means immunity from pain, suffering, sorrow and the other ills of life. It does, however, mean that whenever these ills attack the soul there is something in a man's faith that keeps him from being crushed. The Christian in trouble feels that the Master meant what He said: "I will never leave thee nor forsake thee." This attitude towards trials createst an atmosphere that gives a moral fiber to the suffering believer.

Right after Thanksgiving we were having our first touch of real winter. It was that quality of cold that gave a glow to the cheek and made the young school boys clap their hands over their ears. It brought to mind dear old Thoreau and what he said about winter. Listen to this sage of a past generation: "In winter, I am not satisfied with ordinary windows. I must have a true skylight, and that is outside the village. The man I meet with is not often so instructive as the silence he breaks. This stillness, solitude, wildness of nature is a kind of boneset to my intellect. This is what I go out to seek. It is as if I always met in those places some grand, serene, immortal, infinitely encouraging, though invisible, companion and walked with him. There at last my nerves are steadied, my senses and my mind do their office in the cool of winter."

T. B. BLACKSTONE, CREATOR OF C. & A. R. R., WAS BROTHER AND HUSBAND OF NORWICH RESIDENTS

It was undoubtedly the personal influence as well as the family connections of Timothy B. Blackstone, builder and first president of the Chicago and Alton railroad, that led Norwich capitalists to invest continually in the securities of that system, till at last a full third of its entire capital stock was owned locally. That was in the 1870's, when the line's earnings per share were among the largest in the country. Now, 30 years after the builder's death, the road is to be sold at auction, the vendue being set for next Thursday.

Mr. Blackstone was the husband of Isabelle F. Norton and brother of Lorenzo Blackstone, both of this city. On the occasion of his retirement from the presidency of the road, the New Haven Register of March 25, 1899, published the following "life sketch of the president of the Alton, from a Chicago point of view:"

After growing up with the railroad industry of this country, after growing great in its service, President Timothy B. Blackstone of the Chicago and Alton railroad will retire from his office on the first day of the coming month.

For 35 years he has occupied the president's chair. For more than half a century he has been identified with the railroads of the United States. Among those interested in transportation by land he has been a power, a striking character—unique, fearless, brilliant.

There is therefore a note of uncommon sadness in his remark, when told last week that the Alton had been sold, to the effect that he must retire as the road had no further use for him. Somehow it reminds one of an unfilial son, for Timothy B. Blackstone made the Chicago and Alton road, physically and financially. It has been a sturdy son, strong, steady, powerful. It has grown so under the guidance of a single hand. One cannot refrain from wondering how it will answer the bidding of others.

Unique Position in Railroading

In many ways President Blackstone is the most unique character on the railroad stage today. He knew the transportation problem from axiom to corollary. He has grown up with the railroads of the United States. He helped to build some of the very first of them. He has watched their every development. He has studied them through every stage of their evolution.

He has been a thinker—deep, careful and along unbeaten lines—of the railroad problem. He has been free of speech and prolific in pamphlets and treatises concerning unusual phases of the transportation subject. These things have made him great in the railroad and financial worlds, and they have made him unique. They have introduced him to the thinking world, and they have caused thinkers to think more deeply, students to study further.

Below those characteristics which have made Mr. Blackstone powerful and great in the world of transportation and finance are those which have endeared him in the hearts of those who know him in his private life. Generous, kindly, sympathetic, ever ready to answer a genuine cry of distress, strong in his friendships, of sterling honesty, firm of purpose, he has won much more than respect from his fellow men.

During the last few weeks, when the talk of the sale of the Alton road has been incessant, nearly 1,000 widows and orphans, owners of stock in the road, have leaned upon him for advice. Because these people had their money safely invested, and because he knew of no other investment for them as secure, as safe and as remunerative, he fought the transfer of the stock. Through all the dealings he insisted that all shareholders should be treated alike, the holder of a single share as the owner of a block and his insistence has protected the thousand of widows and orphans who own Alton shares.

Man of Many Charities

To Mr. Blackstone, Chicago owes more than many persons know. He has been charitable and generous to hundreds who have not been able to tell of his goodness in circles which delight to discuss the merits of men of prominence.

John Crerar was his intimate friend. They lived together in Mr. Blackstone's old-fashioned house on Michigan avenue for twelve years after the great fire. Mr. Crerar designated him as one who should be consulted freely by the executors having charge of the establishment of the Crerar library. To this charge of his dying friend Mr. Blackstone has been true, and Chicago owes him a debt of gratitude.

A little Connecticut town, Branford, where Mr. Blackstone was born nearly 70 years ago, also owes him much. Down there they call him the Hon. Timothy B. Blackstone, for on a magnificent site stands a marble library building costing over half a million dollars. In the hands of the trustees of this library are securities which yield a revenue of over $6,000 a year to be devoted to library purposes. All this was the gift of Mr. Blackstone, in memory of his father.

First President of Stockyards

The great stockyards in this city owe much of their greatness to the fostering care of the president of the Alton. He was the first president of the organization. It was a stripling, like the Alton, when he first took charge of it. He left it a giant.

Mr. Blackstone was in active railroad work when he was 18 years of age. His health failed while at an academy, and he sought work in the open. He became a rodman with a corps of engineers locating the New York & New Haven railroad. When this road was completed it was the first to enter New York city.

In all the United States there was not 100 miles of railroad. Blackstone was anxious to become a railroad builder. He studied engineering in the field. He became an expert. His services were in demand by those mapping out a short line of road in Vermont.

Roswell B. Mason, with whom he began work, permitted him to accept the more responsible work, promising more for him. Mr. Mason came to Illinois as engineer in chief of the Illinois Central, then being constructed.

Young Blackstone was brought to the state to take charge of a division. He located at La Salle, one of the termini of the proposed line. Chicago, then a city of 30,000 people, was to have simply a branch of the new road. Water traffic to La Salle was immense. From there it came north through the canal. Great prophecies were made for LaSalle. Chicago was on a branch of the railroad to be built.

The Illinois Central was completed in 1853. Already other plans were on foot. Mr. Blackstone became the engineer of one of the sections of a system which now unites Chicago and St. Louis. It was constructed from Bloomington to Joliet.

The need of an extension to the north at once was seen, and the Joliet and Chicago was projected. Mr. Blackstone also built that. Later it became the Chicago and Alton and Mr. Blackstone became its president. That was 37 years ago. Since that day the road never has known another president.

Was Large Stockholder in Road

Mr. Blackstone owned a large part of the stock. He stated a few days ago that he had never sold a share. He does not know now that he will.

The ownership of itself has made Mr. Blackstone unique. It has done more. It has caused him to study deeply, to think hard, to grapple with the railroad problem from the standpoint of a railroad owner as well as a railroad employe.

He has produced some of the most startling literature of the railroad work. He it was who first advocated government control of roads and offered a plan of action. He has pointed out the conditions of contracts between the railroads and the state, and has shown how the state has failed to keep its faith. He has watched with careful eye the ever increasing taxation of the state and the ever-increasing burden of the transportation companies. The results of his observation and his study have been embodied from time to time in the annual reports of the Chicago and have created a wide-spread demand for the pamphlets.

Mr. Blackstone lives on Michigan avenue, not far below the auditorium. His home contains stores of books and those things which surround people of education, refinement and means. Here Mr. and Mrs. Blackstone have lived alone for more than a quarter of a century.

The Bulletin of Monday, May 28, 1900, contained this biography of Mr. Blackstone:

A telegram received in this city Saturday announced the death at Chicago of Timothy B. Blackstone, formerly president of the Chicago and Alton Railroad company, and one of the oldest executive officers in the country. He had been in poor health for several months, and death was due to a general breaking down of his system.

Lorenzo Blackstone His Brother

Mr. Blackstone was born in Branford, Conn., 71 years ago, and was a brother of the late Lorenzo Blackstone of this city. He was educated as a civil engineer, and for a number of years followed that profession in this state. He was the first engineer in charge of the layout of the road built by the New York, New Haven and Hartford Railroad company. Soon after the completion of that work he went to Illinois and there became widely interested in railroad matters, building what was later the Chicago and Alton railroad.

As has been truly said, he made the Chicago & Alton railroad, being identified with its growth from the start. He devoted all his time and energy to the development of this system, and being a man of great executive ability and a close student, he made the road one of the best paying transportation lines in the country. He held the office of president for 35 years, retiring as of April 1, 1899.

He was a man of ideas, independent and fearless, yet strictly honorable in all his dealings with others. Generous, sympathetic and kindly in his nature, he gave freely of his means to worthy charities. Several years ago he gave Branford a magnificent public library, and to the city of his adoption his beneficences have been many, although bestowed unostentatiously invariably. He was the first president of the Chicago stockyards, which he lived to see the greatest in the world.

Married Norwich Girl in 1868

Mr. Blackstone married in 1868, Miss Isabelle F. Norton, daughter of the late Henry B. Norton of this city, who survives him. The body will be brought here for burial.

On May 29, 1900, The Bulletin reprinted the following editorials from others papers on Mr. Blackstone's death:

Referring to the death of Timothy B. Blackstone, the Hartford Courant said: "The death of T. B. Blackstone closes the career of another Connecticut boy who acquired a great fortune and showed his love of his early home by benefactions to his native town. Mr. Blackstone was trusted by all who had to do with him, notwithstanding that he was in the railroad business.

"As the head and chief owner of the Chicago & Alton road he resisted the inclination to expand and while other companies were cutting down dividends (and buying up lines built by their own directors) the Alton went right along not 'growing' but earning and paying its dividends. The prophets said that it was bound to trouble, but the stockholders drew their regular income and thought it was better than the prosperity of other roads that yielded nothing.

"So long as Mr. Blackstone's health was vigorous he withstood all attempts to capture his property, but lately, recognizing that his strength was failing, he joined in the surrender that changed the ownership of the company at a price set by the buyers and practically forced upon the minority owners. It was expected that he would not long survive his retirement, and he hasn't."

The New York Evening Post said: "He was 71 years old, and up to within two years was active in managing the Alton's affairs, and as an executive officer he had few equals."

YOUR HEALTH

Mental Depression

By Sanger Brown, II, M. D., Assistant Commission of Mental Hygiene, Albany.

(From Gorgas Memorial Institute)

States of mental depression are common and occur in adults of all ages. One so affected takes little pleasure in anything, and nothing seems worthwhile. Achievement, which ordinarily should bring happiness, appears hollow and worthless. The depression settles down like a cloud and may last for long periods. Fear of some impending trouble and episodes of nervousness may be associated with it, and the sufferer feels that he may lose all self-control. The anxiety is often worse at night, and sleeplessness and bad dreams result.

A depressed state of mind does not occur without cause. Occasionally the cause may be quite evident as when a mother broods over the loss of her child, or when there is some underlying physical disorder, depleting vigor and health; but such clear-cut instances of cause and effect are not very common. The real cause is generally in the mental sphere, and people often suffer from mental anxieties and worries which, unassisted, they find difficult to overcome. There may be family difficulties, personal troubles, loss of position, or frustration of long cherished hopes and ambitions, with a final realization that their full achievement is not possible.

Various impulses may accompany a state of depression. Impulses to leave home, to make drastic change, even to end it all, and impulses resulting in drunken sprees and other excesses often occur. Action on such impulses is unwise and does not bring relief. The patient carries his worries and fears with him wherever he goes, and the depression after a debauch is worse than before.

The treatment of depressed states depends upon the underlying causes. When these are of physical nature, improvement in general health brings about mental improvement as well. Mental causes are seldom clearly understood by the patient, and he is much benefited by talking over the entire situation, not once but as often as necessary, with a physician whose experience with many patients gives him an understanding of such conditions. Frequently, persons have distressing problems solved in this way, problems which have troubled them for years out of all proportion to their real importance. The resulting increase in efficiency and happiness is of inestimable value. Needless to say, depressed and nervous persons in their desperation, may become a prey of unscrupulous people who make extravagant promises, but whose treatment is useless if not positively harmful.

The depressed person takes a wise step when he recognizes his condition early and consults his physician. Often the underlying cause may be found to be something physical which can be corrected without much effort and the patient be permitted to resume his normal happy frame of mind.

A Washington Bystander

By KIRKE L. SIMPSON
Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, Dec. 5—Who is Andrew Mellon's best customer at the income tax counter? Is it Henry Ford, or Senator Couzens, maybe; or is it Mellon himself?

It might be. When a fellow can miscalculate a little matter of $72,000, paying Uncle Sam that much too much on his year's personal income, his total payment must be in highly imposing figures.

Overpaid

Anyhow, Mr. Mellon, while playing Santa Claus to other folks and refunding on the eve of Christmas various items of overpayment, came along to the place where he had to declare a surprise Christmas fund award to himself of that $72,000, or whatever it was.

That would be quite a little windfall to most folks, particularly with the Christmas shopping list to be considered. Probably Mr. Mellon never thought about it at all.

Mr. Mellon seems to have a way of overpaying his income taxes. He has done it before, several times. The newspaper boys around the treasury recall that some years ago he got a much bigger refund.

When the list came out the appearance of his name caused a hubbub in congress. There was quite a verbal uproar, duly reported, of course, and it got to Mr. Mellon's ears.

Forgotten

He sent for the internal revenue commissioner, the chap directly in charge of gathering income taxes from pained customers.

"Did I get this refund they are talking about?" he is supposed to have asked.

As the commissioner didn't know, they had to go a bit down the line and call in a treasury official who did. Mr. Mellon repeated the question to him.

"Yes, sir," said this efficient lad. "You got $250,369.36" (or whatever the exact amount was).

"Did I, indeed?" said Mr. Mellon, a little surprised. "Hm-m-m-m. I had forgotten it."

Incidentally, one wonders whether Mr. Mellon, being high up among income tax payers, ever allows his natural curiosity as to his rivals for first honors to lead him into looking over the list.

As treasury secretary he has that right. But does he ever exercise it? The Bystander imagines he does not unless some duty of his office requires it.

Yet what fascinating information that list holds. Take 1929 incomes, twenty-four persons paid on incomes of five million or more a year. Their aggregate payments, however, figured an average of ten million a year each.

Stories That Recall Others

Love Lightened Her Burden.

She was not more than eight—she was about six. A passerby saw her carrying the boy across the street and offered to assist her.

"He is much too heavy for you to carry" insisted the friend of childhood. "Let me carry him."

"Oh, no," she protested." He isn't heavy—he's my brother."

This Guy Is a Salesman.

A ring at the door was answered. The visitor was a man who offered for sale an assortment of Christmas cards and work gloves.

"That's a queer combination," remarked the housewife. "Christmas cards and work gloves."

"Yes'm," said the salesman, "but I had a big idea. The gloves I thought would be good for use in shoveling snow. The combination of Christmas cards and snow gloves was a cinch—for both Christmas and snow are coming!"

RESINOL HEALS BABY'S RASH

Doctor Recommended It

"A friend recommended Resinol for a rash which covered my baby's body. I thought that I had better take her to the doctor, however. After examining her the doctor looked up and said, "Have you tried Resinol?" I hadn't so he said, "Try it. I think you will find it is just what you need." I did. Result—my baby is entirely free from skin trouble, rash, or any eruption of any kind. I always keep a jar of Resinol on my baby tray." (Signed)—

SUNDAY MORNING TALK

Seeking And Finding

One of the most powerful illustrations of the fact that a careful attention to the things of the Christ lead to a real knowledge and insight is gained.

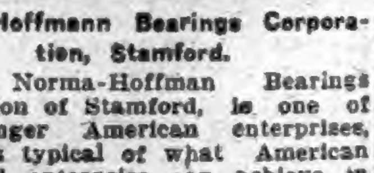
We see this in the life of Henry Martyn. This modern Paul, when a young man, was a scorner of every truth that Christianity presents, and of every obligation which its teachings impose. The solicitude of his family and the advice of friends alike, failed to turn his mind toward the serious affairs of life. When nineteen years old he experienced a severe shock in the death of his father. Hard study, instead of proving a relief, only increased the pain. Partly through the wishes of his friends and partly because it seemed a fitting thing to do, he took up his Bible and began to read it.

The acts of the apostles appealed to him more than any other part. It interested him. He persevered.

He then began to pray and attend the church services which meant more and more to him. Following this line of formal worship, he soon found that the things of the Master held first place in his life. Within the year the indifferent and skeptical Cambridge student was transformed into the earnest, zealous, devoted Martyn whose life of self-sacrificing toil is today one of the most convincing testimonies of the beneficence of Christianity, as exemplified in the men who sincerely accept its teachings, and make them the supreme law of their lives.

Martyn "did the will" of his God and the Christ revealed Himself as He has promised to all those who are obedient.

There are about 1,000,000 teachers in the country, with nearly half that number now in schools preparing to teach.



A HISTORY OF CONNECTICUT INDUSTRY

Released by Manufacturers Association of Connecticut

Norma-Hoffmann Bearings Corporation, Stamford.

The Norma-Hoffman Bearings corporation of Stamford, is one of the younger American enterprises, but it is typical of what American industrial enterprise can achieve in the short space of nineteen years.

In 1911, W. M. Nones, after some years' residence in England as European representative of American machinery manufacturers, established the Norma Company of America to import and sell the "Norma" ball bearing, then made in Europe. The high quality of these bearings soon gained for them a market that taxed the source of import, and as a logical step, an American factory was opened in the Bronx in 1912, operating under the United States patents of the parent concern which had been acquired by the American company. Larger quarters became necessary and in 1919 the company moved to Long Island City.

At about this time, the management secured the American rights in the "Hoffman" roller bearing, made in England, and the name of the company was later changed to Norma-Hoffmann Bearings corporation. By 1924, the growth of the business necessitated larger quarters with opportunity for indefinite expansion. Stamford was selected as the operating site. Its proximity to New York, its good living and manufacturing facilities, and its abundance of good labor were attractive; and the officials declare that later experience has shown these expectations to be well founded. On a tract of land in the Glenbrook section the first few units of a distinctly modern factory were erected, and in 1924 the entire enterprise was moved there.

In the Stamford factory every known refinement of machine equipment, material-treating processes, and production methods have been installed. The product has grown to include not only a complete range of "Norma" ball bearings in both open and closed types, but also a number of sizes in the "Hoffman" roller bearing line. The Stamford plant is so arranged that new buildings and new production units can be added as needed, without necessitating readjustment of the factory as a whole. Ample land is available for expansion. During the present year a considerable addition has been made to buildings to provide for improved facilities and the production of additional lines of both ball bearings and roller bearings.

The Norma-Hoffman plant at Stamford is a highly specialized factory designed and built to manufacture a high-precision product. The business and reputation of the concern has been built around the word "Precision"—to such an extent that "Precision" has become the distinctive name of the company's products, which are nationally known, advertised and sold as "Norma" Precision ball bearings and "Hoffmann" Precision roller bearings. The rapid growth of the company from a modest beginning proves the faith of the founder (now the president) that American machinery manufacturers do recognize the value of high-quality product.

The present officers are: Walter M. Nones, president and treasurer; Odbert P. Wilson, vice president; Samuel Robert, secretary; Harold J. Ritter, assistant secretary.

CHRISTMAS DECORATIONS IN SLATER MEMORIAL MUSEUM

Christmas garlands decorate the Slater Memorial museum. The center of Converse Art gallery this week is a beautiful bas relief of a Madonna by Donatello, framed in ropes of laurel.

The Christmas exhibition is selected from the museum collection of drawings of the old masters. It is years since this choice collection has been publicly shown, and many people in Norwich have never seen the drawings. Some of those exhibited are sketches for the Madonnas and Nativity scenes of Raphael and Botticelli. Others are single figures or detail heads for the larger compositions with which the public are familiar. There are lovely portrait heads by Leonardo and Titian.

These drawings have a joyousness of line that seems to suit the festival season even when the line form is merely the study of a woman's figure with lovely draperies pouring water from a pitcher.

The shelves and table cases in the gallery contain handwork from the Students' guild of the Norwich Art school. Pottery, wood carving, metal work and jewelry are shown.

BRILLIANT PROGRAM BY METROPOLITAN TENOR

George Meader, tenor of the Metropolitan opera, gave the second programme Friday evening in the Slater hall musical course, delighting an audience of appreciative music lovers that made his every appearance the signal for encore numbers.

His singing was effortless and his well-rounded voice was under perfect control, making an admirable instrument for the display of his interpretive ability in his interesting programme. By request, after his first group, he gave as an encore "Comfort Ye" from The Messiah, which made a brilliant addition to the assigned programme. There were encore numbers after each group with a double encore call at the close. The accompaniments by Cellus Dougherty were finely done.

The programme was given as follows:

Where'er You Walk	Handel
Aria, from the Christmas Oratorio	Bach
Mainacht	Brahms
Auf dem See	Brahms
Minnelied	Brahms
Anakreon's Grab	Hugo Wolf
Puisque l'Aube grandit	Faure

TO MAKE PLEDGES AT CENTRAL BAPTIST SERVICE

Loyalty Sunday will be observed at the Central Baptist church tomorrow, especially at the morning service. At that time the Lord's supper will be observed and after the observance the people will present their pledges for missions and current expense for 1931.

According to present plans the boys and girls up to the age of twelve will present their pledges. Then will follow the young people from twelve to twenty-four. Afterwards the adults will make their pledges. The total budget amounts to $26,000. About $5,000 of this will come from trust funds. The rest will be pledged by the people. Of the $21,000 to be given by the people the finance committee recommend that the ratio be two to one; two for current expense and one for missions.

The Central church has a unified budget which includes the church school, the young people and the Woman's league. It raises no money except by direct gift of the people.

The pastor's topic at the morning service will be "Putting Christ On Your Christmas List." In the evening President Burns of the Kentucky mountains will speak.

FRANK DODGE IS CAST IN WORCESTER TECH PLAY

(Special to The Bulletin.)

WORCESTER, Mass., Dec. 5.—Frank F. Dodge, of Norwich, Conn., played the part of the dead man in the skit, "The Moring Mystery," presented tonight by the sophomore class of Worcester Polytechnic institute at the annual tech carnival. Dodge is a member of Theta Upsilon Omega, and prominent in student activities at the college.

Walter C. Phillips, of North Windham, Conn., took a prominent part in the act staged by the freshman class, entitled "A Quiet Scene in a Dormitory Room."

FUNERALS

Mrs. Carson Ingraham

The funeral of Mrs. Carson Ingraham of No. 53 Spring street was held Friday afternoon at 2 o'clock at the parlors of Undertaker George G. Grant, with relatives and friends present. There were a number of beautiful floral tributes. Rev. David A. Pitt, D. D., pastor of the Central Baptist church, officiated at the service and the burial was in Lovett cemetery, Sprague. Rev. Dr. Pitt conducted the committal service.

The bearers were Allan Bogle, Thomas Grimshaw, Adam Heinrich and Albert Bardsley. Mrs. Ingraham, who was 88 years old, died Wednesday at her home on Spring street. She attended the Central Baptist church. Surviving her is a son, Lawrence D. Ingraham and other relatives.

Miss Susie V. Monahan

At 8:30 o'clock Friday morning, the funeral of Miss Susie V. Monahan, daughter of the late Michael and Mary Connell Monahan, was held at the parlors of Hourigan Bros., undertakers, and at 9 o'clock there was a requiem mass at St. Mary's Memorial church. Rev. George J. Donahue was celebrant of the mass. Mrs. M. J. Farrell presided at the organ and at the offertory sang Pie Jesu. Mrs. Farrell sang Our Lady Della Strada as the waiting hymn and played Chopin's Funeral March at the recessional.

The interment was at St. Mary's cemetery and the bearers were John Ready, Joseph W. Hourigan, Daniel Donohue, Edward Reardon, Raymond Gleason and John Gleason. There was a large attendance of relatives and friends and many beautiful floral tributes. Mourners were present from Providence and other places.

OBITUARY

Mrs. Joseph S. Shrimpton

Mrs. Helen Shrimpton, widow of Joseph S. Shrimpton, passed away shortly after noon Friday at her home, No. 112 Boswell avenue, after a lingering illness. She was born in Germany, July 3, 1879, and is survived by one son, William F. Lenoire of 112 Boswell avenue; four brothers, Herman Rother and John Rother of Hewlett, L. I., Amiel and Otto Rother of this city, and two sisters, Mrs. Joseph Daigle of Yantic and Mrs. Alfred Fontaine of Franklin. She also leaves a number of nieces and nephews and in her long residence in this city had made many friends who will deeply feel her loss.

Mrs. Palmer Dunbar.

Mrs. Martha J. Dunbar, 76, wife of Palmer Dunham and a member of one of the most prominent families in Springfield, Mass., is dead in that city. Besides her husband she leaves three sons, Lieutenant Commander Palmer H. Dunbar, Jr., U. S. N., now at New London, Conn.; Malcolm Dunbar, of Boston, and Douglas Dunbar of Springfield; and one daughter, Mrs. Maude Guelpa, of Hasbrouck Heights.

WEDDING

Richardson-Bohera

One of the prettiest weddings of the season was held at the bride's home, No. 14 Starr street, last Saturday when Miss Sophia Bohara, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Bohara was united in marriage with Louis M. Richardson of Philadelphia by Rev. J. F. Lesniak. The bride was beautifully gowned in ivory satin and her veil was of tulle, caught with rose buds. The bride's bouquet was of white roses and lilies of the valley.

The matron of honor, Mrs. Bessie Pillar, wore orchid chiffon and carried a bouquet of pink roses. Miss Barbara Bohara, sister of the bride, wore powder blue satin and carried pink roses. Miss Josephine Pudlo, a bridesmaid, wore a gown of orchid chiffon and carried pink roses. Miss Anna Wildred, a cousin of the bride, another bridesmaid, wore green chiffon and carried pink roses. The ushers were Clifton Lewis of Philadelphia, Walter Boshoroski, Scottie Clesholm and William Burke.

After the ceremony there was a breakfast for about 100 guests. Dietroski's orchestra rendered music during the reception. The bride received many lovely gifts, including cut glass, linen, silverware, a radio and money in gold and checks. The couple left for Philadelphia where they expect to make their home.

PRESENT WATCH TO JUDGE AVERY AT LAWYERS' TESTMONIAL DINNER

Nearly 100 members of the New London County Bar association tendered, Friday night, at Norwich Inn, a testimonial dinner to Justice Christopher L. Avery of Groton, in honor of his elevation to the bench of the supreme court of Connecticut. During the evening Judge Avery was presented a handsome gold wrist watch by the members of the county bar. The barristers present represented many towns in the county. About 7:45 o'clock the following menu was served in the large dining room: Blue points on half shell, olives, hearts of celery, consomme Julienne, whipped cream, Educators, filet of sole or filet mignon with bacon, grilled sweet potatoes, Brussell sprouts, fresh grapefruit salad, whipped cream dressing, French vanilla, chocolate sauce, fancy cakes, demi tasse.

G. C. Morgan Toastmaster

At the close of the menu, Attorney G. Curtis Morgan, of New London, toastmaster, called the assemblage to order. "The New London county bar has met tonight in honor of Judge Christopher L. Avery," he said. And, continuing, "In honoring Judge Avery the New London county bar has done honor to itself. I have counted 84 present tonight to do honor to Judge Avery. In the state of New York the judges are hand picked. After their appointment they take a trip to Europe. On their return they are feted by racketeers and others. In other words, justice is bought and sold.

"In Connecticut judges are appointed through their ability and integrity. The New London county bar has presented many distinguished judges to the state. In the promotion of Judge Avery to the supreme court, the state has lost a great trial judge. Judge Avery has discharged his duties with integrity and ability." Attorney Morgan spoke of Judge Avery as democratic, sociable and affable, yet firm in his convictions. "The address of the evening will be made by a member of this bar," the toastmaster said. "It is not necessary for me to introduce him to you. This member of the bar has known Judge Avery since the time he was a boy—Judge Abel P. Tannar of New London." A hearty burst of applause greeted the announcement of Judge Tannar's name, and all stood in his honor.

Tribute to Justice Avery

In his address, Attorney Tannar spoke as follows:

I am conscious that I have a work before me in appearing, at your call, for so accomplished a client. I will do what I can, and, in any event, I am sure he will have your sympathy.

"Cold law," as he liked to call it, was what Solomon Lucas used to spray juries with, when that fine lawyer was at our bar—cold law and fact. I do not know how cold the law is here, tonight, by the wintry fireside, or how potent are the facts; but, if there is as much law here as the count of legal noses informs us, there ought to be enough to "blow up" the Constitution. This is the largest bar meeting I have attended in this county in 60 years, and I have attended many. There must be close to one hundred of our profession, of all ages and from every quarter. And they come, not as in response to a legal summons, reluctantly, but freely and gladly, to pay their tribute of respect to a distinguished guest. And their presence here in such numbers attests his popularity. They said, in the long ago, that a prophet is without honor in his own country. That is not true of Judge Avery. To that tradition he is an outstanding exception.

The committee behind this function, or some one of the committee, has called this a farewell dinner, conceivably, a kind of last meeting in which, with smiles and tears, we speed the parting guest. I would hardly so entitle it. Farewell is such a dismal word. It is the saddest, perhaps, of all sad words. When we say "Good Night" to a friend, of either sex, it is in the cheerful prospect that, peradventure, we will meet tomorrow. Even when we say "Good-bye" and with a breaking heart, as a cherished form grows dim in our sight, there is the wistful confidence that we shall meet again on some tomorrow. But when he say "Farewell" it suggests a finality beyond which there is no tomorrow. So, let us not call it a farewell dinner, but a complimentary offering to one who, in the allocation of circumstance, has climbed fame's magic stairs. There is regret, to be sure. In the capacity in which he has served, we may not—we shall not see him again; and we shall miss him from the trial bench. I suspect that, as lawyers, we have a choice, sometimes among even Connecticut judges—and we agree that they are the equal of any. But some judges appeal to us more than others; they seem to harmonize with our temperament. And so, while we rejoice at their advancement, we would fain keep them in the trial court. There are such judges here tonight. In fact, it is the only kind we have. Meanwhile, there are other judges from whom "parting is such sweet sorrow." And that may mean nothing against a judge. I will volunteer a confidence. In our career at the bar, especially in the early years before we became real sportsmen, willing to accept the bitter with the sweet, we classified the judiciary—divided it—into good judges and judges not so good. A good judge was one who construed the law as we claimed it. He was an ideal judge. We could say to him in Shakespearean phrase: "It doth appear that you are a worthy judge; you know the law; your exposition hath been most sound." When we came against one who ruled adversely and wrecked our chance of success, we felt the disappointment of a Shylock and, like him, exclaimed, "Is that the law?" And then, if we could have been the supreme court for just a half hour with his ruling before us, "We wouldn't have done a thing to it."

The late Judge Andrews was a humorist; but, like most judges, his decisions were sometimes overruled. One day, following such a ruling, he met Justice Loomis of the supreme court, a man of such gentleness that it grieved him to have to overrule anybody. And Justice Loomis, mindful of what his court had recently done to Judge Andrews, was moved to say apologetically, "We were very sorry that we had to overrule your decision in that case, Judge." "That's all right," says Judge Andrews. "Your court is higher than mine. If my court was higher than yours, I would overrule your decision."

But Judge Avery will not go out from us forever. He will come back to the wigwam. He will come to his ancestors, in the town where he was born and where nine generations of his people have lived. The judge comes of New England stock of colonial vintage. The Averys have been in this country 250 years; and still the name persists. It was numerously borne, in the days of the Revolution. For instance: When Colonel Ledyard assembled his forlorn hope, inside Fort Griswold that fatal September morning, he could barely muster a hundred and fifty volunteers, and a part of them were boys. Yet, of that slender force, there were seventeen of the name of Avery; and they were all kinsmen, and of the lineage of our guest. We know they fought beside their neighbors, for home and country when none of them had a chance; and they fought with a courage that was not excelled at the passes of Thermopolae. When the tragedy was complete and night shadowed the carnage of battle, ultimately, eleven of the seventeen lay dead on the field. So much for the Averys; for the judge is not all Avery.

It is said that strong men, exceptional men, usually have great mothers. It was never my good fortune to know Judge Avery's mother, but I did know some of her people and especially John J. and Belton A. Copp. Doubtless, many here knew the latter as a man who scored in the financial world; but few, I apprehend, recall the figure of John J. Copp. I speak of him in particular, because it was through him that I came to know of Judge Avery earlier, perhaps, than any other member of this bar. And that was more than 30 years ago. John J. Copp was a graduate of Yale college; he was a trained lawyer; and he had a classical education. As an orator, he was in the class with Foster, and Brandegee, and Waller and Hewitt. I first met him in 1873 when I was a junior at Brown, and he was in middle life. The occasion was a large public meeting which we both addressed, though from opposite standpoints, and the subject was world peace. Mr. Copp favored world peace. In his contention he quoted from Benjamin Franklin this phrase: "There never was a good war or a bad peace." I doubt if you have imagination enough to conceive how unpalatable that was to the average congregation of 60 years ago when we had but lately emerged from the Civil war, and everywhere people were imbued with the military spirit. But Mr. Copp had moral courage. He did not hesitate to espouse an unpopular cause if he thought it was right. I, in my callow youth thought he was wrong, and so took the other side. Neither of us dreamed, then, that one, at least, would live to see war indicted as an outlaw by every forward-looking nation, and world peace the coveted goal of mankind. As opposing "cavaliers" we engaged, there and elsewhere, in fierce debate and warm correspondence. Yet, somehow, there developed a mutual liking; so that, later, when years had run between and one was an old man, we could sit down in joyous conversation in the calm afternoon of life. And it was in these conversations that he would be telling me about his nephew, first perhaps when the latter was in college; then in the law school, and, finally, as an accepted member of the bar. He seemed to think the "boy" had in him the making of a great lawyer. Apparently, he was wrapped up in the future of his nephew. About this time I was retained by Mr. Copp to defend against an attempt by a corporation to appropriate some of the Copp land. When the case finally came to trial, the nephew was called in at Mr. Copp's request. Eventually it went to the supreme court and Mr. Avery suggested that he draw the brief. As it involved a lot of work for somebody, I had no objection, and so he drew the brief. When I read it I began to share Mr. Copp's faith in the future of his nephew. I thought a young attorney who could make a brief like that and who had acquitted himself so well in the trial did have in him the making of a great lawyer. Meanwhile, Mr. Avery grew. He developed into a first class trial lawyer. When called to the bench, his services as an advocate were in wide demand. He has had ten years experience as a judge of the superior court, with all that implies. He goes now to the supreme court bench.

The career of a distinguished man is an interesting study; for distinction is a bulletin of success. But what is the secret of success? Many have offered information, from Benjamin Franklin to Henry Ford; and some of it has been good. But has it explained the mystery? We speak of native ability. We say a man has it in him to succeed in a given calling. Mr. Copp thought this of his nephew. We say a man with a normal brain, with education and wisdom, can get almost anything he wants, "other things being equal." There is the trouble—that unknown quantity. Is not life something of a gamble? Do we not have to reckon with chance, with cause and effect, the happy juncture of events? Why did not John J. Copp, himself, write his name in larger type? He had force; he had education; he was brilliant. Perhaps he did not wish to. He would not push himself and, may be, his independence diverted opportunity. Mostly, it was himself. He voluntarily withdrew from the legal profession in which he could have made a success. Public life had no lure; apparently, ambition's fire went out. What, then, is the source of energy? Who puts this power in and turns it on, or turns it off? Who builds this strange machine we call the mind—this power of intellect that takes us up the heights to wealth and fame, or leaves us on the escarpment of the mountain, cold and dead? Who bridges the gulf between failure and success? What is this power that has lived in all the yesterdays and will live through all tomorrows? Is there not in all lives some measure of fatality? We call it chance, or providence, or intelligent design. Shakespeare defined it as the "divinity that shapes our ends."

Judge Avery knows the meaning of distinction as he steps among the gowned figures of Connecticut's highest court. We congratulate him upon his success. But it is not alone as a distinguished man that we appreciate him. We esteem him for what he was before he became distinguished. When he was obscure, even as you and I. We esteem him for his common sense; for his mental equilibrium; for his refreshing courtesy; for his imperturbable good humor; for his democratic spirit; for his freedom from passion and prejudice. Finally, we esteem him as one who will ever hold up the scales of justice, evenpoised.

I will not call him a great lawyer, tonight. Coming from me it would mean nothing to those who know him as well as I. It might be ascribed to the exuberance of the occasion. Again, it may be the great lawyer is still in the making. But I will venture a prediction. For once, I will assume the role of a prophet in my own country, with or without honor. I will make a prediction that will sometime be fulfilled, though I will not be here. But, somewhere, in the future when his work is done; when time shall write "Finis" to the last chapter—we hope the event will be long deferred. We invoke the custom of the ancients and pray he may "come into thee Heaven." But "man is appointed once to live and once to die"; and the grim messenger, that comes to all that is, will sometime come to him. Then, in our Connecticut reports; in that chamber of records where so many of our profession are embalmed, and which is their only Hall of Fame, some chronicler will write the customary article, accenting the high points in the subject's career; and, somewhere in that article, the writer will say, with simple truth, "Judge Avery was a great lawyer."

Judge Brown Speaks

Attorney Morgan then presented Judge Allyn L. Brown of the superior court of Norwich. All stood in honor of Judge Brown, who then addressed the gathering. Judge Brown spoke of several humorous incidents of the court room which brought out the human side of the profession. Judge Brown also told a number of humorous stories of well known barristers. The judge, in closing, paid tribute to the guest of the evening—Judge Avery. Judge Brown was heartily applauded at the close of his remarks.

Presentation Made

Presented by the toastmaster, Attorney Morgan, State's Attorney Arthur M. Brown then presented to Judge Avery, on behalf of the bar, a handsome wrist watch. In making the presentation, State's Attorney Brown paid a glowing tribute to Judge Avery who, in accepting the gift, graciously responded. He said that during the ten years he served on the bench of the superior court he never had an unpleasant experience with any lawyer in the state. "I have a very high regard for the lawyers, not only in New London county, but throughout the state," said the judge. "It has been a pleasure to serve the members of the bar the last ten years," he added. He said he greatly appreciated the gift, and will treasure it. "I thank you all," he said. A toast to Judge Avery and three rousing cheers brought the gathering to a close about 11 o'clock.

The committee on arrangements comprised Attorneys G. Curtis Morgan and Phillip Z. Hankey of New London, and Edmund W. Perkins of this city and Arthur M. Brown of Jewett City, assisted by others.

Those present included: Mrs. Mary Wooster Sutton of Groton, the only woman lawyer engaged in practice in New London county; Leon J. Belsheim, Nathan Belcher, Max Boyer, Harry C. Brogan, A. B. BISHOP SCHOOL HALL FILLED FOR EXHIBITION

The auditorium at Bishop school was more than filled Friday evening with an audience of 275 for the second presentation of the physical education exhibition by the children of the school.

The first grade gave two folk dances with class singing. "Three Bears," was enacted by Charless Pinski as father bear, Mary Plante as mother bear, Louis Ricardino as baby bear. Pamela Brine acted the part of Little Red Riding Hood, with Elizabeth Cook as her mother.

The costumes and head dresses worn by the second grade in their Indian dance were made by the children in the class room.

The girls of the sixth and seventh grades were very attractively dressed as little girls. They exhibited rope jumping in pantomime to the tune of "School Days." By way of contrast the boys of the same grades followed dressed as tramps in the "Oxen Dance."

Ten little fourth grade boys and girls dressed as farmer lads and lassies showed their audience that the Virginia Reel is still danced and enjoyed.

A formal flag drill was presented by part of the fifth grade followed by a polka danced by the rest of the class. The costumes worn in the polka were made by the girls of the "special class."

The special class entertained with three folk dances which were splendidly done.

The third grade of 44 children presented a pretty picture in their blue and white Dutch costumes.

Eight little lassies of the fourth grade danced and sung "Coming Thru the Rye," in little black dresses with white bonnets and caps.

To present the free play in physical education, the fourth grade boys played three vigorous games.

The program closed with a march and drill by the entire sixth and seventh grades. The group marched in to the form of a B and sang the school song.

CHRISTMAS DECORATIONS IN SLATER MEMORIAL MUSEUM

Christmas garlands decorate the Slater Memorial museum. The center of Converse Art gallery this week is a beautiful bas relief of a Madonna by Donatello, framed in ropes of laurel.

The Christmas exhibition is selected from the museum collection of drawings of the old masters. It is years since this choice collection has been publicly shown, and many people in Norwich have never seen the drawings. Some of those exhibited are sketches for the Madonnas and Nativity scenes of Raphael and Botticelli. Others are single figures or detail heads for the larger compositions with which the public are familiar. There are lovely portrait heads by Leonardo and Titian.

These drawings have a joyousness of line that seems to suit the festival season even when the line form is merely the study of a woman's figure with lovely draperies pouring water from a pitcher.

The shelves and table cases in the gallery contain handwork from the Students' guild of the Norwich Art school. Pottery, wood carving, metal work and jewelry are shown.

WHITE CROSS COUNCIL DEFEATS WESTERLY K. OF C.

The Norwich team of White Cross council, No. 13, K. of C., gave their Westerly brothers a beating in another match in a series of pinochle contests at Westerly Friday evening. Norwich rolled up a total of 11,772 as against Westerly's 10,028, the difference being 1,714. J. Tarrant and W. Harrington contributed high score in the night's play with 2,643. The results:

Norwich—Kingsley and Mullins, 1,217; Cronin and W. Shannon, 2437; W. Stott and E. McKay, 2029; J. Burns and D. Mullen, 2026; J. Tarrant and W. Harrington, 2643; T. Driscoll and J. O'Donovan, 1420.

Westerly—C. Murphy and J. Mahon, 2294; J. McCarthy and A. Pucci, 1,422; J. Salimeno and L. Turriel, 1593; G. Gingerella and S. Pignatro, 1746; M. Driscoll and E. Murphy, 1898; W. Bell and G. Larvarino, 1576.

BRILLIANT PROGRAM BY METROPOLITAN TENOR

George Meader, tenor of the Metropolitan opera, gave the second programme Friday evening in the Slater hall musical course, delighting an audience of appreciative music lovers that made his every appearance the signal for encore numbers.

His singing was effortless and his well-rounded voice was under perfect control, making an admirable instrument for the display of his interpretive ability in his interesting programme. By request, after his first group, he gave as an encore "Comfort Ye" from The Messiah, which made a brilliant addition to the assigned programme. There were encore numbers after each group with a double encore call at the close. The accompaniments by Celius Dougherty were finely done.

The programme was given as follows:

Where'er You Walk	Handel
Aria, from the Christmas Oratorio	Bach
Mainacht	Brahms
Auf dem See	Brahms
Minnelied	Brahms
Anakreon's Grab	Hugo Wolf
Puisque l'Aube grandit	Faure

BIBLE CLASS ENJOYED COON SUPPER MENU

The City Bible class of the Central Baptist church had a coon supper for its fall meeting Friday evening at the church, with an attendance of 60 to enjoy the well-served menu. The coons which made the piece de resistance were supplied through Louis Ortmann.

Shepard B. Palmer, president of the class, was toastmaster, introducing Dr. Hugh B. Campbell, who spoke of the possibilities and needs of Uncas-on-Thames, and there were brief remarks by Rev. Dr. David A. Pitt. The singing was led by Frederick J. Maples and the music was by an orchestra led by Joseph S. Adams. The arrangements were in charge of a committee consisting of Harry C. Noyes, Carl W. Brown and Louis Ortmann.

TO MAKE PLEDGES AT CENTRAL BAPTIST SERVICE

Loyalty Sunday will be observed at the Central Baptist church tomorrow, especially at the morning service. At that time the Lord's supper will be observed and after the observance the people will present their pledges for missions and current expense for 1931.

According to present plans the boys and girls up to the age of twelve will present their pledges. Then will follow the young people from twelve to twenty-four. Afterwards the adults will make their pledges. The total budget amounts to $26,000. About $5,000 of this will come from trust funds. The rest will be pledged by the people. Of the $21,000 to be given by the people the finance committee recommend that the ratio be two to one; two for current expense and one for missions.

The Central church has a unified budget which includes the church school, the young people and the Woman's league. It raises no money except by direct gift of the people.

The pastor's topic at the morning service will be "Putting Christ On Your Christmas List." In the evening President Burns of the Kentucky mountains will speak.

WEDDING

Richardson-Bohara

One of the prettiest weddings of the season was held at the bride's home, No. 14 Starr street, last Saturday when Miss Sophia Bohara, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Bohara was united in marriage with Louis M. Richardson of Philadelphia by Rev. J. F. Lesniak. The bride was beautifully gowned in ivory satin and her veil was of tulle, caught with rose buds. The bride's bouquet was of white roses and lilies of the valley.

The matron of honor, Mrs. Bessie Pillar, wore orchid chiffon and carried a bouquet of pink roses. Miss Barbara Bohara, sister of the bride, wore powder blue satin and carried pink roses. Miss Josephine Pudlo, a bridesmaid, wore a gown of orchid chiffon and carried pink roses. Miss Anna Wildred, a cousin of the bride, another bridesmaid, wore green chiffon and carried pink roses. The ushers were Clifton Lewis of Philadelphia, Walter Borhoroski, Scottie Clesholm and William Burke.

After the ceremony there was a breakfast for about 100 guests. Dietroski's orchestra rendered music during the reception. The bride received many lovely gifts, including cut glass, linen, silverware, a radio and money in gold and checks. The couple left for Philadelphia where they expect to make their home.

PRESENT WATCH TO JUDGE AVERY AT LAWYERS' TESTMONIAL DINNER

Nearly 100 members of the New London County Bar association tendered, Friday night, at Norwich Inn, a testimonial dinner to Justice Christopher L. Avery of Groton, in honor of his elevation to the bench of the supreme court of Connecticut. During the evening Judge Avery was presented a handsome gold wrist watch by the members of the county bar. The barristers present represented many towns in the county. About 7:45 o'clock the following menu was served in the large dining room: Blue points on half shell, olives, hearts of celery, consomme Julienne, whipped cream, Educators, filet of sole or filet mignon with bacon, grilled sweet potatoes, Brussell sprouts, fresh grapefruit salad, whipped cream dressing, French vanilla, chocolate sauce, fancy cakes, demi tasse.

G. C. Morgan Toastmaster

At the close of the menu, Attorney G. Curtis Morgan, of New London, toastmaster, called the assemblage to order. "The New London county bar has met tonight in honor of Judge Christopher L. Avery," he said. And, continuing, "In honoring Judge Avery the New London county bar has done honor to itself. I have counted 94 present tonight to do honor to Judge Avery. In the state of New York the judges are hand picked. After their appointment they take a trip to Europe. On their return they are feted by racketeers and others. In other words, justice is bought and sold.

"In Connecticut judges are appointed through their ability and integrity. The New London county bar has presented many distinguished judges to the state. In the promotion of Judge Avery to the supreme court, the state has lost a great trial judge. Judge Avery has discharged his duties with integrity and ability." Attorney Morgan spoke of Judge Avery as democratic, sociable and affable, yet firm in his convictions. "The address of the evening will be made by a member of this bar," the toastmaster said. "It is not necessary for me to introduce him to you. This member of the bar has known Judge Avery since the time he was a boy—Judge Abel P. Tannar of New London." A hearty burst of applause greeted the announcement of Judge Tannar's name, and all stood in his honor.

Tribute to Justice Avery

In his address, Attorney Tannar spoke as follows:

I am conscious that I have a work before me in appearing, at your call, for so accomplished a client. I will do what I can, and, in any event, I am sure he will have your sympathy.

"Cold law," as he liked to call it, was what Solomon Lucas used to spray juries with, when that fine lawyer was at our bar—cold law and fact. I do not know how cold the law is here, tonight, by the wintry fireside, or how potent are the facts; but, if there is as much law here as the count of legal noses informs us, there ought to be enough to "blow up" the Constitution. This is the largest bar meeting I have attended in this county in 60 years, and I have attended many. There must be close to one hundred of our profession, of all ages and from every quarter. And they come, not as in response to a legal summons, reluctantly, but freely and gladly, to pay their tribute of respect to a distinguished guest. And their presence here in such numbers attests his popularity. They said, in the long ago, that a prophet is without honor in his own country. That is not true of Judge Avery. To that tradition he is an outstanding exception.

The committee behind this function, or some one of the committee, has called this a farewell dinner, conceivably, a kind of last meeting in which, with smiles and tears, we speed the parting guest. I would hardly so entitle it. Farewell is such a dismal word. It is the saddest, perhaps, of all sad words. When we say "Good Night" to a friend, of either sex, it is in the cheerful prospect that, peradventure, we will meet tomorrow. Even when we say "Good-bye" and with a breaking heart, as a cherished form grows dim in our sight, there is the wistful confidence that we shall meet again on some tomorrow. But when he say "Farewell" it suggests a finality beyond which there is no tomorrow. So, let us not call it a farewell dinner, but a complimentary offering to one who, in the allocation of circumstance, has climbed fame's magic stairs. There is regret, to be sure. In the capacity in which he has served, we may not—we shall not see him again; and we shall miss him from the trial bench. I suspect that, as lawyers, we have a choice, sometimes among even Connecticut judges—and we agree that they are the equal of any. But some judges appeal to us more than others; they seem to harmonize with our temperament. And so, while we rejoice at their advancement, we would fain keep them in the trial court. There are such judges here tonight. In fact, it is the only kind we have. Meanwhile, there are other judges from whom "parting is such sweet sorrow." And that may mean nothing against a judge. I will volunteer a confidence. In our career at the bar, especially in the early years before we became real sportsmen, willing to accept the bitter with the sweet, we classified the judiciary—divided it—into good judges and judges not so good. A good judge was one who construed the law as we claimed it. He was an ideal judge. We could say to him in Shakespearean phrase: "It doth appear that you are a worthy judge; you know the law; your exposition hath been most sound." When we came against one who ruled adversely and wrecked our chance of success, we felt the disappointment of a Shylock and, like him, exclaimed, "Is that the law?" And then, if we could have been the supreme court for just a half hour with his ruling before us, "We wouldn't have done a thing to it."

The late Judge Andrews was a humorist; but, like most judges, his decisions were sometimes overruled. One day, following such a ruling, he met Justice Loomis of the supreme court, a man of such gentleness that it grieved him to have to overrule anybody. And Justice Loomis, mindful of what his court had recently done to Judge Andrews, was moved to say apologetically, "We were very sorry that we had to overrule your decision in that case, Judge." "That's all right," says Judge Andrews. "Your court is higher than mine. If my court was higher than yours, I would overrule your decision."

But Judge Avery will not go out from us forever. He will come back to the wigwam. He will come to his ancestors, in the town where he was born and where nine generations of his people have lived. The judge comes of New England stock of colonial vintage. The Averys have been in this country 250 years; and still the name persists. It was numerously borne, in the days of the Revolution. For instance: When Colonel Ledyard assembled his forlorn hope, inside Fort Griswold that fatal September morning, he could barely muster a hundred and fifty volunteers, and a part of them were boys. Yet, of that slender force, there were seventeen of the name of Avery; and they were all kinsmen, and of the lineage of our guest. We know they fought, beside their neighbors, for home and country when none of them had a chance; and they fought with a courage that was not excelled at the passes of Thermopolae. When the tragedy was complete and night shadowed the carnage of battle, ultimately, eleven of the seventeen lay dead on the field. So much for the Averys; for the judge is not all Avery.

It is said that strong men, exceptional men, usually have great mothers. It was never my good fortune to know Judge Avery's mother, but I did know some of her people and especially John J. and Belton A. Copp. Doubtless, many here knew the latter as a man who scored in the financial world; but few, I apprehend, recall the figure of John J. Copp. I speak of him in particular, because it was through him that I came to know of Judge Avery earlier, perhaps, than any other member of this bar. And that was more than 30 years ago. John J. Copp was a graduate of Yale college; he was a trained lawyer; and he had a classical education. As an orator, he was in the class with Foster, and Brandegee, and Waller and Hewitt. I first met him in 1872 when I was a junior at Brown, and he was in middle life. The occasion was a large public meeting which we both addressed, though from opposite standpoints, and the subject was world peace. Mr. Copp favored world peace. In his contention he quoted from Benjamin Franklin this phrase: "There never was a good war or a bad peace." I doubt if you have imagination enough to conceive how unpalatable that was to the average congregation of 60 years ago when we had but lately emerged from the Civil war, and everywhere people were imbued with the military spirit. But Mr. Copp had moral courage. He did not hesitate to espouse an unpopular cause if he thought it was right. I, in my callow youth thought he was wrong, and so took the other side. Neither of us dreamed, then, that one, at least, would live to see war indicted as an outlaw by every forward-looking nation, and world peace the coveted goal of mankind. As opposing "cavaliers" we engaged, there and elsewhere, in fierce debate and warm correspondence. Yet, somehow, there developed a mutual liking; so that, later, when years had run between and one was an old man, we could sit down in joyous conversation in the calm afternoon of life. And it was in these conversations that he would be telling me about his nephew, first perhaps when the latter was in college; then in the law school, and, finally, as an accepted member of the bar. He seemed to think the "boy" had in him the making of a great lawyer. Apparently, he was wrapped up in the future of his nephew. About this time I was retained by Mr. Copp to defend against an attempt by a corporation to appropriate some of the Copp land. When the case finally came to trial, the nephew was called in at Mr. Copp's request. Eventually it went to the supreme court and Mr. Avery suggested that he draw the brief. As it involved a lot of work for somebody, I had no objection, and so he drew the brief. When I read it I began to share Mr. Copp's faith in the future of his nephew. I thought a young attorney who could make a brief like that and who had acquitted himself so well in the trial did have in him the making of a great lawyer. Meanwhile, Mr. Avery grew. He developed into a first class trial lawyer. When called to the bench, his services as an advocate were in wide demand. He has had ten years experience as a judge of the superior court, with all that implies. He goes now to the supreme court bench.

The career of a distinguished man is an interesting study; for distinction is a bulletin of success. But what is the secret of success? Many have offered information, from Benjamin Franklin to Henry Ford; and some of it has been good. But has it explained the mystery? We speak of native ability. We say a man has it in him to succeed in a given calling. Mr. Copp thought this of his nephew. We say a man with a normal brain, with education and wisdom, can get almost anything he wants, "other things being equal." There is the trouble—that unknown quantity. Is not life something of a gamble? Do we not have to reckon with chance, with cause and effect, the happy juncture of events? Why did not John J. Copp, himself, write his name in larger type? He had force; he had education; he was brilliant. Perhaps he did not wish to. He would not push himself and, may be, his independence diverted opportunity. Mostly, it was himself. He voluntarily withdrew from the legal profession in which he could have made a success. Public life had no lure; apparently, ambition's fire went out. What, then, is the source of energy? Who puts this power in and turns it on, or turns it off? Who builds this strange machine we call the mind—this power of intellect that takes us up the heights to wealth and fame, or leaves us on the escarpment of the mountain, cold and dead? Who bridges the gulf between failure and success? What is this power that has lived in all the yesterdays and will live through all tomorrows? Is there not in all lives some measure of fatality? We call it chance, or providence, or intelligent design. Shakespeare defined it as the "divinity that shapes our ends."

Judge Avery knows the meaning of distinction as he steps among the gowned figures of Connecticut's highest court. We congratulate him upon his success. But it is not alone as a distinguished man that we appreciate him. We esteem him for what he was before he became distinguished. When he was obscure, even as you and I. We esteem him for his common sense; for his mental equilibrium; for his refreshing courtesy; for his imperturbable good humor; for his democratic spirit; for his freedom from passion and prejudice. Finally, we esteem him as one who will ever hold up the scales of justice, evenpoised.

I will not call him a great lawyer, tonight. Coming from me it would mean nothing to those who know him as well as I. It might be ascribed to the exuberance of the occasion. Again, it may be the great lawyer is still in the making. But I will venture a prediction. For once, I will assume the role of a prophet in my own country, with or without honor. I will make a prediction that will sometime be fulfilled, though I will not be here. But, somewhere, in the future when his work is done; when time shall write "Finis" to the last chapter—we hope the event will be long deferred. We invoke the custom of the ancients and pray he may "come late into heaven." But "man is appointed once to live and once to die"; and the grim messenger, that comes to all that is, will sometime come to him. Then, in our Connecticut reports; in that chamber of records where so many of our profession are embalmed, and which is their only Hall of Fame, some chronicler will write the customary article, accenting the high points in the subject's career; and, somewhere in that article, the writer will say, with simple truth, "Judge Avery was a great lawyer."

Judge Brown Speaks

Attorney Morgan then presented Judge Allyn L. Brown of the superior court of Norwich. All stood in honor of Judge Brown, who then addressed the gathering. Judge Brown spoke of several humorous incidents of the court room which brought out the human side of the profession. Judge Brown also told a number of humorous stories of well known barristers. The judge, in closing, paid tribute to the guest of the evening—Judge Avery. Judge Brown was heartily applauded at the close of his remarks.

Presentation Made

Presented by the toastmaster, Attorney Morgan, State's Attorney Arthur M. Brown then presented to Judge Avery, on behalf of the bar, a handsome wrist watch. In making the presentation, State's Attorney Brown paid a glowing tribute to Judge Avery who, in accepting the gift, graciously responded. He said that during the ten years he served on the bench of the superior court he never had an unpleasant experience with any lawyer in the state. "I have a very high regard for the lawyers, not only in New London county, but throughout the state," said the judge. "It has been a pleasure to serve the members of the bar the last ten years," he added. He said he greatly appreciated the gift, and will treasure it. "I thank you all," he said. A toast to Judge Avery and three rousing cheers brought the gathering to a close about 11 o'clock.

The committee on arrangements comprised Attorneys G. Curtis Morgan and Phillip Z. Hankey of New London, and Edmund W. Perkins of this city and Arthur M. Brown of Jewett City, assisted by others.

Those present included: Mrs. Mary Wooster Sutton of Groton, the only woman lawyer engaged in practice in New London county; Leon J. Belsheim, Nathan Belcher, Max Boyer Harry C. Brogan, A. B. BISHOP SCHOOL HALL FILLED FOR EXHIBITION

The auditorium at Bishop school was more than filled Friday evening with an audience of 275 for the second presentation of the physical education exhibition by the children of the school.

The first grade gave two folk dances with class singing. "Three Bears," was enacted by Charless Pinaki as father bear, Mary Plente as mother bear, Louis Ricardino as baby bear. Pamela Brine acted the part of Little Red Riding Hood, with Elizabeth Cook as her mother.

The costumes and head dresses worn by the second grade in their Indian dance were made by the children in the class room.

The girls of the sixth and seventh grades were very attractively dressed as little girls. They exhibited rope jumping in pantomime to the tune of "School Days." By way of contrast the boys of the same grades followed dressed as tramps in the "Oxen Dance."

Ten little fourth grade boys and girls dressed as farmer lads and lassies showed their audience that the Virginia Reel is still danced and enjoyed.

A formal flag drill was presented by part of the fifth grade followed by a polka danced by the rest of the class. The costumes worn in the polka were made by the girls of the "special class."

The special class entertained with three folk dances which were splendidly done.

The third grade of 44 children presented a pretty picture in their blue and white Dutch costumes.

Eight little lassies of the fourth grade danced and sang "Coming Thru the Rye," in little black dresses with white bonnets and caps.

To present the free play in physical education, the fourth grade boys played three vigorous games.

The program closed with a march and drill by the entire sixth and seventh grades. The group marched in to the form of a B and sang the school song.

INTENTIONAL SECOND EXPOSURE

VIC DARR DEMONSTRATES AGAIN HIS SUPERIORITY OVER KOZIOL IN HOT BOUT

For the second time in as many months Vic Darr, rugged Greeneville battler, demonstrated that straight punching is superior to wild slugging when he outpunched Al Koziol in the main bout at Parish hall last night. Darr gave Koziol one of the worst lacings of the Laurel Hill lad's career and in many respects it was a more terrific lacing than the one administered two months ago. Although there were no knockdowns in this bout Darr cut Koziol badly about the face with straight jabs to the head and when Koziol left the ring his face was a sorry sight. The margin of victory for Darr was so wide that there was absolutely no chance of a protest even from the supporters of Koziol, who had risked good money on him.

Darr won four rounds, the first, second, fifth and sixth, while Koziol was credited with one round, the seventh, the rest were even. Only once during the entire bout did Koziol prove at all dangerous, this being in the seventh round when he abandoned all caution and waded into Darr. He caught him once in the body and again on the head rocking Darr for the first time [illegible] Koziol was unable to [illegible] advantage as Darr closed with him and clinched for a second or two until his head cleared and then danced out of reach. This flurry in the latter part of the bout was Koziol's best showing.

Starting at the tap of the first gong the boys flew at it, Koziol in his windmill style, while Darr, fighting a steady and cool fight, stood Koziol off with his right and crossed to the head and body with the left. It was this same hand that dropped Koziol three times in the previous meeting that won for Darr last night. Early in the second round Darr closed Koziol's right eye, inflicting a nasty cut on the eyelid and in the fifth round he caught Koziol under the left eye and raised a bloody lump the size of an egg. Each boy slipped to his knee once during the bout but was up immediately, there being no semblance of a knockdown. The milling throughout the bout was furious, neither lad saving himself in the least and putting everything he had behind his blows.

Koziol fought a very disappointing bout to many and was not his usual aggressive self, paying plenty of respect to the crushing left hand of Darr. Darr who scored so heavily in the bout two months ago by his attack to the stomach shot straight for the Laurel Hill boy's chin in last night's bout, and scored just as heavily. The result of this change in attack left Koziol badly battered about the face. Darr showed only one mark of the fight, a slight discoloration around the left eye which he got in the seventh round. Around the fourth round Darr delivered a terrific punch to Koziol's head and when the blow landed the knuckle on Darr's left hand was painfully hurt which will necessitate Darr resting up for a month or so.

The defeat of Koziol removes the Laurel Hill boy from the pugilistic picture of Norwich for some time to come. It was Koziol's last stand to avenge himself of the previous beating and he failed. His showing was disappointing, but due credit should be given him for the game battle that he put up. Beaten early in the bout Koziol kept coming in for more, displaying plenty of grit against a better man. Koziol weighed 142½ and Darr 143¾.

Eddie Reed Wins.

Eddie Reed, of Hartford, won a technical knockout over Joey Cayer of New Bedford in the fourth round of a very tame bout. Cayer came into the ring with a cut eye and Reed opened this eye early in the fourth round and Referee Billy Conway stopped the bout. With the exception of the opening of the cut which looked very much like a mistake, there were very few hard blows exchanged between the two youngsters, the bout being more or less of a dancing exhibition.

Peloquin Batters Out Decision.

Rene Peloquin, of Danielson, won a hairline decision over Tony Caprio, of Providence, in eight gruelling rounds in the opening eight round feature. The bout was fast and furious with Peloquin crowding Caprio about the ring in a fashion that takes a lote of interest out of the bout. It was only in the last two rounds that Peloquin won the verdict, taking both to nose out the Providence boy by a single point. Both boys fought hard, swapping punches at times standing toe to toe. Even though Peloquin won, Tony Caprio left the ring amid an ovation that is seldom accorded a boxer.

Caprio is one of the most sportsmanlike boxers that has entered a Taftville ring and his conduct in the ring has earned him the respect and plaudits of the boxing followers in eastern Connecticut. Tony fights clean and hard, and takes his wins with a smile and takes his losses the same way. Caprio is assured of a place on any of the Shyme cards any time he wants it.

James Earns Decision Over Rodman.

Pat James, of Providence, outpointed Al Rodman, of Goodyear, in the six round preliminary. James proved to have too much experience for the Goodyear youngster and a right jab coupled with a stinging left won him the verdict. James fought the best fight that he has since appearing in the local rings. He showed more aggressiveness and hit with much more power than he has ever displayed before.

Snooks Lacy Wins.

Snooks Lacy, the ebony shadow from the West Side completely outclassed Whitey Allen, of Manchester, a protege of Frankie Busch, in the opening four rounder. Snooks proved an elusive target but his sharpshooting was the best that he has shown in Norwich. Last night Snooks hit with considerable more power than he has ever displayed before.

NORWICH MEN TO RECEIVE FOOTBALL LETTERS AT STORRS

(Special to The Bulletin)

STORRS, Dec. 5.— Eighteen men will receive varsity letters for having played football for Connecticut Aggies this fall. They are: Captain Charlie Murphy of Putnam, Stanley Storrs of Storrs, Russell Glennon of New Haven, Sterling Harger of Hartford, William McCombe of Hartford, James Moore of Norwich, James Williams of Norwich, John Kolb of Seymour, Carl Hakanson of Greenwich, Stanley Yesukiewics of Enfield, Anthony DeRosa of Bridgeport, John Eddy of Simsbury, Kenneth Juringius of West Haven, Franklin Pierce of West Hartford, Herman Libutske of Hartford, John Sternberg of Meriden, Leon Levitow of Hartford and John Callahan of Boston, Mass.

Although injuries prevented him from playing in enough games to make his "C," Robert Rebman of West Hartford was elected captain of next year's eleven. He will lead the team from the position of tackle.

VELVETMEN HOLD LEAD BY 2 POINTS IN LEAGUE

Following is the league games to be played this Sunday in the Eastern Conn. Soccer league as given by the league secretary, Joseph Rose, Jr., of New London. The first team is the home team: Plainfield vs. Putnam; New London vs. Jewett City; J. B. Martins vs. Wauregan; Baltic bye.

When the New London Rangers played at Plainfield Sunday the New London boys had the misfortune to see O'Leary their half-back fall and break his wrist. Although the Rangers' star halfback played the entire game with the injury which at first was thought to be a slight sprain X-ray pictures showed that the wrist was broken. This gives the New London team a big handicap as they now have two players out with severe injuries, for Souza a fast forward broke his arm while at practice two weeks ago.

In checking on his reports the secretary also finds that Tommy Fenton, former Plainfield player now starring for Putnam is the only player in the entire league to score a goal in all league games played so far this year and has an average of a little better than a goal a game.

This is quite a record to have by any such player and it won't be any surprise to see him score again this week as he will be playing against his old teammates.

The league standing to date:

Teams	P.	W.	L.	D.	Pt.
J. B. Martins	8	7	1	0	14
Plainfield	8	6	2	0	12
N. L. Rangers	8	5	3	0	10
Baltic	9	4	4	1	9
Putnam	7	4	3	0	8
Jewett City	6	0	5	1	1
Wauregan	8	0	8	0	0

DIEGEL PLAYS EXTRA SIX HOLES TO DEFEAT McHUGH

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 5.—(AP)—Carried to the 24th hole by the brilliant play of his youthful opponent, Leo Diegel of Agua Caliente, Mexico, seasoned pro, defeated John McHugh, San Francisco amateur, one up today in a second round match of the $7,500 San Francisco open match play golf tournament.

Other matches in today's second 18 ran true to form. Gene Sarazen of Flushing, N. Y., former national open champion, disposed of Willard Hutchinson, Chicago, five and four. George Von Elm, Detroit, former national amateur titleholder who gave up his ranking to seek the money purses, defeated James Thomson, Colorado Springs, Colo., one up.

First round matches this morning saw Harry Cooper of Chicago, medalist and one of the favorites, eliminated by Wilfred Cox, Brooklyn, 4 and 3. Two other strong contenders, Horton Smith of New York and Tommy Armour of Detroit, former national open champion, were removed from the running. Smith lost to Fred Morrison of Alhambra, Calif., 2 and 1, while Armour was beaten by Abe Espinosa, Chicago, 5 and 4.

Eighteen hole quarter final and semi final matches will be played tomorrow with 36 hole finals Sunday.

COLGATE PLAYS N. Y. U. IN CHARITY GAME TODAY

NEW YORK, Dec. 5—(AP)—Featuring the high scoring Leonard Macaluso the powerful Colgate football team moves into the Yankee stadium tomorrow to battle a tricky New York university eleven in the first of three big charity games to be played in New York.

With the weather man's promise of clear but cold weather, 50,000 fans are expected to see the game.

The two teams met last in 1928 and Colgate was the recipient of a 47 to 6 drubbing.

Backed by a season's record marked by only one defeat, Colgate is the favorite.

MONDT AND TAYLOR GET INDEFINITE SUSPENSION

NEW LONDON, Conn., Dec. 5.—(AP)—Thomas E. Donohue, state athletic commissioner, has indefinitely suspended Toots Mondt of New York and Jack Taylor of Colorado, heavyweight wrestlers, in Connecticut, as the result of their match in New Haven Tuesday night.

Their suspension was recommended by Edward O'Donnell, state supervisor of wrestling, who charged them with the use of foul tactics during their match.

In announcing the indefinite suspension of the wrestlers, Commissioner Donohue said wrestling will be abolished in the state unless tactics complained of in the Mondt-Taylor bout are discontinued.

LINARI AND BINDA IN LEAD IN BIKE RACE

NEW YORK, Dec. 5.—(AP)—With New York's 49th international six-day bike race approaching its final stages, the size of the crowds and the excitement showed a big increase tonight but there were few changes in the standing of the leaders.

At 10 o'clock, just after the night sprints, Linari and Binda were a lap ahead of the field with their three favored rivals, Denef and Charlier, Belloni and Richill and Georgetti and Brocardo tied for second place.

A bad spill just at the end of the sprints stirred the 15,000 fans as Spencer and Richill collided and skidded down the curve. Spencer was carried off the track but was able to return a few minutes later. Richill was not badly hurt.

LOCAL BOY AWARDED LETTER AT WORCESTER TECH

(Special to The Bulletin)

WORCESTER, Mass., Dec. 5—Gordon S. Cruickshank, of 131 Broadway, Norwich, Conn., a member of the freshman class at the Worcester Polytechnic Institute, has been awarded a varsity "W" in football by the college athletic council. Cruickshank was one of the best linemen on the Engineer's team this year.

BOXING

Vic Darr is a better man than Al Koziol. There is no chance of a dispute there for Darr demonstrated this fact last night to satisfaction of all and to the financial embarassment of some. In beating Koziol, Vic Darr has established himself as the best boxer that Norwich has had in the past 20 years, if not for all time. Norwich had Jimmy Clabby, Patsy Fenton and a number of others who flared across the pugilistic firmament but that was in the old days before boxing had become the business that it is today. To Vic Darr goes all the credit of winning and to Al Koziol goes the credit of being a game kid who put up a great fight against a better man.

And to Barney Keenan goes the credit of being a game loser. Barney backed his faith in his boy with plenty of cash but his judgment was misplaced. There can be no alibi for Koziol this time, he was beaten by a better man. In the last bout Koziol fought Darr after an eight months layoff but last night he was in the pink of condition.

The bout last night had all the earmarks of a championship bout. The scene in the dressing room was typical of the scene of a bout where a world's title is at stake. There were the arguments about bandages and the weight and condition of gloves, etc. Barney Keenan very carefully inspected Darr's hands and gloves to see that Darr did not slip in a horseshoe by mistake. Afther the bout there were some heated words and accusations made as the result of the heat of combat.

It is seldom that one sees a boxer who has lost the decision get a bigger ovation than the winner. This was the case when Tony Caprio of Providence lost a hairline decision to Rene Peloquin of Danielson. Caprio was given a tremendous hand as he left the ring. Tony, a willing fighter and as clean and sportsmanlike boxer as ever set foot in a ring has become one of the most popular boxers that has shown here in years. And Tony is deserving of it.

That Reed-Cayer bout was not so hot. Cayer had a bad cut when he entered the ring and when Reed accidentally hit it it bled so profusely that the bout was called off. Cayer should not have been allowed in the ring in the first place if the cut was not healed.

Snooks Lacy surprised the fans when he displayed a real hefty punch. If Snooks can learn to hit hard, especially with his right hand, he will be a hard youngster to beat.

BALTIC BANTAMS TROUNCE NEW HAVEN TEAM, 53 TO 39

Friday evening at the Baltic gym, the Baltic Bantams, led by Passmore, at center, sent the Olympic five home to New Haven, defeated by the score of 53 to 39 in an interesting game. The Bantams had a 26 to 17 lead at half time but suddenly, as the game neared its end, the Elm City team crept up until with seven minutes to go they were only in arrears two points, 33 to 35. The Bantams braced, however, and ran in a volley of points.

ROCKNE PICKS SO. CALIFORNIA TO TRIM NOTRE DAME IN HARD TILT

(By Paul Zimmerman.)

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 5—(AP)—Cheering from more than 5,000 Notre Dame alumni and followers ended the pregame quietude late today as Coach Knute Rockne's 38 Rough Riders charged in upon Southern California for football's tussle titanic on the morrow.

Even the South Bend sage's statements that Larry Mullins, fullback, will not start in Notre Dame's final bid for two consecutive undefeated seasons on the Nation's leading gridirons, failed to stop the din.

Rockne, wan and weary from the hard schedule and steady demands for public and radio appearances, answered the clamorings with a few pointed words to the effect that the clash before some 83,000 odd enthusiasts will be a great battle.

The team was hurried to its hotel. Then their coach answered calls to speak at dinner and take part in a radio broadcast.

In the meantime, Coach Howard Jones kept close watch over his men of Troy at a Pasadena hotel, where they will remain until time for the game. He put his Trojans through a short workout this morning and announced the eleven was ready.

Rockne's statements on arrival followed the general vein of past remarks—he expected his team to lose. However, the comments were tempered with traditional Notre Dame spirit.

"Southern California will win but it is going to be a great contest" he said. "My team expects to play real football against the finest team they have met all year."

Bettors demanded ten to eight odds in favor of Southern California with little money in sight either way. Although the weather forecast promised clear skies and a warm day, scalpers were forced to unload large blocks of tickets at top prices averaging around $12.

The University of Southern California retained 50 special detectives to work with 25 federal officers and five city operatives in an effort to apprehend scalpers.

The fact Rockne said he will start his regular backfield in preference to shock troops was taken as an admission he expected Southern California to launch its attack with the opening play if possible.

Except for Mullins and Wilcox, both coaches said their teams were in great condition.

FIVE GAMES ON THE AIR THIS AFTERNOON

NEW YORK, Dec. 5—(AP)—Five hours of football are on the bill for Saturday afternoon radio listeners.

First will come the Pennsylvania-Navy game from Philadelphia at 1:45 p. m. (E. S. T.) followed by the Notre Dame-Southern California scrap from Los Angeles at 4:45 over both the National and the Columbia chains.

The Pennsylvania-Navy tilt will be described on NBC by Graham McNamee, assisted by Arthur P. McNulty. For Columbia the announcer will be Ted Husing. The far west game, will bring the voice of Bill Munday for NBC. He will be assisted by Lloyd Yoder, of San Francisco. Ernest Smith will give the details for CBS.

FAUDE OF HARVARD ON ALL-COLLEGIATE SOCCER TEAM

PRINCETON, N. J., Dec. 5.—(AP)—Al Nies, Princeton soccer coach, today announced a correction in the makeup of the All-Collegiate soccer team which he recently picked in collaboration with other coaches and officials. Faude of Harvard should have been given the place as first team goal tender instead of his teammate, Catanelli. The error came through recording Catanelli as goalie instead of right fullback, his position.

In making the correction, Coach Nies said that Faude was unquestionably the choice for this position and that he was "one of the best goalies seen in collegiate soccer ranks in recent years."

A Challenge

The Silver Arrows would like to play the Laurel Hill Wildcats Monday at the Chelsea Parade. They also would like to play the Black Hawks Jrs. Sunday at 2:30 at Mohegan Park and the Lake Street Midgets Sunday, Dec. 14, or any other team in Norwich, averaging 100 lbs. If so answer through the Bulletin.

NORWICH GOLF CLUB TO HAVE INVITATION TOURNEY

NEW HAVEN, Dec. 5.—(AP)—The Connecticut Golf association today voted to hold the state open championship Aug. 24, 1931, on a course not yet decided.

A suggested schedule of amateur events was considered, although the dates and locations of most were left to the decision of R. D. Pryde, secretary, and S. N. Pierson, president, of the association, to be announced later.

The suggested schedule of 1931 events, in addition to the open championship, is as follows:

Connecticut Golf association championship, Woodway and Wee Burn Country clubs, Stamford, at a date yet to be decided. Match play championship to be held on the Sunday prior to the qualifying rounds for this event.

One day championships, dates tentative, at the Shore Haven Golf club, the Shuttle Meadow club, the Country club of Waterbury, the Sequin Country club, the Race Brook Country club, the Hartford Golf club, and the Highland Golf club. Three gross and seven net prizes will be awarded in these events, it was decided today, instead of the five each awarded in past years.

Invitation championships (corresponding to 1930) at the Brooklawn Country club, the Norwich Golf club, the Greenwich Country club, the Shenecossett Country club, and the New Haven Country club.

The open championship will be the first such event on the Connecticut Golf association schedule.

SONS OF REST PLAY ICE HOUSE GANG SUNDAY

Sunday afternoon at Mohegan Park the Sons of Rest will clash with the Ice House Gang at 2:30 p. m. This game will be between two bitter rivals as there is no love lost between them. The Sons will have some of the prominent younge rtalent of the city while the I. H. Gang will be composed of a veteran team. This game which was supposed to have been played early in the season was called off as one of the teams had members playing in the Academy lineup. Rather than play without their full strength the managers had agreed to wait till the high school season was over. As this game will be the only attraction in the city Sunday a large crowd is expected.

RISKO RECEIVES CLOSE DECISION OVER MALONEY

BOSTON, Dec. 5— (AP) —Johnny Risko, veteran Cleveland heavyweight, staged a wild closing drive to take a close decision from Jimmy Maloney, Boston conqueror of Primo Carnera, here tonight, in a furious ten round slugging match. Maloney weighed 196, a pound more than his rival in their rubber bout.

WILLIMANTIC FIVE WILL OPPOSE "Y" SENIORS IN FIRST HOME TILT

Tonight's Lineup.

Norwich	Willimantic
Leffingwell, lf	lf, Greene
Lynch, rf	rf, Rosin
Henschel, c	c, McSweeney
Ludlow, lg	lg, Monast
"Red" Armstrong, rg	rg, Dillon

Norwich opens its basketball season tonight when the Y seniors team encounters the Willimantic quintet composed of ex-high school stars.

The local team had but three veterans when Coach Demarest announced the first practice session, Lynch, Leffingwell and Ludlow, but four former Church league players have shown up exceedingly well. Two of these men graduated from the Brothers of Joseph, Henschel and Nadelson, while Tubbs and Armstrong came from the Congregational roster.

From this bunch of recruits Coach Demarest has welded together as fast a team as the locals have ever had. Out of two games played they have emerged victorious once and were on the losing end once, that to the General Electric Co. of Bridgeport, but they appear here, Jan. 17th, and tables are expected to be turned.

The locals' lineup that will start the game tonight will be Leffingwell and Lynch, forwards, Henschel at center and Capt. Ludlow and Armstrong will do duty in the back court. Nadelson and Tubbs will be held in reserve.

Manager Leffingwell has again secured that popular official, Randy Whaples, to handle all the games.

A fast preliminary will start at 8 o'clock with the banner attraction going on immediately after.

TO ADMIT CAN. PLAYERS SIGNED BY BUFFALO

KANSAS CITY, Dec. 5.—(AP)—William F. Grant, president of the American Hockey league, said he had been informed Canadian players signed by the Buffalo, N. Y., club were to be admitted into the United States, thus allowing participation of the team in league play.

Mr. Grant reported that Larry Welch, president of the Buffalo organization, had told him the players, barred as skilled laborers, would be admitted into this country under $500 bonds.

Admittance of the players, it was indicated, would permit Buffalo to open its season next week in Tulsa, Okla. Two series, one with Chicago and the other with Kansas City, had been postponed. Grant had expressed belief the Buffalo franchise might be forfeited.

James Bausch, three sports star at Kansas, whose employment as an insurance agent precipitated a controversy over subsidization and recruiting, was found ineligible for competition by his school, which announced it would be bound by the majority action of the conference in all matters of interpretation of rules.

AGGIES' FIVE TERMINATES PRACTICE WITH SECONDS

(Special to The Bulletin)

STORRS, Dec. 5.—In a 30-minute scrimmage conducted here last evening, the first string Aggie basketball quintet defeated the second string, 28-19. This was the last practice of the squad this week and next Monday afternoon the players will resume preparation for the opening game of the season here which is with Bridgewater Normal school on Dec. 13.

According to present indications the team which was used as first string last night will be used during the major part of the coming contest. The line-up is: Darrow, lf; Glennon, rf; Chubbuck, c; Wilson, lg, and Lamson, rg. Against this team the following men were used: Calamari and Barald, lf; Skublisias and Clark, rf; Eddy and Kunze, c; Levitow and Tourville, lg, and St. Marie and Dragat, rg.

During the first half the first team employed the zone type of defense and nine points were scored against it during that time. In the second period the team played man-to-man and 10 points were scored against it.

SCOTT OUTPOINTS ATLER IN 8 RD. FEATURE BOUT

BRIDGEPORT, Dec. 5—(AP)—Jimmy Scott, 135, Holyoke, Mass., outpointed Davy Atler, 133, New York, in the eight round feature bout at the Park arena, tonight.

Eddie Moore, 147, Bridgeport, knocked out Buddy Saunders, 142, New York in the second round of the eight round semi-final bout.

Johnny "Red" Allen, 139, Bridgeport, knocked out Eddie Murray, 140, New York, in the second round of what was to have been a six rounder.

Ernie Palmer, 126, Bridgeport, carried an unpopular decision over Lou Piquette, 125, of Bridgeport, in a six rounder.

Carl Snyder, 183, Danbury, outpointed Gus Holmes, 182, Bridgeport, in a four round bout.

Young Weiner, 177, Bridgeport, knocked out Sam Johnson, 183, Bridgeport, in the opening round of a four round bout.

SWIDERSKI FILES SUIT FOR $50,000 AGAINST TAYLOR

ST. LOUIS, Dec. 5—(AP)—Suit for $50,000 was filed here late today by Paul Swiderski, Syracuse, N. Y., light heavyweight boxer, against Missouri Boxing Commissioner Seneca Taylor, and Walter Heisner, St. Louis referee. The suit resulted from the commissioner's action in stopping a bout Tuesday night between Swiderski and Maxie Rosenbloom, calling it "no contest" on the ground that Swiderski was not trying and was hitting with an open glove.

Swiderski alleged defamation of reputation, and stated he was a leading candidate for the championship of his division. Swiderski's purse, about $550, was held up. His petition denied he did not do his best.

Attention Silver Arrows

The Young Hawks will play the Silver Arrows Sunday at Chelsea Parade at 2:30 o'clock.

SPORT BRIEFS

KANSAS CITY, Dec. 5—(AP)—The Ostracism of the University of Kansas by the Big Six conference was rescinded by the faculty representatives of the conference here late today.

ADELAIDE, Australia—Commencing the third match of their Australian tour, the West Indies cricketers, batting first against South Australia today, were all out for 171 runs. South Australia scored 117 for four at the close of play.

CHICAGO—An air of peace and calmness pervaded over all meetings today as the Big Ten athletic chiefs held their annual winter pow-wow to arrange schedules and discuss rules.

MONTREAL—After four days of verbal fireworks, the National Association of Professional Baseball leagues brought its 29th annual convention to a calm and unruffled close today.

ERIE, Pa.—Maxie Strub, 137, Erie, was given a decision here tonight in a close fight with Sammy Mandell, 144 1-2, former lightweight champion of Rockford, Ill., the award being made by the referee after the two judges had disagreed.

LEXINGTON, Va.—Eugene Oberst head football coach at Washington and Lee university, announced tonight that he would not return to the institution next season. His two year contract ended with the close of the 1930 football season here.

FOUR GOOD GAMES ON TODAY'S GRID SLATE

NEW YORK, Dec. 5—(AP)—Despite the threatening gestures of Old Man Winter, four good games, comprising an unusually heavy schedule for so late in the year, will attract upwards of 133,000 fans to eastern gridirons tomorrow.

Only two of the four were on the day's card originally—the Navy-Pennsylvania fray at Philadelphia, and the Maryland-Western Maryland tussle at Baltimore.

A special added attraction is the post-season clash between Colgate and New York university at the Yankee stadium for the benefit of the unemployed, a game in which Colgate's claims to a place among the three or four best teams in the east will be thoroughly tested.

The fourth game brings together two old rivals at Pittsburgh—Carnegie Tech and Washington-Jefferson. This contest, marking the 26th renewal of a rivalry begun in 1906, was scheduled originally for last Saturday but was postponed a week in the hope of more temperate weather.

Interest in the Navy-Penn conflict is heightened by the fact that the Army and Navy are to meet here a week later for charity's sake in the first service game since 1927.

BURGESS BEDTIME STORY

The Cripple

Success is seldom won by luck;
'Tis chiefly the reward of pluck.
—Old Mother Nature.

The young muskrat who had twisted off a foot and left it in a cruel steel trap was at first so happy in being free that he didn't give much thought to that lost foot. He followed his father, Jerry Muskrat, straight home to the big house in the Smiling pool, which he entered by diving and swimming through the long underwater hall. Oh how good it was to come up inside where he was safe from all enemies. On a comfortable bed of dry grass he first gave real attention to his injured leg. It ached, did that stump of a leg. Yes, indeed, it ached. But the ache was not so great as it had been when the leg was held fast in that dreadful trap. He gently licked it to get it clean. Presently he went to sleep. You see he had had no rest or sleep for so long that he was quite used up.

Oh how good it was when at last he awoke to find that he was safely at home in that big house in the Smiling pool. At first he could not remember what was wrong. Then the ache in that stump of a left front leg brought it all back. For two days he did not even try to go outside. Food was brought in. He didn't need much for he had quite lost his appetite. All the time Old Mother Nature was at work healing that stump of a leg. He was a healthy young muskrat and it was surprising how rapidly the healing went on.

When at last the young muskrat did venture out he did not realize at first how crippled he was. He could swim without difficulty, for there was nothing the matter with his strong hind feet with their partly webbed toes and there was nothing the matter with his tail wherewith to scull. It was when he came to the first landing and started to climb out that he realized something of what life was to be for him thereafter. Having but one forefoot and that stump, which was not yet fully healed, he could not get out on that little landing. He had to hunt another that was lower.

Jerry Muskrat saw him. "Never mind," said he. "Think how much worse it would have been to have lost your life."

The young muskrat was almost ready to doubt this as he lost his balance and fell forward while climbing up on a log, but when he remembered the boy with the stick lifted to kill him he decided that after all it was better, much better to be alive. He soon discovered that he was badly handicapped if he tried to fight with any of his companions and so he took pains not to quarrel with them. He discovered that he could not run, so he seldom went more than a jump from the water. He found that he could not dig as he had dug once upon a time so he no longer tried to dig up roots for food, but hunted more for other food.

Altogether, however, he got along surprisingly well for one so crippled. Fortunately he was seen by Farmer Brown's boy. After that there was always plenty to eat where he could easily get it. So he grew strong and big and more and more clever in getting about on three legs. But always he remembered the dreadful lesson of the trap and never once did he forget to look carefully before putting a foot down anywhere. Even when there was no reason to think there might be traps about he was just so careful.

Jerry Muskrat used to notice this and grin, but he took care that the young muskrat shouldn't see him do it. "He'll live to be old and wise," said Jerry to Mrs. Jerry. "It was a dreadful lesson, but it has made a new muskrat of him. Yes, sir, it has so. Notice how ready he is to listen to advice now. He was headstrong and heedless but now he is cautious and watchful and suspicious. Never again will he be caught in a trap, nor is he likely to be caught by any of our enemies. He may be crippled so far as that leg is concerned, but there is nothing crippled about his wits."

It was all in time that crippled young muskrat proved to be the smartest of all the young muskrats and was quite capable of taking careful price. Don't you think so? ful price. Don't you thing so?

DOMINEERING HUSBAND AND FATHER GETS A RUDE AWAKENING WHEN MOTHER ALLIES HERSELF WITH CUPID

"I WANT a few words with you in the library, Mona."

John's voice fell with the precision of a stone thrown into a laughing brook. Mona Edwards was still smiling over the picture her daughter had made in the open doorway, framed against the glistening winter world outside. The new evening coat was becoming. She hadn't been so sure that the apricot velvet would go well with Shirley's amber eyes and hair. But the child had a brunette's complexion. Her darkly glowing skin held up against the color that would have tortured a paler blonde.

"A few words, in the library, I said, Mona—"

Mona turned and followed him obediently. She felt ridiculously like a naughty little girl summoned to a parental conference. Physically there was only five years' difference in their ages. But temperamentally John had always been an old man. She found it hard to conceal her skittishness from him. There were times, like tonight, when her feet wanted to prance. Shirley had looked so pretty!

He drew a chair nearer to the fire for her and adjusted the window.

"Warm enough, dear? That's a light frock for this time of year. I'd better fetch your scarf—"

She protested her comfort, knowing all the time that it was useless. John was a regular mother hen. He could never rest until he had done a certain amount of fussing over her.

"Now, Mona, as two sensible parents we must consider this matter of Shirley. The child is losing her head and the man in question is not a suitable person. Surely you recognize that fact?"

The tips of John's fingers touched pedantically. His eyes sought hers over the tops of his bone-rimmed spectacles. Mona felt a queer little thrill of dismay. She laughed apologetically.

"But, John, Shirley is only a child. This is still the playtime of her life. Why spoil her fun? Kirby is a nice boy. I know nothing against him."

John's mouth was forbidding.

"A child, Mona? Shirley is 20. You were less than that when she was born!"

"Yes, but that was different. Girls married younger in those days."

"Always making excuses, my dear. When will you wake up to the truth? Human nature hasn't changed, Mona. Girls still fall in love and we mustn't let it get that far in Shirley's case. Kirby Collins is not the man for her."

"Just why do you say that, John?"

SHE was sparring for time. Not let it get that far? John had not seen the starry wonder in Shirley's eyes when Kirby rang the bell tonight. What right, in heaven's name, had they to meddle?

"Oh," John spread his hands in an airy gesture of depreciation. "A temperamental young actor, improvident about money matters, happy-go-lucky! Why, the boy has never grown up, Mona. He's a regular Peter Pan!"

"But he has a very good part in the new play, dear. The reviews were most encouraging. They all commented on his performance. They called him 'promising stellar material.'"

"Promising!" laughed John. "They're all promising until the show flops. Then they're out on their uppers again, looking for a job. No, Mona, Shirley is not going to be allowed to fall in love with some one who is merely 'promising.' She will marry a man whom I can count on to support her adequately."

"But John, dear—"

Mona's valiant eyes fell before his steady stare.

"No 'buts' about it, my dear. Are you going to take the responsibility of putting an end to this thing or shall I?"

There it was. Final. It was John's way of terminating a discussion. He never left things comfortably unsettled. You could take what he had to say or leave it. There was no middle course. His pursued mouth always seemed to say, without bothering to put the thought into words: "You, Mona, promised to love, honor and obey me, John, until death do us part." If you were a wise wife and wanted to keep peace in the family, you held to your bargain.

"You're quite right, as usual, dear. I'll discuss the matter with Shirley tomorrow morning."

John patted her on the shoulder. His mouth relaxed. There was a proudly tender glint in his eyes.

"That's better, my darling. I was sure you'd come to see that my judgment is the better one in this particular case. Now shall we have a little game of checkers before bedtime? I think we have about an hour left. It is now"—he consulted his watch methodically—"um, yes, exactly 8 o'clock."

MORNING found Mona awkwardly unable to disillusion the pretty little daughter who sparkled up at her from the great four-poster bed. Shirley always woke like a lively puppy, eager to bark and shout at the new day. Mona slid the breakfast tray over her raised knees and stuffed an extra pillow at her back.

"How'd you manage it, mums?" The girl cocked an inquiring eye at the crisp toast and glass of orange juice.

Mona did not want to confess that John, who thoroughly disapproved of breakfasts in bed, had been lenient this once in view of the promised discussion between mother and daughter. She knew that he was glad to get out of the ordeal himself. Shirley could be difficult at times. John did not understand how to handle her.

"Father isn't an ogre, honey."

She was always explaining one to the other, smoothing away the friction between them. Shirley hadn't promised to love, honor and obey John. Modern girls didn't—not even their husbands, let alone their fathers.

"Did you have a good time, dear?" Mona adjusted the window shade casually, trying to control the trembling that wanted to get into her voice.

"Simply marvelous, mums. I've seen the show six times now and I never get tired of it. Kirby always puts in something new. I wish you'd have seen him in the scene where he reads his poetry to the heroine. Gosh, he was inspired!"

Mona knew that Shirley's ardent little soul had been up there on the stage letting Kirby's poems make love to her instead of the bored young leading lady to whom he was only another juvenile.

"Honestly, it doesn't seem as if Kirby were acting a part in 'Springtime,' mums," mused Shirley over the top of the fragile coffee cup. "He's just being himself. He really is that young dreamer type. Did you ever know that he actually does write poetry? Look, it's a secret!"

SHE pulled a slip of crumpled paper from its hiding place under the mattress. Right where her head had lain all night, thought Mona with an odd little wrench at her heart.

"I'll read it to you. It's a perfectly beautiful poem, mums. He sat up all night and wrote it by candlelight."

I have built battlements about my soul,
Towers and walls to fortify my heart,
And sentenced my wits to make patrol
Against the least invasion of one part.
You are the Queen of all this buttressed realm,
No least indweller there can serve you wrong,
No enemy without—

Shirley's voice broke. She thrust the poem at Mona.

"You finish it, mums. I can't. It's so b-b-beautiful that it hurts me way down inside somewhere."

There was a silly wetness to Mona's eyes. But she caught up the words and read them in the deep-throated emotion she gave to beauty wherever she found it.

No enemy without can overwhelm
This citadel of love I've built so strong!
Defender and protector, I, your vassal,
Have given you full sovereignty or none.
Content to tend the fire and offer was—sail
When you are pleased to see the red wine run;
Ah, sure, this is as fine and brave a castle
As ever lifted tower to the sun!

The last line was deadened by the sudden pounding of the steam radiator in the corner. It brought just the necessary mundane touch to the moment. Mona laughed a little foolishly and bent to kiss Shirley's shining eyes.

"Our Kirby's something of a genius, isn't he?" she temporized, making no reference to the rather obvious source of his inspiration. "Now scurry into your clothes, darling. It's Sunday morning, you know, and father hates us to be late for church."

"Oh, bother! I'd forgotten."

But the girl slipped dutifully to the floor.

John looked up inquiringly over the top of the Sunday editorial sheet as she joined him in the living room. Mona shook her head apologetically and placed a warning finger on her lips.

"Not now, she's coming."

She knew he thought it meant only a postponement of her report to him, not and delay in the promised conversation with Shirley. But somehow it had not seemed the right moment with Kirby's singing words saying lovely things to both their hearts. This afternoon, perhaps, when John went for his usual Sunday stroll with the dog.

The family made a pretty picture on its way to church. John swung his cane and tipped his hat gallantly to passerby. Mona and Shirley, clutching their prayer books tightly, were a little breathless trying to keep up with him.

"That's what I call a really happy marriage," commented Mrs. Blake across the street to her husband, who was tinkering with the radio. "They always seem to want to do the same things at the same time. Not a bit like us! There's Kathie upstairs sleeping like the dead after her party last night and Donald driving the car off, heaven knows where! I have to pull you to church by the hair of your head and that leaves me the only decent Christian out of the bunch!"

She rumpled his hair good-naturedly and helped herself to a dollar bill from his pocket for the collection plate.

The Edwards family graced their white Colonial pew in the community church and thought of different things under cover of the first hymn, which they chanted lustily.

John was complimenting himself on the harmony with which a man could run his family if he only made up his mind to it and remained firm.

Mona wondered why the stars on the ceiling seemed so far away today.

Shirley thrilled again to Kirby's kiss in the taxicab last night.

Afternoon gave Mona no better chance than morning for her conference with Shirley. Kirby dropped in for tea. Mona, fearful lest John come back and find him there, still snatched a moment to admire the boy's good looks. They made a heart-breaking picture, those two on the loveseat before the open fire. Shirley with her fine-spun honey curls catching the red glint of the flames and Kirby, his dark head and eyes bent to hers.

Such silly words they spoke!

"Lemon or cream, Kirby?"

"Lemon, Princess. Fancy your not knowing. It seems as if you ought to know every single thing about me by now."

"By now, Kirby? But it's only been a tiny month!"

"Sometimes one crams a whole lifetime into a single month, Princess!"

The girl's eyes said shyly that they understood his extravagance.

Mona's mind went winging back to her own courtship. She and John had sat primly across the room from each other. There had been another boy with him she had not been so formal. He had been only the local carpenter's son who wanted to paint. He had made a lovely study of her in red crayon. She had it still, among her papers somewhere.

John was a young man with ideas. He had money in the bank. He was going into trade. Her mother had said that he was a more practical consideration for her. The other boy had gone abroad when she married John. He was planning to study art in Paris. She had never heard of him since. Even his name was gone now, lost in the limbo of those dead things which she never allowed herself to remember.

The children were murmuring together drowsily.

"I loved the sonnet, Kirby!"

"I'm a thousand times repaid then."

His eyes said all the things he dared not put into words.

"I've been wondering whether I couldn't set it to music. There's an old song here in the cabinet, all frayed and torn. But I think it will do. I found myself humming it under my breath in church this morning. Look, Kirby, 'Beloved at Dawning.' I've loved it so much that I've worn it out! Come and sing your sonnet while I play it."

His rich, young baritone carried the words easily. They gathered power with the victorious ascent of the chords.

No enemy without can overwhelm
This citadel of love I've built so strong!

Shirley's hands let the melody fade out softly. For one charmed second the echo quivered in the air. Then the girl swirled about on the piano stool.

"A penny for your thoughts, mums!"

Her laughing voice, fraught with a new thrill, brought Mona back from the past.

"Just dreaming, dear; half asleep, I guess."

She roused herself. The room was getting dark with the first dim promise of winter twilight. The boy stood up. Perhaps he was going. It was safer that way. In the dusk his face looked like Leonardo da Vinci's Gabriel. He was coming toward her low chair with a curious flowing grace.

"Dear Shirley-Mother," he whispered and fell at her feet. "May I call you that?"

He was asking her to be his mother as well as Shirley's, asking thus to be allowed to love her little girl. Shirley, too, had crept to her knee. She let her hand rest tenderly on both their heads, the black head and the golden one. She felt about to crown young knighthood, the knighthood of youth which dares strange dragons for the sake of love.

John's heavy footsteps fell on the porch. The spell was broken. Shirley scrambled to her feet, pulling Kirby up with her.

"MORE logs on the fire, Romeo," she chanted. "Methinks I feel a chill in the air."

Kirby, his black eyes still drunk with ecstasy, fumbled blindly with the tongs. John found them that way, a little shrill, a little too insistent on their welcome for him. He stared suspiciously at the trio. Shirley's hair was tangled childishly about her face. Mona's smile was struggling to regain its poise. The boy's hands twisted at his side.

"What's this? What's this?" he demanded.

Mona was proud of Kirby. He walked straight up to John with outstretched hand.

"It means that I have the honor to ask if I may marry your daughter, Mr. Edwards. She means all of life to me."

John's face blackened. He ignored Kirby's hand and turned deliberately on Mona.

"So this is the way you mange to disabuse your daughter of the notion that I would be delighted to have a young moon-calf for a son-in-law!"

He faced Shirley, disregarding Kirby's hotly smoldering eyes.

"Your mother and I discussed this affair last evening. She promised me to forbid your wasting any further time over romantic poppycock. It's high time you came to your senses, young lady. When you marry, it will be a man of whom our father approves, not a young ne'er-do-well who knows how to spout pretty nothings but hasn't a dollar in the bank to take care of you!"

THE girl made a terrified little outcry and fled to the protecting circle of Kirby's arms. Her father seized her by the wrist and yanked her protestingly to the door.

"Upstairs to your room, Shirley! At once! I command it!"

She had been trained to obey that tone, thought Mona bitterly. Her feet lagged on the wide stairs now as they had done so many times before when John had banished her for some childish mistake. Kirby picked up his hat and gloves with a little gesture of finality.

"You are disturbing yourself needlessly, sir," he said stiffly. "I assure you that I shall not trouble you again."

He bowed over Mona's hand with accusing eyes.

"I had thought that you, at least, dear lady, understood!"

He made no noise in going. Only the faint click of the front door told them that it was the end.

"Good riddance!" snorted John. "I'm disappointed in you, Mona. You seem to have made a pretty mess of things."

Later she wondered whether she had been able to keep the burning resentment out of her eyes.

Things settled down quickly into their accustomed channels. Even life seemed to have a way of respecting the sacred routine of the Edwards family. Only Shirley's stubborn mouth remained a silent monument to the occasion. Mona could find no way of piercing her cold armor of indifference. For the first time in her life she found herself totally divorced from her child's heart. Shirley no longer trusted her. She believed that her mother had been playing politics behind her back. Mona knew that both she and John were hopelessly linked together as "enemies without."

Outwardly Shirley was an obedient little daughter who delighted her father and might have been expected to make glad a mother's heart. She ran errands, helped Mona entertain the ladies of the church guild, took books back to the library for her father and even stirred up his favorite devil's-food layer cake upon special request. But all the time Mona's soul was twisted over her wistful face with its pinched little chin and bleak eyes.

"She's taken this thing so nicely that I'm inclined to reward her," said John pompously after dinner one evening when Shirley had been sent across the street to return a borrowed phonograph record.

"Yes?"

Mona was listless, but she knew that she was expected to make some comment. Unless you answered him, John was likely to think you hadn't been listening.

"There's a mighty bright young lad down at the office. I want Shirley to meet him. How about having him up for dinner some night this week?"

Fred Martin turned out to be a square young man who would some day need to pay serious attention to his daily dozen.

Shirley was a great inspiration to him. He greeted her every remark with a, "Now wait a minute until I get that one down!" It developed that he had social ambitions and kept a record of brilliant bon mots for conversational purposes.

"A wise young chap," commented John eagely as soon as Shirley, at her father's suggestion, had taken him to the piano at the far end of the room. "He'll get far in the world. A self-made man, of course, but that's the only kind that counts. He never neglects an oportunity for self-improvement."

He had also, it seemed, an aversion for tron sheets of music. Mona held her breath when he located that poor frayed copy of "Beloved at Dawning." He held it contemptuously between two fingers and displayed it like Exhibit A in a murder trial.

"Too bad to let things fall to pieces. Now a strip of gummed paper would patch it up quite neatly. I have a handy little device in mind that I expect to net me quite a fortune one of these days. A small celluloid tab, fastened at the upper right-hand corner of the page, would greatly facilitate the turning of sheet music. Don't you agree with me, Miss Shirley?"

But Shirley, making a clutch at the already dilapidated sheet of music, had succeeded in completing its destruction. With half of it crumpled into a little ball held tightly against her heart she fled from the room, her racking sobs drifting back down the stairs. The two practical men of affairs faced each other with open mouths.

"And what, in heaven's sake, may this exhibition mean?" exclaimed John. He addressed only the swirl of air which his wife made in passing. For Mona had suddenly decided that there are times when a daughter needs her mother more than anything else on earth.

"Shirley, baby! Mother's sorry! Mother understands!"

MONA, taking the tempestuous body into her arms, slipped back into the long-lost days when she had comforted a tear-stained baby girl. But Shirley only pulled away and flung herself into a low chair before the dressing table. In the triple mirror Mona caught a frightened glimpse of three hard, young faces.

"Please leave me alone, mother. You don't understand. You couldn't understand in a thousand years!"

The old, old cry of youth to age.

Mona felt suddenly chilled and very weary. There was no way of explaining to Shirley without betraying John, without betraying her own cowardice which made her bend like a tree in the wind before his disapproval. Shirley had only seen the happy side of marriage. The child never dreamed of anything but perfect harmony between her parents. Mona had made sure of that, paid the price, too, of the dearly bought peace that kept the wheels of the family machinery well oiled. A woman couldn't tell her daughter things of that sort, couldn't explain that most marriages are built on compromise and sacrifices and learning to get along without love.

Shirley's life would not be that way, if she married Kirby Collins. Kirby might not always be able to buy her a new dress, but he would write sonnets to her. Kirby might be out of a job sometimes, but he would string kisses for pearls and clasp them around her neck.

Mona wrote him a brief letter that night and addressed it to the theatre. It was a very brief letter. Her hand shook a little as it scratched across the page:

Your Princess is drooping sadly these days, Kirby. She is taking tea at the Claremont tomorrow afternoon. This is ever so slender a hint for her gentil parfait knight. Iam sure that he will respecet my confidence.

Kirby was a gentleman. He would understand that not even Shirley must know about that letter.

In the morning Mona shipped her daughter off for a day in town with her most-to-be-trusted aunt. She saw to it that the child looked her nicest and lost no time in telephoning a discreet message to her sister as soon as Shirley was safely out of sight.

"The Claremont at 4.30. Don't forget to make apologies and slip away as soon as he shows up."

Mothers, all over the world, sitting back with folded hands to wait! Mothers making excuses in order that the miracle which they have missed may happen to their daughters!

"Where's Shirley?" John asked gruffly.

"Spending the day in town with Margaret. She needed some new clothes, John. She'll be here any minute now. I guess she missed the 5:40."

Strange how natural her voice sounded, considering that it was deliberately deceiving a man for the first time in twenty years. But Shirley's wine-sap cheeks when she danced in an hour later were worth the guilty pain in Mona's heart. The girl was bubbling over like a glass of charged water. Even her hair crackled with an amazing new vitality.

SHIRLEY was fortified even against her father's scolding for her embarrassing conduct in the presence of a guest on the previous evening. A beloved woman can afford to make apologies. They do not fray the edges of her self-respect.

"I'm sorry, father dear. I was a little nervous, I guess. I don't know what got into me. But I assure you that it won't happen again."

She loved the whole world tonight. Love affected its worthy initiates that way, thought Mona. It filled them with a surplus power that overflowed its bounds. It was as if they were fed so abundantly that there were loaves and fishes left to bless humanity's starving derelicts.

Shirley's increasingly frequent trips to town met with no opposition on Mona's part. Her rather lame excuses were swallowed innocently. It ought to have aroused the girl's suspicions, but she walked in trailing clouds of glory and was oblivious to everything except the miracle that had flowered in her own heart.

Mona held herself tightly in hand those days. Her nerves were a little jumpy. The telephone or doorbell had a way of making her start suddenly. There was a frazzling uncertainty about the course of time. She did not regret her decision. For Mona there was no turning back—only an anxious fever to get the thing over. Unless she was greatly mistaken in Kirby, it would not be much longer now.

She knew somehow that the end was in sight the night Shirley went to the piano and sang Kirby's sonnet. Her voice rose sweet and shrill to the upper hall where Mona sat at the sewing machine shortening the straps on the blue silk slip that matched Shirley's new flat crepe ensemble. Was she intending to be married in it? wondered Mona with painful eagerness. Suddenly the words of the song told her to hurry her swift stitches.

No enemy without can overwhelm
This citadel of love I've built so strong!

Mona blinked back the tears. Her eyes shone proudly. Shirley classed her as one of those enemies. She would never know that it had been her mother's hand which had restored to her that citadel of love from out the dust and ashes of its fall! One happy tear splashed wetly on the blue silk in Mona's lap. Shirley's wedding dress had been christened!

In the morning a large square box arrived from the most exclusive florist's shop in town. Shirley, looking suddenly very grown up in the shimmering folds of the blue ensemble, peeped into the layers of tissue and drew out a great bunch of double-headed violets.

"Oh!" she sighed reverently and buried her hot cheek among the bobbing flower faces.

A wedding bouquet carries itself with just a shade more dignity than any ordinary flowers! But Mona's voice was nicely casual.

"So pretty, dear. They match your dress. Do wear them. Wait a minute. I'll get another pin."

In Shirley's arms then for a whirlwind hug, little mother suddenly the younger of the two. Only a second longer now! Dusting to do yet. Beds to make. Clean sheets this morning. Think of the dusting! Think of the beds! To Shirley you are just "an enemy without." She must not know that you understand. She must not know that your heart, which should be breaking, is singing too loud a song for a funeral dirge!

Surprisingly Mona's hands were full of violets, no wetter than her eyes.

"You keep them, mums." Shirley's throat was tight. "Somehow I want it that way. They're so sweet—they're just like you!"

John came home to a quiet dinner table from whose damask center a bowl of violets blinked wise eyes in the candle light.

"Why all the festivity? You know I don't approve of wasting money on flowers, Mona. They're too perishable. Where's Shirley?"

For the moment she chose to ignore his last question.

"But this is a special occasion, John. We're celebrating an Indian war dance tonight. We 'enemies without' are going to get together and smoke our pipe of peace!"

Her level eyes said that there are times when an honorable gentleman must reverse the cases and obey his wife!

WESTERLY DOCTOR TESTIFIES IN AUTO DAMAGE SUIT AT WESTERLY

(Special to The Bulletin)

WESTERLY, Dec. 5.—Friday was the end of the second week of the Westerly adjournment of the November term of Washington county superior court with Justice Jeremiah E. O'Connell on the bench and the fourth day of the automobile damage case of Elisha R. Bitgood vs. Harry O. Williams and Edith C. Williams in the suit brought to recover damages in an automobile collision on the Noosenock Hill road on Oct. 5, 1926.

When court convened on Friday morning, Dr. John E. Ruisi, of Westerly, was put on the stand by the plaintiff to testify as to the injuries sustained by Mr. Bitgood in the automobile crash. The doctor said he was on the surgical staff of the Westerly hospital, South County hospital, Wakefield, R. I., Home Memorial hospital, New London, and St. Joseph's hospital, Providence, and held membership in the Westerly Medical society, South County Medical society, the American Medical society, and a fellow in the American College of Surgeons. In the World war he had volunteered for the Medical corps and finished U. S. service as a major and had probably operated in over 4,000 cases. On request of Dr. Edwin J. Knerr, of Hope Valley, R. I., who had attended Elisha R. Bitgood for his injuries in the auto accident, he had examined Elisha R. Bitgood on Oct. 12, 1928, two years after the accident in which he was thrown from his auto on the highway pavement, found that there was a scar on his nose, which had been broken, and the right nasal passage had been obliterated which later might develop into serious trouble, there was a weakness in his back and that injuries to bowels had resulted. Two large x-ray films taken at the Westerly hospital on Oct. 17, 1928, were examined and introduced as evidence to show injuries sustained in the pelvic region. He was cross-examined by Attorney George P. Slade for the defense and was on the witness stand when court reconvened at 2 p. m., after the noon recess.

Dr. Ruisi was on the stand but for a short time on Friday afternoon when he was excused. The bookkeeper for Mr. Bitgood with the books and records was present at the afternoon session as per request made on Thursday, but did not take the witness stand and Attorney Slade said that to shorten the trial he would dispense with the bookkeeping evidence. Attorney George Hurley for Mr. Bitgood, informed the court that his birthday was Oct. 11, 1930, at which time he was 51 years old and it was agreed that his life expectancy from Carlisle tables was 20 years. The plaintiff rested his case at 2:15 p. m.

All spare jurors, who had been in court during the morning session and returned for the afternoon session, soon after the court opening were excused to report on next Tuesday morning at 10:45 a. m.

In presenting the defense side of the case, Attorney Slade informed the jury that one main feature was the fact that testimony showed that the Williams automobile was on the right side of the highway. Other testimony would show that Mr. and Mrs. Harry O. Williams and Miss Anna Wilcox, of Quiambaug, Conn., had left Westerly early on the morning of the accident to go to Brockton fair at Brockton, Mass., that the weather was foggy and after they had passed the steam roller near Cord Wood corners, suddenly out of the fog and right on top of them was the Bitgood car.

Dr. Percy H. Rush, a rectum specialist with office in Providence, was placed on the stand as the first witness for the defense and testified that on Sept. 23, 1930, he examined Mr. Bitgood in his Providence office and found him to be suffering from three internal varicose hemorrholds which he said was not caused by any injury and no other regional trouble there, the cure being either a local treatment or minor operation which would only take five days in the hospital, a week at home, all over in two weeks. On cross-examination by Mr. Hurley, Dr. Rush said Mr. Bitgood had refused to give him any details at the time of his examination.

AUTOISTS APPEAL CASES IN 3RD DISTRICT COURT

(Special to The Bulletin)

WESTERLY, Dec. 5.—Judge Oliver H. Williams was on the bench in the Friday morning session of third district court when court matters were disposed of as follows:

Criminal docket—State, Thomas E. Brown, chief of police of Westerly, vs. Robert Gardiner. Continued three months.

State, T. E. Brown, vs. Anthony Lorello. Continued three months.

State, Frank H. Brown, chief of police of Hopkinton, vs. Thomas Spaulding. Continued three months.

State, Thomas E. Brown, vs. Howard Smith. Continued three months.

State, John F. Kennedy, Dept. state police, vs. James H. Wright. Continued three months.

Civil docket—Boston Lightning Rod Co. vs. M. Charenzia. Continued one week.

Boston Lightning Rod Co. vs. Amos Champlin. Continued nisi.

Massachusetts Bonding Co. vs. Lawrence H. Hepworth. Continued one week.

Mary McCarthy vs. F. T. Gillian. James W. Burke took the witness stand to testify that he, as agent, had let a store at Watch Hill on which there was a balance of $50 due on a monthly rental of $550 and a one-third lighting bill, which all totaled $79.75, for which decision judgment was given plaintiff with costs.

Morris Plan bank of Rhode Island vs. Santo Turano, Rose Turano, Catrina Turano and James Gradilone. A motion had been pending with Judge Turano for respondents and Henry Harris for plaintiff when judgment was rendered for the plaintiff in the sum of $536.32 and costs and with a waivure of the defense stipulation execution was staid by court order until Jan. 5, 1931.

Trial calendar—In the case of State, John F. Kennedy, Dept. of R. I. state police, vs. William R. Lubchansky, 198 Huntington street, New London, the defendant, represented in court by Attorney Henry Harris, entered a plea of nolo to the charge of operating an automobile, a Nash sedan, in Hopkinton, R. I., on the Nooseneck Hill road at a rate of speed greater than reasonable and proper, on Dec. 1. The state trooper testified that at Spring street in Hope Valley the Luchansky auto passed the state police auto at the foot of Hope Valley hill and proceeded up the hill in the face of oncoming traffic at 35 miles per hour and from Hope Valley to the Triangle filling station at a 56 to 57-mile rate and from the Triangle to Ashaway at 60 miles per hour. Attorney Harris said the alleged offense occurred in the day time and that the young man had his father, mother and another relative with him and would like to have judgment suspended in this case so that the young man, who wanted to earn money to go away to school, might not have his operator's license suspended. Judge Williams spoke of what might happen if horses were so "close driven" and that matters had progressed so far that authorities were out in the highways stopping drivers of autos on roads and begging them not to kill people. He said Commissioner Stoeckel of Connecticut had written a pamphlet that the education of auto drivers should begin in the kindergartens and children were instructed how to cross highways, and closed that he appreciated the eloquent appeal but—"The young man ought to have known better—the fine is $50 and costs." Notice of an appeal was given and Louis Silverstein became surety in the sum of $500 bonds.

Nathan Klein, of Brooklyn, N. Y., charged by Corp. Albert L. Taylor, of the Hope Valley barracks of the R. I. police, had Attorney Vincent I. McMann, of Providence, and pleaded not guilty to driving an auto so as to endanger people on the highways. Three autos were involved in the accident which occurred on the Nooseneck Hill road, and Arthur Collins, of Wood River, R. I., sustained a broken right leg in the crash in the town of Richmond. Corporal Taylor testified to the positions of the autos and Jessie J. Tanner, driver of a truck, and companion, Solomon Brown, of the operation of their truck, the latter mistaking the question, "Did you have a speedometer with you on your truck?" replying, "No, I had no sweetheart with me!" Mrs. Evangeline Collins testified as to the Klein auto hitting her husband's car. Klein was found guilty and sentenced to pay a fine of $100 and costs. Notice of an appeal was also taken in this case and the appeal will be heard in the February term of Washington county superior court.

Lt. Col. Thomas J. H. Pierce, 275 Washington, avenue, Providence, pleaded guilty to driving too fast in the town of Hopkinton on Nov. 25, when apprehended by Trooper John F. Kennedy in his Buick sedan. From the Meeting House bridge to Hope Valley he had traveled at 65 to 70 miles per hour. He was found guilty and fined $50 and costs, which he paid.

Real Estate Transfers

Recorded in the office of the Westerly town clerk appear the following transfers:

Dec. 4. Joseph Wescott Pascoe to Isabelle W. Rook, a certain tract of plot of ground, Lot No. 121, Fairview park, bounded easterly by Lot No. 120, northerly by the estate of Joseph Pascoe, westerly by Lot No. 122 and southerly by Fairview avenue.

Dec. 4. Isabelle W. Rook to Joseph Pascoe and wife, Maria Rose Pascoe, as joint tenants and not as tenants in common, the above-described tract of land containing approximately 4,500 square feet.

Called for Grass Fire

When Fire Alarm Box No. 27, Ledward avenue, near Granite Works, failed to work properly Friday afternoon at about 2:45 o'clock, a telephone call was sent to the Westerly fire headquarters station on Union street, and several single blasts were sounded on the fire whistle. The call was for a grass fire which had started in the Smith Granite Co. dumping lot at the rear of 53 Ledward avenue. The flames approached the rear fences and buildings of the houses at both 53 and 49 Ledward avenue and, fearing property loss, the alarm was sent in.

Three pieces of apparatus, two motor pumpers and hook and ladder truck, responded with force of firemen and under direction of Second Assistant Engineer Columbus Passetti a line of hose from a booster tank was laid and the flames quickly extinguished. The recall sounded shortly after 3 o'clock and the firemen returned to the Union street headquarters.

Patrolman LeRoy H. Norman is enjoying a two weeks' vacation from his Westerly police duties, Officer Robert M. Kessel now being the early morning patrolman.

The following committees for the benefit dance were named: Tickets, Frank P. Richards; music, Armand Plouffe; floor, Charles E. Hope; check room, Miss Ungerer, representing the Girl Scouts, and Roland Fitch, of the Boy Scouts; soda and refreshments. The committee has secured the services of a well known orchestra for this event.

At the meeting of the Owenco chapter, O. E. S., held in the Masonic lodge rooms at Palmertown Wednesday evening the following officers were elected: Worthy Matron, Mrs. Anna L. Dart; worthy patron, Frank T. Mitchell; associate matron, Mrs. Agnes Lamphere; associate patron, John Collins; conductress, Mrs. Martha Cowan; associate conductress, Mrs. Edith Kellogg. The appointive officers were not announced. The meeting was largely attended and included visitors from the nearby chapters. The next meeting will be held Wednesday, Dec. 17. At this meeting there will be a Christmas party and tree. Following the meeting refreshments were served by the supper committee.

Annual Inspection

A large number of members of Oxoboxo lodge, A. F. & A. M., attended the meeting Thursday evening in the lodge rooms at Palmertown. The annual inspection of the lodge was made by District Deputy Grand Master Morris B. Payne, of New London. This was followed by a supper that was enjoyed by all.

Earl Holmes, of Uncasville, accompanied by his brother from Hartford, left Friday afternoon on his annual trip to Vermont and they will bring back a truck load of Christmas trees.

Josephine Tryseck, of Pequot, left early Friday morning by motor for Boston, where she will spend the week-end with friends.

A large number of the local boxing fans motored to Taftville Friday evening and witnessed the boxing bouts held in Parish hall.

The condition of Albert Gesner, of Uncasville, who recently underwent a surgical operation in Lawrence Memorial hospital, is improving steadily.

STONINGTON

The Parent-Teacher association of Stonington borough met in the school Thursday afternoon. Mrs. William Kopp was elected president and Mrs. William Griffin secretary of the association at the meeting held a few weeks ago, and was given power to prepare a list of officers to serve. The list to date is: President Mrs. W. A. Kopp; vice presidents, William B. Noyes; superintendent of Stonington schools; Samuel E. Brooks, principal of Stonington high school; Miss Edyth Durgin, principal of Stonington grammar school; Mrs. Stanley Pierce; secretary, Mrs. William Griffin; treasurer, Miss Marion Mullaney of the Stonington high school faculty. Chairmen of the several committees are: Publicity, Samuel E. Stewart; school membership, Mrs. Owen J. Dennehey; hospitality and refreshments, Mrs. John Shannon; ways and means committee, Paul F. Broxy; program, Mrs. Edwin Pierce; school lunches, Mrs. Elias Clay.

LEDYARD

The Newell Missionary society held an all-day meeting at the parsonage Wednesday, Dec. 3, with an attendance of 13. Four quilts were tied. Dinner was served by the members and a social time was enjoyed before the business meeting that followed. The roll call and report of the last meeting was given by Mrs. Finegan, assistant secretary. A letter was read from Mrs. Flora Gray who could not be present. Miss Goer reported from Grenfell Mission. It was voted to divide the money collected for the year between home missions and foreign, the projects Miss Ruth Beebe of Athens, Ala., and Miss Dorothy Goodenough of Athens, Greece. There have been nine meetings during the year.

CENTER GROTON

Much more rain is needed here. Some wells are still entirely or nearly dry. Some streams which at this season are usually running are still dry. Water is being carried by many families from neighbors' wells which haven't yet failed; also water is still being carted to water stock and poultry by some farmers.

The mercury in thermometers has stood at eight and ten degrees above zero for the past few days, causing unemployment for many in this vicinity.

THE SOCIAL CORNER

THE BLACKSPOT IN OUR SUNSHINE MAY BE OUR OWN SHADOW

ACCOUNT OVER 125 YEARS OLD.

Dear Social Corner Friends: If one can judge from the last three Social Corner pages, there is no cause for complaint for there has been an abundance of letters, a full page and overwhelming. We can't all write every week but can try to do our share.

Dorinda: I am sorry to hear you are ill. Hope you will soon be better.

Student: Very sorry to hear of your loss. You have my sympathy.

Nannie Lou: How are you? Last time I saw you was at camp meeting.

Last week when it was so cold I picked a few dandelions in the pasture. Now we are having a spell of warm weather again with rain. Hope it rains enough to fill the wells and streams.

Zany tells us of an old account. It was very interesting, but I have one still older. Among some old papers in the desk I found this old account, dates running from 1801 to 1804. Most of the account was for making and mending shoes and work done in harvest. Money was reckoned in pounds, shillings and pence. I will give a few of the items: To sooling and capping a pair for William 1s 6d, to mending a pair for Philip 6d, to sooling a pair for self 1s, to mending a pair for Billy 1s, to sooling a pair for Pete 1s, to making a pair for Caty 2s 6d, to making a pair for Cornelius 8s, to mending a pair for Christopher 6d, to sooling and heal-tapping a pair for Charles 1s, to 5 days work in harvest 18s, to 8 days work in harvest. 11 4s, to 4½ days' mowing 11 s 6d.

This single sheet of paper is written on both sides and is brown and ragged with age. The writing is very plain, the ink having faded but very little. This account was kept by Cornelious Newkirk of Hurley, N. Y. The village of Hurley is very old, in fact it is as old as Kingston. It has a number of old stone houses and when visitors come to Kingston they always want to see Hurley, too.

When the Friendly Voice went on her trip she passed through familiar places to me. Kingston was our home town and my people live in Poughkeepsie.

My scrap box when sewing is a five pound oatmeal box. It stands on the floor out of the way and it's surprising how many scraps of thread and cloth find their way into it.

Here is a recipe for a pudding that I like. It is easy to make, economical and good. Put two cups of milk in a baking dish, crumble up two shredded wheat biscuits, let stand a few minutes. Add a scant half cup sugar, two tablespoons of molasses, one beaten egg and salt and bake until firm.

Thank you, Mr. Editor for the yellow slip. I bought three dozen of tulip bulbs with the dollar.

Hope every one had a happy Thanksgiving. And now it won't be long before we will be wishing our friends a merry Christmas.

Best wishes to sick ones and shut-ins. WILTWYCK.

INVITED OUT FOR DINNER.

Dear Social Corner Editor and Readers: I meant to have written before Thanksgiving, but time goes so fast I can't do all I want to. I hope all had a good Thanksgiving. This is the first time in 26 years that I did not prepare a dinner, but this year I was invited out and was glad for my mind could not dwell on past holidays. My friend had some of the best cranberry sauce I ever tasted, so I must ask her how she made it and will pass it along. She said when about half done put in some soda and I suppose that changed the acid. Anyway it was fine.

The papers are full of the hard times conditions. I wonder if it will teach this wasteful and extravagant nation to same some money when times are good. This is such a good country and has been so prosperous. It must be a terrible change to some.

Quid Nunc: I enjoyed your Thanksgiving letter and in fact all of them. I learned "The Bell of the Atlantic" when I was 16 years old. It was written by Mrs. Sigourney in memory of the ocean tragedy you speak of this week. CAPRICORN (Club 4).

ATTENDS 21 CORNER MEETINGS

Dear Editor of S. C. Members: During the past year Lowthorpe and I have attended 21 Social Corner gatherings so far which have been held in Norwich, Willimantic, Putnam, North Stonington, North Windham, Allyn's Point, Stonington and Westerly. We have had a most enjoyable time and many a fine dinner provided by the hostess and her assistants in the different places we have attended.

The trip to Foxglove's home in Southington was the longest and very delightful, as this was an ideal day to motor for a day's outing and we certainly found an open house. Club No. 4 has held two gatherings in the Methodist church at Putnam which were well attended and we received a most royal welcome. Club No. 1 of Willimantic had a picnic under a large tent at North Windham in July for which the hostess and assistants deserve great credit, also in July Bay State of Allyn's Point had a most enjoyable picnic at her place. This was July 9th and we encountered a heavy rain and hail storm on our return home about 5:30 p. m. Club No. 6 has held indoor gatherings in North Stonington, also in Westerly a number of times this year and we have been nicely entertained.

Some of our members have passed on during the year and we miss them at our gatherings. In all our meetings I have attended we have usually sat down to a dinner without a prayer or singing praises to the Father of us all.

MEADOW LARK

DOG STEALS CHICKEN

Dear Editor and Corner Members: Look at who's here, old man Wylie! First, let me thank the editor for yellow slip. I gave it to our community fund to by food food for the needy.

I hope you all had a lovely Thanksgiving with plenty to eat. Right here let me tell you of one couple's Thanksgiving. We'll call them Silas and Mary. They went to town Monday to do their shopping, buying what was needed for their dinner (barring the bird). Just as they were about to pass the A. and P. store they just had to stop, for the window looked so inviting. About a dozen turkeys, all ready to cook, were crowded together with parsley and celery. Higher up on hooks hung other gobblers. Said Silas to Mary, "Let us go inside." The smiling clerk was more than willing to sell them a bird. After choosing one within their means, Silas and Mary came out. A short distance down the street they met a friend who told them about an old lady who had fallen some time before and could only get about in a wheel chair. Silas and Mary cancelled their order for the turkey, took the money and bought the old lady a bath robe which she was much in need of.

Arriving home they decided to have chicken.

Thanksgiving morning they attended services in the Community chapel. Home again, Silas started a brisk fire in the kitchen range while Mary put on her working clothes preparatory to starting dinner. She went to the pantry. Like Old Mother Hubbard, the cupboard was bare. She called Silas and together they hunted without finding the chicken. Silas lighted a lantern and descended the cellar, because Mary was sure Jip had dragged it there. Well, it was too late to kill another chicken and anyway Thanksgiving was a day of fasting and not feasting. Wasn't David and Abe of radio fame eating scrambled eggs because they lacked the heart to kill Jim, their pet turkey, that they had hatched from an egg and hadn't Jim roosted on David's bed for the past six years.

Silas and Mary had about given up plans for any dinner when a little boy came to tell them to get ready because his grandpa was sending a car for them. About 11 the car came and took Silas and Mary far into the country to a fine old farm place, where they had a fine dinner and a pleasant afternoon.

Sunday morning Silas went to a dark clothes press to get his rubbers. As he straightened up he knocked down an old coat and what do you suppose he saw hanging on the nail? Why, the chicken to be sure, right where he hung it Thanksgiving morning, before going to church. He said he didn't want Jip to eat it. Mary said isn't that just like a man? Sunday they invited a needy family in and together they cleaned up the chicken with all the fixings. You know the old saying, you give and you'll get.

Next day Silas and Mary dined on honest-to-goodness turkey right off the farm, they having been invited to a (we can't say barn raising, but a garage raising; of course they both worked but they didn't mind). I forgot to say that Jip is a dog and Silas left the cellar door open.

Now that the subject of wet and dry is being thrashed out by almost everybody these days, would it be amiss if I ask about dry feet? No, I don't want to stand in a puddle. This is no joke. I've used a quart of lotion, in fact as fast as Biddy buys it I use it, but it doesn't do any good. My horses used to get cracked heels. I've never known of humans having them. I used grease from the wagon wheels on my horses' heels when cracked, but don't know as I want any on me. I guess I'll have to soak my feet in hot molten tallow, they say that's good.

Well, it's pretty cold today, can't say I like it none too well. Guess we all like the summer best. Some are better fixed for cold weather than others. Their homes are warm and cozy from top to cellar, while others have only one fire, that in the kitchen. We have much to be thankful for. Hope no one is really cold or hungry. When you turn the faucet at your sink be very careful, for there are those who have to go for water three miles away, using their car to get enough to last the day. What would these same people give to be able to have hot or cold water aplenty just for the mere turning of a tap.

This letter is getting long so will close. Here's hoping you all will do your shopping early and that you will really be able to shop, by that I mean able to go about and see things and with a little money to buy. Here's happiness in giving.

Best wishes for Christmas.

ANSWERS AND INQUIRIES

BLACK WALNUT: Your name has been added to the Social Corner list.

GETTING A THRILL

Dear Editor and Social Corner Members: Doubtless the time comes to us all when we begin to think there is little in life to give us a real thrill. Especially is this true following a severe illness, or operation, and weeks of seemingly quarantine. But the one great thing is "Don't lose your pep." If that's good for one, it's good for many, and the first thing you know you are getting into a state of mind when you feel it is thrilling to awake and find the sun shining and know you are able to get up and sail into any kind of work that comes to hand. You will get real joy just to be alive and able to do any kind of work. To have your hands in dishwater once more is a real privilege. Your enthusiasm grows until— well you're ready for a real thrill like going up in an airplane or some little thing like that. Is that thrilling? Does a canary sing? Try it and be convinced. Let us make each new day better than the last.

Thanks, kind Editor, for my prize slip. It surely was a surprise to me. How many can answer the following guessing stunt: Pleasant people ponder, please; Here's a pot that's piled with peas. Patience plenty, place your guess; How many does the pot possess? Best wishes for a merry Christmas and prosperous New Year to one and all.

"HOPE COBWEB." (Club No. 1)

CHRISTMAS PARTY AT PUTNAM

Dear Social Corner Editor and Friends: The members of Club No. 4 in Putnam are planning something a little different from the average Social Corner meetings. I am planning a Christmas party, Dec. 11, at St. Philips church, Grove street, Putnam. I hope it will be so that all the club members and friends will be able to come. There won't be a roll call this time, but we would like to have everyone who comes to bring a ten cent gift (nothing over ten cents) wrapped up and pen name inside. These gifts will be given out during the afternoon programme.

Don't forget your plate, cup, knife, fork and spoon, also your goodies. Everyone come who can and make it a regular Christmas party.

PINE CONE

CHRISTMAS IDEAS

Dear Social Cornerites: Greetings. Some time ago I read this and thought how true it is and why not try it out and see how it brightens our outlook on life:

Never tell a friend your troubles;
Telling it makes your trouble double;
Tell him a joke and make him laugh;
That will cut your trouble in half.

As the Christmas season gets nearer everyone is busy and the children all excited, every night when they come in from school they have a new idea, and the older ones are soon getting in line. Pretty waste paper baskets are made from cartons from the grocery. Bind them around the top with a piece of cloth to make strong and cover with wallpaper or some other bright papers. One with animals will do nicely for the kiddies to put their toys in.

Coat hangers made with a strip of bright cloth the length of the hanger, cut to the shape of the wooden part and about six inches deep in the center with a slot five inches long and bound with bias binding then bind both together with the tape. This leaves a space for gloves, so you can always find them.

We have been making door stops with discarded milk bottles, filled with sand, and dressed like a mammy. Done with oilcloth they are easily cleaned but we have used gaudy colors for gay effects. Sumac made them of the insulators the power company threw away along the road.

Pajama bags of rayon are pretty. Three fourths yard of cloth, seamed like a bag and a half inch hem, put a draw string in one end every four inches gather to 12 inches of top, making the gathered part six inches long. When you get up in the morning put your pajamas in and fluff up and you have a fancy pillow. These are gifts at almost no outlay.

I wonder how many heard and took to themselves the wonderful sermon Amos gave Andy on Thanksgiving night. It was something we could all give heed to.

American Girl: Did you ever think when Charlie Dutton was a youngster here that he would ever write such books. His father was my pastor for 17 years, so we knew him real well.

Sister Rhody: Have been to a demonstration given by Mrs. Dakin today (Thursday) on food for weight. I took a salad of cabbage with marshmellow cut and pineapple mixed with it. Often serve it at home as we all like it. I have a pressure cooker and think I just couldn't can without it, but seldom use it for cooking as it takes so long for the pressure to get up and for it to go down before I can open it that I find I don't save any time and it has to be watched so closely too. But I certainly do use and like my electric cooker. I put in a pot roast and plug in and prepare vegetables, put them in and forget them till dinner time when they are all done, and as we use such a small amount of water the flavor is delicious.

Lular Wylie: When I finish this letter I am going to do the crossword puzzle that was in last Sunday's Globe. I do one every day.

Susanna: Every time that I read one of Lincoln's books I shall see him as you describe him.

Betsy Bobbet: Am sorry you didn't have better luck with the rat poison as nearly every one had most wonderful success. A little later I will tell you somewhere near how many rats were really killed in this campaign.

I hope someone that attends the A. F. B. F., in Boston will give an account of it. This year I am not going to send cards as I have for some time, instead I am going to spend the money for overshoes for some youngsters that need them. I think it would be well if many would do the same thing these days when so many are out of work and need so many things. Any way I think my friends know that I wish them merry Christmas just the same.

Clarie: This applies to you too. What happened to you? Never see you any more. Just finished another rug, the best one yet. Guess this is aplenty for this time.

MILKY WAY.

BOOKS

Dear Social Corner Friends: Doesn't it give you a thrill to pick up a book review and read a favorable report of a book which you have enjoyed reading in a magazine? Sister Rhody and I enjoyed Booth Tarkington's Mirthful Haven" very much indeed and now that it is published in book form it is called one of the best of his novels.

I've been having lots of fun these last few days, looking through all the advertisements in the papers and magazines and choosing which books I'd like to have if Santa would only be so kind as to bring them to me. And the papers are full of these ads. It seems as if all the publishing houses had been waiting till just before Christmas to bring out all their books. First, I'd like Admiral Byrd's own story "Little America," the $50 edition, if you please. "Two biographies stand next on the list, certainly they would be unalike!" "A Roving Commission," Winston Churchill's story of his early life; and "Memories and Vagaries," by Axel Munthe. "The American Leviathan," by Charles and William Beard is an analysis of our governmental machine. As I am much interested in birds, I think I would find "To Africa With the Migratory Birds," the story written by Bengt Berg of the travels of the cranes. Two books of poems comes next; "The Collected Poems of Robert Frost," and "Lyric America" an anthology of American poetry written in the period 1630-1930. "Seven Day's Darkness" by Gunnar Gunnarson wouldn't be a pleasant book, if one judges by the reviews, but it would certainly be an interesting one; for that matter, so would Will James' autobiography, "Lone Cowboy." No list of mine would be complete without several historical novels and these are represented by "The Deepening Stream" by Dorothy Canfield, and in contrast, "Arundel" a story of the Revolution and Arnold's march on Quebec. "Conversation," a brilliant essay by Andre Maurois has been highly commended and no one could pass by "Adventures in the African Jungle" by Carl and Mary L. J. Akely without at least a peep inside its covers. Does this complete the list? Not quite, for I'd like a collection of short stories of 1930, either the O. Henry Memorial Award ones or O'Brien's collection. And last but not least, I'd like John Oxenham's "The Splendor of the Dawn" a story of the times immediately after the Crucifixion. Now can anyone say that they didn't know what I'd like to have for Christmas?

Tonight I am reading "Over the Hills" the new book by Jeffery Farnol. It is one of those fantastic, adventurous romances, skimmed today, forgotten tomorrow, but for the moment exciting, thrilling. Just before supper I left poor Adam Thursday, the hero, in a woeful predicament and now I must pick up the book more and read him out of it.

CLUB No. 1'S CHRISTMAS PARTY

Dear Social Corner Sisters: Just a reminder of our meeting of Club No. 1. Come to the Y. M. C. A. and don't forget our Christmas box and also something good to help make a good dinner, Wednesday, Dec. 10, at the Willimantic Y. M. C. A.

TOO LATE.

JOINS THE CORNER

Editor Social Corner: Could you find a chair for one more in Club No. 4? Thank you. Maybe it will be beside the lady next to me in the picture taken at Moses wife's home. My pen name will be

BLACK WALNUT.

APPRECIATES LETTERS FROM SISTERS

Dear Social Corner Sisters: I shall write a few brief lines to express my appreciation for your kindness to me. It was indeed a great pleasure to hear I was a member of Club 4 and would receive the Norwich Weekly Bulletin. A copy has been received and I enjoyed erading it very much.

I want to say I have received some mighty fine letters and cards from the sisters. It helps one while the dreary hours away. I am sending a few clippings from our local papers which may be forwarded to Club 4, giving the Indian news. Quite a few of these were patients of mine while still in training school before entering the U. S. army nurses' corps for service in the great war. To you these names will seem queer and I shall write about them later. We live in the Cheyenne and Arapohoe Indian country opened for white settlement, 1893.

Many of these Indians wear their native costumes as in days gone by.

Again I shall thank you most sincerely for your kindness to me, and to hear from many Corner sisters.

EHSTER E. BENGS.

RAISING BITTERSWEET

Dear Social Corner: As usual I have put off writing until Thursday morning. Sometimes my letter does not reach the office in time to be printed that week. For the sake of those who do not find time to write, I will say that I have to take the time or it would never be done.

Isn't it nice to have the sun shine again after so many cloudy wet days? Our brook is full once more and let us hope that the wells are getting their share of the water.

Have any of you tried raising bittersweet from seed? A friend brought me a lovely bouquet of the berries and I have planted those that fell off. Several years ago I bought a bittersweet vine and although it blooms it never has any berries. Is this because the plant is sterile to its own pollen?

Betsy Bobbet will not care to trade gardens with me when she learns that my chrysanthemums bloomed once in four years. There must be some early blooming varieties that succeed for us, so let's keep on trying. I have several kinds and only two of them opened their buds. The one that I liked was a small double yellow. This spring I sent to a Vermont nursery for an early chrysanthemum called Red Indian. Like most of the other varieties I have tried, it's buds did not open. But there's always another year to look forward to or there would be less fun in these garden experiments.

One of our reader friends asked how to prepare chrysanthemums for the winter. The old stalks should be broken off and after the ground freezes the plants may be covered with leaves. Early in the spring they may be dug up, divided and reset in rich soil. As they have shallow roots, the plants need watering often during the summer. One year I followed some directions which said to keep the tips of the plants picked off until mid-June. I shall not do this again for it made them later in budding.

I know that Betsy Bobbett is going to enjoy looking through her catalogs for evergreen perennials and I wish that we could do it together. There are many shrubs and vines that keep their green leaves all winter and I plan to add to my small collection. I have a few dwarf perennials that are evergreen. One of these is candytuft. This summer I planted seed of Helianthemums or sun roses and they have a good start. Another dwarf evergreen is the Daphne Cneonem or garland flower. I set one out this spring and its dainty pink flowers added fragrance to the garden then and again in the fall when it bloomed a second time. I am trying to get more plants by layering its branches, but don't know whether they will root or not.

Now it is time for me to take that little walk down to the mail box. Yesterday I was delighted with a long letter from Black Eyed Susie. Am I going to receive one from Pernickety today?

SISTER RHODY.

LETTER CONCERNED AN ANCESTOR.

Dear Social Corner: The letter by Quid Nunc to the Social Corner was interesting to me because Hiram Tarbox was my father's great uncle. I have been told stories of Uncle Hiram and family ever since childhood but never heard before of his narrow escape from drowning. I knew a gentleman who had Uncle Hiram's old sleigh and he told me it was a grand turn out in its day with its span of horses. His two daughters used to attend Hanover church and no doubt used this sleigh many a time to make the journey from Versailles or Eagleville as it was then called. Another old lady of Hanover told me she attended church when a child and thought when she grew up she wanted to be as near like the Tarbox sisters as possible, they were so handsome looking and so well dressed:

Quid Nunc: I think you said you liked to do crossword puzzles. I might have known you were a relative of mine for I do all the puzzles I can get hold of. Think they are great fun and also a help to my vocabulary.

Hope you will write some more family history. LONE EAGLE.

An OLD SNUFF BOX

Mr. Social Corner Editor and Members: Can anyone tell me how old it is, or anything about my snuff box? It came to me a good many years ago from an old person. There is the picture of a lady with a white cap on her head and a kerchief around her neck. It shows red sleeves, a black or very dark bodice and a green skirt. She is sitting paring an apple. There is a basket of them at one side. It also shows a part of the chair she is using a dog may be at one side. This is the larger picture. Turning it around there is a lamb standing on its back feet. Turning it quite over it may be a tub or demijohn.

Have enjoyed reading about sage cheese and would like to tell how mother did her coloring. She picked several handfuls of sage and then picked pole-bean leaves. She said to color it she put the leaves in the little mortar and pounded them to start the juice, she said, then poured boiling water over them and in the morning strained it into the milk and the cheese. It always came out a nice sage green.

In mother's day there came up in her garden what she called none-so-prettys, a light green plant with printed leaves and clusters of white and magneta flowers on top.

There are all kinds of meal these days, but none like John Thomas Leach and Uncle Jonah Witter used to grind when daddy carried some Rhode Island white cap corn up and had it ground. J. C.

APPROVES SUMAC'S IDEAS

Dear Social Corner Friends: I must write and thank the editor for the prize I received. I was much surprised and pleased to receive it and I think it encourages the members to write oftener.

I enjoy Sumac's letters and think her way of doing things and taking time for enjoyment is much better for mothers and their families than to wear themselves out and be in ill health and cross half the time.

I suppose many are busy with Christmas gift, making or buying, now that Thanksgiving is over.

We are enjoying our furnace since the cold spell and have put the auto up. Rather listen to the radio in cold weather. I saw the play, "The Old District School," the other evening and think it would interest the writers who have written of them. Best wishes to all. IVY.

THE PASSING OF THE TIN PEDDLER

Dear Social Corner Editor and Readers: I won't say this is the last letter I will ever write to the Social Corner page, but it will doubtless be the last one I will write to the page this year. I see so many writers who are faithful to write so regularly and such interesting letters that I forget to do my part; although I have written a few letters during this year.

Hope all had a pleasant Thanksgiving with family and friends and now all will be busy getting ready for Christmas holidays that are fast drawing near. Surely tempus fugit.

In reading Quid Nunc's last interesting letter I notice he mentions about once being a tin peddler. I can remember when but a small child of being held up in my mother's arms so I could look into a tin peddler's cart. From that time on, for years after, I was tall enough to see in a cart myself; it was always an exciting time when one came along.

The peddler would open the long doors that swung upward on hinges on either side of the cart and how bright the array did look of tin cups, dippers, spoons, pails, ladles, skimmers, etc., hanging on hooks from the edge of a shelf above pans, boilers, tubs, wash boards and many other useful household articles, too numerous to mention. Either rags at so much a pound were given or money in exchange for articles wanted. The bags of rags were put on top of the cart that had an iron railing around the edge to keep bags from falling off and sometimes these were tied down when piled very high.

The cart, when piled high with bags of rags, was often nearly if not quite twice as high as the horse, which was usually a docile animal perfectly willing to stop any length of time, especially if it had a feeding nose bag with some oats in it.

The peddlers, as I remember, were, with a few exceptions, obliging and anxious to trade their wares for rags or money. What varied experiences they must have had driving from place to place and dealing with this and that housewife; as in most instances think it was women of the homes they dealt with. I wonder if they ever felt anxious where they would find a night's lodging when night overtook them; but doubtless they felt sure of some farmer who would be willing to keep horse and driver for one night.

Various reasons were given by these peddlers why they took up this way of earning a living.

One fellow, from northern Vermont, a college graduate, being poorly in health and at advice of his physician to be out of doors, had taken up this way of living. He used to come along quite regularly once or twice each year until at the end of the third year he was a healthy, husky fellow and ready to go into business for himself so we never saw or heard from him any more.

Wonder if any of the readers of this page have any such fellows with tinware coming along their way now?

I haven't seen a tin peddler's cart for years, but we do have rag men come along occasionally, who buy rags, magazines and papers; but they will soon be a thing of the past. In these days if such a thing as a tin peddler should stop in a village how the folks would flock around and doubtless some articles would be taken from his cart without so much as saying by your leave not intending to pay for them.

Some of the baker carts are treated in this way when they stop to trade in villages, I have been told. Times have so changed as to the honesty of people.

I have heard a rumor that Club No. 4 is to have a Christmas party some time this month and am sure all will be glad to have that rumor prove true before long.

Now I have written a long letter so will wish all a Very Merry Christmas and Happy New Year.

AMERICAN LOYALTY NO. 4

CLUB 2 MEETING IN BUCKINGHAM

Dear Corner Writers: Club No. 2 will meet in Buckingham Memorial, Dec. 9 (Tuesday). Those who promised beans, salads, etc., for November please bring them for this dinner as we had no November meeting.

Bring something for a programme. A little music, readings or anything you will do to help out after dinner.

Scottie: Thanks for birthday card and gift.

True Blue: Your gift was very nice. Many thanks.

Nov. 25 was like Christmas. I had gifts and gifts. It was a happy day for me. Cards, well and then some, to top off with a surprise party in the evening. Isn't it wonderful to have friends that are friends when they are with you and also when they are away from you.

Well, here is the closing word.

Come to the Buckingham, Dec. 9. Bring your friends and food for dinner and make the table well filled with writers.

Merry Xmas to each and every one.

CALLA LILY

SANTA IS COMING

Dear Editor and Corner Sisters: In my letter last week, in telling of the curtain tie backs, I omitted the fact that the leafs are cut double, stitched up and turned right side out. Sorry I forgot this detail.

Will each member of Club 6 please bring a ten cent gift to the December meeting as Santa has promised to be with us again this year.

AMERICAN GIRL (Club 6.)

TAKES PENNAME OF ANOTHER

Dear Social Corner: I had the pleasure of visiting one of the Social Corner's meetings and was very much impressed and would like to become a member and will take for my pen name Faith.

(You have selected a penname that belongs to another member. Please choose something else and your membership will be recorded. S. C. Editor).

STOCKS IRREGULARLY HIGHER, DUE TO A RALLY IN LAST HOUR OF MARKET

NEW YORK, Dec. 5.—(AP)— Stocks crawled a couple of notches nearer their November lows today before rallying in the last hour.

Except for the rails, which refused to respond to the reversal of trend noted elsewhere, the market closed irregularly higher, with small gains in many of the favorite industrials and utilities. Sales of 1,580,265 shares were just under yesterday's turnover.

Again the trading was more active when prices were declining than when they were rising. The increased activity during the middle of the session was accompanied by sufficiently large offerings in a number of issues to suggest the presence of real liquidation. This was especially true of the rails, which provided the day's largest losses—one to seven points. About a dozen important carrier shares reached new lows, among them New York Central, Lackawanna, Nickel Plate, Jersey Central, Frisco, Southern Railway, Texas and Pacific, and Louisville and Nashville. In the other groups extreme recessions were from one to three.

Reports of seasonal improvement in retail buying counteracted further unfavorable November sales reports by chain stores. Bradstreet's said the expansion had been moderate, attributing it to the weather, the release of Christmas savings funds and "mark downs." According to Dun's, buying is somewhat less than normal, although this review added that "such results were to be expected after prolonged and far reaching economic readjustments."

The day's routine news was enlivened a bit by what were regarded as overtures from the Royal Dutch Shell group for a campaign to stabilize crude oil prices. In the words of an official of this corporation, the steel and copper industries have taken the first step toward strengthening their position so, "Why not oil?" The stock market, however, apparently was willing to await more definite developments, and the petroleum shares moved with the remainder of the list.

Steel ingot production in November, like pig iron, was down sharply from October and established the lowest daily average for any month since July, 1924. It was the poorest November in nine years. Hopes for improvement in December are exceedingly small; in fact, some forecasters are expecting operations to decline to 35 percent of capacity before the movement is reversed.

The other markets were irregular. United States government bonds, which have been making steady progress, participated in the general decline of the domestics, particularly rails. Foreign bonds did well, with the German 5 1-2s strong.

BOND MARKET

NEW YORK, Dec. 5.—(AP)— Pressure against carrier obligations contributed to unsettlement of domestic bonds today. Losses of two points or more were distributed through the list of rail bonds and the day's decline carried many to new lows for the year. Even those of higher quality eased as liquidating expanded.

As has frequently happened this fall, the market had its busiest session of the week as sellers dominated activity. United States government issues which of late have ignored the fluctuations in corporation bonds suffered from the decline, receding about 1-16th on an average.

A different picture was presented by the foreign section where the strength of German governments and some other obligations originating in that country was marked. German International 5 1-2s were in active demand. At a closing price of 74, it was 1 1-2 higher on the day and six points above the record low.

The reaction in railroad bonds was the sharpest in several weeks and was attributed to the weakness of shares which tends to impair confidence in investment issues. The drop of nearly a point in the average of 10 rails was the principal factor in the general average dropping 1-2 point to a new 1930 minimum. It was the third new low in as many days.

A ten point drop in New York, Ontario and Western 4s represented the extreme decline in the rail group. Bonds of the Erie were sharply depressed to new 1930 bottoms. Erie 5s of 1967 dipped six points, the 5s of 1975, 3 7-8, Gen 4s 11-8 and the infrequently traded convertible 4s, 5 3-4. Allegheny Corporation issues broke through the lows reached in a spectacular drop several weeks ago. The 5s of '44 declined 5s, and the 5s of 1949, 4 1-2.

Frisco bonds were heavily traded. The 4 1-2 reacted two points. The lien 4s lost 3-4 but closed unchanged. Among issues at new 1930 minimums were St. Paul 5s of 1975, Northwestern 4 1-2 C, Denver, Rio Grande and Western 5s, Duluth, South Shore and Atlantic 5s, Great Northern 5 1-2s, Missouri Pacific 5s, G. and H. and the 5 1-2s A, Nickel Plate 5 1-2s A.

Investment issues of communications and electric companies were heavy but as a whole displayed better resistance than other domestics, the largest losses were in Kansas Gas and Electric 4 1-2s, New Orleans, traction 5 1-2s, North American Edison 5 1-2s and Utilities Power and Light 5s. Peoples Gas and Coke of Chicago sixes advanced four points.

Some of the oils and sugar bonds were liquidated. Texas Corporation 5s and Shell Union 5s eased to new year's lows. Sugar Oriente 7s sagged two points and Punta Alegre 7s were five points lower.

NEW YORK, Dec. 5.—(AP)—The rising trend of failures that is usual toward the close of a year appears in this week's statement, which shows 598 defaults in the United States, R. G. Dun and Co., reports. The total is 29 above the last full week's report and compares with 455 a year ago. Insolvencies involving liabilities of more than $5,000 each increased to 379 last week from 334 in the last full week and compared with 297 in the corresponding week of 1929.

Weeks of inactivity in the domestic hide markets finally were succeeded during the past week by the development of a large business, Dun's says. Prices had been declining almost steadily, but recovered in some directions in the past week on transactions involving several hundred thousand hides. In addition to those commitments packers made bookings to subsidiary tanning concerns and one seller reported having experienced hides at better prices than were obtainable from domestic interests.

H. H. Franklin, president of the H. H. Franklin Mfg. company announced that F. J. Haynes, former president of Durant Motors, had become a vice president and director of the Franklin company. Mr. Haynes left the Franklin organization several years ago to become president of Dodge Bros.

CHICAGO GRAIN MARKET

CHICAGO, Dec. 5.— (AP)—Enlarged receipts here and at other market centers gave a sudden tumble to corn values today, but wheat received adequate support, ascribed to government sponsored sources. Besides, reports of poor wheat yields came from Argentina.

Corn closed heavy 1 1-8a2 1-8 a bushel lower than yesterday. Wheat closed irregular, 1-8 off to 1-2c up, with oats at 5-8 decline to 7-8c advance, and provisions from 15 lower to a rise of 12c.

THE CURB MARKET

NEW YORK, Dec. 5.—(AP)— Curb market shares again worked irregularly lower today, although partial recovery was recorded in the last hour. Trade expanded moderately, making total sales for the day 509,500 shares, the first time the half million share level has been exceeded in more than a week.

The prominent oil shares attracted support after sagging in spots during the early trading. The decided stand taken by Royal Dutch officials in favor of stabilization of crude prices, at a time when the industry is faced with low consumption, low prices and considerable uncertainty, may have helped this group. Declines of a point or so in Cities Service, Gulf and Standard of Ohio were regained before the close, Cities Service closing up half. In the lower priced issues, Derby sagged half to a new low at 2 1-2, and British American lost nearly 2 points.

The utilities followed a similar course, moving more narrowly than they have of late. Electric Bond and Share sagged more than a point, then rallied to close off only 1-8. After sagging 1-2 points, American Gas closed up half. American Superpower and Niagara Hudson closed about steady.

Industrials and specialties were irregularly lower. Novadel Agene gained about 2 points in response to the larger dividend, but Aluminum Company lost 2 points, and Cooper Bessemer, Courtaulds, and Gleaner Combine new shares sagged a point or so in a few sales.

Most of the insurance stocks also declined in light trading. Guardian Fire, Employers Reinsurance, Insurance Company of North America, and Fire Association of Phila. lost a point or two. In the investment trust and holding company group, United Founders touched 8 1-4, a new low and closed at 8 3-4, off only 3-8. Securities Corporation, General and Reliance Management sagged about 1 to 2 points to new lows.

Mining shares were mixed. Noranda rallied a point in a fair turnover, while Newmont sold off as much in light trading. In the natural gas shares, Natural Fuel Gas lost 2 points and Southwest Gas Utilities touched a new minimum at 3 1-2.

IN NORWICH FIFTY YEARS AGO

Two weddings took place here fifty years ago this week. Edgar L. Dennis and Miss Josie Rice were united in marriage by the Rev. William S. Palmer and the other local couple united in wedlock was Alfred N. H. Vaughn and Miss Mary E. Ladd. Interesting extracts taken from the files of The Norwich Bulletin of a half century ago follow:

Monday, Nov. 29, 1880—Captain Lamphear of the steamer City of New York of the Norwich & New York Transportation company's line, retired for the winter, Saturday. He has run steamers on the sound for 37 years without an accident, having been in the employ of the present company for 17 years. His temporary retiring promotes First Pilot Pelton to the captaincy of the New York, Mr. Chappell to first pilot and Nathan Richards to the position of second pilot.

Howorth's Hibernica and Star Comedy company will exhibit in Breed hall on Thursday evening of this week. It will be remembered that this combination appeared here last season and gave excellent satisfaction. Reserved seats are now on sale at Noyes' and Davis'.

The wife of Wesley B. Fox, of this place, who has been missing several weeks has turned up in New York. She has been to England looking after property interests there.

A collection amounting to $302 was recently taken up at St. Patrick's church in this city for the purpose of assisting in the completion of the cathedral at Hartford.

Tuesday, Nov. 30, 1880—Chief Engineer Carrier has received from Frank Smith, son of the late Alba Smith, old records of the fire department, covering the purchase of two Waterman hand engines by the city in 1846, the contract for building supply reservoirs, and other papers of interest to the department. As a reminder of other days they are highly appreciated and will be carefully preserved.

Charles, the 13-year-old son of George E. Rogers, residing on Sherman street, ran upon a pile of stones left unlighted on the walk west of the William M. Williams engine house, on that thoroughfare, last night, and tore the flesh from the knee nearly to the ankle of his left leg, making a severe and painful wound.

The night school opened in a cozy little room in Steiner's block, last evening, under the most favorable circumstances. Amos A. Browning has been engaged to teach the school and will be assisted by Miss Greenwood who has been connected with the work ever since these schools were organized. There were 30 pupils present and they made a promising beginning. The term will probably be 15 weeks in length.

Wednesday, December 1, 1880—The social event of last evening was the marriage of Miss Josie Rice at the residence of her father, E. S. Rice, Esq., in Preston, to Edgar L. Dennis, a graduate of the Free Academy, and a partner of Mr. Rice in the fine art business. The service was performed by the Rev. William S. Palmer. The presents were choice and the guests, in addition to the families of the parties, included kinsfolk from New York, New London and Providence. The wedded pair left the city by the steamboat train for New York.

The residents on East Broad street are somewhat exercised on the sewer question. They propose to petition for the building of a trap on Franklin street, where the old sewer forms a junction with the new, claiming that a failure to construct one will endanger the health of the community.

Chief Engineer Carrier was the recipient of a magnificent representation of a fire alarm at Baden-Baden, yesterday. The picture was received by E. P. Slocum from the Hon. Henry Ruggles, U. S. consul at Malta, and was presented to Mr. Carrier as an ornament for decorating the chief engineer's office. It is soon to be on exhibition.

Thursday, December 2, 1880—At the home of Mr. and Mrs. Rufus M. Ladd a large company gathered last evening to witness the marriage of their daughter, Miss Mary E. Ladd, and Alfred N. H. Vaughn of the firm of A. H. Vaughn and Son. The Rev. E. M. Taylor of the East Main Street Methodist Episcopal church performed the ceremony, after which the Rev. J. H. James of Sachem street church offered prayer. The occasion was one of even more than the ordinary heartiness and cheer.

J. W. Churchill, professor of elocution at the Andover Theological seminary gave a splendid evening's entertainment at Breed hall last night, maintaining the well-established reputation of the People's course for first class performances.

The O. D. One's meet in their asylum in cavern No. 6, at 8 o'clock this evening for work in the "Peppermint Degree."

The snow shovelling brigade did its first service this season yesterday.

The Brattleboro train was two and a half hours late last night on account of a snow blockade north.

Friday, Dec. 3, 1880—Father L. B. Quinn, the reformed Catholic priest who addressed large audiences in this city last season, is exciting immense enthusiasm by his lectures at the west and is greeted everywhere with crowded houses.

The ladies of Trinity church give an entertainment in Breed hall on Monday and Tuesday evenings of next week. A great variety of fancy articles will be for sale and refreshments can be obtained in abundance.

The report that Lewis' City band had disbanded grew out of the fact that several of the members resigned. We are credibly informed that the band still maintains its organization and is in a flourishing condition.

There were 24 marriage licenses granted in this city during the month of November and 32 during the month of October. No two months in the history of the town can equal that hymeneal record.

Saturday, Dec. 4, 1880—The Park Congregational is the only church in this city which has been invited by the Dwight Place church, New Haven, to send pastor and delegates to the council to be held there next Wednesday, at the installation of the Rev. Thomas C. Bacon as pastor of that church. There is a special propriety in this invitation, arising from the fact that Mr. Bacon is a brother of the pastor of Park church.

The sewing school hitherto held in Burdick's building, on Main street, will meet tomorrow and hereafter in the rooms formerly used as the "Know something" reading room, up two flights of stairs over the telegraph office. The hour for meeting is half past two o'clock. All ladies who are willing to assist as teachers are urgently invited to come without further solicitation. Miss Huntington will gladly welcome them.

Coasting parties were quite numerous last evening, and Cedar street, Laurel Hill avenue, and the hills at the West Side were covered with gliding vehicles and merry youth and maidens.

Eggs are very scarce in this market.

The blacksmith shops are running nights now.

Ice made across the Thames river Thursday night.

Florida oranges are flooding the northern markets.

Smelts are being sold at $18 a hundred weight at wholesale.

NORWICH COLLEGE CLUB SAW COLLEGE BUILDINGS

A most pleasing programme was carried out when 80 members of the Norwich College club were guests of Connecticut college Friday afternoon. President Katharine Blunt most graciously received and later addressed the club. Tea and inspection of the Palmer library and the new Fanning building closed a delightful afternoon.

River Avenue Hostess

Mrs. Nellie E. Murphy entertained the Thursday evening Bridge club this week, with a luncheon at her home on River avenue. The prizes were won by Miss Winifred Clabby, Mrs. John Fitzgerald and Mrs. Nellie O'Neill.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Moving Pictures at Y. M. C. A.

On the coming Sunday afternoon at 3.30 o'clock in the large gymnasium of the local Y. M. C. A. the interesting moving picture titled "Heritage" will be shown. This picture is the dramatic story of a young boy who was kidnaped when a baby; his heritage of good breeding and his desire to make something of himself helps him to success and restores him to his parents. It is that kind of picture that naturally touches the human heart strings and therefore exerts a fine influence on and gives real inspiration to all who see the picture.

To this picture service the adult public is specially invited and youths fifteen and over will be admitted.

For Pasteurization.

In a recommendation filed with the Massachusetts legislature Tuesday, December 2, by Dr. George H. Bigelow, the state health department renews its request for legislation to prohibit the sale of unpasteurized milk in communities of more than 5,000 population. At present unpasteurized milk may be sold in the smaller communities unless the towns have accepted the pasteurization act.

ECHOES FROM THE LODGE ROOM

KNIGHTS OF PYTHIAS

Grand Chancellor Herbert J. Evans of Watertown, with staff that included Vice Grand Chancellor Sam Kone of Hartford; Grand Keeper of Records and Seals Edward R. Aspinall of Hartford, and the grand master of arms visited Wauregan lodge, No. 6, at its meeting in Steiner hall, Monday evening, where there was an attendance of 200 comprising delegations from Trumbull lodge, New London, and Oliver Woodhouse lodge of Colchester.

Chancellor Commander Rudolph Henschel called the meeting to order and extended the welcome on behalf of Wauregan lodge.

Colchester lodge had charge of conferring the third rank of knight upon four candidates of Wauregan lodge. Mr. Kellogg of Oliver Woodhouse lodge took a leading part in the conferring of the rank. Abe Kofman of Wauregan lodge, master works, had charge of the degree work.

Brief remarks were made by the visiting officers, all of whom expressed their satisfaction in seeing the large number on hand for the occasion.

Refreshments were served under the direction of the committee in charge which comprised Past Chancellor Commander Abe Kofman, Irving Friedman, Saul Budnick and Jacob Goldblatt.

PATRONS OF HUSBANDRY

Norwich grange, No. 172, will hold its regular meeting Wednesday evening, Dec. 10. The auxiliary will meet at 3 p. m. for sewing. The lecturer's program will be in charge of Mrs Edna Browning, chairman, of the home economics committee. Those attending are to bring paper and pencil to jot down recipes from the roll call that is to be given. All mothers with children under twelve are asked to bring a ten cent gift for the Christmas tree and leave it with the lecturer.

Reports of proceeds of close to $600 from the grange fair last fall were made when the annual meeting of Norwich Grange, Inc., was held Wednesday evening at grange hall with A. W. Lillibridge presiding. These reports were made by the grange fair committee of which Frederick S. Armstrong was chairman, Mrs. Ida E. Richardson, secretary, and John H. Rathbone, treasurer.

The following were elected fair committee members: Frederick S. Armstrong, Thomas Beetham, Charles E. Ellis, Mrs. Florence Ross, Charles P. Buehnell, and Miss Ella Lester. These constitute the fair committee with the executive committee of the grange who are the following: Telley E. Babcock, chairman; A. Lee Coles, A. W. Lillibridge, Leonard W. Staubley, Sr., and Mrs. Ida E. Richardson.

DAUGHTERS OF VETERANS.

Clara Barton ten, No. 7, Daughters of Union Veterans of the Civil War, elected the following officers at its meeting Tuesday evening at the Buckingham Memorial:

President, Mrs. Helena M. T. Church; senior vice president, Mrs. Alice Breyman; junior vice president, Mrs. Edith Armstrong; chaplain Mrs. Lillian Whiting; treasurer, Mrs. Lillian Brewster; first council, Mrs. Elizabeth J. Bogue; second council, Mrs. Annie B. Turner; third council, Mrs. Jennie Newberry.

Final plans for the annual fair were discussed and the committees made their solicitations.

The usual contributions were voted for the holiday fund at Uncas-on-Thames and the tuberculosis funds.

The observance of Daughter's day was recognized by a reading by Patriotic Instructor Mrs. Georgiana Keen.

The newly re-organized drum corps was named The Clara Barton Drum corps of Norwich.

Owing to the death of the department patriotic instructor, Mrs. Helena M. T. Church of this city has been elected to fill the vacancy for the remainder of the year. She was duly installed into that office by Past Department President D. L. Atterbury.

At the next meeting there will be a Christmas tree, and an entertainment furnished by the losers in the red, white and blue contest. The allied orders have been invited and each member is requested to bring two small gifts for the tree. The meeting therefore is to begin promptly at 7 o'clock.

Thursday afternoon and evening a very successful card party was held at the home of the president, Mrs. Elizabeth J. Bogue. A buffet supper was served and the hostess furnished coffee and ice cream sodas.

AMERICAN LEGION AUXILIARY

The regular meeting of the auxiliary to Robert O. Fletcher post, No. 4, American Legion, was held Monday evening at the armory. There was a large attendance. The meeting opened with the salute to the flag and the singing of America. The reports of the secretary and treasurer were read and accepted. In regard to the individual card parties, one member has had her card party of three tables and turned in a good sum of money. The welfare chairman reported seven baskets of fruit taken to Uncas-on-Thames. Two ex-service men's families were given money by the auxiliary and names handed in for Thanksgiving baskets. An entertainment is to be given the first of the year at the state hospital. Seven applications for membership were handed in, voted on and accepted. The president, Mrs. Frances Bogue, the secretary, Mrs. Lila Oat, and the treasurer, Mrs. Sarah Bennett, are to attend the officers' parley at the Hotel Bond at Hartford, Saturday, Dec. 6. Tickets were given out to the different members for the play which the Legion and auxiliary are to give, the proceeds of which are to go to the United Workers for their welfare work. Donations of jelly, canned goods or any other articles suitable for Christmas baskets were asked for among the members. If any member not attending the meeting wishes to donate any article for the baskets which are to be given to the several ex-service families they will be gladly received by the chairman, Mrs. Louise Leopold, Hedge avenue. As the state takes care of the men at the hospitals at Christmas time, each unit or auxiliary paying their quota toward the expense, the local auxiliary only remembers them with cards at that time. At Thanksgiving time a letter was written each ex-service man at Uncas-on-Thames, asking him to name one special article he would like, and as far as the auxiliary can it will be given to them.

MOOSEHEART JUNIOR LEGION

Mooseheart Junior Legion held their regular meeting in Moose home Friday evening with Chaplain Mildred Carter presiding. Past Regent Rose Carter and Mrs. Beckman spoke on the good of the legion. After the meeting a rehearsal was held for the minstrel show to be given by the Junior Legion early this month.

COMPANIONS OF FOREST

Nevins Carver circle, 1235, held its regular meeting in Foresters hall Monday evening with Chief Companion Nellie Dorr presiding. It was voted to hold a Christmas party at the next meeting. The entertainment committee, chairman, Teresa Watters, Mabel Goldberg and Margaret Comire, are in charge. Under new business the following officers were nominated: Chief companion, Annabel Emback; subchief companion, Flora Gilchrist; chaplain, Johanna Gelino; recording secretary, Teresa Watters; financial secretary, Margaret Comire; treasurer, Mabel Goldberg; right guard, Rose Kennedy; left guard, Bridget Clemens; and inside guard, Ellen Smith. The rest of the officers are to be nominated at the next meeting. After the meeting refreshments of soda, sandwiches and cake were served.

PYTHIAN SISTERS

Grand Chief May McCoy of North Haven, with associate grand temple officers, several past chiefs and members of South Manchester, Hartford, New Haven, New London, Mystic and Willimantic made official visitation at the regular meeting of Clover temple, No. 9, Pythian Sisters, at the Buckingham Memorial on Nov. 17. A baked bean supper with crabmeat salad was served to 50 people at 6.30 and a gift was presented to Grand Chief McCoy. The meeting closed with salute to the flag.

REBEKAHS

Rebekah lodge, No. 21, held its regular meeting in Odd Fellows' hall Wednesday evening, with an attendance of about 250 including visitors from Jewett City, Willimantic, New London, Groton, Mystic and Niantic; also the district deputy president, Mrs. Mary E. Green. After the regular business was dispensed with 20 candidates were initiated in the Rebekah degree in full form, the officers and guard teams doing splendid work. At the next meeting on Dec. 17, the annual election of officers will take place. There will also be a roll call and a silver collection. The entertainment committee will put on a Christmas programme so all in all an enjoyable meeting is anticipated and members who stay at home will miss a real treat. Refreshments after the meeting.

LADIES AUXILIARY A. O. H.

The officers of Ladies' auxiliary A. O. H. No. 54 attended the installation of officers of the New London A. O. H. held Sunday, Nov. 30, at which about 200 Hibernians were present. Miss Daisy Lord of Waterbury, state organizer, delivered a very stirring address in regard to the membership drive which is now underway throughout the state and for which a state prize of $20 and a county prize of $10 is offered. Rev. Father Crowley, chaplain of the New London auxiliary, personally offered a prize of $50 to the auxiliary in New London county showing the largest per cent increase at the close of the drive which is Feb. 1. Mrs. Julia Brock, a past state officer was called upon for a few remarks and Mrs. Annie Brooks sang several Irish songs.

At the regular meeting held Wednesday evening, tickets were distributed for the bean and salad supper of which Mrs. Mary McCarthy and Mrs. Julia Brock are chairmen, assisted by an efficient committee of about twenty members. Mrs. Mary Wickham was appointed chairman of the Christmas social to be held after the next meeting. Presents will be exchanged and refreshments will be served.

An invitation to the installation of officers in Meriden, Sunday, Dec. 14, was read by the secretary and it is expected that a large number of local Hibernians will attend, making the trip by autos.

CHIMNEY FIRE CAUSED DAMAGE ABOUT $200

A defective chimney caused a $200 fire damage about 4 o'clock Friday morning at the two and a half story frame building at No. 426 Main street, owned by Edwin Dura. The blaze spread through the floor over the barber shop conducted by Domenico Pedace.

Mr. Duro discovered the fire and a bell alarm was pulled in from box 6. One water line and a chemical line were used on the fire. It was necessary to tear down part of the metal ceiling in the barber shop and to pull up a section of the flooring in Mr. Duro's apartment. There are three apartments in the building.

GALES FERRY

The Parent-Teacher association held its December session Tuesday afternoon with the president, Mrs. Lucius I. Wightman. Mrs. Wightman presided and the secretary-treasurer, Mrs. Robert L. Percival, gave her report. A report from the reading contest committee was given by Mrs. Wightman, in the absence of Miss Caroline B. Freeman, chairman. On recommendation of Mrs. Pieter Schaeffer of the nominating committee, Mrs. Joseph A. French was elected vice-president of the association, taking the place of Mrs. Andrew P. Miller, whose resignation was received at the last meeting. Several matters were discussed, including sanitary conditions, the health of the pupils and educational interests. As Miss Grace E. Povey, who was to give a talk on Books and Reading at this meeting, was unable to attend, Mrs. Wightman read an article, provided by Miss Povey, on Influencing Children to Read the Best Books. This was written by Anne M. Boyd for Libraries, a monthly review of library matters and methods. Practical suggestions for children's reading and catalogues of children's books were also presented for Miss Povey, by Mrs. Wightman. The matter of raising funds for the work of the association was considered, and suggestions for future programs were presented. It was decided to have the January and February meetings open at 3 o'clock in place of 2:30. The January meeting is to be in charge of School Supervisor James F. Connolly, of Norwich. Sandwiches and coffee were served, Mrs. Percival and Mrs. Schaeffer being hostesses.

Mrs. George Y. Kauffmann, of Montreal, with her daughter, Mrs. Donald C. McNeil, and infant son, Donald Carroll McNeil, Jr., from Boston, are guests of Mrs. Kauffmann's brother-in-law and sister, Prof. and Mrs Chester E. Dimick.

Miss Susan Mathewson, who is a guest of Mrs. Herbert L. Crandall in New London, was a recent caller at her home in the village.

Mrs. Courtland E. Colver and Mrs John Harold were hostesses at a meeting of the W. A. S. club, held Wednesday afternoon with Mrs. Colver at the Submarine base.

JOHN JAMES, KNOWN IN NORWICH, HELD AT NEW LONDON FOR STATE COP

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Dec. 5. — John James, formerly of Niantic and Stonington, was arrested early this evening charged with a series of violations of the state motor vehicle law. He was taken into custody by State Police Officer William E. MacKenzie on specific charges of driving with improper markers, driving an unlicensed auto and failing to notify the state motor vehicle department of his change of address. James was arrested in Waterford and brought to New London. He was locked up in default of a surety on his bond of $500. James gained considerable notoriety several months ago, following his being employed as a riding instructor at Stonington. At that time, James was charged with adultery as was Mrs. Isabelle Dickinson Findlay, wife of George Findlay, washing machine salesman of Norwich. The man and woman, however, were found not guilty. Mrs. Findlay resided in New London about four years ago and before she had separated from her husband.

Crashed Into Stone Wall

George Raynes, employed as a mechanic at a local automobile service station, was arrested in Waterford late this afternoon by State Police Officers Arthur Johnson and Eric Swanson, charged with driving while under the influence of liquor. Because he could not provide a surety on his bond of $150, Raynes, who was brought to New London, was locked up at police headquarters. He will be in Waterford town court Monday next. Raynes was driving his car in a reckless manner and when he lost control of the steering wheel the auto crashed against a stone wall and was damaged, but the driver escaped injury. The state police were notified and Raynes' arrest resulted.

Posts A Bond

John Kalil, 158 Norfolk street, Worcester, Mass., was arrested this afternoon, charged with violation of the state motor vehicle law. He was apprehended by Patrolman Ernest Opperman when the driver passed an automatic danger signal, corner of Crystal avenue and Main street. Kalil posted a bond for his appearance in the police court tomorrow.

F. L. Bruton, 113 Pequot avenue, informed the police this evening that while walking on State street, between Bank and Green streets, he lost his wallet containing $50.

A stranger went to police headquarters tonight seeking lodging. He was not assigned to a bunk in the tramp room, however, for he was drunk and was locked up. The inebriate will be in court tomorrow.

The Waterbury police tonight requested the New London police to be on the lookout for a Buick sedan, 1926 model and carrying Connecticut registration V-3315, which had been stolen in the former city.

The tramp room at police headquarters was filled again tonight for by 9 o'clock all of the bunks were occupied. Freezing weather having set in and many being unemployed, it is probable that the room will house a capacity crowd the remainder of the winter.

One more of the unemployed presented himself on the street today in the role of an apple peddler. The newcomer took his stand on State street, at the foot of Main street, and he sold several baskets of the fruit.

First Skating

Children are enjoying the first skating of the season. Although neither Shaw's nor Winthrop's cove are frozen, ponds on the outskirts of the city and in Waterford are providing the youngsters with the popular winter diversion.

Body Sent To Georgia

The body of Private Ernest M. Hilton, marine stationed at the submarine base, who was fatally injured Thursday morning when struck by a mail truck, en route from New London to Norwich and Putnam, dying from a punctured lung at the base sick bay, was put aboard a train this evening and started on its way to the marine's former home, Bremert, Ga.

Members of the police department today received post cards from Patrolman Cornelius Moriarty, who with Mrs. Moriarty is on a wedding trip, they having been married here Monday. Mr. and Mrs. Moriarty are in New Jersey.

Leaves For Dutch W. I.

Arthur G. Gagnon, 51 Lower Boulevard, went to Providence today and from which port he will sail on a steamer for the Dutch West Indies where he will be employed by the Pan-American Petroleum and Transport company.

STILL INVESTIGATING FIRE AT GERWATOSKI'S

The police have made little if any progress to determine whether the fire which damaged the residence of Anthony Gerwatoski, 45 Terrace avenue, early yesterday morning, was the work of an incendiary, but they are continuing their investigation in the belief that either Gerwatoski or his wife, Anna, both of whom were arrested, charged with arson, a short time after the fire was subdued, applied the match that caused about $1200 damage. A picture of the interior of the house has been taken and the alleged saturated rugs from the living room where the fire started, together with an oil stove and a partially filled gallon can of oil, have been seized in the event that they will be needed as evidence against Gerwatoski or his wife. The husband and wife were arrested upon complaint of Fire Marshal Calvin Edmunds and were presented in the police court yesterday when their cases were continued until the 10th inst. They are at liberty, having furnished a surety on their respective bonds of $2500. Gerwatoski carried insurance of $7000 on the house and about $1,000 on his furniture. The house is mortgaged for $3000 and the interest of about $100 on the mortgage was payable last Monday, but it is understood, that payment was not made. When the investigation has been concluded the evidence gathered will be submitted to Superintendent of State Police Robert Hurley, who is also state fire marshal and if that official deems the evidence warrantable, he will order the arrest of either Gerwatoski or his wife, or both. The crime carries a maximum penalty of life imprisonment, for occupants of the house were asleep when the fire was discovered. Gerwatoski represents himself to be a real estate dealer, but he is not recognized as such by the members of the board of real estate dealers, an organization with a membership of about 22 men and women.

Miss Marian Casey, 18 Ashcraft road, and Miss Anna P. Cowhey, 28 Ledyard street, have been notified that they passed examinations at Hartford last month for dental hygiene certificates, announcement having been made by the state dental commission. Ten sought certificates and but six were successful.

Mrs. Randolph Smith and infant son of 214 Huntington street, patients at Home Memorial hospital, were discharged today.

At the meeting of the auxiliary to the Masons, held in Union lodge rooms, yesterday, the following officers were elected: President, Mrs. Florence Edgcomb; vice president, Mrs. Francis Packer; secretary, Mrs. Horace Newbury; treasurer, Mrs. Maud Paton. The officers will be installed Jan. 8.

There is no improvement noted in the condition of John W. Walsh, 188 Crystal avenue, who is critically ill and a patient at the private hospital.

At the meeting of Joynt assembly, Catholic Ladies of Columbus, held in Eagles hall, the following officers were elected: President, Mrs. Catherine MacArthur; vice president, Mrs. Josephine McQuillan; recording secretary, Mrs. Mary Sullivan; financial secretary, Mrs. Margaret Watteson; teasurer, Mrs. Annie T. Henley; trustees, Mrs. Catherine Dray, Mrs. Catherine Foss and Miss Catherine Quill; auditors, Mrs. Winifred Guerin, Mrs. Catherine Kane, Miss Elizabeth Noonan.

Mrs. John McMahon and infant daughter, of 21 Lincoln court, patients at Lawrence-Memorial hospital, were discharged today.

Commissioner of Motor Vehicles Robbins B. Stoeckel today ordered the suspension of the drivers' licenses of John Shulock, 50 Howard street; Josiah Dalls, 15 Pearl street and Ray W. Hall, a member of the crew of U. S. coast guard destroyer, Wilkes.

City On Good Behaviour

There was no session of the police court today, for not an arrest was made Thursday or last night.

Will Be Deported

John Tsainnis, 114 Blinman street, was arrested this morning by Immigration Inspector W. R. Kenney, of Hartford. Tsainnis, who was locked up and will be deported within a few days, is declared to have entered this country illegally. He is the second foreigner to have been arrested here on that charge this week.

Infant's Burial

The infant daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bailey, of Groton, died last night at Lawrence-Memorial hospital. The funeral was held this morning at 10 o'clock at 62 Washington street and burial was in Col. Ledyard cemetery, Groton.

OBITUARY

Albert F. Crumb

Albert F. Crumb, 85, died this afternoon at his residence, 80 Ramsdall street, Groton. Mr. Crumb had been incapacitated because of ill health for about three years and had been confined to his bed since last June. He is survived by his wife. He was the senior deacon of Groton Heights Baptist church. Mr. Crumb, who was a salesman until his health became impaired, was born in Groton, Aug. 17, 1845, nd always resided in the borough.

MRS. WM. J. NEALON SUFFERS ATTACK, FAILS TO RALLY

Mrs. Annette R. Nealon, wife of William J. Nealon, and daughter of the late William and Ellen Burke, died suddenly last night, death being caused by cerebral hemorrhage. Besides her husband and a daughter, Elenor, Mrs. Nelson is survived by a sister, Mrs. David Reagan. Mrs. Nealon, who resided at 41 Linden street, apparently was in sound health yesterday afternoon for she was returning from a shopping tour with her little daughter when stricken. Mrs. Nealon and her daughter alighted from a trolley car at the corner of Montauk avenue and Linden street early in the evening and were on their way to their home, when Mrs. Nealon suffered the attack. She collapsed, falling to the sidewalk. Residents of the street went to her assistance and she was carried home. There she was attended by a physician, but she died three hours later. Medical Examiner Charles Kaufman was notified and upon the conclusion of his investigation pronounced Mrs. Nealon's death due to natural causes.

Two automobile trucks that figured in crashes today were overturned and, although both trucks were damaged, their occupants escaped injury of consequence. Neither driver involved in the accidents were arrested. The first crash occurred at the corner of State and Union streets when a truck of the Ideal Coat & Apron Supply company, Truman street, and driven by Harry Muscarella of Moore avenue and a pleasure car driven by Theodore Kovlalich, Waterford, crashed. The impact of the collision caused the truck to overturn, but Muscarella sustained only scratches and bruises. The other accident was at the corner of Garfield and Jefferson avenues and was the result of a truck driven by Stanley Morgan, Oakdale, crashing with another truck operated by M. J. Sabagh, 42 Faire Harbour place. The truck overturned, but Morgan did not sustain injury more serious than bruises.

Chimney Soot Ablaze

A trivial fire at the residence owned and occupied by Manuel E. Perry, 333 Jefferson avenue at 2.25 o'clock this afternoon did not cause damage for the blaze was extinguished before the arrival of the department. A quantity of soot in a chimney became ignited and an alarm was sent in from Box 363, corner of Jefferson avenue and Colman streets. Chief Thomas Shipman and four apparatus responded, but the burning soot had been extinguished by occupants of the house and before the first of the companies had reached the dwelling.

Victor L. Beebe, Old Lyme, came to New London today and while shopping lost his wallet containing about $100, a check for $35 and his driver's license. He reported his loss at police headquarters.

Ignored Motor Laws

Samuel Bisconti, 670 Bank street, public service operator and Angelo Bisonti, 16, of 619 Bank street, were arrested this afternoon by State Police Officer James Dygert, charged with violation of the state motor vehicle law in failing to file proof of their financial responsibility with the motor vehicle department. They will be in court tomorrow. The elder Bisconti, it is claimed, owns a Pierce-Arrow limousine and last month he allowed Angelo Bisconti to drive the car. While the youth was in charge of the automobile it collided with another machine and a result of the crash revealed that neither driver had complied with all of the provisions of the motor vehicle laws.

NOANK

The True Blue Sewing society held an all-day session in the Daughters of America hall Thursday at noon, with a covered dish dinner at noon. The afternoon was spent in tying a quilt.

Mr. and Mrs. Lars Thorsen have returned from a visit with relatives in Hoboken, N. J.

The Junior Wide World Guild of the Baptist church will meet with Mrs. Charles Jenssen this (Saturday) afternoon.

Noank Fire Co. responded to an alarm for a grass fire Thursday evening about 7 o'clock near Esker Point. The fire was probably caused from a spak from a passing train. The blaze was soon extinguished and no damage resulted.

Work has been completed on the new sidewalk which borders the east side of the new highway. Work is also progressing rapidly on the new bridge.

Sunday evening at the Baptist church Rev. P. W. Back, pastor of the First Baptist church in Stonington will exchange pulpits with Rev. Ernest F. Weise. Rev. Back conducted services here some time ago and it is expected that there will be a good number at the services Sunday evening. There will be special music by the junior choir.

Heard County Directors

A meeting of the W. C. T. U. was held at the home of Mrs. William I. Spicer Thursday afternoon. A very interesting address was given by Mrs. Grace Cramer, county director of scientific temperance instruction. Several of the local school faculty were present at the meeting. It was planned to give Christmas boxes to the shut-ins. Present were Miss Annie Spicer, Miss Emma Fish, Miss Charlotte Morgan, Mrs. Beret Jenssen, Mrs. Stella Rathbun, Mrs. Carrie Fitch, Mrs. Lucy Fitch, Mrs. Lars Thorsen, Mrs. M. Linda Mosher, Mrs. Hattie Chester, Miss Gertrude Brown, Mrs. Lois B. Shandeor, Mrs. Ella Porter and Mrs. Jennie Ashcraft. Those present from the local school were Roger Searles, principal, Miss Grace Rathbun, Mrs. Dorothy Smith, Miss Dorothy Neilon and Miss Elsie McGaughey.

The ninth meeting of Groton Taxpayers' Protective league will be held in the Daughters of America hall Monday evening next.

Fidelis Missionary society of the Baptist church met with Miss Irma Doughty Thursday evening. The program was in charge of Mrs. Dorothy Patterson. Miss Pearl Carson sang two pleasing solos. During the evening the members were engaged in White Cross work after which a social hour was enjoyed and refreshments were served. Those present were Mrs. Helen Weise, Mrs. Lena Crossman, Miss Gertrude Brown, Mrs. Bessie Palmer, Mrs. Clara Eldridge, Miss Charlotte Morgan, Mrs. Neil Morrison, Miss Pearl Carson, Mrs. Alice Chester, Mrs. Dorothy Patterson, Mrs. Rie Brown and Mrs. Anna Rathbun. The next meeting will be held with Miss Charlotte Morgan.

The members of the Bridge club were entertained by Miss Audrey Brooks of the Highland Farm Thursday evening. The prizes were won by Miss Elizabeth Daboll and Miss Lillian Reid. At the close of the evening refreshments were served by the hostess. Those present were Mrs. Dorothy Bishop, Mrs. Mildred Palmer, Mrs. Gertrude Tourjee, Mrs. Gladys Brown and Misses Elizabeth Daboll, Lillian Reid, Grace Rathbun, Rose Brothers, Mildred Chesebro, Eleanor Scaplen and Mrs. Edna Thompson.

Edward Morgan has returned from a short visit in Providence.

Miss Marion Cady of Woodstock is visiting local relatives.

The lobster fishing boat Katherine owned by Fred Fitzpatrick is in winter storage at Rogers yard.

Mrs. Frank O'Brien was a caller in Stonington Friday.

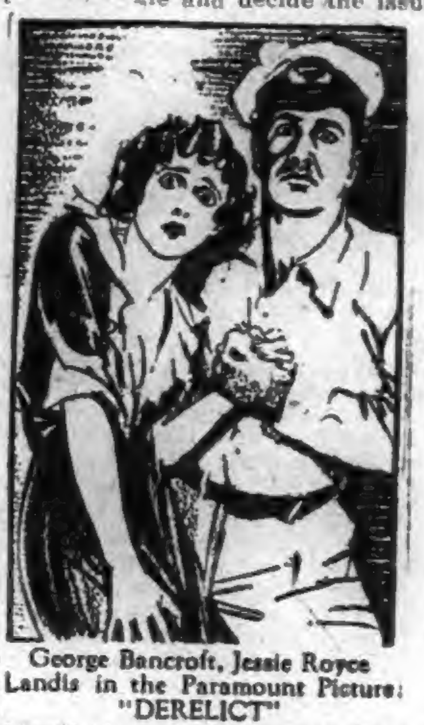
Miss Annie C. Spicer is spending several days at Atlantic City, N. J.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Broadway Theatre

Stirring scenes of a rescue at sea, during a terrific tropical storm, furnish a few of the thrills in George Bancroft's new he-man drama, "Derelict," now playing an engagement of four days at Warner Bros.' Broadway theatre.

But the thrills continue right through the picture, as Bancroft's rivalry with his fellow sea captain, William Boyd, rises to white heat. Rivals in seamanship, rivals in love, they battle each other ashore and afloat from Havana to Rio, first one winning, then the other, until the treacherous tropical elements take a hand in the fateful struggle and decide the issue.



George Bancroft, Jessie Royce Landis in the Paramount Picture: "DERELICT"

"Derelict" is a story of combat: A man's combat with relentless elements; with a rival in love; with himself. It has its full share of the spectacular: A crash between two huge ships at sea; a deadly fist fight; a desperate rescue in the midst of an ocean storm. "Derelict" is a romance of salt-water adventure in strange tropical ports, a story sure to parallel Bancroft's biggest hits in popularity.

Palace Theatre.

At last the sweetheart of the screen is back with us in her latest success, "Sunny." Now that we have the big screen and the brighter lights I know you'll enjoy "Sunny" more than you did "Sally" the picture you all raved about.

All of Marilyn Miller's art as an actress, a dancer, and a singer come to the fore in "Sunny," the First famous and Vitaphone version of her famous musical comedy which ran for three years on Broadway.

Miss Miller is today recognized as the outstanding star of musical comedy, and is one of the brightest luminaries in filmdom. Her picture, "Sally," broke all box office records for the year, and "Sunny" is being hailed as an even greater success.

There are four songs and three dances in "Sunny," but there are no ensemble choruses. All the dances are by Miss Miller alone, or accompanied by the versatile Joe Donehue, of the Irish smile, who played with her on the stage.

The plot of "Sunny" bubbles over with humor, romance, and tomfoolery, and gives complete play to all of Miss Miller's varied accomplishments as well as to her beauty and her vivid personality.

With an extra bill of short features makes it a marvelous show for both young and old; I know you'll like "Sunny."

Hillcrest Theatre.

For one day only, Sunday, Manager Schwartz has been fortunate in booking one of the greatest pictures of all times, "The Virtuous Sin" with an all star cast headed by Walter Huston and Kay Francis.

"The Virtuous Sin" is a colorful and exciting story wherein sex and love get all tangled up in a mass of old-time Russian intrigue and international affairs.

Kenneth MacKenna is also seen in a featured role.

Matinee at 2 p. m. and two shows in the evening at 6.30 and 8.30.

Coming Tuesday—"Love in the Rough" a comedy of golf and golfers with lilting music and snappy girls.

Neither of these two pictures have played Norwich yet. Once again the Hillcrest leads.

The Plaut-Cadden Co.

Let's Be Practical About Gift-Giving

Rarely has there been a Christmas when the giving of gifts will carry the message of good will to so many outside the immediate circle of recipients. To a great number, unfortunately unemployed, this Christmas can only bring the hope that a quick return to normal buying will provide the employment so vital to their support. Nothing could more surely add to the present distress than adherence to the statement occasionally expressed by people that they do not intend to give anything this Christmas. Admirable a trail as is prudence this is a time when it is prudent to be imprudent, for there are few, no matter how strong may be their sense of security, who can escape the effect of a prolonged period of depression. So let us keep the Christmas traditions this year, more than ever before. Let us be practical and generous for only in this way will we be mindful of, and helpful to, everyone.

GREENEVILLE

A month's mind mass of requiem for the soul of the late Cnohan Shea was offered at St. Mary's Memorial church on Thursday morning at 8 o'clock by the pastor, Rev. George J. Donahue. Relatives and family friends were present at the services with the musical program of the mass in charge of the church organist, Mrs. Michael J. Farrell.

The Ladies' Aid society of the Greeneville Congregational church held its monthly meeting in the church parlors on Wednesday evecommenced with the vice president. transacted with the vice president, Miss Jennie Young, presiding. Various officers and special committees gave their reports and after this portion of the meeting the members enjoyed a Christmas party. On a small Christmas tree which was placed in the center of the room were gifts for each member. Each member present placed a sum of money on the tree to help swell the society's treasury. The hall was prettily decorated with the season's colors of red and green very prominent. Dainty refreshments consisting of assorted sandwiches, cakes, tea and coffee were served by the following members of the entertainment committee, Mrs. Howard Spaulding, Mrs. George Mitchell, Mrs. William Grant and Mrs. Albert Dilworth.

Next Sunday will be quarterly holy communion day for the men and boys of St. Mary's parish who will receive the sacrament at the two early masses for the day.

The Girls' Friendly society of St. Andrew's Episcopal church held a most successful meeting on Monday evening with a very large attendance. Business matters were discussed and future plans contemplated. Rev. E. J. Norris gave a brief address. The meeting was in charge of Mrs. E. Schofield.

FORTY HOURS DEVOTION OPENS AT ST. MARY'S SUNDAY

The regular first Friday devotions were observed at St. Mary's Memorial church with the two masses largely attended and many of the parishioners approaching the altar railing to receive the sacrament. The most blessed sacrament was exposed all during the day and there was the observance of the holy hour in the evening at 7:30. The annual forty hours of devotion opens in this parish on Sunday morning and closes on Tuesday morning with the devotion of the holy hour. This devotion, which takes place once a year, is assigned to this parish on the second Sunday of Advent.

The Greeneville Civic and Four minute Speech-making club, which has been holding regular meetings Monday evenings in the assembly hall of the Greeneville Congregational church will hold its first banquet on Monday evening, December 15th. A regular evening of enjoyment has been arranged by the committee in charge. A musical program has been arranged. Members of the club have been given special speeches which they will have prepared for that night relating to current topics.

A third entertainment was given Friday evening at the Greeneville Congregational church. A series are to be given during the winter months with the proceeds added to the Sunday school treasury. There was a large attendance and the entertainers, Ronnie and Van, were warmly received. Their program was one of great variety, including costumed impersonations comedy sketches, songs, and stories. They introduced a bit here and there from the well known Gilbert and Sullivan opera following it closely with that laughing sensation "The Ghost of Ben Binns." In short they are two clever American boys with exceptional talent. Following the entertainment cake was sold from a beautiful decorated booth which was in charge of Mrs. James Service and Mrs. Prentice.

ASKS FOR DIVORCE WITH ALIMONY CLAIM

Suit for divorce from Reginald L. Lord, formerly of Lyme, now of parts unknown, has been brought in the superior court by Marie F. Sheppard Lord of Lyme who asks alimony and custody of three minor children.

She alleges that Lord, whom she married Oct. 8, 1920, owns $80,000 worth of property and she charges that her husband has ben guilty of a statutory offense and habitual intemperance. The suit is returnable in January.

REV. HENRY J. COLEMAN ASSIGNED TO BEACON FALLS

Announcement has been made by Bishop Nilan of the appointment of Rev. Henry J. Coleman as administrator of St. Michael's parish in Beacon Falls, Conn. Father Coleman has been assistant at St. John's church, New Haven, for the past ten years.

Rev. J. J. McAuliffe, who has been pastor of the Beacon Falls parish since the autumn of 1924, is at present a patient at St. Mary's hospital, Waterbury, with a stomach disorder. About a month ago the malady took a serious turn and since that time he has been unable to perform his parochial duties. His physicians fear that his sickness will be of a protracted nature.

Father Coleman will assume his post as administrator the latter part of next week. He is a native of Norwich, born Sept. 30, 1886. After his grammar school training he entered St. Thomas' seminary, Hartford, for the study of the classics. He made his course in philosophy at Lugano, Switzerland, and pursued theology at St. Mary's seminary, Baltimore. He was ordained at St. Joseph's cathedral, Hartford, May 31, 1915, by Bishop Nilan.

His first assignment was to St. Thomas' church, Southington, where for six and a half years he labored under the tutelage of Father Doolan, who has since gone to his reward. February 22, 1921, he was transferred to St. John's church, New Haven, serving there as curate, first, to the late lamented Father Coyle, and more recently to the present pastor, Rev. Francis J. Murray. Throughout his priestly career, Father Coleman has proved himself an energetic worker, a prudent and kindly director of souls and a gracious companion to his associate priests. He is abundantly talented to discharge successfully and with distinction the duties of the office to which he has been advanced.

KENTUCKY MOUNTAINEER TO SPEAK AT CHURCH

"Burns of the Mountains," is to be the speaker at the Sunday evening service at the Central Baptist church. That is the name by which J. A. Burns is known in the Cumberland mountain region of Kentucky where in 30 years he has built a college out of nothing. Alone, without a dollar in his pocket, but inspired with the idea that he must help to bring some share of education at least to the mountaineers of Kentucky, he quarried and laid the foundation of Oneida institute's first building all by himself until his shamefaced neighbors came to help him. From that humble beginning has grown a development that has resulted in the erection of four college buildings, where instruction is given to 500 pupils and the college plant is worth $800,000. It is of this great work and is need of support that Mr. Burns will speak at the church meeting.

TAFTVILLE

A minstrel show under the auspices of the Men's club of the Taftville Congregational church furnished the entertainment for the second evening of the church fair held Wednesday evening at Ponemah hall. There was a large crowd in attendance. Harold G. Faats was the interlocutor, and the black-face men were Albert Mathewson, Earle Mathewson, Joseph E. Hesselton and James Heap. The booths were liberally patronized, and it is believed that a snug sum will be realized for the church treasury.

The members of Council Gagnon, No. 208, Union St. Jean Baptiste, held their monthly meeting Thursday evening. There was a large attendance and routine business was transacted.

Mrs. Joseph Wood, of the Old Canterbury turnpike, and Mrs. William Bailey, of Fanning avenue, Norwich, spent Thursday in New London.

FORMER TAFTVILLE RESIDENT OBSERVES 93RD BIRTHDAY

William Wohlleben, for many years a weaver in the Ponemah mills, quietly observed a birthday on Thursday upon reaching 93 years.

Though deaf for a long time, his sight is good and he enjoys reading. During the past summer he has cultivated the garden for Miss Avery on Oneco street, where he lives and though now the cold weather is trying, he is able to walk around the square on pleasant days.

Bernard Krauss, representing the Maennerchor club, brought a generous gift of money to Mr. Wohlleben as their oldest member.

Mrs. William Enos of Germania street is a granddaughter.

DISCOVERING MUCH DUPLICATION IN RELIEF WORK AMONG THE NEEDY

That there is much duplication of relief work among the city's needy families was revealed at the Friday meeting of the family welfare department of the United Workers by Miss Julia C. Corcoran, supervisor of the department. In speaking of the work, Miss Corcoran said that she had come upon cases where families were being helped by more than one charitable organization as well as by benevolent individuals. This duplication of work does not tend toward the greatest relief possible.

Cooperation Needed

With so many organizations and groups of individuals endeavoring to alleviate the sufferings of the needy in Norwich there is bound to be more or less duplication unless there is some cooperation between the organizations, Miss Corcoran continued. The family welfare department of the United Workers suggests that reports of relief work be made to some central agency in an effort to stop so much duplication. The family welfare department would be the most logical agency for this work as they, through their efficient and paid workers, are in closer contact with the situation than any other organization. The family welfare department has had years of experience in investigating needy cases and has access to facts that are very vital in determining the needs of those applying for relief. The department is urging that individuals and organizations having needy cases called to their attention report them to the department, the cases will be investigated and assistance given. The department is in no way seeking any glory for itself but is simply trying to have the relief work done in such a way that it will be most efficient.

Auto and Five Dogs

Many cases reported to the United Workers as cases of dire ned upon investigation have been found to be exaggerated to a considerable degree. Only recently the department had a case reported to them as one of dire need and demanding immediate attention. An investigation was made and it was found that the family was really in need but that they were feeding five dogs and also had an automobile to keep up. In this case the money spent for food for the dogs would have gone a long way toward food for the family. There have been many others of these exaggerated cases called to the attention of the family welfare department.

Christmas Gifts for Children

With the Christmas time fast approaching the family welfare department is planning for the annual distribution of Christmas gifts to the needy children of the city. An appeal to the people of Norwich is made by the department for toys for the children, toys that have been discarded by those more fortunate. People having such toys are urged to leave them at the United Workers or call the department and workers will be sent to collect them. Toys that are in good condition are of course preferable but those that are slightly in need of repair will also be taken and repairs made to them.

NORTH FRANKLIN GIRL BEST 4-H CLUB MEMBER

Miss Edna Lamb of North Franklin has been named the best all-around Connecticut 4-H club girl enrolled in home economics projects, according to an announcement by A. J. Brundage, state club leader of the Connecticut Agricultural college at Storrs.

As a reward for her achievements she was awarded a prize educational trip to the Ninth National 4-H Club congress in Chicago, Nov. 28 to Dec. 5. This trip is offered annually by Montgomery Ward Co. to encourage further activities in the 4-H home economics projects conducted by the extension services of the 48 state agricultural colleges.

NORWICH TOWN

MRS. CARL HOLDREDGE SPEAKS BEFORE LOCAL CONG. WOMEN

There was a good attendance Friday afternoon in the First Congregational chapel, at the December meeting of the woman's department of the League of Service. Mrs. Carl Holdredge of Ledyard gave a most interesting talk on Our State Organization and Its Relation to the Women of the Local Church. The meeting, under the auspices of the program committee, Miss Charlotte Barbour, leader, opened with the hymn, "All Hail the Power of Jesus' Name," Miss Louise Hyde at the piano. There followed prayer by the leader and Scripture reading. Another hymn with Scripture verses interspersed was followed by prayer. Scripture readings and song. Mrs. John L. Browning, secretary, submitted the report of the previous meeting. After announcements by Mrs. Herbert L. Yerrington and Miss Susan C. Hyde, Mrs. Holdredge, who was introduced by Miss Barbour, spoke as follows:

In the Congregational church we have three branches of missionary work, foreign, home and state. The American board was organized June 29, 1810. Since that time three women's boards have been organized. In 1927 these four boards merged, resulting in the American board of commissioners for foreign missions being the only Congregational board for foreign missionary work. In 1927 also all the different home boards went under one directorate. Because of these two mergers the women in each state decided that home and foreign work were one and that they would change their organization so that there would be but one organization of Congregational women in the state. In Connecticut we had four women's organizations, three branches of the women's board and the Home Missionary union of Connecticut. A cooperating committee made up of representatives from each organization drew up plans and October 2, 1928, the council of Congregational women of Connecticut was organized. The aim of this state organization is "to foster and develop in the churches an active support of the entire program of our denomination, in furthering the cause of Christ." This aim we are trying to accomplish largely through the work of committees. We can do nothing without the cooperation of the women of our churches. These committees are in existence to help the local women's organizations with suggestions. The committee on devotional life and prayer is glad to help with worship services and suggests books of prayers. The program committee tries to furnish speakers for women's meetings. The service work committee gives out lists of things to be made, such as towels, comfortables and bandages. Our missionary schools depend on the women of the churches for these things.

This is a very definite piece of work which our women can do. The young people's and children's committees are trying to accomplish our aim of interesting the whole church by having rallies and by giving definite projects to the young people and children for which they are responsible. The literature committee this year is running a reading contest with reading lists containing many books which, if read, stimulate one's interest in the changing conditions of the day in our own country as well as in other lands. This reading list covers a wide range of subjects and taking part in the contest is another very definite way in which the local women can cooperate with our state organization.

Another committee is the one on projects. A project is a definite piece of work that you pick out to support; for instance, part of the salary of some missionary in whom you are particularly interested. Our committee tries to help you to pick a project which is in your association list and the one in which you are interested.

Our committees in the eastern district will be glad to help you or, shall I say, will be glad of your help along any of these lines.

"The Gift Without the Giver," was the title of a story read by Miss Barbour. Light of the World We Hail Thee was the closing hymn with Miss Hyde accompanying. During the social hour refreshments were served by Mrs. Henry T. Frazier, Mrs. Clyde M. Beebe, Mrs. Walter Heath, Mrs. Philip B. Whaley and Mrs. Frank Skinner.

Rev. Wm. D. Pardee To Speak

Sunday morning in the Norwich Town Methodist Episcopal church, Rev. William D. Pardee of New Haven is to speak on the topic "The Truth About Prohibition." Rev. Mr. Pardee has spoken in Norwich on several occasions and has always proved a most interesting speaker. He is a young man of pleasing personality who has made a careful study of this great problem as educational secretary of the Connecticut Temperance and Anti-Saloon league.

Mr. and Mrs. Russell Fraser (Ruth Elizabeth Eccleston) returned to Norwich Town from their wedding trip Thursday evening, following a week at Niagara Falls and Canada.

A monorail rapid transit system is proposed for part of New York city.

MOOSUP MAN TAKES BRIDE IN WATERBURY

Announcement is made of the marriage of Mrs. Martha P. Baton of Central avenue, Waterbury, to John C. Parkhurst, of Moosup, which took place on Wednesday, Nov. 26, in Waterbury. Mrs. Baton is the widow of Elmer E. Baton, and lived for several years on Plaza avenue. Mr. and Mrs. Parkhurst will make their future home in Moosup.

JUDGE LINDSEY CREATES SCENE IN CHURCH; EJECTED

Bedlam Broke Loose in Cathedral of St. John the Divine, New York, When the Judge Leaped Upon a Table to Vent Resentment of Scathing Denunciation by Bishop William T. Manning—The Bishop Had Branded the Judge as "A Man Who Stands Openly For Legalized Free Love Under Cover of Term 'Companionate Marriage'"—As the Judge Was Beng Ejected a Man Cried "Punch Him"—Woman Yelled "Lynch Him"

NEW YORK, Dec. 7—(AP)—A little man from Denver, the former Judge Ben B. Lindsey, turned Golden Rule Sunday into a pandemonium of epithets, recrimination and violence today at Bishop William T. Manning's church—the fashionable Cathedral of St. John the Divine.

Lindsey, with one friend at his side, sat tense among the 3,500 well groomed worshippers and heard himself scored as the author of a book "the most filthy, insiduous and cleverly written piece of propaganda ever published in behalf of lewdness, promiscuity, adultery and unrestrained sexual gratification."

The bishop of the diocese of New York, coldly calm, brought his sermon to an end with a denunciation of "a man who stands openly for legalized free love under cover of the term 'companionate marriage.'"

He turned his back to the congregation and bowed his head in prayer.

The Denver champion of companionate marriage strode forward and leaped upon a table just below the pulpit in which the bishop still entoned the ascription.

"Bishop Manning," he cried. "You have falsely represented me. If this is not a house of justice, it is not a house of God. In justice I ask for five minutes to answer your unfair attack."

His voice drowned out the bishop's prayer, but the bishop did not turn around.

Two ushers sprang forward and pulled the former Denver children's

15 COUNTRIES OBSERVED "GOLDEN RULE SUNDAY"

NEW YORK, Dec. 7.—(AP)—Fifteen countries of the world joined the 48 states of this country today in observance of the eighth annual "Golden Rule Sunday."

In many places families observed the day with "golden rule" dinners—a frugal meal—, using the money saved on food as a contribution to a fund for the undernourished children of Porto Rico.

Last year the voluntary collections of "Golden Rule Sunday" amounted to $150,000. This year the Golden Rule foundation, New York, expected the amount raised would be considerably more. Heretofore, the money has gone to feed undernourished children of other lands. This year, however, many churches appropriated all or part of the collections for needy children of their communities' unemployed.

The day, the foundation explained, is for the purpose of emphasizing the golden rule text.

ANOTHER APPEAL FROM DANVILLE FOR STRIKE FUNDS

DANVILLE, Va., Dec. 7.—(AP)— The Virginia Federation of Labor executive board in session here today voted to issue another appeal for strike funds for use at Danville. The appeal, members stated, was based primarily on the action of the mill management in serving eviction notices upon strikers' families.

It will be forwarded to President William Green of the American Federation of Labor, for endorsement.

At a mass meeting of strikers this afternoon, Norman Thomas, socialist leader and chairman of the Emergency Strike Relief organization, said his organisation would continue to give aid to the Danville workers as long as is necessary. Thomas complimented the strikers on their determination and condemned the management for serving the eviction notices.

LIQUOR HIDDEN IN TANK OF MUNSON LINE FREIGHTER

BALTIMORE, Dec. 7.—(AP)—Hidden in a tank aboard the freighter Munloyal of the Munson Steamship company, Baltimore customs inspectors yesterday discovered 330-gallon demijohns of Bacardi rum valued at $7,000 and today prepared for a more extensive search of the boat. The freighter arrived in port Thursday with a cargo of refined sugar from Havana. Customs men declined to say what prompted them to examine the vessel, but company agents were of the opinion they sought stowaways.

The federal authorities pointed out the seizure was not in the nature of a prohibition raid but merely the capture of undeclared goods. They added they did not expect to find any more contraband but that they "were taking no chances."

BURNING OF EFFIGY OF GOV. BILBO, MISSISSIPPI

UNIVERSITY, Miss., Dec. 7.—(AP)—Chancellor J. N. Powers of the University of Mississippi, expressed regret tonight over the reported burning of an effigy bearing the placard "Down With Bilbo" on the university campus last midnight.

"I have nothing to say because I have not yet had time to make an investigation," the chancellor said. "Of course, I am indeed sorry the regrettable incident had to occur x x x particularly in my absence."

Governor Bilbo was at his Popdarville plantation tonight and no statement had been obtained from him.

The effigy was discovered while being hoisted in flames to the top of a flagpole, witnesses told newspapers.

ALMOST STRUCK BY DEER FALLING FROM PRECIPICE

NEWBURGH, N. Y., Dec. 7.—(AP)—Two men driving in an automobile along the Storm King road last night got the thrill of their lives and narrowly escaped serious injury when a 250-pound buck deer fell from a precipice and almost struck the car.

Ernest Jones, driver, startled by the unusual noise, clamped on his brakes and stopped the car just behind the spot where the deer landed. It was killed by the fall.

SHOT DEAD ON RETURN FROM VISITING WIFE

NEW YORK, Dec. 7.—(AP)—Guiseppe Nolbe, 47, was shot to death in the hallway of his home when he returned from visiting his wife in a hospital tonight. A revolver was found in his hand. The assailant escaped.

DRIVE AGAINST BANDITS AND COMMUNISTS IN CHINA

HANKOW, Dec. 7.—(AP)—President Chiang Kai-Shek today assumed command of the nationalist government forces conducting the drive against the numerous groups of communists and bandits that have carried on a virtual reign of terror throughout Chona's central provinces for months.

He was expected here from Kiukiang soon to establish headquarters. He arrived today at Kiukiang from Nanking.

As the initial move in an effort to undermine the strength of the outlaws, Chiang Kai-Shek broadcast a message throughout the stricken area, saying the nationalist government was launching its supreme effort against the reds but would grant pardons and security to all persons who joined the reds "under compulsion and ignorance."

ARRESTED ON SUSPICION AFTER WOUNDING BANDIT

BALTIMORE, Dec. 7.—(AP)—Using a fine tooth comb to simulate a weapon, James L. Fitch gained possession of an alleged bandit's pistol last night and shot him in the hand in the ensuing scuffle, and then was arrested on suspicion.

Several hours later, however, Fitch was released when Walter Szylowski, alias Smith, 19, applied at a hospital for treatment. The police said he admitted having robbed a grocery of $30 a few moments before Fitch, attracted by a woman customer's screams, arrived and disarmed the youth. In the scuffle Szydlowski fled.

HILTER EXHORTING FASCISM IN GERMANY

STUTTGART, Germany, Dec. 7.—(AP)—Before a throng of more than 25,000 persons, Adolf Hitler, fascist leader, today appealed to the German people to turn their backs on democracy and hearken to the call of their new destiny.

"What is driving the great masses of people throughout Germany into our movement," he said, "is the feeling that once again our nation stands at a turning point in its history."

He added that the millions of fascist supporters were not responsible for Germany's breakdown and its consequences.

FIVE SUSPECTS ARRESTED FOR SHOOTING OF BANKER

TEXARKANA, Tex., Dec. 7.—(AP)—A man hunt ranging over the western corner of Texas tonight had yielded five suspects in a search for kidnapers, who officers said last night shot and critically wounded R. W. Hanks, 55, cashier of the Guaranty Bond State bank at Redland, when an alleged $5,000 ransom plot was frustrated.

Hanks was in a semi-conscious condition at a Texarkana hospital and was unable to give police coherent information of the attack.

DRY FORCES TO EVOLVE MORE MILITANT PROGRAM

WASHINGTON, Dec. 7. —(AP)—Dry leaders gathered in Washington today for a series of temperance meetings, determined, in the words of one leader, to "face the whole picture" and evolve a unified program of nation-wide activity.

Word that the dry forces would attempt, in the next three days, to formulate a program more militant than any since prohibition became a law was given out tonight following a five-hour meeting of the executive committee of the national temperance council.

Snow, president of the Meadville Theological seminary, Chicago, performed the ceremony.

TWO NORTH ADAMS YOUTHS HELD FOR HOLD-UP IN N. Y.

NEW YORK, Dec. 7.—(AP)—Charged with having held up and robbed Harry Levine, a taxi driver, Alfred Rougeau, 19, and William Barcomb, 21, who said they came here from North Adams, Mass., a few weeks ago in search of jobs, were held without bail today on charges of robbery and violation of the law against carrying weapons. Massachusetts police were notified

Seven Lives Were Lost When Schooner Foundered Seven Miles Off Watch Hill

WATCH HILL, R. I., Dec. 7—(AP)—Seven persons lost their lives when the coal laden schooner Storm Petrel foundered in the chill windswept waters of Long Island sound seven miles off here late yesterday.

Because of the fact that officers of a coast guard fleet of destroyers and patrol boats which was dispatched to the scene from the New London, Conn., base did not cease to seek survivors for hours after the tragedy, news of it did not become known until today.

The drowned were four men including the captain, whose name was believed to be Dial, two women, one of whom was the captan's wife, and ship's cook, and a child. The names of the others were undetermined. All were Negroes.

The tragedy occurred three hours after the Storm Petrel left the New London base in tow of the coast guard ship Nemaha. The boatswain commanding the Nemaha, whose name officials at New London declined to divulge, became dissatisfied with the light which a small searchlight was throwing on his tow, some 200 yards astern.

He switched it off for a mo [illegible] while preparing to throw a [illegible] light onto the Storm Petrel. B[illegible] the stronger beam was fo[illegible] where the schooner had been [illegible] aft had already plunged to the b[illegible].

The Nemaha immediately put about and radioed New London which ordered four destroyers and two patrol boats to proceed to the spot with all available speed. Despite a search which continued into today, however, no trace of the seven aboard the Storm Petrel could be found.

The disaster which overtook the Storm Petrel threatened almost from the time she left New York bound for Nantucket, Mass., with 250 tons of coal.

On Thanksgiving eve the schooner was saved from destruction after a 24 hour battle with wind and gale which stripped her of her sails and sent her [illegible] rocks of Hen and Chicken [illegible] ar Cornfield Point, at the [illegible] of the Connecticut river. [illegible] e was towed into New London [illegible] here the captain undertook to make repairs. Since then, until yesterday afternoon he vainly sought a tow for the rest of the voyage.

Coast guard officials were of the opinion that the craft had been badly strained by her experience on Hen and Chicken's but the captain felt the schooner seaworthy enough to complete the run. When the Storm Petrel left New London she was riding low in the water and although the sea was not dangerously high a fairly stiff wind was blowing and there was a heavy swell running.

Coast guardsmen believed the schooner was in a foundering condition before anyone on board realized it.

The Storm Petrel was owned by the Fingerboard Coal company, of West New Brighton, S. I., N. Y.

Death Sentence For Five Soviet Traitors

Ten Years' Imprisonment For Three Others—All of Their Property Ordered Confiscated

MOSCOW, Dec. 7.—(AP)—Five of the eight engineers who have been on trial for several weeks on charges of conspiring against the soviet government were sentenced to death tonight. The three others were sentenced to ten years imprisonment each and confiscation of all their property was ordered.

The men sentenced to death were Leonid Ramsom, confessed leader of the conspirators; Victor Larichev, Kikolai Charnovsky, Ivan Kalinikov and the elderly Alexander Fedotov.

The three given imprisonment were Vladimir Ochkin, youngest of the group; Sergei Kuprianov and Xenophon Sitnin.

All had confessed fully.

Amazing, Fantastic Trial

The amazing and fantastic trial of the eight Russian engineers charged with one of the most comprehensive plots on record for overthrow of the soviet regime began Nov. 25. For nearly two weeks all Russian, through the medium of the radio, listened to the abject confessions of the defendants, the rapid fire denunciations of the prosecutor and the shouts and comments of the spectators in the trial room.

From the first the prosecution sought to make the trial an "example" to the Russian people. Elaborate steps were taken to diffuse it to the uttermost parts of Russia.

Every word of the testimony, except for two secret sessions, was broadcast, and movie cameramen registered the changing aspects of the trial so that all might see. Thousands of workmen, selected by the votes of their fellows in villages and towns all over Russia, attended the trial, later to report the proceedings to those back home.

Throughout the country mass demonstrations were organized on the day the process opened in Moscow, half a million marchers filed through the streets and in front of the "house of columns," where the trial was proceeding, bearing banners demanding the death penalty for the "traitors." Hundreds of workmen's societies adopted resolutions asking that the defendants be executed.

TO OPEN SCHOOLS TODAY FOR PROHIBITION AGENTS

WASHINGTON, Dec. 7. — (AP) — Schools for federal prohibition agents will open tomorrow in twelve cities to give instruction in the best means of enforcing the dry laws.

Classes will be held under the direction of 24 instructors trained in Washington, and at their close on December 20 will have constituted the fourth series of such schools held by Prohibition Director Woodcock in an effort to secure a complete corps of agents expertly equipped to enforce prohibition.

Schools will open tomorrow in Providence, R. I., Buffalo, Pittsburgh, Norfolk, Va., Jacksonville, Fla., Knoxville, Tenn., Beaumont, Texas, Chicago, St. Paul, Oklahoma City, Denver and Seattle.

DEATH IN BETHEL OF MRS. ADELINE B. CLAPP, AGED 104

BETHEL, Dec. 7—(AP)—Mrs. Adeline Bartram Clapp, 104 years old, died late yesterday at the home here of her daughter, Mrs. L. L. Hull.

Until last year Mrs. Clapp retained good health. She attributed her vigorous state to the fact that, up to the time she was nearly 100 years old, she performed regular calisthenics every morning.

She was born in Redding, and, following her marriage to Azel Clapp, lived in Sharon several years. Her husband died 40 years ago.

PROPOSES FIVE-DAY WEEK FOR GOVEENMENT EMPLOYES

WASHINGTON, Dec. 7.—(AP)—stablishment of the five-day week in all branches of the government service was proposed today by Senator Walsh, democrat, Massachusetts, as an unemployment aid.

Walsh has embodied this plan in a bill to be introduced tomorrow which would make it effective for one year and authorize the president in his direction to continue it another year.

Epidemic Deaths In Belgium Total 67

Queen Elizabeth and Staff Visit the Death-Stricken Villages of the Meuse Valley

BRUSSELS, Dec. 7.— (AP)— Queen Elizabeth of the Belgians, accompanied by her staff, visited the death-stricken villages of the Meuse valley today, entering the homes of several of the sick and sympathizing with the bereaved.

The queen and Red Cross delegates listened to the stories of the slowly recovering victims who told of an intense prickling sensation in the throat immediately after they entered what they called the poisonous fog.

Three more deaths, bringing the total to 67, and the fact that many are still suffering despite the lifting of the fog were advanced as arguments that the deaths were caused by noxious fumes released from an industrial plant.

These statements of the sufferers has caused the judicial authorities to proceed with postmortem examination of several victims, despite official statements that the deaths were due alone to the cold fog.

Sensational statements as to poison fumes continued to circulate today. Eye witnesses said they noticed a narrow dark cloud which originated in a neighboring heights and which rolled along the valley.

FEAR FOG-BORNE MALADY IS SPREADING TO ENGLAND

GROSMOUNT, Yorkshire, England, Dec. 7.—(AP)—Fear that the mysterious fob-borne malady which has taken a heavy toll in men and beasts in the Meuse valley of Belgium, may be spreading to England was caused today by the inexplicable death of ten cattle on a farm near here.

Neither the veterinary surgeon attending the cattle nor the district veterinary inspector ever encountered a similar outbreak. They have definitely concluded the symptoms are not those of any notifiable disease.

A certain amount of fog has prevailed over the Yorkshire region the last few days, but none of the other farms has been similarly affected.

NATION-WIDE BROADCAST FROM A SUBMERGED SUB

NEW LONDON, Dec. 7.—(AP)—The voice of a radio announcer from 40 feet below the surface of the sea today was broadcast over a nation-wide chain.

Aboard the submarine O-8, about five miles off this city, Announcer George Hicks described the events as his ship went through a series of maneuvers. Dummy torpedoes were discharged, and a recognition bomb, indicating, on the surface, the position of the submerged vessel, was released.

The surface description of the proceedings was broadcast by Announcer James Wallington, aboard the submarine O-4. A wire connected her with the submerged vessel, and both broadcasts were then relayed from the surface vessel over a short wave set to New London. From there telephone wires carried the voice to the broadcasting studios.

Today was the first time such a demonstration has been attempted.

MANY LIVES LOST WHEN CHINESE LAUNCH SANK

HANKOW, Dec. 7.—(AP)— Shipping circles here today were informed that the Chinese passenger launch, Sientau, operating between Hankow and Changsha, had capsized and sunk near Sinti on the night of December 2.

The cause of the disaster to the small craft was not known here nor was the number of persons drowned or the number aboard when the Sientau left here for Changsha.

Unverified dispatches early in the day said 300 had drowned but this was discredited by the size of the Sientau and it was considered the report was grossly exaggerated as frequently happens in Chinese press circles.

GERMAN MINISTRY WINS ITS BATTLE FOR ECONOMY

BERLIN, Dec. 7.—(AP)—Having won its long parliamentary struggle to clamp the lid of economy on Germany's treasury, the government now has its hands free to deal with other pressing problems, notably those in the field of foreign policy.

Among parties of the middle, yesterday's reichstag votes sustaining not only the finance reform laws decreed by President Von Hindenburg but also the cabinet responsible for them, are regarded as a great victory for Chancellor Bruening. But even more, they are regarded as a vital affirmative answer to the question, "Shall Germany continue as a democracy or be ruled by a dictatorship?"

FOUR MANIACS RECAPTURED AFTER BATTLE WITH POLICE

Captives Include W. R. Nelson, Leader of the Gunmen Who Effected the Escape of Six From Matteawan Last Week—Were Captured in a Two Room Apartment in Brooklyn—Put Up a Terrific Fight Before They Were Beaten Into Submission—Two of the Four Carried Loaded Revolvers

NEW YORK, Dec. 7—(AP)—Four of the seven maniacs who have been sought since the daring delivery of six from Matteawan State Hospital for the Criminal Insane Dec. 4, were captured in Brooklyn early today after a battle with police.

The four who were recaptured included three of those liberated in the delivery last week and William R. Nelson, who had escaped previously and who led the gunmen who effected the escape of thes ix.

The three captured in addition to Nelson were:

Harry Gordon, the "Mad Butcher" of Rochester, N. Y.; John F. Gambill and John Biggins, both of New York. With them was arrested a woman, Mrs. Marie Ockenfels, who was charged with harboring criminals and aiding criminals to escape.

The capture was made when a squad of detectives and patrolmen broke into a two-room apartment at 386 Melrose avenue, Brooklyn.

Police said the fugitives put up a terrific battle when the officers entered and had to be beaten into submission. Nelson and Gambill both carried loaded revolvers, the officers said.

The detectives said they picked up the trail of the fugitive maniacs yesterday and located the apartment where they were hiding. This morning they laid in wait until they saw the four enter then rushed the place.

In addition to the guns, they said they found a complete outfit of burglar tools in the apartment. Nelson was committed to Matteawan after being arrested for burglary.

Those still at large are Frank Vanderbuylen, who killed a woman with acid, and Anthony A. Alloy, a pyromaniac, and Joseph Kaylor.

They escaped when Nelson and two other gunmen surprised and locked up the guards and other night employes at Matteawan on the morning of Dec. 4. Vanderbuylen was seen twice in New York the next day.

The four were captured in the home of Mrs. Mary Ochsenfels, who was arrested charged with harboring criminals.

The men were taken to Kings County hospital and from there to the West Side jail in Manhattan and from there they were started on their way back to Matteawan. Commissioner of Correction Richard Patterson personally supervised their departure. They were handcuffed together.

BARTHOU ABANDONS EFFORT TO FORM FRENCH MINISTRY

PARIS, Dec. 7—(AP)—Senator Louis Barthou tonight abandoned his effort to form a cabinet succeeding the government of Andre Tardieu.

This announcement came shortly after the senator had gone to Elysee palace this evening to acquaint President Doumergue of the state of negotiations for forming a minstry of concentration.

Barthou's failure apparently was due to the objection of the radical party to the inclusion of Louis Marin, head of the extreme right group in his proposed ministry. It was regarded as significant that Tardieu had insisted that at least one member of the radicals should be in the projected Barthou ministry. Barthou had expected to form a ministry of concentration which would have included himself, Aristide Briand and Tardieu in key positions.

TO REORGANIZE FISK RUBBER CO.; LOSS LAST YEAR $6,700,000

NEW YORK, Dec. 7—(AP)—Steps toward a reorganization of the Fisk Rubber company, whose working capital has been so depleted by the business depression that it finds impracticable a refunding of an $8,190,500 issue of 5 1-2 per cent notes maturing January 1, were announced.

Fisk Rubber has outstanding $19,188,800 seven per cent first preferred stock; $928,000 in second preferred and 1,717,009 shares of common. Its funded debt, in addition to the maturing notes, comprises $7,870,000 first mortgage 8 per cent bonds, due in 1941, and $1,000,000 in subsidiary first mortgage 6 1-2s, due in 1935.

POLITICAL CLASHES IN GERMAN CITIES SUNDAY

BERLIN, Dec. 7—(AP)—More than a score of persons were seriously injured, one probably fatally, in the usual Sunday political clashes in Berlin and other German cities today.

At Bernau, near Berlin, communists stoned a parade of fascists and then turned the same missiles upon police who stepped in to quell the riot. Twenty policemen and fascists were taken to the hospital.

At Dortmund one fascist was reported to be dying as a result of injuries in a communist-fascist fight.

A fascist attempt to break up a republican reichsbanner at Hameln, near Hanover, resulted in five being seriously injured and many slightly.

A dozen were reported wounded in riots here.

TREASURY CERTIFICATES AT LOW INTEREST RATES

WASHINGTON, Dec. 7—(AP)—Certificates of indebtedness totalling $400,000,000 will be issued by the government at the lowest interest rates since the World war, and perhaps in the history of the nation, to provide for December financing.

Preparing to meet government obligations falling Due on Dec. 15, the treasury announced the offering of two series of certificates, one bearing 1 3-4 percent interest and the other 1 7-8 percent. The first will be for six months and total about $150,000,000. The latter will be for a year and amount to $250,000,000.

POLICE SHOOT AND CAPTURE TWO MEN IN BIRMINGHAM, ALA.

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., Dec. 7—(AP)—Two men police listed as J. L. Sullivan and Ollie Moore were shot and later captured after an automobile chase through downtown Birmingham today.

Police said the two men were believed to be escaped convicts from the North Carolina state prison at Raleigh and were being held pending the arrival of officers ordered here by George Ross Pou, of Raleigh, prison superintendent.

Sullivan was shot in the head and was reported in a critical condition. Moore was shot in the foot.

FATALLY INJURED AN HOUR AFTER MARRIAGE

ELLIOTT CITY, Md., Dec. 7.—(AP)—Less than an hour after her wedding here, Mrs. Clara Daniels, 18, of Alexandria, Va., was fatally injured in an automobile accident. She died at the Montgomery County hospital.

Her husband, Melvin Daniels, 21, was only slightly hurt.

CHICAGO MAN AND HIS SON WERE INJURED BY A BOMB

CHICAGO, Dec. 7.—(AP)—Tony May, 50, real estate dealer and professional bondsman, formerly known as "the millionaire newsboy," was probably fatally injured, and his son, Frank, 14, seriously hurt when a bomb exploded in the May apartment today.

The bomb was delivered by a messenger boy in a box which bore the label of a mail order house.

May had removed the heavy wrapping when the device exploded with a terrific blast, wrecking the apartment.

Panic spreads throughout the huge apartment building. Frantic tenants summoned fire department squads, precinct police and details from the detective bureau.

The officers found May and his son lying unconscious among the debris. Both May's arms were mangled and his left leg was blown almost entirely off. The boy, who apparently was some distance from the deadly box when it was opened, was less seriously hurt.

BOOMING CANDIDACY OF FUGITIVE SPANISH AVIATOR

MADRID, Dec. 7.—(AP)—Major Ramon Franco, missing Spanish aviator who escaped from a Madrid prison, is being boomed as a republican candidate to the chamber of deputies in the March elections.

His candidacy is being advocated by republicans, advanced liberals and liberal-socialists in Madrid, Valencia, Balcelona and Bilbao. These cities usually return large republican majoriee.

Election to parliament would permit Franco's return to Spain under the cloak of immunity given congressmen against arrest for political offenses. Franco's arrest resulted from newspaper writings in which he criticised the government.

AIR SHOW FOR BENEFIT OF NATION'S UNEMPLOYED

VALLEY STREAM, N. Y., Dec. 7.—(AP)—An air show for the benefit of the nation's unemployed was held at the Curtiss airport today. Between 10,000 and 15,000 persons paid $1 each to see the stunting and maneuvers.

Among those participating were Col. Charles A. Lindbergh, Miss Amelia Earhart and many other nationally distinguished fliers.

FORMER GEORGIAN ENVOY ASSASSINATED IN PARIS

PARIS, Dec. 7.—(AP) —Eli Ramichvili, former minister plenipotentiary to Paris of the Republic of Georgia, was assassinated today while driving in an open automobile through the Place D'Italia.

His slayer, Bze Pchanovkvadze, was arrested. He described himself as a Georgian workingman. He fired two shots, both of which took effect.

Police said they believed the shooting is the outgrowth of political rivalries between soviet and white party adherents.

Pchanovkvadze told police he killed "for political reasons," but declined to go into detail.

He described himself as a bricklayers' helper, but police said his hands were rather delicately manicured for a follower of that occupation.

OBITUARY

Rev. Dr. William E. Barton

NEW YORK, Dec. 7—(AP)—The Rev. Dr. William E. Barton, 69, noted clergyman, author and lecturer, died today.

MUCH DISCUSSION EXPECTED ON CITY BUDGET TONIGHT

(Special to The Bulletin.)

WILLIMANTIC, Dec. 7.—What many consider as one of the most important annual city meetings to be held in a quarter of a century will be held in the town hall Monday night when action will be taken on the city budget for the fiscal year. The importance of this meeting is credited to the drastic reductions of several items that are recommended by the board of aldermen and still others urged by citizens and the Windham Taxpayers' Protective association, while still many other citizens are going to the meeting with the avowed intention of maintaining some of the appropriations as the same amount provided for last year. This clash of recommendations and desires is expected to make the meeting a lively one.

A total of $213,155, representing a reduction of $45,450.14 from the budget for last year which was $258,605.14, is called for in the budget as prepared by Mayor Walter R. King, and the appropriations committee and approved by the board of aldermen. At least three of the reductions recommended in this budget do not appear to meet with wide favor. They are: The reductions of $5,000 in the police and fire department budgets and the elimination of the annual appropriation of $2,000 to the Visiting Nurse association. It is understood that the latter action was taken when the council failed to receive comprehensive reports of the expenditure of this sum by the nurses' association. The electors will also vote on the matter of selling the Hilltop Hose house, now out of use, and located in the residential section on Summit street.

The advisory committee of the taxpayers' association approves the budget as proposed except for the following minor change: Inclusion of the Visiting Nurse association appropriation of $2,000 and further reductions of $1,000 each from the items of sidewalks, gutters and new streets, making the total $3,000 lower than proposed by the aldermen, or totalling $212,155.

The present tax rate of 10 mills, plus sources of other income derived by the city, will be sufficient to meet the ensuing year's budget as recommended or possibly with slight increases. The city's grand list is $20,-919,000.

The December meeting of the board of aldermen has been called for 7 o'clock in the council chambers. At 8 o'clock adjournment will be taken for the city meeting and the board will then reconvene to confirm the action of the electors.

Third Hospital Report.

Encouraged by the excellent showing made from Monday night, the official opening of the $500,000 drive for the new Windham Community Memorial hospital up to Friday night when a total of $212,906.50 in pledges was reported as secured, the several hundred campaign workers put in a busy week end. Monday night the workers will again gather at the state armory at 6.30 o'clock for a supper and the third report. Chairmen fully expect that this report will be another cause of increased enthusiasm to carry on untill Wednesday night when the fourth and final report will be made. While several of the campaign committee in the towns neighboring here and included within the hospital area have already turned in splendid reports there are still a number which have not as yet filed totals. The combined efforts of the workers in these towns is expected to mount to a gratifying figure in the final report. The meeting will start on schedule and adjourn early, allowing Willimantic people to attend the annual city meeting to be held in the town hall at 8 o'clock.

Mike Schultz, 23, of R. F. D. No. 4, Rockville, was arraigned in the Coventry town court Saturday afternoon on a charge of failure to report an accident to the state motor vehicle department within the 48 hour limit. He pleaded guilty and was fined $3 and costs, amounting to $15.60. The case was heard by Justice of the Peace Byron M. Houston, of Mansfield. Schultz was driving a car that left the highway in Coventry and in doing so suffered damage amounting to about $60. The arrest was made by officers of the state police barracks at Stafford Springs.

Town to Re-Finance.

But little if any difficulty is looked to in the approval of the various clauses of the special town meeting to be held in the town hall at 8 o'clock Tuesday night, the principal of these having to do with a plan for re-financing the town by issuing bonds to retire indebtedness on which a high rate of interest is now being paid. Other clauses provide for the installation of new bookkeeping systems in the offices of the town clerk and treasurer, board of selectmen and town tax collector; and for the employment of a clerk for town treasurer at a cost not to exceed $1,-300 and allowing the selectmen to discharge the town auditors and appoint certified public accountants to audit the town books annually, the cost of this work not to exceed $1,250. The refinancing plan as drawn up by the selectmen and Town Counsel John H. King is regarded by those who have made a study of it as somewhat of a "God-send." The town, according to the report of the auditors, has reached a peak of indebtedness but the amount and nature of its debts are of a character that can be handled with most effective results under a re-financing plan at this time. While the indebtedness has served as an object-lesson the timely discovery of the total and its disposition as proposed in the plan will immediately react as a great benefit to the pocketbook of the taxpayers. A fair rate of taxation will be necessary for the ensuing year, but the plan is proposed will allow a steady decline in future years until a comparatively low rate is the rule.

There are 15 adults registered in the night school opened the past week at the Center school in Columbia under the direction of Supervisor Levi T. Garrison. Merle Woodmansee, of Colchester, is teacher and sessions are held the first four nights of the week.

A sample of chlorinated water drawn from a tap at the pumping station supply reservoir November 12, by Henderson S. Moulton, superintendent of the water department, and sent to Hartford for analysis, brings back a report that the water is undoubtedly safe for drinking purposes, although slightly high in color with a faint grassy odor.

OBITUARY.

Elihue Buell Porter.

After a lingering illness, Elihue Buell Porter, 62, died at his home in Hebron this morning. He was born in Hebron, March 11, 1868, a son of Marshal and Mary Buell Porter and was one of the town's most esteemed native-residents. Besides his wife he leaves six children; four daughters, Mrs. Lulu Jones and the Misses Marguerite, Clara and Marion Porter, and two sons, Everett and Marshal Porter, all of Hebron; three brothers, Marshal J. Porter of South Windham, Howard C., of Mansfield, and J. Lynd Porter, of Columbia. The deceased was a member of Wooster lodge, A. F. and A. M., of Colchester.

Mrs. L. H. Little, who makes her home with her son, Lyndon E. Little and family, left Sunday for Winter Haven, Fla., to spend the winter.

The feast of the Immaculate Conception, one of the most important in the Catholic church calendar, will be observed Monday with masses at St. Joseph's church at 5.30, 7.30 and 9 o'clock in the morning and at 5.30, 7 and 8 o'clock at St. Mary's. The last masses will be high masses with special choruses and ceremonies.

Henry Leo Frederick of 25 West Park street was arrested by the state police today on complaint charging non-support of his wife and minor child. He will be presented in police court Monday morning.

The case of Harry M. Everett, of Chaplin, charged with seduction and fornication will be tried in the Chaplin town court at 10 o'clock Monday morning behind closed doors. Interest in the case about the vicinity induced Justice of the Peace Miss Theresa Daubeneck, to bar the public from the trial which is of sensational nature. Everett was arrested at his filling station near Danielson one week ago by Deputy Sheriff Ernest A. Holland, of this city. The equipment is a Chaplin girl who, like Everett, came to the town from New York.

WILLIMANTIC ELKS PAY HONOR TO MEMORY OF DEPARTED BROTHERS

WILLIMANTIC, Dec. 7.—The impressive Elks' lodge of sorrow was held in the presence of many members and friends of Willimantic lodge No. 1311, B. P. O. Elks, at the lodge room of the home on Pleasant street this afternoon. The oration, touching on the principles of Elkdom and paying fitting tribute to the members who have passed on, was delivered by Joseph F. Dutton, former mayor of Bristol and member of the lodge of that city.

A roll call of 65 names of departed brothers was read by Secretary Louis J. Flynn, to which the response "Absent" was given by Esquire G. Donald Bartlett. Of the 65 there are five members who died within the past year: John E. Shea, Wesson L. Shepperd, Joseph Bosse, Albert E. Greene and Dr. Robert C. White. The names of deceased members are inscribed in the handsome new memorial tablets recently installed in the lobby of the lodge rooms and the source of much favorable comment by visitors at the home tonight. The first name is that of Charles E. Abbott, who died in 1873.

The program opened with three selections by the B. P. O. E. band, Brother Charles N. C. Wheeler director. The numbers: March, Triumphant March from Aida; overture, Light Cavalry Overture; Marche Funebvre. The Willimantic Glee club, Dr. Edward J. Morgan, director, and Joseph Atchinson, accompanist, sang Crossing the Bar, by Macy.

The opening ceremonies were by Exalted Ruler George W. Hickey and Esquire Bartlett. Invocation was by Chaplain John D. Roy. The Glee club sang There Is No Death, by O'Hara, and the band played a serenade. The calling of the roll of deceased members was followed by the singing of Vacant Chair, Johnson, by the Glee club and the ritualistic ceremonies conducted by the officers of the lodge. The oration by Brother Dutton, assembly singing of Auld Lang Syne and closing ceremonies concluded the program. For the occasion the lodge room was attractively decorated with chrysanthemums, ferns and American flags, the general arrangements being in charge of the memorial committee: P. D. Donahue, Clarence H. LaFleur and Roland B. Jordan. The officers of the lodge assisting in the exercises were: Exalted Ruler George W. Hickey, Esteemed Leading Knight William B. Sweeney, Esteemed Loyal Knight Attorney Harry S. Gaucher, Esteemed Lecturing Knight John H. Wilcox, Secretary Louis J. Flynn, Treasurer Raymond A. Parker, Esquire G. Donald Bartlett, Tyler Roderick Gaudreau, Chaplain John D. Roy, Inner Guard Louis B. Wilson, Organist John W. Keefe and Trustees John F. Carr, John Reilly and John E. Brick.

STATE POLICE BREAK UP ELMVILLE WHOOPEE PARTY

(Special to The Bulletin)

DANIELSON, Dec. 7.—Early this morning a squad of state officers swooped down on a cottage built back from the state highway just south of Elmville and rounded up a party engaged in carousing, with no care at all about the time of night or what not.

Six women and 11 men were rounded up and held for the time being, all of them being released later with the exception of George LeTendre of Central Falls, R. I., and said to be a realtor. LeTendre obtained bonds for his release and is expected to make an appearance in the town court on Monday.

A few weeks ago, on a Sunday, LeTendre and a Pawtucket woman in whose car he was riding were picked up by State Officer George Martin, while the machine was being operated here in Danielson. The officer became suspicious of the manner in which the couple acted when he took a casual look at the machine, and he was more curious than ever when the car dashed away and made off toward the Connecticut Mills Village section of Danielson.

On overtaking the machine he found that it contained some bottles of beer and something that goes under the name of hooch. The couple were held for questioning, but later were released on the strength of the explanation that the pair had come up here from Rhode Island to have a little home party with some local friends of theirs.

It was not made clear this afternoon just what the state officers will file in the way of charges, if any, against the group taken in last night's raid.

Chief McFarland of the borough police said this morning that he had reports from Night Officer Laird Winchell of goings on in the central part of the business section last night and up to 3:30 this morning that will have a sequel in the way of investigation. The chief is not too strong for parties that get boisterous in the small hours of the morning and is going to see just what can be done about checking such goings on.

The colors of several American Legion posts in the fourth district of that organization in Connecticut were unfurled here this afternoon in a short parade preceding a meeting of the district organization—representing the Legion posts in Windham and Tolland counties—in the town hall building. The attractive uniforms of the Rockville post drum and bugle corps were of special interest to those who looked on. The little event was a bright spot in a drab and dull Sunday afternoon.

Now, can you imagine this! Impish youngsters operating over on the West Side apparently are getting a kick out of going around and slashing the pretty undies of young women who are so careless as to leave them hanging out on lines after dark. And they are not averse to cutting up overalls and other garments that they find hanging out to dry.

These youngsters have another trick that is irritating operators of cars just now. This has to do with hopping on the spare tires of cars that circle around through Front, Tiffany and other streets over in that section. The decidedly short and abrupt right turns over in that residential neighborhood assure the bold, reckless boys of a slow down of the machine so that they can jump off.

The reckless practice worries the public service car operators who are called over into that territory many times a day.

Small town stuff—well, maybe, but it may be regarded from the viewpoint that this has become a really reckless age and that even the boys of 10 to 14 years of age are acting very much worse than should be expected of them.

There came to the officers at the state barracks on North Main street late last night a report of the instant death of Frank L. Provost, 27, in an automobile accident at Burrillville, R. I. Provost is understood to have been the proprietor of a small business in Pomfret. He was riding alone in a large sedan when, apparently, he failed to see a sharp curve in the road. The car left the highway, plunged across a lawn and into a house. Provost was hurled through the windshield. He was dead when picked up by persons almost immediately upon the scene. The car was badly wrecked.

This week's instructive Bulletin of the Windham County Farmers' association—one of a series being issued by County Agent Raymond E. Wing for the winter season—deals with the use of fertilizers for dairy farming. This bulletin, which will go to many farmers, states that from 70 to 80 per cent of Connecticut dairy farmers use no super-phosphate, as shown by a recent survey. Yet on their farms pastures are poor, so poor that the grain bill is nearly as large in the summer as in the winter season. Most of the hay is only grass. Yields are a trifle more than a ton per acre, and three-fourths of the acres in silage corn yield less than ten tons.

County Agent Wing remarks that there must be some vital reasons for a situation like this. He sets forth in detail what these reasons are and how they may be corrected, to the great advantage of the farmer who pays heed. Copies of the information are available through the Farmers' association.

The first of the strings of colored lights that are to make Danielson's business section brighter and more cheery for the holiday shopping season are in place, and more like them will be strung during the present week. This year these rows of lights are strung across Main street. Up to today they were in place only belof the railroad crossing, but more of them will be put up above the crossing the first of the week. The whole set-up is expected to be glowing brilliantly toward the end of the week.

A week hence more than a score of Western Electric Co. men who are to make the installation of apparatus in the new booster station of the A. T. & T. Co. on the West Side will be in Danielson and engaged with their assignments. They will be at work here, it is expected, until next July.

After a motor tour to Florida, California and into Mexico during the past few weeks, Mr. and Mrs. Earl Bassett have returned to Danielson, getting in at the week-end.

Wednesday afternoon members of the Ladies' Benevolent society are to meet in the parlor of the Westfield Congregational church.

At the week-end, Mrs. Frank J. Gorman was hostess to the Entre Nous club at her home on Cottage street. Bridge was played and refreshments served.

John Lewis, owner of a fleet of public service cars operating here, remains at the Day Kimball hospital in Putnam, where he has been a patient for the past fortnight.

Trappers are not showing as much enthusiasm as in many former years, and the answer to this is that furs, like many other commodities, have taken such a slump in value that the trapper gets comparatively little return for his catch. Ordinarily this territory yields many thousands of dollars worth of pelts every year. It will yield considerable this winter, but not as much as usual.

From an official quarter again comes the advice to motorists—file your application now for the renewal of your car's registration. Toward the end of the month the rush to get registrations will be so great as to cause delay.

Within 24 hours after the claim was made the insurance company that carries the blanket bond covering such losses as tre one sustained by George E. Paine on a forged order that resulted in the withdrawal of $550 of his money from the Brooklyn Savings bank was paid to the bank, and the sum credited to Mr. Paine's account relieving him from all loss on that particular account.

JEWETT CITY

CANDLELIGHT SERVICE BY WORLD WIDE GUILD

The vesper candlelight service given by the World Wide guild girls in the Baptist church Sunday at 4:30 was very pleasing. Mrs. Floyd Ray announced the program, during which the congregation joined in singing several Christmas carols. Ruby Gray led the responsive reading. A pantomime, O Come, All Ye Faithful, was given by Beatrice and Ruth Cathcart, Ruby Gray, Marian Wilbur, Helen Babcock and Margery McLean, with Mrs. Verna Cregan soloist. After the collection was received, Mrs. Ray gave an account of the accomplishments of the order on its 15th anniversary, the girls singing the anniversary hymn. Mrs. G. H. Prior made a splendid address on Candles and Candlelight, comparing Jesus, the Light of the world, to candlelight. The girls repeated the covenant and slogan of the order, and went through the audience, lighting the small candles each one in the audience had received on entering the church. After they sang Follow the Gleam, the audience sang Let the Lower Lights be Burning. Prayer and benediction were by Rev. E. E. Scates. The windows were lighted with blue and white candles, and the girls wore white robes. Mrs. R. A. Wilbur, the councilor, arranged the program.

OBITUARY

Dr. Ernest E. Smith

The news of the sudden death of Dr. Ernest E. Smith, 62, at his home in Kew Gardens, Queens, N. Y., Friday, was received by relatives here Saturday. Dr. Smith's wife was Lillian Church, daughter of the late R. R. Church, of this place. Dr. Smith was one of the leading food experts in New York. In 1900 he opened at the Chemists' club in New York one of the first private laboratories for research, principally into the chemical properties of foods. This year he moved the laboratory to his home in Kew Gardens. He was retained by many nationally known corporations as a food expert, and was consulting physiologist to the department of health. Baking powder was one foodstuff on which he was a special authority. He had recently completed a volume on aluminum compounds in food and was author of many pamphlets and magazine articles. Mrs. R. R. Church and Mr. and Mrs. A. D. Tripp will attend the burial service in Middlefield today (Monday). Dr. Smith is survived by his wife and a son, Dr. Harold E Smith.

TIRES AND WHEELS STOLEN FROM CAR PARKED NEAR DANCE HALL

(Special to The Bulletin)

DANIELSON, Dec. 7.—It's getting tough around here week-ends, tough in one way and another. Last night measured up to the average for untoward things happening. The evening including a portion of the early hours of this morning, found state officers raiding a recently constructed house just off the state highway leading to Elmville, and hunting around for the nifty boys that stole two wheels and two tires off an automobile parked outside the state armory, where a dance was going on, and getting away with six overcoats and some hats that trusting persons had left in the machines.

Woisan Gaudreau was one of those who drove over to the armory in his car to spend a pleasant evening dancing about. He lives over on the West Side. He parked the car at the front of the armory, left his hat and coat in it and went in to dance around a bit.

That was the opportunity for someone, state officers had not established just who up to this evening, to get busy with the machine. They took a spare disc wheel and the tire that was on it off the running board, and then, with unusual boldness and in constant danger of discovery, took another wheel and its tire off the car. Away with them also went Gaudreau's overcoat.

State officers went to work on the matter shortly after the theft was discovered. It appears that they, with many others, are fairly well convinced that the theft of the wheels, tires, overcoats and hats should be charged up against a tough mob that comes up here from Thornton, R. I., on the outskirts of Providence, for week-end parties and dances.

The owner of a car with wheels like the one from which two were stolen had to be appealed to for a wheel off his car, that the disabled one might be towed to the home of its owner.

PLAINFIELD

STORRS PLAYERS MAKE HIT IN PLAY PRESENTED

Mrs. Charles Jerome and daughter, Mrs. Everard M. Lester, of South Manchester, spent the week end with Mrs. Jerome's sister, Mrs. Theodore Vergin, of Poughkeepsie, N. Y.

The Connecticut Players, from Storrs college, presented The Mollusec, a comedy in three acts, Wednesday evening, at the community house. The scene was laid in Mrs. Baxter's sitting room at a house some twenty or thirty miles from London. Time, the present. The characters: Tom Kemp, Mr. Pinckney; Mr. Baxter, Mr. Humphrey; Mrs. Baxter, Miss Quick; Miss Roberts, Miss Thompson. Homemade candy was on sale by Miss Florence Wibberly assisted by Mrs. Everett Dawley.

THOMPSON

Mrs. Paul Auger motored to Wellesley, Mass., recently with Mrs. Harry A. Houghton of Putnam and Miss Mildred Keech of Danielson.

Mrs. Irene Wechtenhiser and sons, William and Robert, of Harrington, Del., are visiting Mrs. Wechtenhiser's sister, Mrs. Harold Babbitt. They came before Thanksgiving so that the entire family of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Reynolds were together at their Fort Hill farm for the holiday. Mr. and Mrs. Reynolds have gone to spend the winter with their son, Herbert. Mr. Reynolds is much improved in health and able to go to the garage.

The town farm inmates enjoyed a chicken dinner on the recent holiday. They were given a huge fruit cake by J. A. Lafontaine and two quilts by Mrs. F. A. Decker.

Newell Weed has returned from a trip to Havana.

Mr. and Mrs. William Mayhew have been visiting relatives in Middleboro and Providence.

The Ladies' Aid society of East Thompson Baptist church met Wednesday afternoon with Mrs. Gina St. Martin for a missionary meeting.

Marjorie Crandall and Marian Lewis, of Bay Path institute, Springfield, were at home for the week end.

Mr. and Mrs. Earle Pierce, of Waterbury, were at the Chase home for the holiday.

The bridge club met last week with Mrs. Arthur Mills.

The Red Cross roll call conducted here by Miss H. R. Lewis brought in $198.

On Way To Holland

Word has been received from Mrs. Andre Roosevelt, written on the Statendam and mailed at Plymouth. She joined Mr. Roosevelt in Holland.

Rev. E. S. Lyon attended a meeting of the local clergy fellowship at the residence of Rev. Edward Chandler of Woodstock last week.

Mrs. Dexter Elliott has been visiting in Providence and Boston.

Lawrence Backus and family have moved to Putnam.

Dr. and Mrs. R. C. Paine have been visiting Mrs. Paine's sister in Brookfield.

Miss Augusta Elliott has returned from a visit to Green's farms and Bridgeport.

Mrs. Carrie Brott was in Hartford to attend a tea given for Mrs. J. Olney Brott.

The Just-It bridge club members attended a movie together last week in place of their regular meeting.

Mrs. John Bates and daughter, Virginia, have been visiting relatives in New Hampshire.

Mrs. C. E. Searles has been entertaining Mr. and Mrs. Frank Darrington and their children, Searles, Bradley, Alice and Carolyn, of Melrose, Mass.

Mrs. Vonsiatsky entertained at the Russian Bear, Mr. and Mrs. Louis Ream, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Ream and sons, and Misses Elinor and Janet Thresher.

The next grange meeting is to be the Christmas program, in charge of Mrs. Bogardus, Mrs. Hannah Bates and Mrs. Henry Robbins.

PUTNAM

ELKS PAY TRIBUTE TO DEPARTED BROTHERS

(Special to The Bulletin)

PUTNAM, Dec. 7. —Led by Exalted Ruler Frank M. Bedard of Brooklyn the members of Putnam lodge, No. 574, B. P. O. Elks, gathered this afternoon in the lodge room of the Elks' home on Main street and during the annual memorial service paid impressive and fitting tribute to the memory of their departed brothers.

The program was opened with an overture played by Baker's orchestra after which the lodge members filed into the auditorium taking seats in a reserved portion of the hall. Invocation was given by Rev. Joseph Vasey, pastor of the Congregational church.

The Thurston memorial window dedicated to the memory of the late Ralph E. Thurston, past exalted ruler of the lodge who died on October 6th was unveiled with proper ceremony. This beautiful window which is of leaded glass has an outlined oak leaf border. The side panels are torches. At the top is the Elks' emblem, the spreading antlers and the clock, with hands pointing to the eleventh hour. At the bottom is a wreath of soft green shade inside of which is the inscription, "In Memoriam; Ralph E. Thurston, 1877-1930; Exalted Ruler 1914-1915." Underneath is "Putnam Lodge 574." Only soft tones of light sift through the lights of artistically colored glass.

An inspiring eulogy was delivered by James Hayes, past district deputy grand exalted ruler of Norwich.

During the ritualistic services, the names of lodge members who have died during the past year were read from the beautiful bronze memorial tablet. At the beginning of the list was the name of William J. Jarvis, captain of police who died in December, 1929, followed by Erwin E. Robbins, Cortland D. Arnold, Addison I. Tourtellotte, William S. Johnson, George L. Laporte, John B. Bassett, Edward D. West and Ralph E. Thurston.

After a program of vocal selections rendered by Miss Elaine Thrower, soprano, and William J. McKenna, baritone, both of Providence, and the recitation of Bryant's "Thanatopsis" by Thomas Mulgrew, also of Providence, the service was concluded with the singing "Auld Lang Syne" and the pronouncing of benediction by Rev. Mr. Vasey.

LOCAL BOY GETS WEST POINT NOMINATION

(Special to The Bulletin)

PUTNAM, Dec. 7.— Harry C. Thayer, 17-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs Charles A. Thayer of King street, was signally honored Saturday when a letter from United States Senator Frederick C. Walcott formally notified him that he had been awarded the Connecticut junior senator's principal appointment to the United States Military academy at West Point. The eagerly sought honor was conferred upon the Putnam young man by virtue of his average of 91.56 per cent attained in a competitive examination given at Hartford on October 25, 1930, by the civil service commission in behalf of Senator Walcott. Taking the examination with Candidate Thayer were several other equally ambitious youths who had been graduated with high scholastic standings from the high schools of Connecticut. To win the appointment it was necessary for the aspiring candidate to score the highest marking. This was the achievement of the Putnam representative.

In his letter to Candidate Thayer, Senator Walcott said: "It gives me pleasure to advise you that I have sent your name to the secretary of war as my principal for my appointment to the United States Military academy as the result of the examination in which you competed on October 25, 1930. Your average was 91.56. I want to congratulate you upon being the successful candidate."

Thayer was graduated with honors from Putnam high school in the class of 1930 and was selected by reason of his high academic rating as the honor student of the general course graduates. Intent upon a military career, Thayer entered Bradens preparatory school at Cornwall-on-Hudson in August. After successfully hurdling the first obstacle in the way of his admittance to the military academy, Thayer plans to return at once to the New York school to prepare for the West Point entrance examinations which he will take in March. If successful in these he will enter the academy in July, 1931.

Thayer is a brother of Lieut. Allen Thayer, now en route to the Hawaiian Islands to begin foreign service with the U. S. army and who was graduated from West Point in 1928. Not only is young Thayer following in the footsteps of his brother by aspiring for a military education, but others in his family have also been identified with military service. His father, Charles A. Thayer, is a former captain of a cavalry unit of Rhode Island national guard and his grandfather, Colonel Henry J. Thayer served in the third regiment of Connecticut national guard during the Spanish-American war.

As is customary, Senator Walcott has appointed two other young men as first and second alternate. To these will go the opportunity of taking entrance examinations in the event of failure of the principal candidate.

Walter Carey of 81 Railroad street was ordered by State Officer James M. Carmody of Danielson barracks to appear in city court Monday morning, following the policeman's investigation of an accident which occurred Saturday evening at approximately 6:30 o'clock on Gibson's hill on the Putnam-Providence highway. The Carey car was in collision with another owned and operated by Milton Wordell of Brooklyn, N. Y. Officer Carmody reported that the front ends of both cars were badly damaged.

Franklin W. Perry, post graduate student at Amherst college, who has been at his home here since his brother was taken suddenly ill two weeks ago, returned to his studies today. The younger Perry is making a rapid recovery and will probably be discharged from the Day Kimball hospital this week, hospital officials said today.

Frank Tourtellotte of Farrows street and Charles Tourtellotte of Wilkinson street were in Hartford today visiting with relatives.

A special traffic officer has been assigned to duty in Bugbee square to handle the movement of automobiles from this point, while contractors are excavating a trench line across the western portion of the square, in connection with the laying of new water mains.

With the ban on the hunting of deer lifted in Massachusetts for a two week period, the annual trek of the animals to the woodlands of Connecticut where they are protected at all times by special acts of the legislature, has begun. Farm land owners in the vicinity of the Massachusetts-Connecticut border line report numbers of the fleeing deer as having sought refuge on their lands since the neighboring state afforded a period of deer hunting grace to their sportsmen.

The influx of the Massachusetts herd each year at this time necessitates a more careful and observing patrol of the woods by Connecticut game wardens, inasmuch as the temptation to slay the graceful, slender-legged and antler crowned-sprinters of the forests is sometimes too great for Connecticut huntsmen to overcome when they appear in such numbers.

Alphonse Dumas and Edmund Keane are now officially chief and deputy chief, respectively, of the Putnam fire department, for on Thursday Mayor Charles A. Richard administered the oath of office to both of the new department heads who were elected to their new posts on Tuesday.

The quarterly meeting of the woman's board of the Day Kimball hospital will be held next Tuesday afternoon at three o'clock in the chamber of commerce rooms in Union block.

Two-hundred and ninety-five visits were made during the month of November by Miss Esther Welles, district nurse. Collections amounted to $57.84. The report of Miss Welles stresses the need of a greater than normal demand for relief. Her numerous visits to the various homes in the city where poverty has crept in reveal that the outstanding need is clothing. Those seeing fit to cooperate with the Red Cross in their efforts to afford relief to the needy may send articles for men, women and children to the Red Cross headquarters on Ballou street. The district nurse assures such contributions will be generously accepted.

Luther M. Keith of Hartford, director of the state highway department's bureau of road beautification, spent the week end at his home on Grove street.

The body of Frank Provost, Jr., who was killed Saturday evening in an automobile accident on Glendale bridge in the town of Bourroughville, R. I. was brought to his home in Pomfret today. Mr. Provost, who is well known in this city where he lived practically all of his life, met instantaneous death when crushed beneath the wreckage of his heavy coupe model auto which capsized after skidding around a curve.

GET THROUGH AND ADJOURN

For weeks there has been evidence of efforts being made to avoid calling a special session of congress following the present one. The necessity for any such call will arise solely from the fact that the congress now in session refused to knuckle down to business and by failing to enact the supply and appropriation bills forced an extra session that the necessary funds to keep the government going might be provided.

Because an extra session cannot be regarded as necessary if congress will tend to business, those who read public sentiment aright are endeavoring to get early action on necessary legislation.

There are those in congress who indicate an anxiety to do everything possible to help the economic situation, such is to be expected, but they do not seem to realize the aid they can give by relieving the country of that uncertainty which exists while congress is in session and especially from prolonged and needless sessions. The long drawn out session earlier this year kept the country guessing as to what was going to be done and what could be expected from congress.

In a recent address in New York city, Owen D. Young insisted that "if a holiday of armaments is good, a holiday of parliaments would be better." He was hammering away at the uncertainty which politics creates in economics and he was voicing a sentiment which has been harbored by others and created by the practices resorted to in congress.

The desire to have congress settle down to business and meet the situation before it in a prompt and businesslike manner is natural. It is only what should be. The idea of playing politics, refusing to permit measures to come to vote, conducting filibusters, delaying legislation for the sake of personal publicity, fails to make a good impression. It disgusts the country and destroys confidence in congress, and when that happens it is only what should be expected if economic conditions remain uncertain.

There is time between now and the fourth of March for congress to take take care of the important legislation before it, and if it is disposed to heed public sentiment it will do so. If, through opposite action, it handicaps the economic forces there should be no mistaking where the blame will fall.

FARM BOARD REPORT

Created for the purpose of aiding the agricultural situation, the farm board has been engaged in work which was recognized from the start as difficult and uncertain. It was believed that special attention should be given to the farm problem and the board of experts has been diligently engaged in its task but its first annual report, covering a period ending with June, doesn't show that as much has been accomplished as was hoped for.

It is true that the board has had to face conditions which were not discernible when it took over its job. The uncertainties have developed for the board quite the same as they do for the farmers. There has been an effort to aid through financial support of the wheat market, through the establishment of cooperatives and through advice which has been prompted by conditions.

It is necessary for the board to admit in its report that the wheat buying did not prevent a heavy slump. It sets forth that the effort at stabilization was not successful. It may have prevented the drop from being as precipitous as might otherwise have been the case, but it dropped just the same, with foreign conditions contributing encouragement, and it is the view of the board that stabilization efforts cannot meet the undue and excessive fluctuations in prices.

In view of its experiences the board frankly declares that stabilization cannot be accomplished through the methods undertaken, methods which it interpreted as being sought by congress, but it maintains that overproduction must be regulated by the producers. Instead of persisting in the production of wheat, wheat and more wheat, regardless of the law of supply and demand, the board urges a curtailment. This is not a new recommendation which has come with the report, it is what the board has been urging throughout this year, even going into the wheat fields to talk to those directly concerned. The idea of producing an unlimited quantity and thinking that it is going to bring the top price is a fallacy which has been pretty well demonstrated this year. This holds true of any line of production and the need of agriculturists giving heed to the law of supply and demand the same as other producers isn't a far-fetched proposition.

ANOTHER OCEAN TEST

While it must have been a great disappointment to its builder, the fact that the series of accidents to the DO-X culminated in one that made the projected flight across the Atlantic impossible before the take-off was actually made was fortunate.

Aircraft of varying types have been employed in crossing the Atlantic. Airplane, seaplane, dirigible, have obtained the honors, but no craft of the exact type and size of the DO-X has either made the flight or attempted it. Thus there were great expectations on both sides of the water that 1930 would be able to include that in its list of new records.

Fate wills otherwise. The DO-X cannot be reconditioned before another year. In fact, certain handicaps have developed which indicate the inadvisability of making such a long trip without a more thorough and satisfying test. In its flight to Holland all went well, but thereafter it experienced engine trouble and failed to attain the desired speed. When fire burned off one wing it ended all hope of a transatlantic flight this year and in the meantime it can be expected that the experience of the craft since it left Lake Constance will furnish grounds for careful study and the application of needed corrections.

It would appear with this craft as with those of earlier days, about which there was some uncertainty, that there should be a sufficiently long flight made as an endurance test of the big boat, a test that would compare with the time that can be reasonably expected to elapse in the crossing of the ocean. Even with its 12 motors it is apparent that unless they are working satisfactorily the DO-X would be put in an embarrassing situation out on the broad Atlantic, especially in bad weather.

It is not too much to expect that the DO-X, or a craft of similar character, will make the crossing and return to Europe. It is only such a development as can be expected in connection with aviation. Even though it is proposed to carry 169 persons and the engines produce 7,200 horse power, there should be no effort to send a 50-ton seaplane across the ocean until it has been well demonstrated that it can meet the requirements and conditions. Even though plans had been made to take the southern course, the delay until next year should make it possible to pick more favorable flying conditions than at this time of the year.

STATE JUDICIAL PROCEDURE

In the submission of a second report to the governor, the judicial council of the state, named for the purpose of recommending changes in judicial procedure in Connecticut, deals with certain conditions which it believes should be given attention. Even though the legislature did not carry out all the suggestions advanced in the first report, it doesn't hesitate to resubmit them and to include therewith such others as it believes are dictated by conditions and experience.

It is to be expected that the next general assembly will be called upon to give serious thought to the suggested changes. They are in some instances quite different from what prevails at the present time and it is not improbable that there will be differences of opinion voiced relative to the adoption of all of them. Even though the last legislature was not ready to put all the recommendations into operation, it is not improbable that the judicial council recognizes the value of getting the recommendations before the people of the state as well as the legislature for thoughtful consideration, in the belief that through such a study of conditions and the effect of the recommended changes there will eventually come the day when the wisdom of adopting the changes will be recognized.

The judicial council is made up of men thoroughly competent to deal with the duties imposed upon them. They are men of experience, men who have labored under conditions which they believe should be modernized and improved. Through their efforts much has been done to speed up court action, but they believe that the opportunity for still further action should be accepted. Ideas have been set forth which should get consideration from all angles. Having been advanced with the idea of betterment, such action as is taken upon them should likewise be shaped to that end.

NO PLACE FOR POLITICS

At Annapolis regulations are regulations, quite the same as they are in the navy, and midshipmen are expected to obey them. It is not calculated that they will apply to those who are ready and willing to obey them, but to all, and that includes those who look upon them as something to dodge or disregard.

It is against the rules to bring women into the academy precincts disguised as midshipmen. There wasn't any question about it. All midshipmen understood that it was forbidden and yet two of them considered the regulations were put forth for some but not all. They understood what the penalty might be but they were prepared to take the chances in the belief that they could accomplish it apparently without being detected.

Like those who display so much contempt for law they were not as clever as they expected they were going to be. They were detected. It was but a lark but it was utter contempt for regulations. The result of it was that they were dismissed. It might seem a bit severe but if they knew in advance what to expect and proceeded to defy those in charge of the institution they have little justified complaint to make now. One might imagine with what cockiness they would have boasted of their accomplishment if it had succeeded and how frequently they would have snapped their fingers at all regulations thereafter.

Under the circumstances, with the academy authorities insisting upon discipline and having the backing of the navy department, it is poor policy to rush the matter into politics as is being done and ask congress to bring about their reinstatement. It is something which congress should decline to have anything to do with. The former midshipmen are simply suffering from their own acts.

EDITORIAL NOTES

The man on the corner says: Why not develop the Christmas spirit in anticipation of the holiday?

Even the president knows that telling congress what ought to be done and getting favorable and early action are two different things.

Boston's Garret might adopt the same tactics of the Australian aviatrix and offer to sell the story of his absence to the highest bidder.

John D. Rockefeller and son have given a million to the New York unemployment fund. That probably accounts for his change from dimes to nickels in the small daily gifts he is making.

OLD GHOSTS OF EASTERN CONNECTICUT WELCOME JEWETT CITY NEWCOMER

The Jewett City correspondent of The Bulletin reports the laying of a ghost in his territory. This apparition, which appeared with all the paraphernalia of a woebegone past that is implied in a background of pistol shots and bigamous sea captains, turns out to be a "most ingeniously constructed figure, plastered with asbestos boiler covering," "lying alongside the outer wall" of the burying ground on the old Hope Valley road, with its "old monuments and moss-grown markers."

Nor is this by any means the first time that eastern Connecticut has the locale of ghost stories, some of them ending in a laugh as does the latest Jewett City emanation, and some of them still being in the class of unsolved mysteries. Alike by Bulletin correspondents of Putnam, New London and Franklin, are such tales reported. Still others are laid in Norwich itself. In this and subsequent articles, they are taken chronologically as they come—true, false or debatable—from the files of The Norwich Bulletin.

The Mechanicsville Ghost

From The Bulletin's Putnam correspondent, in the issue of Jan. 17, 1878:

Ghost, spooks, apparitions and such pleasant things prowl around in the vicinity of the road which leaves the Providence pike and leads to Mechanicsville, in the northeast part of the village. The figure appears like that of a very tall female dressed in black.

The ghost of our fathers always wore white. In this respect it differs from the old time spooks.

Very credible persons claim to have seen this apparition at different times but in nearly the same place. It approaches the persons, passes them and disappears into thin air.

It has frightened a gentleman from Putnam who was riding by and who has got plenty of nerve. He acknowledges that he was scared.

A gentleman from Mechanicsville has seen the same sight while driving by this locality. His horse stopped still and trembled violently and seemed very nervous. The man claims to have been worse off than his horse.

The mystery hangs fire and no one wants to unravel it. "What is it? Who is it? Why is it?" are the questions asked, but the ghost doesn't vouchsafe and answer.

In The Bulletin of Jan. 25, 1878, the following cryptic explanation of the Mechanicsville "ha'nt" is offered. Doubtless its meaning was plain enough to readers of that day, however obscure to us:

The ghost that has disturbed the quiet and peace of the people at the north end of the village has been laid, but not by human agency.

It appears that the spook used to hide under a bridge, in fact sleep there, if ghosts do sleep. It was during the recent cold snap that the ghost, by aid of the bright moon, threw off its garments and lay down to pleasant dreams. One of its ears got loose and hung into the cold, cold water, and it was frozen in. This way it was found and laid. The ear has been thawed out and sold for an awning. And thus endeth the first lesson on ghosts.

Franklin Street Spirits

From The Bulletin of June 5, 1878:

This city thoroughfare, long infested by ghosts, horse railroad tracks and dust, has blossomed out with a fresh supernatural sensation. A short distance above its junction with Franklin square stands a dejected-looking, grisly structure that, it is whispered, has recently enwrapped itself in an atmosphere of mystery. About two years ago the master of this mansion died, leaving a wife, who soon afterwards followed him to the grave.

Within a few weeks, occupants of the building began to notice indications of an unusual presence. Ghosts' footfalls pattered on the floors of vacant rooms, or on the steps of the staircases, raps sounded distinctly on the casements of windows, furniture was heard to move, crockery was rattled in the cupboards and the usual programme of ghostly shows was carried out with thrilling effect.

As these entertainments were unattended by an admission fee or the circulation of the contribution box, the tenants at first did not interpose very strenuous objections. But at length, wearied with an endless repetition of the same bill, varied by no startling specialties, one of the females folded her bed-spread and napkins and stole away to other lodgings.

The lower tenement is now occupied, and the neighbors are awaiting with curiosity to see how long the upstairs people will endure the ghostly rehearsals. An investigation is to be set on foot to penetrate the mystery.

Spooks On Lower Broadway

Ghosts, gobbling and spooks are said to afflict the families who reside in Delaney's block, which is in rear of Central block. It is averred by those occupying the tenements that the visitations of the ghostly wanderer are regular.

Feeling somewhat curious about this rumor, your correspondent visited the block and found it occupied by only two families, T. J. Madden and Mrs. E. Gow. Mrs. Gow lives in the third story south, side by side with her son-in-law, Daniel Sullivan. Mrs. Gow is an old lady, over 80 years old. She is intelligent and tells the stories of the noises.

She says that these strange sounds and disturbances commenced some ten days ago after Delaney committed suicide. They consist in the sound of clattering feet on the stairs, raps and knocks against the walls and on the head boards of the beds, and personal violence to the occupants when asleep.

Mrs. Gow having received a blow upon the side of the body which made a severe bruise, as the woman says, as big as a saucer, Mrs. Madden could stand the sounds and noises only two nights and removed to School street on Saturday afternoon. She says she is glad to get away from ghostly visitors. In this case the "Babies on Our Block" are superseded by the ghost in the block who refuses to be laid.

The New London "Ha'nt"

From The Bulletin of Wednesday, Dec. 15, 1880:

The New London Telegram has the following strange story to tell:

A gentleman of this city whose veracity is unquestioned and who is thoroughly skeptical on the subject of visitants from the spirit world, relates this strange experience which happened to him in the evening of Friday last. His home is on Ocean avenue, near the Great Neck road, and he had been spending the evening at a friend's residence in town. Shortly after ten o'clock he bade his host good night and mounted his horse, which stood tied in front of the house, for his homeward journey.

As he neared the first open lot beyond Mr. Daniel Lee's place, the horse began to act strangely and evinced an unwillingness to proceed. The night was clear and cold, and objects could be seen at a distance, standing out in relief against the bright moonlight.

Looking around to discover if possible the cause of the animal's uneasiness, the gentleman saw, standing in an angle of the wall a few rods ahead of him, what was apparently the figure of a man. He urged the horse forward, ashamed of his own growing anxiety and resolved to pay no attention to the singular actions of the man unless he should make some hostile demonstration.

As he passed the corner where the figure stood, it moved rapidly forward from the wall and took up a position beside the moving horse. No word was spoken, nor was any suspicious movement made on the part of the unknown. The rider said nothing and for a moment or two kept his horse at a walking gait, as though oblivious of the other's presence.

The singular silence of his strange companion at last proved too much for his patience, and he urged his horse into a sharp trot. The figure still kept close beside him.

Thoroughly alarmed, he finally put spurs to his horse and galloped him for nearly a mile at the top of his speed. At one time he thought he had distanced his mysterious shadow, but turning to look in the other direction found him still at his side, though he had changed his position from left to the right hand curve.

"Just as the light from my kitchen window began to glimmer around the curve of the road," said the gentleman, "the spook, or whatever it was, shot rapidly ahead of my galloping horse and disappeared down the road towards Elliott's beach, leaving me to stumble into the house more dead than alive.

"So utterly bewildered was I with this strange apparition that it was over an hour before I remembered that I had left my horse outside without opening the stable door that he might find his way into his stall himself. I took a lantern and went out immediately to put the poor beast up and found him shivering in front of the barn, but whether from cold or fright of course I couldn't tell."

The gentleman who relates this story is above reproach in every way, and were we to tell his name the most skeptical would be shaken in their incredulity.

In the issue of Dec. 21, 1880, The Bulletin accounts for the actions of the New London apparition as follows:

It is now asserted that the ghost, which appeared on Ocean avenue recently, the appearance of which was chronicled at length in The Telegram and duly copied into The Bulletin, was nothing more than one of our famous and softly gliding bicyclists who was taking a moonlight ramble, and amused himself by riding beside the horseman. But he had better not appear there again, for the horseman exclaims in the words of Shakespeare: "By St. Patrick, I'll make a ghost of him that lets me."

When Uncas Shook His Gory Locks

On Dec. 28, 1880, The Bulletin caps the foregoing New London "ghost story" with the following Sachem street hair-raiser:

Norwich is not to be outdone by New London. Spooks find a permanent abode in our old houses. Most people know right where they live. They have always remained indoors until now.

Since a New London ghost tried the velocipede, the spirit of Uncas has pranced nightly up and down Sachem street swinging a tomahawk. We have not seen him. Several fellows at the Falls declare that they have met him, and stay in nights. But the spirit of Uncas always gives a policeman a wide berth, especially if he finds one asleep on his beat.

Other eastern Connecticut ghost stories will appear tomorrow.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

What the People Want

Mr. Editor: Why all of this noise and clamor for a national referendum by the people on various parts of the prohibition law when the people have already voted direct many times on all plans to control the liquor traffic? Local option, town control, county control, state control, all amounted to no control and finally resulted in national prohibition and the 18th amendment, and things began to happen, for 170,000 saloons were closed and in their places went up splendid buildings and manufacturing establishments costing thousands of dollars. These gave employment to hundreds of people that were formerly drinkers and idlers that are now self-respecting citizens who are now contributing their part to the welfare and prosperity of this great nation by diverting into the legitimate channels of trade thousands of dollars which formerly went over the bar and was lost. We repeat, this was by direct referendum vote of the people. Thirty-two states, having a population of 65,000,000, adopted dry laws of their own, from which the Volstead law was copied, long before the law and the 18th amendment was enacted. And again the people voted a referendum electing Mr. Hoover, who stood firmly on a dry platform, by the greatest majority vote by which any president was ever elected. The common people knew what was for their best interests. Now at this time when millions of people are out of work and in great need, waiting and waiting for congress to let loose the great amount of money appropriated by the last congress, it seems to us to be a disgrace and betrayal of the people, who sent them there to work for their best interests, for various senators and representatives to introduce bills to nullify existing laws and use up so much valuable time and prolong the time of unemployment. The people don't want repeal and don't care a rap about 4 per cent beer, 10 per cent light wines, state control and a lot of other things that ought not to be. What they want is something to do and something to eat and not waste any time on an outlawed question. The supreme court of this nation has ruled six different times that the liquor traffic is a crime. Therefore, we say, less talk on needless things and more action on vital things by this congress will soon start the wheels of industry for much-needed relief of the people.

Wants People to Think

Mr. Editor: I wish to thank H. F. Andrews and Albert Boardman for their explanations of the "depression." There was a lot of material in both of the answers. Mr. Boardman's touch on the money situation was a brain exercise.

I think I remember seeing in the paper about several shipments of gold to Germany or England. Maybe someone can tell me about how much and where it has gone. I would even appreciate it if someone could tell me where I could obtain such data.

I copied the following, word for word, from a booklet published in England:

"The present issue of money in general does not correspond with the requirements per head, and cannot therefore satisfy all the needs of the workers. The issue of money ought to correspond with the growth of the population and thereby children also must absolutely be reckoned as consumers of currency from the day of birth. The revision of issue is a material question for the whole world.

"You are aware that the gold standard has been the ruin of the states which adopted it, for it has not been able to satisfy the demands for money, the more so that we have removed gold from circulation as far as possible."

Does that shed any light on the present condition of the world? Where has that gold, that money, gone?

I charge you voters with laxity of mind and of world affairs. You've been rocked to sleep. Look at our school systems. There you graduate young citizens with a frightfully small portion of knowledge of world affairs. Some go to the high schools; there they learn football, baseball and suchlike. Oh! yes, they get a diploma; they've been through high.

In that same booklet that I quoted from I read: "Remember the great bodies of the people are content with the outward look of political matters." Isn't that right? If something should come up in Norwich which would make necessary a town meeting, how many of you voters would go?

"Peace on Earth." That's all right; who doesn't want peace? I'm sure I do. Again from that booklet: "We shall seize the world by peaceful conquest." Please don't think I'm trying to raise a rumpus. I'd just like to get some of you thinking again. Cancel that theatre, bridge, dance or party engagement and think.

You tell me. Who is behind the depression. Why did England take the stand she did about that Palestine movement?

WHITIE.

Norwich 100 Years Ago

From

THE NORWICH COURIER

A large debt of gratitude is due from the people of Norwich, and of other towns, bordering on the Thames, to the remaining fragment of the Mohegan tribe, once a powerful Indian nation, the original owners of the soil. The Norwich Courier of December 8, 1830, a century ago, says. Uncas, their chief, who lived in the neighborhood of Ford Hill, or Mohegan Hill, commanding a beautiful and extensive prospect, exhibited his friendship to the White or the English, as they were called, as early as 1637, by accompanying them with his warriors, in Mason's celebrated expedition against the Pequods.

For 40 years he rendered the English important services until his death about the year 1676. As early as 1640 he granted many of his lands to the governor and magistrates of the colony. In 1641 he granted to Henry Whitefield and others, certain lands, east of the East river, near Guilford. The town of Norwich was at this time a part of Mohegan.

But in June 1659, a deed of it, about nine miles square, was given by Uncas and his two sons, to Thomas Leffingwell, John Mason, Rev. James Fitch and 32 others. Leffingwell had brought supplies to Uncas when besieged by the Narragansetts in his fort at Mohegan, in return for which service and in consideration of about 70 pounds the valuable tract was given.

In 1660, Mr. Fitch, with most of his church and congregation, removed from Saybrook and settled in Norwich. Of this settlement the Mohegans were for years, the defense, keeping out scouts and spies and in time of danger, building their wigwams near the town. It is highly honorable to Mr. Fitch that he was not regardless of their spiritual interests. He studied their language and preached to them the gospel. He died at Lebanon in 1702, aged 80 years.

In the same issue of the paper Edward Colt informed his customers that he had just returned from New York with a large addition to his former stock of watches, jewelry, silver, and fancy hardware. R. W. Roath, according to the ancient newspaper, had also just returned from New York with a "large assortment of watches, jewelry, fancy hardware, etc." He also carried in his stock "a general assortment of percussion, flint, double and single, twisted and barrel Fowling Pieces, an assortment of music and musical instruments."

Cyrus W. Tracy and W. M. Mory of Canterbury announced that the "copartnership existing between the subscribers under the firm of Tracy and Mory is by mutual consent dissolved."

E. A. Bill advertised for sale, 600 round brooms, 700 flat brooms and 200 brushes.

Why Doesn't The Baby Sleep?

By Ada E. Schweitzer, M. D. Indianapolis, Indiana.

(From Gorgas Memorial Institute)

A grandmother asked, "What is the reason our baby tosses about so when she is sleeping? She is so restless that when she wakes she is cross and seems as tired as when she went to sleep."

The physician in charge had just examined the baby who was pale, emaciated, and who cried all the time as the mother said. The mother knew that the baby who had frequent digestive upsets should not be fed every time it cried. But what could she do! The grandmother "just knew the baby was starving" and if somebody (meaning the mother) did not see that the baby was fed, grandmother would fix up something for the poor starving baby—and to keep peace in the family, the mother fed the baby often, and the baby cried and tossed in its sleep.

Babies easily become fatigued from excitement and fail to rest well at night. Many children discontinue naps too soon and the tension due to prolonged activity without rest banishes sleep. They may close their eyes only to open them quickly at the slightest sound, never really relaxing and resting. Is it any wonder some children are nervous and thin?

Pain from eating unripe or poorly cooked food, pain due to earache, to mastoid infection, or to appendicitis all make a baby restless. Watching the fluttering motions of the hands will help determine the locality of the pain which may need prompt medical treatment.

Restlessness during teething is often attributable to other causes. In older children toothache is the cause of restlessness.

Infections which seem practically harmless at first are often preceded by restlessness and irritability which may be considered danger signals that call for added care and watchfulness.

The child heartbroken over the loss of a top or a pet, grieving over the absence of father or mother, a child who has suffered from scolding or fear or shock is usually restless.

Every child needs restful sleep.

A Washington Bystander

By KIRKE L. SIMPSON

Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, Dec. 7— Having preserved some of his youthful illusions despite intervening years, the Bystander still gets a "kick" out of certain well established ceremonials.

He likes, for instance, to stand at the curb and lift his hat to the flag as a parading regiment swings by, provided, of course, there are not too many regiments. Also, he rather likes this business of standing up when the president of the United States—any president—enters a public gathering. It is a fitting gesture of respect.

Even the daily parade of black robed supreme court justices to their places on the bench, one of the sights tourists in Washington crowd to witness, has something of an emotional appeal of its own.

That and the reverent hush so rigidly enforced in the highest tribunal during its sessions, the formal dress of its attaches, all are calculated to make one think a bit of what it symbolizes, a government of law.

Attention

There are limits to all this, however. And the Bystander was recently dismayed on visiting a tariff commission hearing to find himself required to stand at respectful attention as the commissioners paraded in to their seats.

He hasn't yet grasped the symbolism involved.

The commission, revamped by the last and probably most controversial of tariff bills, and with former Ambassador Fletcher of Pennsylvania as chairman, though still to be confirmed, inhabits the old land office building.

Its hearing room is a big, dingy place with a nice brass-railed corridor around two sides. It is about half a block long, that corridor, and reserved for use of commissioners in coming and going from the bench.

All Stand

On this day a squabble was up about the duty on hooked rugs. A handful of folks waited for the show to start, all interested parties.

Chairman Fletcher, spruce in natty business suit, for he's quite a dresser, poked his nose in the door. The commission secretary rose and tapped his desk.

"Please rise," he said.

And everybody did rise, lawyers, rug merchants surrounded by colorful samples of their wares, reporters and a few sundries, including the Bystander.

All stood, looking a bit sheepish, the Bystander thought, while Fletcher led his squad in, talking cheerfully with a colleague as he walked.

"I called on Mabel last night, and I wasn't any more than inside the door before her mother asked me my intentions."

"That must have been embarrassing."

"Yes, but that's not the worst of it. Mabel called from upstairs and said, 'That isn't the one, mother.'"—Optimist.

A HISTORY OF CONNECTICUT INDUSTRY

Released by Manufacturers Association of Connecticut

The English & Mersick Co., New Haven.

In 1853 Homer Dikeman, a former hardware clerk, opened a hardware store at what was then 140 Chapel street. James G. English, who was hired as a clerk, was admitted to partnership in 1855. A wealthy uncle of Mr. English also became a silent partner, bringing into the company much needed capital. This combination, known as Dikeman and English, continued until 1858 when Mr. Dikeman retired from the company to enter business in New York.

The firm name was changed to George D. and James G. English. In 1860, during the pre-war business disturbance, George D. English sold out his interest, and Edwin Francis Mersick, who was then bookkeeper, entered into co-partnership with James G. English.

In 1878 the firm moved to a new building at 70-72 Crown street and invited Frank Pflegher to move his machine shop into the new building. Later in 1896, one year after the death of Mr. English and the incorporation of the company, a severe explosion of an acetylene tank, and subsequent fire, completely destroyed the building and contents.

A new building was erected on the same site with an additional story, to provide for the expansion of Mr. Pflegher's machine business. In 1906 another plant was erected on land owned by Mr. Pflegher on Winchester avenue, and the Crown street property sold to the New Haven Gas Light company.

After Mr. Pflegher's death in 1915 until 1919 the manufacturing business was conducted by Henry W. Ibelhauser. Upon his retirement it was then merged with the hardware business of English and Mersick. In order to round out a complete line of automobile body hardware, the Perfect Window Regulator company was purchased in 1928. At present the company is developing a parallel line of light weight hardware and fittings for cabin airplanes.

The present officers are: Fred T. Bradley, chairman of the board; Arthur L. Frost, president; Seymour Mersick Bradley, secretary and treasurer.

OLD NORWICH DOORWAYS SHOWN IN PICTURES

The December meeting of Gen. Ebenezer Huntington society, Children of the American Revolution, which was held on Friday at Nancie B. Greenman's, 179 Laurel Hill avenue, had for its subject "Old Doorways in Norwich," which had much historical value and was full of suggestions to students in the art school and manual training classes.

With the junior president, Agnes L. Greenman, presiding, the usual opening exercises were followed by reports of the officers and committees. Attention was called to the reprint in the National C. A. R. magazine, of the article in The Norwich Bulletin, giving an account of the annual pilgrimage of the society to Canterbury and Plainfield.

Five of the members, who have been with the society for nine years, automatically pass out this month. Eight members were present at all the meetings of the year.

Notice was given of the raise in state dues; a new scrap book has been purchased, the old one in use so long having been filled, containing an interesting record of the clippings from The Norwich Bulletin, pictures of the members on various pilgrimages and in various functions, and other information.

In taking up the subject of the afternoon, doorways from the following old houses were shown: The Abiel B. Sherman house, on Bean Hill, now Mr. McNally's. The Hough home, a house of the salt box type, the only one of this old type in Norwich so far as is known.

The First church at Norwich Town: the Joseph Carpenter shop, now used as a D. A. R. museum.

Dr. Philemon Tracy house, now Miss Congdon's. The Lynch house at corner of Huntington lane. The side door of the Gov. Samuel Huntington house (Welte's).

The double side door at the Gen. Jabez Huntington house, now Mrs. Huntington Wilson's.

Coming down to Washington street, formerly the West road, the statues of George I of England and of the Duke of Wellington which formerly attracted attention on this street were shown on the screen, the history of them being given by Nancie Greenman. Then came the house at one time occupied by William H. Shields, and now owned by Mrs. Page; the side door of the Sturtevant house, and the Lyman Brewer doorway.

The house on Washington square built by General Williams, with the Breed elm in the foreground, gave an added interest to Washington square. This was followed by the Tyler house on Church street (now Olcott's), the Backus house on Broadway, now occupied as a gift shop, and the Freeman Chapman house on Franklin street, all these making a fascinating picture of olden times. The pictures will be preserved by the society, which plans to add to the collection whenever possible. The contributors were Mrs. Leonard Hough, Mrs. Allyn M. Brand, Mrs. Elisha E. Rogers, Nancie R. Greenman, Barbara L. Fellows and Lucy L. Greenman.

Mrs. Leonard Hough exhibited specimens of the old type of hinges, the HL and strap kinds, old locks with their big keys, the old draw bar used to fasten doors, etc.

One of the most interesting of the exhibits was the pattern of the old latch type, made from one in her house; this is manipulated by a string, and instead of saying "You are welcome to my house," one said, "The latchstring is out."

Refreshments were served by the hostess and her committee: Mrs. Charles D. Greenman, Mrs. Telley E. Babcock, Mrs. George E. Fellows, Mrs. William F. Elliott and Miss Florence M. Congdon.

The next meeting of the society will be held at Mrs. Witter K. Tingley's, on Jan. 13, the subject being "Milestones and Benjamin Franklin.

SUSPECT AUTO THIEVES OF WEST SIDE HOLD-UP

A sedan belonging to C. V. Pendleton of this city was stolen about 9 o'clock Saturday from the yard in the rear of The Bulletin company building where Mr. Pendleton had parked it shortly before, but the car was found abandoned Sunday morning at Whipple and Woodside avenues. It was undamaged but had been robbed of tools and all other moveable articles in it but a blanket.

It is understood that the machine was seen being driven up Franklin street about 9 o'clock with at least two men in it. It is believed by the police that the men who took the machine were the same who held up Joseph Burzycki, 55, of Avery street extension about 11 o'clock Saturday night and robbed him of $19.50. The holdup was in the West Side neighborhood where the automobile was found.

SUFFERS SKULL FRACTURE IN FALL FROM TRUCK

(Special to The Bulletin.)

WESTERLY, R. I., Dec. 7.—At the Westerly hospital, Annunziato Mello, the man picked up in Pawcatuck early today furnished more information when he told authorities that he had boarded with Mazie Lewis, rooming house keeper, 39 Privilege street, Portland, Me. Relating more about his condition, he made it known that with a companion he was riding at the end of a Boston city transfer truck and while fooling, was pushed off, striking his head and spraining his left ankle.

Examination at the hospital indicated that there was a fracture of the skull at the base of the brain and accounted for the condition of the patient.

POLICE DISCOVER BREAK AT WEST MAIN STREET

Forcing their way into the store at No. 303 West Main street, conducted by George Serus, thieves stole $20 in change from the cash register. The break was discovered about 8:30 o'clock Sunday night by Officer Eugene Calkins while the officer was making his rounds. A rear cellar window had been smashed, the window wrenched off the hinges, and the thieves went through the cellar, breaking off the bolt on an inside door, thus gaining entrance to the store. The stolen money had been placed in a bag and left in the cash register. Nothing else in the store was taken.

SEES GOOD PROSPECT IN SILK INDUSTRY

The present low prices of raw silks, which are lower than at any time in the history of the silk industry, coupled with a heightened interest in silk as a fashion fabric, have caused a general speeding up of production, according to W. K. Blake, fabric director of the Corticelli Silk Co., which has one of its plants in New London.

"The outlook of the silk industry has never been more favorable. When conditions first showed evidence of greater consumer demand, it was feared that fabric and garment business would be lost owing to the inability of the mills to make speedy deliveries. If the demand continues, extra labor will be necessary in order to hasten production."

The Corticelli Silk Co., L. & E. Stirn, Menke-Kaufmann & Co., Inc., and Schwarzenbach-Huber are collaborating with the Contempora art group to ally art and industry in the production of printed silks. The promotion scheduled by the Contempora group will reach an audience of 48,000,000 women and should be instrumental in stabilizing industrial conditions.

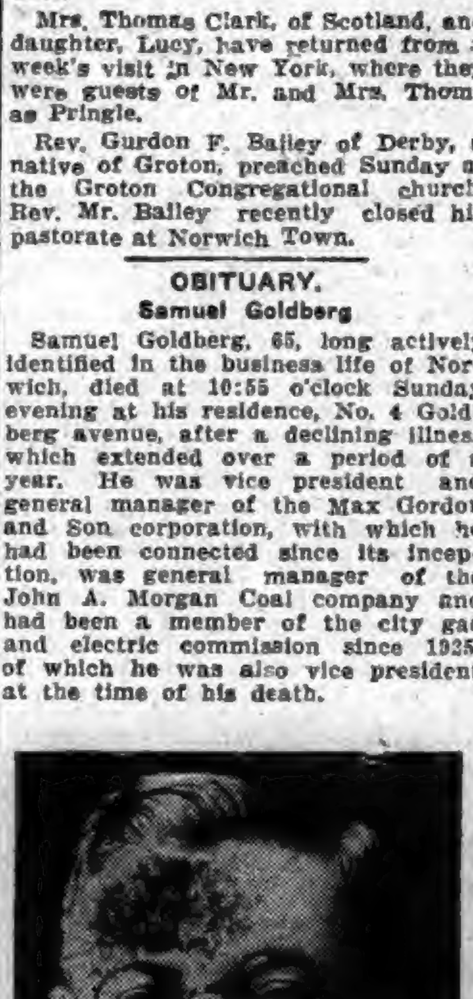
OBITUARY.

Samuel Goldberg

Samuel Goldberg, 65, long actively identified in the business life of Norwich, died at 10:55 o'clock Sunday evening at his residence, No. 4 Goldberg avenue, after a declining illness which extended over a period of a year. He was vice president and general manager of the Max Gordon and Son corporation, with which he had been connected since its inception, was general manager of the John A. Morgan Coal company and had been a member of the city gas and electric commission since 1925, of which he was also vice president at the time of his death.



SAMUEL GOLDBERG

Mr. Goldberg, a pioneer Jewish resident of Norwich, was born in Russia 65 years ago, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Gershon Goldberg and for a time made his residence in New York, where in August, 1893, he was united in marriage with Anna Arnowitz, who survives him. For approximately 40 years he has lived in Norwich and from a small beginning has become one of Norwich's most successful business men. Businesswise he was well known in New England states.

Besides his wife, Mr. Goldberg is survived by five daughters, Mrs. Abraham W. Silverberg of Norwich, Mrs. J. B. Stein of Washington, D. C., Mrs. Simon Mandell of Norwich, Mrs. James S. Austin of New York and Mrs. David Elfenbein of New London; a son, Herman R. Goldberg of Norwich; a brother, Herman R. Goldberg of Norwich, and a sister, Ziskind, living in Russia. There are also surviving him eleven grandchildren.

Fraternally Mr. Goldberg was a member of Norwich lodge, No. 430, B. P. O. Elks, and of the Independent Order of B'nai B'rith and was a prominent member of the Brothers of Joseph synagogue.

During the war Mr. Goldberg was a very active worker in war relief lines. He was honorary chairman of the final war relief drive and held the distinction of personally securing the largest amount of money pledged for the drive.

Mr. Goldberg was greatly interested in all public matters and was active in all local undertakings. He was keenly interested in charitable work and has made generous contributions to many causes. He was a man of strict integrity and was of a progressive and ambitious spirit. In the passing of such a man the community suffers a loss that is not readily filled. His friends and acquaintances, who were legion, were sorrowed to learn of his passing and extend their heartfelt sympathy to the members of the bereaved family.

Elihue Buell Porter.

(Special to The Bulletin.)

HEBRON, Dec. 7.—Elihue B. Porter, 62, died at his home here this morning about 9 o'clock. He had been a resident of Hebron all his life and was born in a house that stood where the Hebron library now stands. He had suffered from cancer of the stomach for the last year.

Surviving are his widow, Mrs. Flora Porter, and six sons and daughters: Miss Margaret Porter, Mrs. Carlton H. Jones, Everett, Clara Merion and Marshall Porter.

Mrs. Wm. Austin Brown

The long and useful life of Mrs. Wm. Austin Brown, of 8 Maple street, came to a peaceful close Saturday at 10 p. m. She had been in a feeble condition for over seven years, during which time she had the tender devotion and care given her by her daughter, Mrs. Fannie B. Lamb. Helpless at the last, still the untiring efforts and attentions of this daughter knew no bounds.

Mrs. Brown was married in the early sixties and brought up a good sized family, the only ones surviving being Mrs. Lamb, the daughter, and Walter Brown, the son. She was pleasantly known at the Falls where she maintained her household for many years, and where her children obtained their education. Her delightful New England charm endeared her to all who met her and she leaves a wide circle of loving friends who mourn her loss.

BUSINESS WOMEN'S STATE MEETING FOR NORWICH

The annual state meeting of the Business and Professional Women's club is to be held in this city in June at Norwich inn, this invitation having been extended by the delegation from the Norwich club which attended the semi-annual state meeting in Hartford Saturday at the Hotel Bond.

The Norwich delegation at the Hartford meeting comprised President Bernice Willey, Miss Lucy B. Abbott, Mrs. S. W. Sevin, Miss Edith A. Fellows and Miss Bridgeman. There was an afternoon meeting, followed by a dinner and an evening meeting at which Miss Newbold of New York city was the speaker.

The Watson farm at Liberty Hill has been sold to Messrs. Fleish and Robens of New York.

VISITING TEACHER WORK SHOWN IN NORWICH SCHOOL REPORT

The work of the visiting teacher work in the public schools of the town of Norwich is comprehensively outlined in the annual report of the visiting teacher, Margaret Battle Bridgers. The report which is made a part of the annual report of the town school committee, for the school year 1929-1930, now in the hands of the printer, says:

Visiting teacher work in Norwich was begun in September, 1929, in the hope that adjusting problem children in school would make them more successful in their work and potentially better citizens. Experience in other cities has shown that it is wiser to begin in a few schools and gradually extend, so the work was introduced in Broadway first, and then in Greeneville and Bishop schools. These three schools have a total of 1,523 children, whose homes represent a wide variety of social and economic standards, and are scattered over a large territory. A regular schedule for working in these schools was followed, and from time to time cases in other schools were reported to the superintendent, who assigned them to the visiting teacher.

Examples of Work

The types of cases handled include a variety of situations, some of which follow. A bright boy, who could make splendid marks, was generally indifferent and barely passing. A girl, who showed ability in written work, was so shy that she failed on oral recitations. A quiet, dreamy boy, who did little school work, would associate only with children much younger. A girl who craved attention, consistently failed on a certain subject. A boy, whose father had deserted, knew no authority at home, and was constantly misbehaving in school. These and many others are the problems of the visiting teacher, who in handling them follows a regular procedure. In most cases the references come from the teacher or principal, who are the first sources of information. The child's school and health records are consulted, and he is observed in class, and later seen in a private interview. In some difficult cases, several contacts are necessary before the problem can be taken up, and the reason for a home visit explained to the child. The home is then visited, and the matter is talked over with the parents, who, in most cases, appreciate the school's interest. After this investigation, the problem is discussed in its fuller aspect with the teacher and principal, and suggestions for treatment are made. Sometimes the matter seems to center in the classroom, sometimes it may be in the home; again it may be some personality problem within the child himself. However, there are usually a number of factors involved, and it is the visiting teacher who helps the teacher, parents and child understand them, explains treatment suggestions, and helps carry them out.

Co-operative Process

This is indeed a co-operative process, involving the help of the teacher, parents and child, and sometimes of community organizations also. Norwich has a variety of such organizations and agencies, and their attitude toward this work is most helpful. Thus it is important for the visiting teacher to be acquainted with the resources of the community, as well as the particular schools and neighborhoods in which she is working. It is helpful, also, for her to be given the chance to explain the nature of her work, and this year a number of organizations have generously provided places on their programs for explanations of the work.

The stories of these children's problems and how they were worked out serve perhaps better than anything else to show how the work is done, so several of these stories are included in this report. Each has been chosen to illustrate some definite phase. All names and other identifying details are disguised, of course, as this information is considered confidential.

The first case illustrated the effect of the family's attitude upon Francis, a seventh grade boy. He was referred by his room teacher, who was perplexed by the boy's poor work, his timidity, and air of unhappiness. She asked if the school psychologist who comes every month from the state department of education, would test the boy and find out just what grade of work should be expected from him.

Investigation showed that Francis had entered from another school where he had not had a high record. His health record and his behavior was good. Francis was observed in class, and later was interviewed in the office when he came on an errand. When shown some boy's books he lost his timidity and chatted about his job and his hobbies. When class work was mentioned he became less animated, and told of a struggle with his work. An older sister was helping him, but she nagged so much that he dreaded her assistance. He seemed interested in the test which was suggested as a means of helping him with the difficult arithmetic, and explained how the visiting teacher could find his home.

A visit was made to the home, where the mother, a very nervous woman launched into a story of special grievances. The father and the older boy had been out of work for months, so the support came from the sisters and Francis' meager earnings. Moving into a new neighborhood had only increased their unhappiness. The mother's chief interest seemed to be her pride in Francis, who she hoped would be a professional man. The older boy and girl had disappointed her in school, so she expected Francis to make a record the family would be proud of. She was not friendly toward the new school which had sent home poor reports, but she softened when told of the teacher's interest, and agreed to help. She persisted, however, in her belief that Francis should be promoted anyway. She spoke of the sister's efforts at tutoring him, and said she was inclined to nag him.

The psychologist tested Francis on her next visit, and reported that he was trying to do work which was too difficult for him. She gave suggestions for helping him, especially with the arithmetic, and advised that he be guided toward trade training. This was taken up with the teachers who were given a brief summary of the home conditions, and the pressure exerted by the ambitious mother and sister. The teachers offered to give Francis special help and to encourage him as much as possible. The visiting teacher kept in friendly touch with Francis, lent him books connected with his hobby, and talked with him about a trade in which he showed interest. She saw the mother again and told her of the recommendations. She appreciated the efforts of the teacher and psychologists and agreed to do what she could to get the sister to stop nagging Francis. The question of planning to send him to trade school later was discussed. The father came in, and although he was apparently accustomed to the mother's domineering ways, insisted that this was the practical thing to do. In face of their continued financial troubles, the thought of a shorter and less expensive preparation for work appealed to her, and she asked for information about the school in Willimantic. This was given during a later visit when a favorable report from the teacher was given the mother.

By the end of the year, the teachers reported that Francis was improving slowly. The family realized that he was making progress but needed more time in this grade. They felt in closer touch with the new school, and had diverted their attention from nagging to planning toward his special training for a job. Francis had kept his part time work, and had joined a boys' club, in which he was quite active. Furthermore, he showed real interest in his school work, and was happy over his improvement.

Helen's Story

Helen's story is short, but it shows how much personal interest means to a child who comes from a large family which takes little interest in school. The teacher reported Helen because she had fallen down on her work, and constantly annoyed the class in little ways, making it necessary to move her to another desk. The investigation showed that Helen's school progress had been good heretofore, and that her health was good. Until this outburst she had been a pleasant pupil. When observed in class, Helen appeared sullen and indifferent. Later, in a talk with the visiting teacher, Helen's chief interest seemed to be a baby brother, about whom she chatted freely. She said her parents could speak little English and did not understand American schools. When her grade was mentioned Helen seemed upset over her poor standing. She was asked what a trial in her former desk would mean. At this she brightened perceptibly, and asked if it could be arranged. The visiting teacher said she would talk to the teacher, and that she wanted to see Helen's mother, too.

A visit to the home substantiated Helen's description. With a neighbor interpreting, the mother expressed appreciation that the school should send someone about her Helen, and agreed to see that Helen did some home work every night. The teacher was told of the attitudes of Helen and her mother, and of the conditions in the home. It was easier to understand how Helen, one of a large family, craved attention, and tried to secure it, even by annoying others. The teacher said she would give Helen a few special duties in the room, and move her back to her former desk on trial. Helen was told that she was to take the visiting teacher a report at the end of the week. She brought it proudly, and later came with the news that she was to keep her desk. From time to time the visiting teacher saw the teacher and Helen, and later went to the home to tell the mother of Helen's improvement. When she had an especially good paper she asked permission to bring it to the office, where she proudly displayed it. The interest taken in her good work and behavior apparently filled the need for attention, for she no longer resorted to her old annoying habits.

Once again, later in the year, Helen slumped in her classes, because of poor home work. The visiting teacher made a home visit, explaining the trouble to the mother who said she would see that Helen studied, but that she could not help her. An older brother was seen, and although he was indifferent at first, finally said he would help her. She improved under his help, and made her promotion. Helen's story is not ended, however, for as she grows older, she will probably grow further away from her parents who don't understand American ways; she will realize more than ever the drabness of her home, and will need all the school can give in outlet for her energy and interests.

John's Problem

John's problem shows us how much conflicting interests can upset a child, and how we need expert help in handling some emotional difficulties. He was referred to the psychologist, who, after testing him, reported that he was capable of doing better work, and that he had a speech defect which should be remedied.

The school records showed that he had been retarded for some time. The school physician had recommended a tonsil operation, but the family had not attended to this. John's teacher reported that he blushed and stammered when reciting or confronted with a new situation or a strange person. She thought he was able to do better work, and wanted him to make his promotion. John was first seen when the class was doing some hand work. He talked freely about what he was doing, but later in the office he became uncommunicative. He was seen casually several more times until he became friendly enough to talk to. The home was visited, and the mother talked at length about how John did not like to study, but did like to help with the cows and chickens, to tinker with tools, to hunt, in short, to do things requiring action. She was eager for him to do well in school and had tried to get him to study, but she did not have the cooperation of the father on this. She thought that the out-of-the-way location of the home and few visitors might account for the shyness, but on the other hand, John showed no fear of going to the city alone, and was very efficient in doing her errands.

The visiting teacher explained that sometimes such characteristics as blushing and stammering were due to emotional difficulties which needed the attention of a specially trained doctor. The services offered by the mental hygiene clinic were explained, and the mother later took John there. After the psychiatrist examined John, and saw him and his mother several times, he explained that John's chief difficulty was his strong desire to work on the farm, a wish which was interfered with by his having to go to school. The doctor explained to John the important part school work plays in modern farming, and told him about a nearby school of agriculture. He also gave John some simple rules to follow in overcoming his speech defect, recommended a tonic and a tonsil operation.

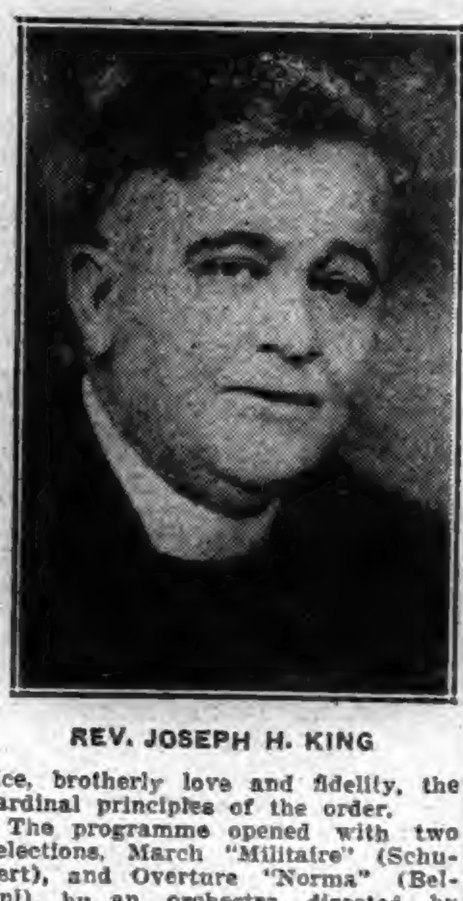
John and his mother became interested in these recommendations, which they followed carefully. The teacher helped John and encouraged him as he improved. By the end of the year he had earned his promotion, he had overcome the blushing and stammering, and was in a much better general condition. During vacation the school nurse arranged a tonsil operation so he would begin fall term improved physically and emotionally with a real incentive to work, preparing for the job he likes.

A report of this year's work would not be complete without an expression of appreciation of the help of many individuals and organizations, and especially the splendid interest and support of the town school committee, the superintendent, and the personnel of the Norwich schools.

ELKS' LODGE CONDUCTS ANNUAL MEMORIAL SERVICE

Norwich lodge of Elks, No. 430, conducted its annual lodge of sorrow Sunday evening at 8 o'clock in the lodge room at the Elks home where an audience of members and their friends filled the room to capacity. The memorial address was by Rev. Joseph H. King of New Milford, pastor of St. Francis Xavier church, a nephew of Exalted Ruler James T. Egan.

Rev. Father King, who is a member of the order, delivered an eloquent address, expressing his admiration for the sentiment that governs Elkdom and speaking of the custom of carrying out this memorial service as a striking proof of belief in the immortality of the soul. He went on to speak of charity, one of the cardinal principles of the order, the practice of which in life, he said, bridges many of the pitfalls of the great beyond and that finds its happiness in making others happy and is ever ready to sacrifice self. It is often the silver lining to the cloud that overshadows the lives of men who are linked into one brotherhood by the virtue of charity. The speaker closed his eloquent address with a poetic description of the perfect Elk who displays charity, justice, brotherly love and fidelity, the cardinal principles of the order.



REV. JOSEPH H. KING

The programme opened with two selections, March "Militaire" (Schubert), and Overture "Norma" (Bellini), by an orchestra directed by Bro. William J. Malone, violin, and comprising John M. Swahn, cornet; John Kukla, clarinet; John T. Egan, piano; Archie Goodrow, trombone; Frank Monroe, bass viol.

Exalted Ruler James T. Egan presided at the exercises, in which the memorial ritual was carried out by the officers of the lodge. The Philharmonic Male quartette of Springfield, Mass., rendered vocal selections, its members being Byron Hudson, first tenor; William Lippman, baritone; George B. Dowd, first bass; H. I. Smith, second tenor.

The following was the order of exercises:

Quartette—"Invictus," Huhn; opening ceremonies—Exalted Ruler James T. Egan, Esquire Paul Zahn; invocation—Bro. Lionel Boucher; quartette—"In the Time of Roses"; selection—"Forever and Ever," orchestra; Roll Call; "The Vacant Chair"; quartette—"Night Song," Mendelsohn; Ritualistic Ceremonies; address—Rev. Joseph H. King; quartette—"Morning," Speaks; selection—"After Sunset," orchestra; "Auld Lang Syne"; closing ceremonies.

At the roll call, when the names of members who have died in the past year were called by Secretary Lawrence E. Millea, a white chrysanthemum was placed on the altar for each name by Esquire Zahn as a bell tolled. The mortuary list for the year was the following: Alfred Hebert, Arthur D'Atri, James F. Fenton, Floyd H. Ordway, Arthur Edwards, Thomas K. Hartley, Irving J. Willis, Albert H. Fournier, Patrick H. Connelly, Daniel F. Finn, Sr., Frank X. Marshall.

The musical part of the services by the orchestra and the quartette was finely given and the decorations of the lodge room were beautiful with the arrangement of a profusion of evergreens by Bro. Otto F. Ernst and purple ribbons draped at each of the officers' stations. John T. Egan was accompanist for the quartette.

The memorial committee comprised Daniel F. Driscoll, Fred J. Ortman, Charles W. Cassidy, Fred G. Thumm, Charles M. Hutzler.

FUNERALS.

Eleani Pappas.

The funeral of Eleani Pappas, 12, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Pappas, was held Sunday afternoon at 2.30 o'clock, from her parents' home, No. 26 High street, with relatives and friends present. The child died suddenly Friday night from a heart attack, the result of acute indigestion. Rev. Nathan Theodores read the service at the home after which, at 3 o'clock, there was a funeral service at the Greek Orthodox church. The bearers were Frank Krithanelis, Daniel Coulopoulos, John James, and Christopher Alexopoulous and the burial was in Maplewood cemetery. Rev. Mr. Theodores conducted the committal service.

Those sending flowers to the funeral were the Gapa Parnon society, No. 107, of New London, the Greek Ladies' society, Miss Sullivan, teacher in the High street school, Peter Petlas, Miss Georgia Petlas, Ernest Petlas, Peter John and family, Tony John and family, and the Greek Girls' society of New London. Members of the Gapa Parnon of New London were present as were members of the Greek church of this city and the Greek Ladies' society. The teachers in the High street school visited the home on Sunday.

Mrs. Napoleon Lambert

The funeral of Mrs. Napoleon Lambert was held from her late home in Occum Saturday morning at 8:30 with requiem high mass in St. Joseph's church at 9 o'clock, at which Rev. Ludovic Paradis was celebrant. Mrs Joseph Peloquin was in charge of the music and played De Profundis at the offertory, and Face to Face was sung as a waiting hymn by Arthur DesSurreault. The bearers were William Pourgette, Frederick Champagne, John Leferbre, Felix Parr, Mr. Prive and Mr. Gladue. Burial was in St. Joseph's cemetery, Dayville, where the committal was by Rev. Ignacious Cosk. The funeral arrangements were in charge of Undertaker G. G. Grant.

DECLARES PALESTINE MUST BE JEWISH LIFE CENTER

The Community synagogue of Norwich held services at the synagogue on Church street on Friday evening with Rabbi William Greenburg of the Jewish Theological seminary of New York occupying the pulpit. Rabbi Greenburg took as his subject "The Parable of a Nation that has Found its Past." Rabbi Greenburg opened his sermon with a synopsis of the play, Siegfried, from which he drew a parallel with the history of the Jewish people who have only recently been reminded of their glorious past in Palestine. The Jewish people must choose between their past and their newly acquired culture and if the answer is to be derived from the play there is but one course open to the Jewish people—they must return to their national homeland. This does not mean that all Jews must return to Palestine but it does mean that Palestine must be developed as a center of Jewish life from which Jewish culture can radiate its influence throughout the Diaspora. Rabbi Greenburg also pointed out that the human soul is rich enough to bear two cultures and it is possible for two cultures to fuse and become as one. In this way the difficulty of living a Jewish life amidst a foreign environment is made possible. Using himself as an example he stressed that both his parents are American born, and right in New England, too.

At the conclusion of the services an open forum was held in the vestry rooms of the synagogue, at which a discussion of the problems and purposes of the new Sabbath school were discussed.

It was announced also that an orchestra is to be formed by the young folks of the Community synagogue. The orchestra will be under the direction of Dr. K. K. Markoff, who has very kindly volunteered his services.

While in Norwich, Rabbi Greenburg was the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Charles M. Gordon, of West Main street.

CHASE IN WESTERLY AFTER STOLEN CAR

(Special to The Bulletin.)

WESTERLY, R. I., Dec. 7—The Ford car, No. 47940, Conn., reported as stolen in New Haven with two occupants, nearly ran over Police Lieutenant George H. Champlin about 9 o'clock Sunday night and dashed down Main street as he attempted to stop it. The occupants paid no attention to the police whistle.

Later, in Hope Valley, a car was reported by state police as turning out its lights and escaping them. Patrolman Paul McCarthy was stationed at the Pawcatuck river bridge and later joined by Lieutenant Champlin while a large crowd was attracted by the police activity and gathered on the sidewalk. Passing autoists also showed marked interest.

Three state police from the Hope Valley barracks came to Westerly to assist the Westerly police authorities in a fruitless scouring of the streets of the town up to midnight.

NORWICH RIFLE TEAM TRIMS SOUTH LYME

In trimming the South Lyme Rifle and Gun club in a Mohegan rifle league match Friday evening at the Norwich armory, the Norwich club tied the top team score of 867 recently made by Pioneer Hose Co. of New London, with which Norwich will compete on Dec. 12 at New London. Charles Palmer, who had high score for the evening, also had a perfect prone target, as did Bugbee, of the South Lyme team. The score was Norwich 867 and South Lyme 835.

For Norwich Morrill, White and Racicot also shot and for South Lyme, R. Stanhope, R. Northrope, E. Northrope, B. Proctor and W. Woods. Ten men are eligible to participate in these shoots with the first five high men counting. The results:

MAJOR LEAGUE MANAGERS START NEGOTIATIONS FOR PLAYER TRADES

NEW YORK, Dec. 7.—(AP)—The major leagues' "fallen arch brigade" poured into New York today to begin its annual attempt to sell a baseball player and get a baseball team in return.

Gathered here for the winter meetings of the National and American leagues, club owners and managers stood around the lobby of the Hotel Commodore and engaged in endless conversations designed to discover a second baseman who can hit, an outfielder who can field or a pitcher who can put the ball where he wants it.

Some of the boys, such as Dan Howley of the Cincinnati Reds, Rogers Hornsby of the Chicago Cubs, and Donie Bush of the Chicago White Sox were one up on the others. They just spent a week attending the minor league convention at Montreal where the lobby-standing record was seriously threatened a score of times. With this week of preparation behind them they felt they were in better shape both to talk and to stand than those who passed up the Montreal meetings.

There were few signs of any definite trading attempts today. Hornsby seemed to sound the keynote when he said the Cubs were prepared to stand pat on their present lineup but that they, like anyone else, would be interested should good talent be offered for a reasonable consideration whether in cash or players. "The Rajah" is not worrying about one position on his infield. He intends to play second base himself.

Swelling the crowd were a number of minor league club owners and managers who spent a fruitless week in Montreal trying to dispose of some of their star playing talent. If the majors and the non-draft leagues come to an agreement on the draft question some of these sales undoubtedly will go through. Until then, however, the majors have declined to have any dealings with the non-draft circuits.

No official business will be transacted by either major league until Tuesday when the National league meets. On Wednesday the American leaguers go into their annual conclave and the two leagues meet in joint session Thursday.

Monday will not be a total loss, however, for major league representatives and a committee from the minors are to go into an informal huddle on the draft dispute at 1 o'clock. The majors want the five non-draft leagues—International, Pacific Coast, American association, Western and Three-Eye leagues—to accept the universal draft. That is, they want to be able to select, or draft, at a fixed price, any player from these circuits just as they do from other minor leagues.

The non-draft leagues apparently are willing to accept the draft provided the terms are generous enough. They would accept, it was said, should the majors fix the draft price in Class AA leagues at around $15,000; agree to allow the minors to retain a player for two or three years before he becomes eligible to the draft; and agree to keep their hands off sand-lot and college material from which the minors, especially in the lower classifications, formerly were able to recruit their talent at reasonable prices.

As far as the major league meetings themselves are concerned, apparently the most troublesome question will be the lively ball. It is known that some club owners are prepared to demand that some action be taken on this much discussed problem. Three distinct schools of thought will be represented if and when the question comes up. Some would have the ball left as it is; others are in favor of deadening it to wipe out the present epidemic of home runs; still another faction would let the ball remain as it is but would institute a system whereby balls hit into certain sectors would be limited to two or three bases rather than home runs.

The so-called "chain store" system of club ownership also may come up for discussion, especially should Kenesaw M. Landis, commissioner of baseball, decide that the time is ripe for another attack on this modern development in the business side of the game.

YALE MEN FAVOR EARLIER START IN FOOTBALL PRACTICE

MONTCLAIR, N. J., Dec. 7.—(AP)—Yale men, feeling the sting of too much lose or draw in the annual "win, lose or draw" party in Nick Roberts' old barn, have gone on record as favoring a change in the present system of fall football practice.

A resolution condemning the present restrictions of fall practice under the Yale-Harvard-Princeton agreement, was favored almost unanimously by last night's gathering of nearly 300 Yale men, most of whom are or have been closely associated with Yale football.

The resolution was proposed at the start of the barn party last night and was adopted after all the speakers including Coach Mal Stevens and Captain-elect Albie Booth, had discussed it. The gathering went on record as favoring a change not only because the present restrictions have operated to lower the quality of performances at the three colleges, but because they have not reduced overemphasis on football nor improved the ideals of sportsmanship and because the short practice has proved definitely harmful, subjecting the players to the risk of serious injuries in early season games.

The resolution as adopted reads:

"Be it resolved that the Yale club of Montclair and vicinity, assembled here in Nick Roberts' barn, definitely favors a change in the present policy of fall football practice. Be it further resolved that football authorities at Harvard, Yale and Princeton be strongly urged to reconsider the question and to take early action."

STOCKWELL'S 85 YD. RUN HELPS SONS TO WIN

In a hard fought game played before one of the biggest crowds ever to watch an amateur football game in Norwich at Mohegan park Sunday afternoon, the Sons of Rest nosed out the Ice House Gang by a score of 6 to 0. The only score of the day was made by Murphy, after Sam Stockwell had advanced the ball from his own 5 yard line to the opponent's 10 yard stripe. After two unsuccessful attempts at the line, Murphy, quarterback, took the ball over for the only score of the day. Stockwell, who previous to his long run had figured largely in the offense of the Sons of Rest, was forced to leave the game early in the last quarter with a fractured ankle. He had to be carried off the field by teammates, while the spectators gave him a big hand.

Zickie, fullback of the I. H. G., was the star performer of his team. Time after time, he got loose for long gains of from 10 to 30 yards. It was his playing that kept up the spirit of his teammates. The Ice House Gang, although completely outweighed, put up a great battle and played a wonderful game, the Sons of Rest being unable to break through their line, having to resort to end runs and aerial game. The game had all the appearances of a scoreless tie until Stockwell had got away for his long run. The game was ably handled by Jab Burns, referee; John Murphy, head linesman, and Marchand, timekeeper. The Sons of Rest wish to challenge the Norwich Town Wildcats for a game next Sunday. Kindly answer through Tuesday's paper. The line-ups:

DIEGEL BEATS ESPINOSA IN FRISCO OPEN FINALS

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 7.—(AP)—Leo Diegel, Agua Caliente professional, won the first annual San Francisco open match play golf championship on the Lakeside links of the Olympic club today, by defeating Al Espinosa, Chicago, 6 and 4.

A string of birdies overwhelmed the Chicago professional. Diegel was two up on Espinosa at the end of the first 18 holes and at the turn of the second 18 held a lead of six. He ended the match by winning the 32nd hole.

After the first hole was halved, Diegel took the second with a par four. He held this lead until the seventh, when Espinosa scored a birdie three to even the match. Espinosa won the 13th with a par three to take the lead for the only time during the match.

Diegel came back on the 14th with a par four to Espinosa's five to even things up. Diegel took things in hand on the 17th, which he won with a birdie four, and went two up by winning the 18th with a birdie three.

He won the first hole of the afternoon round with a par five, the fifth with a birdie three, the seventh with another birdie three and the eighth with a par three to go six up. Espinosa made a brief stand by birdieing the 12th to win this hole, but after the 13th was halved, Diegel took the 14th with a five to Espinosa's six to win the match.

A gallery of about 2,500 followed the contestants.

Prize money totaling $7,500 was divided among the 28 professionals who entered the championship flight. Diegel's victory enriched him by $1,600. Espinosa received $1,065.

George Von Elm, Detroit, and Joe Ezar, Chicago, who were eliminated in the semi-finals, received $532 each.

The four eliminated in the quarter-finals received $320 each. They are Abe Espinosa, Chicago; Willie Goggin, San Francisco; Gene Sarazen, Flushing, N. Y., and Fred Morrison, Alhambra, Calif.

Players who received $163.33 each—Frank Walsh, Kenosha, Wis.; Jimmy Thompson, Colorado Springs, Colo.; Wilfred Cox, Brooklyn; Willard Hutchison, Chicago; Benny Coltrin, Oakland, Calif., and Ralph Guldahl, Dallas, Tex.

J.

Oi Yoi Gevaet—Hoot Mon

Tonight at the Elks alleys another battle of the century takes place when the Jewish Five roll the Scotch Five for the opening game of the club's series. The Scotch Five are being led by Capt. Alex Finlayson, who is considered the best bowler they can obtain, while the Hebrew boys have chosen Saul Budnick, the local seafood dispenser, who knows his strikes.

A great time is expected as it is rumored around the club that the clan will use their kilties as uniforms and the strains of the bagpipes will be heard.

Following are the lineups of both teams:

Hebrews—Jo. Budnick, Israel Budnick, Saul Budnick (capt.), Nelson Polsky, Sidney.

Scotchmen—Jackie Wilson, George Engler, Alex Finlayson (capt.), Jim Purdon, Henry Gee.

SHYMA SPORT FLASHES

After meeting up with shocks within two days we will attempt to start life anew. We picked Koziol to lick Darr, but alas we chose the wrong man. We were also rooting for Southern California to beat Notre Dame, but again we were thrown for a loss. Nevertheless, it was a great fight Friday and a good football game Saturday.

The All-American football team chosen by Titi Peltier is as follows: Barnes of Yale, end; Price, Army, tackle; Metzer, Notre Dame, guard; Tickner, Harvard, center; Wisniewski, Fordham, guard; Wilcox, Southern California, tackle; Yudicky, Dartmouth, end; Carideo, Notre Dame, quarterback; Schwartz, Notre Dame, halfback; Spennett, St. Mary's, halfback; Macaluso, Colgate, fullback.

The schedule for Monday's volleyball games follows: Columbia, the leading team, vs. Princeton; Yale and Harvard; Army and Notre Dame. The first game starts at 7 o'clock.

THE GREATEST TEAM PASSES

When the whistle, ending the Notre Dame-Southern California fray, sounded in the coliseum at Los Angeles on Saturday afternoon it also marked the passing of the greatest football team the world has ever seen. In the recollection of the oldest football fan there is no memory of as great a combination of football players as this Notre Dame team of 1930. There have been good teams which have had stars that could compare with the stars of Notre Dame individually but there was that coordination of effort that was lacking. This Notre Dame team has one of the most perfect football machines ever evolved. There has been no real outstanding star for it was a collection of stars, each performing his task as the cog in a great machine. When Jumping Joe Savoldi was removed from the backfield it was thought that the team would suffer, but it didn't. Moon Mullins was shot into the backfield and the team functioned as smoothly as before. Then Mullins was injured in the Army game and again the football world was unanimous that Knute Rockne was up against it and the odds swung to Southern California. But the keen Rockne still had an ace in the hole and he startled the fans when he sent in O'Connor, a half back, to take the fullback berth. Again Rockne proved he was the master mind for O'Conner acquitted himself as well as either Savoldi or Mullins.

How can any college beat a team that can send in man after man just as good as the one that leaves the game? How can any college beat a team equipped with such a diversity of plays that seldom is one play used more than once or twice in a game? It was this ability to change the style of play at a moment's notice that has brought this team to the highest pinnacle in football. Even the keenest students of football had not the slightest inkling of the type of attack that Notre Dame would adopt against a certain team. Scouts would see Notre Dame in action and report on the type of play that the Fighting Irish were using. The opposing team would be drilled on this type and when the game was in progress Notre Dame was found to be using an entirely different style.

It would be almost a sure bet that if any All-American team could be gotten together and sent against Notre Dame the Fighting Irish would emerge victorious. As Bill Cunningham has said the best All American team that could be chosen would be Notre Dame. We agree with him.

ST. PATRICK'S EXPECTED IN JUNIOR LEAGUE

Sunday night brought the good news that St. Patrick's school will in all probability enter a team in the proposed Junior Basketball league which is slated to open its season Friday afternoon at the Norton Memorial gym at the Academy. The definite announcement of the Saints entrance into the circuit is expected today and would increase the membership to five teams, the others being Broadway, Greeneville, Samuel Huntington and Elizabeth street. Either Wequonnoc school of Taftville or a team from the Y junior class will complete the lineup.

According to the present plans, each team will have a member of the Academy basketball squad as its coach and each school will be given time during the week for practice sessions. St. Patrick's, Samuel Huntington and Broadway would use the Norton gym and the other three schools the Y. M. C. A. The Academy through its basketball coach, Paul Bitgood, and who is being assisted in putting the project over by Howie Demarest, Y. M. C. A. physical director and coach of the Seniors is doing everything possible to help the league along. The circuit, which would be a truly representative one of the sections of Norwich, should do much for the sport hereabouts.

Y GIRLS TEAM OPENS ON DECEMBER 20

The Y Girls basketball team will open its season on Saturday, Dec. 20 at the local gym, playing the Middletown Y girls in the preliminary to the Seniors-Middletown Y State league clash. This announcement was made Sunday evening and if what happened last year is any sign, then it is the signal for a big turnout on that date.

The girls have been practicing for some time now under Mrs. Streeter's coaching and should be in A-1 shape for the opener.

ARMY MUST HAVE FULL POWER TO TAKE NAVY IN BENEFIT GAME

NEW YORK, Dec. 7.—(AP)—Charity failed to benefit as much as might have been expected from yesterday's benefit football games, but the one big clash which was originally scheduled for the first December Saturday served notice on the fans, charitable or otherwise, that they can expect a great battle next Saturday when the Army and the Navy meet in New York for their big benefit game.

A Navy team which has had a rather poor season sent out a trumpet blast of warning to the Cadets that they must give their best if they expect to win next Saturday's service fray by smashing a favored Pennsylvania eleven down to a 26 to 0 defeat. The Midshipmen showed everything that they seemed to lack before as they took the Quaker eleven in their stride and rolled up a big score without even taking a chance.

In the entire game, Penn could make only three first downs and gain but 36 yards from scrimmage while Navy made 226 yards and 18 first downs. The Midshipmen battered their rivals around all through the first half but did not take any risks in their desire to score. In the second period, with a pair of the supposedly weak substitutes, Tommy Hurley and "Rusty" Williams, opening things up a bit, Navy made itself some breaks and seized upon them to score four touchdowns.

Although Colgate managed to keep its record against eastern rivals untarnished in New York's big benefit game, New York university shared the honors of the day by holding Len Macaluso, the nation's leading scorer, in check and giving the powerful Maroon eleven only a 7-6 victory. The young Violet team played on even terms through most of the game after a fumble and a 30 yard pass, Hart to Orsi, had given Colgate a touchdown in the first period. In the final frame it staged the one big advance of the battle, marching 78 yards for a score two minutes before the end. Johnny Orsi, star Colgate end, broke through to block the kick that would have brought a tie.

Only about 20,000 fans turned out for this benefit game while rain in Pittsburgh held the attendance down to 5,000 as Carnegie Tech romped to a 26-0 victory over Washington and Jefferson in another charity affair, postponed from last week. Harry McCurdy, Carnegie quarterback, was the spark plug of the Tartan attack, scoring one touchdown and passing for two more.

Another 20,000 fans paid their share for charity as the Marines defeated the Coast Guard, 7 to 0, in the annual game for the president's cup, while a few more thousands watched two lesser charity affairs. Davis and Elkins defeated New River in one, giving the little West Virginia college its second defeat of the season, while Dickinson turned in its first victory, beatin gthe Carlisle Army Medical school 33-0.

Western Maryland completed its second season without a defeat and remained alone at the head of the eastern ranking list as the only undefeated team as it downed Maryland, 7-0, in the battle for the state championship. Outplayed all though the first half, the Terrors opened a real drive in the final period and went 65 yards to send their star fullback, Koppe, across with the touchdown.

Although Western Maryland was the only team in the east to get through the season without a beating, Colgate's final victory gave the Maroon a good claim on the mythical sectional championship with Army and Fordham as its leading rivals.

Records of a few leading teams follow:

	W.	L.	Tied	Points For	P.A.

SHYMAS TO PLAY STAFFORD SPRINGS TUESDAY

The Shymas, Srs., of Taftville, break into the basketball columns this week with a game scheduled with Stafford Springs for Tuesday evening at Parish hall, Taftville. With a victory behind them over Battery E. of Westerly, the Shwmas feel that they can repeat against the upstate boys. The big game will be preceded by a tilt between the Junior team and the Y Emps of this city.

The co-ed enrollment of 782 at the University of Alabama represents 159 cities of that state, 31 other states and one foreign country.

CHOCOLATE WILL BE FIRST REAL FIGHTER THAT BATTALINO HAS MET

NEW YORK, Dec. 7.—(AP)—Christopher "Bat" Battalino, of Hartford Conn., who never has fought in the "big town" although he holds the world's featherweight championship comes to New York this week to risk his title against Eligio Sardinas of Cuba, the flashy Negro boxer who has won fame as Kid Chocolate.

The title scrap, main attraction of the annual Christmas fund card at Madison Square Garden Friday night, is the headline event on a national program that is somewhat better than it has been for the past few weeks.

Battalino has not met much stiff opposition since he took the featherweight crown from Andre Routis and his performances have been hampered considerably by bad hands, but fans are rapidly finding points in his favor. Bud Taylor, no mean fighter himself, has called Battalino the strongest man in his class. The fans, banking on judgments such as this, are reducing the odds in favor of Chocolate rapidly and the indications are that by Friday the bout will be regarded as an even choice.

The Chicago stadium offers a rival attraction Friday night in a ten round heavyweight battle between Young Stribling, one of the outstanding contenders for the heavyweight championship, and Gerald Ambrose "Tuffy" Griffiths of Sioux City, Iowa, a young battler who has been in and out of the limelight several times. Charity shows in other places also have brought out good cards to lift the national program to a high level.

Other bouts on the week's card include:

Monday—at Philadelphia — Benny Bass, junior lightweight champion, vs. Johnny Jadick, Philadelphia. Ten rounds.

At Louisville —Babe Ruth, Louisville, vs. Freddy Miller, Cincinnati, featherweights. Ten.

Tuesday—at Indianapolis — Billie Shaw, Detroit, vs. Tracy Cox, Indianapolis, featherweights, ten.

At Los Angeles— Paulie Walker, New York, vs. Mike Payan, San Diego, Cal., welterweights, ten.

At Portland, Ore.— Young Firpo, Burke, Idaho, vs. Herman Ratzlaff, Minot, S. D., light heavyweights, ten.

Wednesday—at Cleveland—Fidel La Barba, Los Angeles, vs. Eddie Shea, Chicago, featherweights, ten; Jackie Fields, Los Angeles, vs. Paul Pirrone, Cleveland, welterweights, ten; Ray Miller, Chicago, vs. Johnny Farr, Cleveland, lightweights, ten.

Friday — at New York, Madison Square Garden, Ralph Ficucello, New York, vs. Mateo Osa, Spain, heavyweights, ten.

At Chicago, stadium—Jack Gagnon, French-Canadian, vs. Larry Johnson, Chicago, heavyweights, eight; Frank Cawley vs. Natie Brown, eight.

At St. Louis—Arthur De Kuh, New York, vs. Jack Renault, Canada, heavyweights, ten; Babe McGorgary, Oklahoma, vs. Jack Barry, Chicago, middleweights, ten.

At Hollywood, Cal. — Lou Paluso, Salt Lake City, vs. Johnny Lamar, Los Angeles, lightweights.

Saturday—At Cincinnati — Willard Brown, Indianapolis, vs. Howard Mitchell, Cincinnati, lightweights, ten.

NOTRE DAME TAKES RISSMAN TROPHY

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 7.—(AP)—Football's supreme laurels—permanent possession of a trophy signifying national intercollegiate champions three times in a decade—crowned the brows of Knute Rockne's Irish warriors as they headed homeward late today.

Ownership of the Rissman trophy, bestowed for winning three national titles under the Dickinson rating system, was one of Notre Dame's chief spoils from her 27-0 rout of Southern California yesterday.

Late today Rockne herded his Ramblers toward their home fields. The unconquered Notre Dame warriors of 1930 will arrive in Chicago Wednesday morning en route to South Bend.

The vanquished, still wondering at the amazing team which overwhelmed their best but comparatively puny efforts, could do naught but cheer their conquerors. The Trojans, subdued by their worst defeat since Coach Howard Jones took them in hand five years ago, heaped honors where honors were due. For themselves they sought forgetfulness by turning all eyes upon a banquet in their honor next Tuesday night.

Sports writers credited the Irish victory to their masterful and perfectly timed work in every department, offensive or defensive, which swamped and stunned the men of Troy.

Y SENIORS PLAY BATTERY E FIVE ON SATURDAY

Their season's record now standing at one victory and two defeats as the resulting of a heartbreaking defeat at the hands of the Willimantic Y Saturday night at the local gym, the Y Seniors will get down to their practicing tonight at 8:15 with a view to taking it out on the next opponent—Battery E of Westerly here Saturday evening. The Seniors will be favored to win this one as they topped the Rhode Islanders last Thursday at Westerly. It was only by a one-point margin, however, and this should point to another gruelling struggle.

The Seniors seemed to be just a victim of circumstances on Saturday when the timer's watch ran seven minutes overtime and found the Thread City team ahead, 37 to 34 when the tilt was finally ended. Some of the Seniors' supporters claim that the locals rightfully had the game as they were in the lead when the timer's whistle should have ended matters.

Sunday evening Coach Howie Demarest, however, stated that his team was beaten and is willing to just charge the matter up to a "break" of the game. The Seniors play a return game at Willimantic on Thursday, Dec. 18 and so will have an opportunity to take this team over the bumps.

BASEBALL WELL REPRESENTED AT FUNERAL OF W. F. BAKER

NEW YORK, Dec. 7.—(AP)—Baseball magnates were conspicuous today at the funeral services for William F. Baker, owner of the Philadelphia National league baseball club, who died Thursday in Montreal. The funeral parlors were packed with friends and acquaintances and a police escort was provided in honor of Mr. Baker, who was a former police commissioner of New York city.

Bishop Charles E. Locke of St. Paul officiated at the services. Burial was in Greenwood cemetery.

Commissioner K. M. Landis, E. L. Barnard, president of the American league, John L. Heydler, president of the National league, and Police Commissioner Edward P. Mulrooney attended the services. Others included Barney Dreyfuss, owner of the Pirates; Charles L. Stoneham, owner of the Giants; Jacob Ruppert, owner of the Yankees; Emil Fuchs, owner of the Boston Braves, and Sam Breadon, owner of the St. Louis Cardinals.

INDIANS END WEEK WITH PERFECT SCORE

BOSTON, Dec. 7—(AP)—The fast traveling Springfield Indians wound up another victorious week and today continued at the top of the Canadian-American Hockey league with a perfect score of seven wins for as many games. The Providence Reds, last season's champions, were in second place and the other three teams in the circuit, New Haven, Boston, and Philadelphia, trailed in that order.

The official league standing, including games of December 6, follows:

	W.	L.	T.	Pts.
Springfield	7	0	0	14
Providence	4	2	1	9
New Haven	3	4	1	7
Boston	2	5	0	4

MACALUSO ADDS ONE MORE POINT TO TOTAL

NEW YORK, Dec. 7.—(AP) — Len Macaluso, Colgate fullback who leads the nation's scorers, added one point to his total against New York university yesterday by booting the extra point after Colgate's touchdown, and brought his mark for the season to 145 points. The kick was Macaluso's 28th successful try for a point of the year. To this he added 19 touchdowns and one field goal to attain his big point total.

Macaluso finished the season with a margin of 49 points over his nearest eastern rivals, Jack Grossman of Rutgers and Ken Goff of Rhode Island, each of whom made 96 points this year.

Few of the eastern leaders were in action yesterday and still fewer scored. Corzine of Davis and Elkins brought his total for the season to 78 points and Koppe of Western Maryland attained a 60 point mark as each scored one touchdown.

ALL-PACIFIC COAST TEAM HAS BEEN CHOSEN

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 7—(AP)—The sixth annual All-Pacific coast football team was selected today by the Associated Press after the most comprehensive balloting ever taken on a mythical eleven in the far west.

University of Southern California placed four men on the first team, while Washington State, conference champion claimed three places. Oregon, California, Washington and St. Mary's each landed one player.

One the second eleven Washington State, Southern California, Stanford, St. Mary's and Oregon State each gained two positions with a Santa Clara man completing the selections.

Mel Hein, Washington State center, and Garrett Arbelbide, U. S. C. end, were the most popular players in the balloting, each receiving all but one vote. John Baker, Southern California guard, received 37 votes and Ernie Pinckert, Southern California, won 36 votes.

The team is the consensus of 39 authorities, including the leading sports editors and writers, coaches of Pacific coast conference teams, game officials and prominent football radio broadcasters.

All-Pacific coast teams:

First Team	Position	Second Team
Arbelbide, U. S. C.	End	McKallip, Oregon State
Edwards, Wash. State	Tackle	Hall, U. S. C.
Baker, U. S. C.	Guard	Fischer, St. Mary's
Hein, Wash. State	Center	Tassi, Santa Clara
Beckett, Cal.	Guard	Colbert, Oregon State
Schwegler, Washington	Tackle	Ahlskog, Washington State
Ebding, St. Mary's	End	Maskell, Washington State
Duffield, U. S. C.	Quarter	Mohler, U. S. C.
Pinckert, U. S. C.	Halfback	Moffatt, Stanford
Kitzmiller, Oregon	Halfback	Stennett, St. Mary's
Schwartz, Washington State	Fullback	Rothert, Stanford

SEVERAL CHANGES IN MINOR LEAGUE RULES

MONTREAL, Que., Dec. 7—(AP)—The National Association of Professional Baseball leagues have selected West Baden, Ind., for the 1931 convention, extended the association agreement for one year, deferred election of officers until the next annual meeting, and adopted several amendments to the major league rules.

It took a constitutional amendment to allow the selection of West Baden. Under the rules, the convention must be held in a city in which there is a member baseball club, but this clause was voted out of the constitution in order to permit the meeting to be held in the Indiana health resort. Springfield, Mass., put in a spirited bid for the meeting but lost out in a fairly close fight.

Originally it had been expected the National association agreement, under which the association gains its authority, would be renewed for ten years but at the request of the so-called "big minors," the American association, International and Pacific Coast leagues, it was extended for one year only.

These three Class AA circuits pointed out that they were involved in a hot fight with the majors over the draft question and that they could better deal with the situation if they were not tied down for so long a period of time. The question of extending the agreement for ten years will come up before the next annual meeting, when the big minors hope to have settled their differences with the majors.

One of the most interesting amendments to the major-minor league rules was one providing for the insertion of a clause in a player's contract forbidding him to compete either in professional boxing or professional wrestling. The amendment recalled the exploits of Arthur (The Great) Shires in the ring last year and was passed amid a general laugh.

Another amendment ruled that "no contract shall be made with a player before he is 18 years of age," but another suggesting that it be made illegal for a club to place a player on option with another club of the same league was rejected.

Another amendment provided that "in case of a physical attack on an umpire by a player or an umpire on a player, the offending person or persons may be placed on the suspended list for not less than 90 days or more than one year."

Another reduced from 30 days to 15 the time in which written notice must be given of proposed amendments to the major-minor league rules.

The National association agreement was amended to allow a Class C league to carry 15 players on its rosters 20 days after the start of the season. Previously they had been allowed only 14.

The convention met at 11 a. m., and adjourned until 1 p. m., out of respect to William F. Baker, president of the Philadelphia Nationals, who died of a heart attack here early in the day.

BALTIC WINS FROM BRADFORD SOCCER TEAM

The Baltic Social and Athletic club having no scheduled game in the soccer league, took on the Bradford team from Rhode Island and in a see-saw game came out the winners by the score of 5 to 4. The score in the first part of the game was in favor of the visitors, 2 to 1. In the second half Baltic took a brace and won out after having the score tied up twice in this half. The Bradford boys play the game and were putting up as fast a game at the finish as when they started but the last goal by Baltic was too much for them. The scorers for both teams were Dobson 2, Husturt 1, Sidebotton 1, for Bradford; and Coullard 2, Robertaille 1, Greenhalgh 1, Strong 1, for Baltic. Following is the lineup:

Bradford	Baltic
Cruikshank, goal	goal, Blanchette
Holt, lfb	lfb, Greenhalgh
Cropper, rfb	rfb, Seddon
Ward, lhb	lhb, Mathers
Morton, chb	chb, Ridgeway
Gregg, rhb	rhb, Robertaille
Tetlow, ol	ol, Coullard
Burgess, il	il, Dudley
Husturt, cf	cf, Strong
Sidebotton, ir	ir, Alexander
Dobson, or	or, McMillan

Referee—Andrews.

Linesmen—Firth and Cruickshank.

SPORT BRIEFS

NEW HAVEN, Dec. 7—(AP)—Boston outplayed the New Haven Eagles here tonight to take an unexciting hockey game by a score of 3 to 1.

PROVIDENCE, R. I.—The Rhode Island Reds whitewashed the Philadelphia Arrows, 4 to 0, here tonight in a game which started mildly but increased in violence until two players were badly cut and two major penalties inflicted.

NEW YORK—Lewis J. Kern of Swarthmore was re-elected president of the United States Intercollegiate Lacrosse association at the 48th annual meeting today.

PORTSMOUTH, Ohio—The Portsmouth Spartans routed the Minneapolis Red Jackets, 42 to 0, in a National Professional league football game here today.

CHICAGO—The Green Bay Packers, champions of the National Football league, ran into their worst beating in years today, bowing to the Chicago Bears at Wrigley Field, 21 to 6.

NEW YORK—Montreal's brilliant Canadiens, champions of the hockey world, regained their tie with Toronto for the top place in the Canadian division of the National Hockey league tonight by defeating the New York Americans, 3 to 2.

MADISON, Wis.—Edgar T. Appleby of New York tonight retained his national amateur 18.2 balkline billiards championship by defeating Ray Fessenden, Madison challenger and former titleholder, 900 to 401.

Reversing a previous decision, the New York Giants defeated the Brooklyn Dodgers, 13 to 0 before a crowd of 22,000 at Ebbets field today and retained their hold on second place in the National Football league.

BERLIN—The football game was near an end, with the score tied. Ernst Haseloff intercepted the ball and scored a winning goal for his team today. He died almost immediately with a ruptured heart muscle.

PHILADELPHIA — Dr. L. Lloyd Bohn, a former assistant wrestling coach at Harvard university and a member of the Penn State mat team a few years ago, has been appointed mentor for the Temple university grapplers, Earl R. Yeomans, graduate manager of athletics, announced tonight.

CHICAGO—A pair of third string forwards, Frankie Ingram and Vic Desjardins, tonight gave the Chicago Blackhawks enough of a lead to stall off a rousing finishing drive in the final period, and save a 3 to 2 victory for the league leaders.

NEW YORK—Ralph Greenleaf of New York, holder of the world's pocket billiards championship for nine of the last eleven years, will attempt to win his tenth title this week with seven of the nation's leading players as his rivals in the annual tournament, which begins tomorrow.

CHARLESTON MAN ARRESTED ON THREE CHARGES OF ASSAULT

(Special to The Bulletin)

WESTERLY, Dec. 7—In a 1:30 p. m. Sunday arraignment in a special session of Third District court before Judge Oliver H. Williams, on complaint of Trooper John F. Kennedy of the Hope Valley barracks of the Rhode Island department of state police, three Charlestown, R. I., men were arraigned and their cases continued until Sunday night to secure bail and a further hearing continued until this Monday morning.

Antonio Savarise, 23, alias Thomas Moran, alias John Doe, was arraigned and Judge Williams entered pleas of not guilty to three violent assault charges, the first upon Frances Mayo, the second upon Genard Esposito and the third upon James Mayo, all of the town of Charlestown. Bonds were set at $1,000 on each complaint.

Trooper Kennedy informed the court that on Saturday night he had received at about dark a call from Wright's garage at Carolina, R. I., that a man there wanted the state police immediately. Responding the trooper said the man a boarder at the Mayo's home had returned to the house. Going to the Mayo home he found Savarise with his hands and feet bound lying on the ground and two or three men, a woman and children standing about him. He untied the man's hands and as he did so the woman fainted and the officers started with her to the house. On his return the man, Savarise, whom he had handcuffed had succeeded in untieing his feet and had disappeared in the brush in the dark. The trooper on the disappearance of the prisoner then went to Savarise's uncle's home with whom he made his home and to the Nelson home in the vicinity and informed the occupants if the prisoner could not be found in the woods he would hold them responsible until the man was produced. Later Savarese was brought back in the Nelson auto and it was found that the escaped man had travelled through a brook to leave the scene. The man had been drinking and was quarrelsome and had given much trouble.

The accused admitted that for an assault and law violation he had been arrested in Hartford and also in Brooklyn, N. Y., and warned by the authorities that he was threatened with tuberculosis and furthermore in 1925 in a baseball game he had sustained injuries to his nose. The record further showed that in 1925 he had been arrested for robbery in Charlestown and coming before Judge Turano had pleaded guilty and paid a $200 fine. In 1927 he received three months' sentence for burglary in Hartford; in 1928 he was not indicted on a probable abduction complaint; in 1929 resisting an officer in Brooklyn, N. Y., brought upon him a felonous assault charge for which he did three months on Riker's Island.

Judge Williams said he was assured that his physical condition was all right from the doctor's examination made by Dr. M. H. Scanlon, and the affair in which he was involved the past week end did not help his present status and on Monday's continued examination might order him to be committed to Providence county jail for a month or three months' observation as to his mental condition.

Courtland Clifton Stanton of Hopkinton, R. I., of Indian descent, was charged by Trooper Kennedy with the operation on Saturday evening on the dirt road between Carolina and Cross Mills of an automobile while under the influence of liquor. The accused said he was not intoxicated or drunk but had been drinking cider and that a "man was in pretty bad shape when he was drunk." Held in bonds of $500 his case was continued to Friday, Dec. 12th.

George Peckham, Indian, of Charlestown, R. I., pleaded not guilty to a charge of being found drunk in Charlestown on Dec. 6th and said his wife would probably secure a bondsman. Held in the sum of $100 his case was continued to Friday, Dec. 12th next.

Trooper Kennedy and Sergt. Ernest F. Stenhouse were reported as having been in a state police car when the auto occupied by Stanton and Peckham collided with them. At the time the men were returning from killing pigs and had their butchering knives and utensils with them. When the state officers started to place the men under arrest one was reported to have reached for a wicked looking knife in his basket when quick action on the part of the state officers prevented what would have proven to be a bloody encounter.

UNIDENTIFIED MAN IN SERIOUS WAY AT HOSPITAL

(Special to The Bulletin)

WESTERLY, Dec. 7—The Westerly hospital at about 2:30 a. m., Sunday morning received a second patient present identity unknown, who is thought to be one who had attempted suicide. It was in the early Sunday morning hours on West Broad street, Pawcatuck when Wilson Fannon and a companion observed a man apparently in an intoxicated condition in front of the Central theatre. They reported their finding to Pawcatuck Police Patrolman Robert W. Robinson who attempted to engage the man in conversation and found him clinging with a death-like grip to a pole in front of the theatre. He succeeded in breaking his hold and had him taken to the office of Dr. William A. Hillard and after a hasty examination the ambulance of the Westerly hospital was called and the man was taken to the Westerly hospital and Dr. M. H. Scanlon called in consultation.

Officer Robinson found a 1931 diary in the man's pockets and on the first page the address was scratched out and the name appeared to be "Annunziato Mello". Other entries showed his age as 25, height six feet, weight 102 pounds. One the card in his pocket which was held by Dr. Hillard appeared the name of a woman in Pennsylvania. From this date Pawcatuck Selectman Arthur Babcock, Officers Robinson and Simeon R. Shortman and Dr. Hillard attempted on Sunday to establish the identity of the man, who appeared to be of Italian birth.

The man remained on Sunday in a coma at the Westerly hospital, where it was found that he was suffering from hemorrhages of the lungs. In the diary it stated that in case of accident, notify the priest, Father Vincent of the Church of the Immaculate Conception was immediately notified by the police, but was unable to identify the man.

It was hoped that the unknown man might be identified through the name and address of a woman which was found on a card in his pocket. Dr. W. A. Hillard had the card which bears the name of Helen Brenz, Taylor's hospital, of Ridley Park, Pa. It is believed that the woman is either a patient or nurse at a hospital in that place. The name of the woman was written on the back of a card issued from a fair which was held in Worcester, Mass., last September.

At about 1 o'clock Sunday Officer Robinson telephoned to the Taylor hospital and asked for the Brenz woman .The hospital authorities did not know the woman. The name and address was written on the back of an admission card to a benefit dance and prize drill of Company A, held on Saturday, Sept. 20, 1930.

While the man remained in a serious condition at the Westerly hospital, unconscious and vomiting blood, from what source the medical authorities had not yet learned, nor could they give an explanation of the cause, telegrams continued to be sent out to see if there was any possibility of establishing an identification.

COAST GUARD CREW SEARCH FOR SCHOONER

(Special to The Bulletin)

WESTERLY, Dec. 7—Capt. George W. Streeter of the Watch Hill Coast Guard station, with boat and crew on Saturday night and Sunday spent some seven hours in a fruitless search with other stations and coast guard boats for the wreckage of the sixty-year old schooner "Storm Petrel," of 100 foot length and built in Ellsworth, Me. The Watch Hill coast guard received the report that the four-masted schooner, with 250 tons of coal in tow of the Nehama, of the New London coast guard, and bound from that city to Nantucket, had foundered off Watch Hill with crew of four men, a woman and a man had been lost. The schooner in leaving New London had gone through "The Race" and proceeded along the south side of Fishers Island. When in a position on Saturday at 5:30 p. m. about 7 miles south of the blinker light off Watch Hill Point the schooner in the strong northeast blow had gone down while changes were being made in lights.

Taking part in the search on Sunday morning off Watch Hill were four C. G. boats with one on patrol duty Sunday afternoon and the surf boats of the Fishers Island and Block Island stations. Up to a late hour on Sunday no trace of the missing schooner, its wreckage or any of its crew was found.

Capt. Streeter said that in the distance of seven miles off Watch Hill Point the schooner on the bottom would lie in from 75 to 100 feet of water. With the wind from the northerly quarters all wreckage or any bodies in life preservers would be washed toward the Long Island shores in which direction search should be continued.

BURNING GRASS SETS FIRE TO WAITE BARN

(Special to The Bulletin)

WESTERLY, Dec. 7—Burning grass to prevent a fire about the barn of Dr. Anne Langworthy Waite's farm off the Westerly-Bradford road on Sunday morning, set fire to the hay in the barn loft and also set fire to the barn. The men at work supposed that a grass fire near the barn had been entirely put out and were at work at a distant point in the barn yard when upon looking in the direction of the barn saw smoke coming from it. The large barn doors were immediately closed to prevent any draft and a call for help telephoned to Bradford and Westerly. Shortly before 9 a. m. the fire whistle on the Bradford Dyeing association plant was sounded and in response to the call to Westerly fire headquarters Westerly Fire Chief Robert Bonner, Assistant Engineers George McKenzie, Columbus Pasetti and force of firemen made a quick run to Bradford in the motor pumper. The old road through the Waite farm was taken and the suction hose dropped in the brook which flows under the roadway, first breaking the thin ice in the small brook hole by the roadside. Some 600 feet of fire hose was laid and an excellent stream soon had the burning woodwork of the barn extinguished but not before the big barn door had burned and several holes through the side wall on two sides. The slate-coated roof covering kept flames from the roof and then from ladders in the hay mow the hay which filled the loft was put out but not entirely extinguished until the hay had been pitched out. Some of the farming tools were taken from the barn and flames kept away from other apparatus. A large quantity of vegetable baskets were burned. With a strong northeast wind blowing Sunday morning the Bradford fire-whistle was plainly heard in Westerly.

The motor and force of firemen had returned to Westerly, but was out of the fire headquarters building being re-fueled and oiled when in response to a telephone call Westerly fire whistle was sounded for No. 33, an out of the district call for a second fire at Bradford. The shoe repairing shop of Demetrio Minisci on Main street opposite Bowling lane was found to be on fire.

Assistant Engineer Columbus Pasetti and force of men on the pumper made a quick return trip to the Union street headquarters building and as the hose was out of the motor apparatus a change was made to the Ahrens-Fox pumper and the trip to Bradford begun. The Westerly firemen on arriving at Bradford found the fire to be under control and that their services were not needed. The return to the Westerly station was made at 12:30.

The fire department of the B. D. A. plant by prompt response prevented serious fire loss. Three pay envelopes which were under a sofa pillow made their disappearance during the fire and which were not located by the searching firemen proved to be the greatest loss.

ATTEMPTS SUICIDE BECAUSE OF BUSINESS LOSES

(Special to The Bulletin)

WESTERLY, Dec. 7—Hugh a Dunning of 44 Summer street, former Westerly hardware merchant, whose son, Horace A. Dunning, until last fall operated a hardware store in Norwich before going to New London, is a patient at the Westerly hospital suffering from two pistol shot wounds and carbon monoxide poisoning. According to Westerly Medical Examiner Dr. Michael H. Scanlon, these resulted from an attempt late Saturday night to take his own life while temporarily insane. Mr. Dunning, a well-known summer cottager at Misquamicut Beach, was found unconscious in his garage at his beach home by Westerly police shortly after midnight Saturday and rushed to the Westerly hospital. It is expected that he will recover.

Despondency over business losses resulting from fires in Westerly retail hardware stores, the first when burned out in the Rhode Island hotel block fire and a second fire at his store in the Potter-Langworthy block on High street later, together with injuries to his leg received during the fire at the Rhode Island hotel, from which he had not recovered, is thought to be the cause for his act.

Mr. Dunning has a married daughter, Alice, in New York and a son, Hugh, in Florida. Following the closing of his hardware stores in Westerly and East Greenwich, R. I., Mr. Dunning has had an office for the distribution of clothing for the Browning King Co.

Herbert Macomber, district superintendent for United Drug Stores in New York city was a week end visitor at his former home in Westerly , the guest of relatives and friends.

Dr. and Mrs. William A. Hillard returned to their Pawcatuck home on Sunday morning from a trip to Boston, where they attended a reproduction of the Passion Play.

Dr. Edwin R. Lewis left Westerly on Sunday night for Plainfield, N. J., to be the guest of his sister, Mrs. Henry M. Maxson, who observes her 76th birthday today.

Henry G. Cottrell, Westerly taxi driver, returned the past week to his Westerly home from a motor trip to West Point, N. Y., making the return by steam train.

NOTABLE EXPANSION OF BUYING ENCOURAGING FEATURE LAST WEEK

NEW YORK, Dec. 7.—(AP)—Although there may be some holes in the Christmas stocking this year it will scarcely be empty, judging by the reports of retail trade during the first week in December.

Industry continues under diminishing steam, and mercantile agencies charcterize trade reports as "spotty" but over extensive areas there has been a notable expansion of buying. Wholesale merchants are receiving some re-orders for Christmas toys. Colder weather has helped the movement of heavy wearing apparel. Although most merchants report a preference this year for cheaper and more useful lines, even the sorely depressed jewelry trade is noting some pickup.

One of the most confident reports of December trade prospects comes from H. T. Parsons, president of F. W. Woolworth company, who says we have every prospect of a satisfactory December business, as we have the benefit of an extra day during Christmas week more than we had a year ago. If weather conditions throughout the country are at all normal, trade will be greatly benefited, as last year the weather in December all over the country was about as poor as we have ever experienced it. The buying public seems to be more in favor of doing business this year than last, so December should be a good retail month.

Reports of retail sales appearing for November have been about the least favorable of the year, as have many other statistical exhibits for that month. Dollar volume of retail sales, however reflect in part the extensive decline in retail prices. The two largest mail order houses, however, reported declines of about 20 to 25 per cent. from the like month a year ago, which is interpreted as showing pronounced shrinkage of purchasing power in rural areas.

In the steel industry, advances of $1 a ton in prices of heavier products for the first quarter of next year were widely hailed as the most constructive development in some time. It was recalled that a similar move in 1922 marked a step along the way to recovery. Nevertheless, even this increase does not place price schedules on a particularly profitable basis, and it must be tested by the demands of coming months. Iron Age estimated ingot production at 39 per cent. of capacity, a further decline of two points.

The recent increase in copper prices remains untested, although custom smelters have moved their prices up close to the producer's 12 cent level. What copper was sold moved mostly at 11 1-2 cents during the week, although one smelter shaded the price to 11 1-4 later in the week. The troublesome conditions in the oil industry were accentuated with further heaviness of gasoline prices. Royal Dutch officials have urged the industry to follow the example set by the steel and copper industry in efforts to stabilize prices, but since the petroleum industry is less costly controlled than copper and steel, the problem is more complicated than in those industries.

Rapidly increasing operations of the Chevrolet motor division of General Motors have been a stabilizing influence in automobile output although aggregate production for November dropped to a new low for recent years, despite that maker's record output for that month of 44,257 units. It's December schedules call for about 60,000 units, Ford Motor company, however, produced only 52,000 cars in November, less than half the output for November of 1929, and present information indicates the December output will be still lower.

Electric power production and bank clearings as reported for the latest week compared more favorably with the like week of last year than they have for several weeks. Freight car loadings, as reported for the week ended Dovember 22, however showed another substantial decline.

NEW YORK, Dec. 7.—(AP)—New municipal bond issues scheduled for award this week aggregate $24,789,351, representing financing of 54 communities, the Bond Buyer reports. The total compares with offerings of $22,840,000 in this class last week. Among the larger issues are $10,000,000 State of South Carolina Highway bonds to be awarded tomorrow; $4,134,000 Baltimore, Md., 4 per cent Building, Paving and Airport bonds, to be placed Friday, and an issue of $1,300,000 Massachusetts 3 1-2 and 4 per cent Sewage and Water Supply bonds to be placed Monday.

Directors of Duplan Silk Corp., have authorized purchase of not exceeding 50,000 shares of the company's common stock. The corporation also is asking for tenders for the sale to it of additional preferred stock at $105 per share and accrued dividends and for the sale to the corporation of common stock at $14.75 a share. The offer expires Dec. 15.

The bottom of the depression has been passed and improvement, gradual though it doubtless will be, is ahead, says "The Review," published by the Bank of America N. A. The bank points out that the beginning of an upward movement in business, after prolonged depression, is almost imperceptible and that as yet it is impossible to judge how early in the year such a recovery is to be anticipated.

Formation of Chain Store Shareowners, Inc., a semi-fixed investment trust for the common stocks of 35 standard chain store companies, was announced today by Charles E. Merrill, of Merrill, Lynch & Co., investment bankers who have participated in financing for 17 companies.

Formation of a protective committee on behalf of holders of Consolidated Textile Corp., first mortgage 20-year 8 per cent bonds was announced today, following failure of the company to meet the interest instalment due Dec. 1.

Officials of Arthur G. McKee & Co., Cleveland engineers and contractors, announced an arrangement has been made with Whessoe Foundry & Engineering Co., of Darlington, England, under which the British company will act as exclusive manufacturing agent in Great Britain for the manufacture of McKee oil refinery and blast furnace equipment.

New financing announced today for the Stutz Motor Car Co. of America consists of a new issue of 81,974 shares of no par value common stock, of which certain of the present stockholders have agreed to purchase 58,610 shares. The offering is a sequel to the recent capitalization of the company, whereby the common stock was reduced from 296,741 shares to 29,674, each stockholder receiving one new share for each ten held and a warrant to purchase one share for each share of new stock held at $27.50

Broadway Theatre.

"Derelict," the George Bancroft starring picture, which is now playing at Warner Bros. Broadway theatre, is real drama, filmed on a spacious scale. Mountainous ships battling monster seas; terrific tropical storms; a rescue at sea; two vessels crashing head-on in a dense fog.

Bancroft, mighty captain of a coastwise freighter. William Boyd his rival in love and seamanship. Jessie Royce Landis, beautiful, dance-hall girl, buffeted around from port to port, from man to man, seeking harbor at last in Bancroft's heart. Blind he discards her, casts away the love she offers him, too full of vigor and life to pause for love. Until, in a moment of victory, when, with a super-human effort he wrests a human cargo from the grip of the sea, he tastes the exhaltation of love.

Bancroft's terrific man power was never so handsomely cast as it is in "Derelict." The story fairly breathes the tangy salt of the sea. It is a plot of rough sailor men, in strange ports, on isolated seas, and of a woman cast into a world where men fight for and take what they want. "Derelict" is combat and conflict every step of the way from the moment Bancroft steps off his ship into the life of beautiful Jessie Royce Landis, until he snatches her to safety from the submerged deck of his rival's cargo carrier.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Palace Theatre.

Everything is Sunny now in Norwich. It's the talk of the town.

Sparkling in its comedy and filled with the personalities of Marilyn Miller, "Sunny," the First National Vitaphone version of the stage play, opened Saturday at the Palace theatre. From the lines of Marilyn Miller fans at the box office there seems to be but little doubt that this picture will be an even greater success than "Sally."

"Sunny," is something distinct as a picture type. It follows no conventional lines. It is built around the personalty of Miss Miuler, who as the bareback rider in a little circus at Southampton is loved by all, but loves Tom—Lawrence Gray—whom she had met in past years. He is in society and is just sailing from Southampton with his fiancee.

The story then moves on, in a delightful manner that is half serious and half-tomfoolery, to a tran-Atlantic liner. "Sunny" smuggles herself aboard by mistake. One of the highly entertaining sequences is the dock scene, where Miss Miller is in overalls and is mistaken for a stevedore. It is a fine bit of clowning, and proves the star to be a comedienne of the first water.

The picture introduces to the public a new screen name, that of Joe Donahue, brother of the famous Jack, and many others. I know you'll love "Sunny."

Another great double bill coming to the Palace Wednesday til Friday is Charles Bickford, in James Oliver Curwood's famous Northwest story, "River's End," co-feature of "Rain or Shine," with Jock, the musical comedy comedian.

"Aunt Lucia" in Masonic Temple

A dress rehearsal for "Aunt Lucia", the American Legion play which is to be given Monday and Tuesday evenings at the Masonic temple has put the cast in tip top shape for the production which promises to be one of the big laugh-promoting sensations of the season in local amateur theatricals. The entire proceeds are to be given to the United Workers for the use of the family welfare committee in local charity work.

The speaking cast which presents the action of the farce includes: Edward Rich, playing the lead role of a college student, who does a female impersonation and is mistaken for the famous and eccentric "Aunt Lucia;" Elmer Farman and Walter Hitchon as his college fraternity brothers; Elizabeth Thumm, Dorothy Messler and Alice Berry as co-eds; Harold Robbins as a gay old widower, Herbert McNeely as the butter and egg man; Herbert Corey as an eccentric professor; Bernice Willey as the dean of women; E. V. Ross as college president; Mrs. W. C. McKean as his wife and Frank Crowell and Dr. Andrew Sullivan as freshmen.

Robert Enright is the fraternity president and Courtney Pitt acts as cheer-leader.

The Ladies' Aid society met Thursday afternoon with Mrs. Willis I. Copeland.

Mrs. Walter S. Vail had as dinner guests, Saturday, in celebration of her birthday, Mrs. Katherine Clark and Miss Marjorie Doyle of Hartford, Mrs. George E. Snow and Miss Betty Chapman of Chaplin.

Mrs. Peter Chick left this week for a visit with relatives in Waterbury, Danbury, Norwalk and New Haven.

Mrs. Makepiece of Putnam, in the interest of home economics, gave instructions to several in the various kinds of caning chairs, rockers and crickets at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Alfred F. Siswick, Tuesday.

Miss Cecelia England of New York was at the home of her mother for Thanksgiving.

Stricken in Florida

The many friends of Mrs. Walter E. Lanphear sorrowed to learn that she had been stricken with a shock at Melbourne, Fla., early this week. Rev. Mr. Lanphear is supplying a pulpit there. A later telegram reports Mrs. Lanphear as slightly improved.

PRESTON

At the Baptist church Sunday Dec. 14 the speaker will be Rev. O. B. Campbell, subject, "Workmen Approved of God." During the Sunday school hour there will be a stereopticon lecture on Character Values of Summer Camp Conferences. Rev. Mr. Campbell comes in connection with Sunday school work.

A number from this place attended the service at the Central Baptist church Sunday evening for the service of songs by the Fisk Jubilee singers.

The Congregational Missionary society was entertained at the home of Miss Annie MacClimon on Tuesday afternoon, the hostesses being Mrs. A. E. Shedd and Miss MacClimon. A most interesting letter was read from Rev. Mr. Bunker telling of his recent trip to Africa. Some time ago Mr. Bunker gave a stereopticon lecture on his work in Africa. For the home missionary part of the pragram, there was reading about the Veterans of the Cross and announcement was made that a special offering for this cause will be taken next Sunday.

French Touch In New Hat

Some of the season's millinery shows French Revolutionary influence. The tricorn hat here is worn over one eyebrow by Carole Lombard. It is trimmed with braided ribbons of red, white and blue.

GIRLS STEP INTO HOSTESS ROLES ONCE HELD ONLY BY OLDER WOMEN

WASHINGTON. Dec. 7—(AP)—Girl hostesses, stepping into social positions once claimed only by mature women, now range in age from 19 to 24.

With ease they thread their way through the red tape of officialdom and preside gracefully at the most important functions.

The latest to assume the role is Miss Cynthia Davis, 19-year-old daughter of Dwight F. Davis, governor general of the Philippines. A Washington debutante last year, Miss Davis will be head of her father's executive mansion in Manila this winter.

Miss Alice Davis, 22, who has been acting in that capacity for a year past will spend the winter with her mother in France, where Mrs. Davis has been for some time for her health.

Horseback riding, swimming and tennis take up much of the time of the governor general's daughters when they are not presiding at his state dinners or informal teas.

Miss Sue Pollard, daughter of the governor of Virginia, is another example of the modern girl who efficiently assumes social command when her mother is unable to do so.

Mrs. Pollard has been an invalid for some time, but the vivacious dark-haired Sue has successfully dispensed the Virginia brand of hospitality at the governor's mansion in Richmond.

CALIFORNIA SCHOOL NAMED AFTER FOUNDER OF P.-T. A.

SAN DIEGO, Dec. 7—(AP)—Mrs. Alice Birney, founder and first president of the national Parent-Teacher association, has a school named for her.

The new state college elementary school here has been designated by the board of education the Alice Birney school.

Mrs. Birney, a native of Georgia, conceived the Parent-Teacher association idea in 1896 and founded the first group in Washington, D. C., in 1897. She was made the first president. The organization she created has a national membership of more than 1,460,000.

During the later years of her life Mrs. Birney made her home in California.

PARIS LIKES JEWELS FASHIONED TO ORDER

PARIS, Dec. 7—(AP)—Costume jewelry now is assembled according to the ideas of the client.

Several costume jewelers here, some of them supplying large dressmaking establishments, are doing a brisk business making up special ornaments after customers' designs.

There are large trays of decorative beads to choose from and jewelry already made up to suggest possible combinations at these specialty shops.

MANY QUILTS ARE FOUND IN DEAD LETTER OFFICE

WASHINGTON, Dec. 7—(AP)—Many homemade quilts, carefully stitched by aged fingers from Maine to California, go astray in the mails.

At public auctions held by the postoffice department much fine needlework is sold.

Old-fashioned patch-work quilts suggesting four posters and candle light as well as more modern appliqued designs adorn the postoffice walls for a day, then are snapped up by some woman purchaser.

Guiding Your Child

By Mrs. Agnes Lyne

Christmas Spirit

The spirit of Christmas cannot be evoked merely by extravagant shopping.

If Christmas morning is to bring anything but a feverish opening of tissue-wrapped packages and a counting of new possessions, parents must have prepared for the occasion with something more than gifts.

In those homes in which the celebration of Christmas is still colored with religious feeling, the use of ritual, the attendance at church services, the manner in which the Christmas story is told, bring to the child readily the feeling of reverence, of sharing in an experience of spiritual beauty.

But even in homes where the strictly religious significance of Christmas is not felt, the child may still know something of creative joy and beauty in its celebration.

All children appreciate the joys of Christmas day far more intensely if they have contributed to their preparation. They should be encouraged to give gifts made with their own hands, or at least to save their allowances to buy gifts for those who are close to them.

With older children the old-fashioned idea of giving to those who have little still produces a glow of spiritual pleasure.

"Filling stockings for the poor," is a good way of letting children express those feelings of good will, generosity and compassion.

The Christmas spirit is cultivated, too, by permitting the children to take an active part in preparing the pleasures which all will share at home—helping to bake the Christmas cakes and make ices, shelling nuts, gathering green boughs to decorate the house—all these help to add a special quality to the delights of Christmas.

OLDER WOMEN ADVISED NOT TO CHANGE JOBS OFTEN

WASHINGTON, Dec. 7—(AP)—Women should stick to one employer after their first 15 years of working life.

A survey by the national federation of business and professional women's clubs shows that the middle-aged woman who frequently changes employment is likely to find herself jobless or working for an inadequate wage.

Women are valuable in the business world for a working period of at least 30 years, the survey shows.

ENGLISH GIRLS TO HEAR LECTURES ON COURTSHIP

LIVERPOOL, Dec. 7—(AP)—Lectures on the problems of the young girl in business with particular stress on courtships are being arranged for presentation at lunch hours here.

Sponsored by the women's section of the Alliance of Honor the lecture course will be delivered in a hall seating 2,000.

According to plans of the organizers, the series will be an endeavor to find the happy medium between assurance and inexperience.

Prefers School To Debut

WASHINGTON, Dec. 7—(AP)—Caroline Hyde, daughter of the secretary of agriculture, has given up a debut this season to enter the University of Michigan, her father's old alma mater.

It's a Woman's WORLD

ICIE G. MACY

Mixing chemicals in a laboratory instead of cake dough in a kitchen has won for Miss Icie G. McCay two offices never before held by a woman.

She has been elected head of the division of biological chemistry of the American Chemical society—and also head of the society's Detroit division.

But she's interested in the kitchen too. She is in charge of nutrition research laboratories of the Merrill-Palmer school and of the children's hospital of Michigan. In addition to three other degrees, Miss Macy has a doctorate of philosophy from Yale.

PLAIDS SWEEP STYLE HORIZON— THEY'LL BE CHIC IN SPRING, TOO

PARIS, Dec. 7—(AP)—Winter sports clothes are hailed as forerunners of what spring will offer in the way of color combinations.

The kilts of St. Moritz and Lake Placid look like advance agents for checked skirts and plain basque jackets of next spring's Easter parade.

Reversing it, plaid jackets and plain skirts also are plainly viewable on the style horizon.

And sport togs are not the only plaid in present styles.

One daytime costume of an important dressmaking house with a social register clientele is a black duvetyn three-quarter coat over a black and white shepherd's plaid skirt.

Scotch plaid lined and trimmed coats also are a factor to consider in styles which have succeeded here in a big way.

For casual blouses—blouses to wear with almost any sport skirt—chic sportswomen are voting en masse for pail wool jerseys of feather lightness.

The same plaids are worked up in scarf and beret combinations. Normandy checks play the same role as plaids in playtime fashions.

AUSTRALIAN GIRLS GLAD TO GET JOBS AS $3 SERVANTS

SYDNEY, Australia. Dec. 7—(AP)—Thousand of girls in Australia have deserted the ranks of unemployed for domestic jobs that pay $3 weekly and a home.

They've done it gladly, too, for many were ill-equipped for any other sort of work.

Toward the $3 wage the government pays a subsidy of $1. Thousands of dollars are being spent to relieve distress and unemployment.

A method of solving the serious unemployment among girls and women was probably the biggest problem that faced the government in this connection, but under the dollar subsidy scheme householders who never have employed domestic servants are availing themselves of cheap help.

Many unemployed shop girls and business girls likewise have adopted domestic service rather than no job at all.

FIRST BUSINESS WOMAN WAS PRINTER OF BOOKS

WASHINGTON, Dec. 7—(AP)—Who was the first American business woman?

Jane Aitken printing books in Philadelphia in 1808, so far holds the honor in the search being conducted by the national federation of business and professional women.

Other early business women discovered were Mrs. Elizabeth Timothy of Charleston, S. C., who took over her husband's printing establishment in 1838, and Mrs. Hanna Cole, who operated a ferry across the Missouri river in 1814.

Cape-Like Long Skirts

PARIS, Dec. 7—(AP)—Cape-like long skirts which tie on over pajama trousers continue to interest some of the most important designers.

One of the recent versions of pajamas and detachable skirt has pajamas of pink crepe romain and a transparent skirt of georgette.

Printed Marocain

PARIS, Dec. 7—(AP)—Printed marocain looms up for spring in the advance models shown for Riviera goers.

Patterns are small and regular and colorings are sober and discreet with many combinations of dark colors with white.

Dining Rooms Break Even

WASHINGTON, Dec. 7—(AP)—Dining rooms of women's club houses are at least breaking even, reports made in the yearbook of Women's Club Houses indicate. Very few show a loss, the yearbook says.

May Have Women Police

SHANGHAI, Dec. 7—(AP)—The Shanghai Municipal Council is considering establishment of a unit of women police for duty in the international settlement on the request of the International Women's Union at London.

Fence And Grow Slender

LONDON, Dec. 7—(AP)—Flashing foils are taking the place in Mayfair of tap dancing in Park avenue—they make milady slender. Fencing, particularly good for the waistline, is most popular with the sub-debs.

Hoovers Have "Brown House"

WASHINGTON, Dec. 7—(AP)—In contrast to the imposing white house, Mrs. Herbert Hoover has named the president's cabin at his Rapidan camp the "Brown House."

Club President Honored

WASHINGTON, Dec. 7—(AP)—Indians of the Blackfeet tribe of western Montana have made Mrs. John F. Sippel, president of the General Federation of Women's clubs, a princess. Her tribal name is Princess Red Flower Woman.

Corn Soup, serving 4: 1 cup corn canned, 1-2 cup finely chopped celery and leaves, 2 tablespoons chopped onions, 2 tablespoons chopped pimientos, 1 teaspoon salt, 1-4 teaspoon paprika, 2 cups water, 3 tablespoons butter, 3 tablespoons flour, 3 cups milk.

Mix the corn, seasonings and water. Cook 20 minutes in covered pan over a low fire. Mash well. Melt the butter and add the flour. Add the milk and corn mixture and cook slowly 4 minutes. Serve.

Meat Escallop, serving 6: (Using leftovers) 2 cups diced, cooked meat, 1 cup cooked peas, 1-2 cup cooked carrots, 1-2 teaspoon salt, 1-4 teaspoon paprika, 1-4 teaspoon celery salt, 1 cup milk or gravy, 1 1-2 cups mashed potatoes.

Mix the meat, peas, carrots, salt, paprika, celery salt and gravy. Pour into shallow, buttered baking dish. Spread with the potatoes and bake 20 minutes in moderate oven.

Steamed Raisin Pudding: 2 cups flour, 1 teaspoon soda, 1 teaspoon baking powder, 1 teaspoon cinnamon, 1-4 teaspoon cloves, 1-4 teaspoon salt, 1-2 cup sugar, 1 cup raisins, 1 egg, 1 cup sour milk, 3 tablespoons fat.

Mix ingredients and beat 2 minutes. Half fill buttered mold. Cover tightly and steam 2 hours.

A teaspoon of freshly grated horseradish added to cooked, buttered beets will give a pleasant flavor. This is especially suggested when roast beef is served.

WOMAN IN LIFE AND IN THE KITCHEN

SUGGESTIONS FOR THE HOUSEWIFE

A slice of bread in the doughnut food should scorch, set it immediately and light.

If the white of an egg is beaten to a froth and added to cream it will whip more easily and quickly.

Oysters and fresh fish should be kept very cold. Oysters may be put into covered jars and buried in cracked ice.

To restore leather auto cushions after they have been rained on, and to keep them in good condition, rub linseed oil into them occasionally.

When purchasing buttons for children's clothing, always buy an extra dozen of each kind so that when a button is lost you will find no difficulty in replacing it.

When tablecloths wear thin in the center, cut up the outside into 12 or 16-inch squares and restitch them. These make napkins which will wear for some time.

Always close the piano at night and in damp weather; open it on bright days, and, if possible, let the sun shine on the keys, for the light prevents the ivory from turning yellow.

When frying doughnuts have a dish of boiling water on the stove beside your kettle of fat and as you take the doughnuts out of the fat immerse them quickly in the water. They will not be greasy.

To mend agateware, mix a piece of putty in as much salt as you can. Put it over the hole, then put water in the kettle and set it back on the stove until the putty hardens.

Wash the top crust of pie with four tablespoons of evaporated milk into which the yolk of an egg has been beaten. This mixture will keep a week if placed in a cup in the refrigerator.

If you do not use a double boiler, and oatmeal or any other article of food should scorch, set it imediately in a vessel of cold water. Let it stand five or 10 minutes and the scorched taste and odor will disappear.

Dry mops may be oiled or oiled mops renewed by pouring a few drops of light lubricating oil or any good floor oil into an old dish or tin box and setting the mop on this for a day or two, or the mop way be sprinkled with a little oil and allowed to stand until the oil spreads through the strings.

CELLULOID AS A SCRAPER

A piece of celluloid makes a splendid dish scraper. It will quickly scrape all the substance from your mixing bowl, as it readily shapes itself to any container, and will clean it in the minimum amount of time. A further advantage is that it is very easy to wash.

PARING VEGETABLES

Do not take too thick a paring off potatoes. The best part of the potato is near the skin. On the other hand, parings from turnips should be thick. The turnip has an outer part that destroys the flavor of the whole if not thoroughly removed.

HEALTH AND BEAUTY

Sneezing can be stopped by swallowing three or four tablespoons of milk slowly.

If the skin is oily, wash daily with hot castile soap suds. Rinse in hot and then cold water. Do not eat fats, and drink plenty of water.

Lemon and glycerine mixed together make a wonderful hand lotion which should be kept in kitchen and bathroom. It bleaches and heals chaped hands.

A rubber bathing cap is excellent to use while dusting. It protects the hair much better than a cloth cap. It is particularly valuable when working with kerosene, gasoline, or anything that might leave an odor on the hair when the hands touch it.

TOBY JUGS

There is something so quaint about these fat little Toby jugs with their amusing faces and funny little hats—that two of them placed, one at either end of the mantel, would give a room just the bit of loveliness it needs.

BIRD GARDEN

As winter comes on, you should make a little window garden for your bird. Plant just a few grass seeds in a square box so that you can put the cage down over it when it grows and let your bird hop about on real ground.

RED LACQUER

A tray to hold all one's writing materials, and which may be placed on the top of a modernistic desk is of red lacquer with raised ends done in eggshell lacquer. Its distinction is hard to describe in mere words.

THEIR VERY OWN

Simple modernistic bookplates for children will add a sense of possession to the library in the nursery.

TO KEEP PLANTS FROM FREEZING

The greatest danger to plants is not from cold, but from alternate freezing and thawing, and exposure of the tops to warm sunshine and drying winds while the ground is still frozen. The best all-round material for covering is coarse marsh hay, such as is used for packing glassware. Soft-wooded leaves, such as maple, become matted and when wet will smother the plants; oak leaves do not mat down as badly.

Covering should not be put on till the ground is frozen, and then it must go on promptly. In applying the material, a four to six-inch layer is usually sufficient. It should be held in place by strips of wood, tree branches and similar things. Where snow is on the ground all winter one of the chief reasons for covering is to keep it from blowing away and exposing the plant.

DICTATES OF FASHION

Horizontal trimmings are much in use.

Closely draped turbans rival the matching beret.

Wool crepe dresses continue to be worn and green is a favorite color.

Nightingale and mauve beige are two new shades exploited for French stockings.

Fur and tweed handbags to match the costume are featured in smart specialty shops.

Belts are highly important this winter and many take the form of twisted girdles.

Velvet with either silk or wool crepe is a popular combination of the moment.

The tweed shoe, real or simulated, is registering for winter wear and is usually strapped with leather.

New bags to carry with tailored street costumes are of fine sharkskin, in harmonizing colors, piped with gold kid. They are medium size and flap over in a new and interesting fashion. Each bag of course has beautiful fittings.

The tweed suit is not complete without a number of gay little blousettes developed in dotted callicos and cotton.

GLOVES OF WOOL

Since gloves have become so completely fashion and ensemble conscious, whether one should wear the short pigskin gloves or the longer suede gloves with the tweed suit is a serious question. Now comes word of new woolen gloves to ensemble with tweeds. The fabric used appears in flecked colorings simulating tweeds.

TUCKING ADORNS FROCKS

Whether your newest frock is silk or wool it is probably adorned with a bit of tucking. Sunburst tucking at the neck to make the tucking fit perfectly, horizontal tucking for decorative effect, a diagonal tuck or two, these distinguish the new frock for daytime or evening.

VELVETS

Heavy velvets are employed for long, graceful evening wraps and for afternoon ensembles that are richly trimmed with long-haired furs. Sheer velvets are colorful, and the velvet brocades are among the loveliest of the formal fabrics. The afternoon mode suggests velvet in the lighter weaves, flat crepe and metallic chiffons that are kind to the skin.

DIGNITY

It is smart to look dignified and ladylike, and so the woman of conservative taste can find glad raiment just as easily as the joyous flapper.

Separate coats and dresses, you know, are being shown in quantities by all the Paris couturiers and this is a boon to women too busy to make the art of dressing their prime occupation.

A long, dark, cloth coat trimmed with fur may be worn with a number of different frocks with equally smart effect.

HERE'S A HALL WITH ATMOSPHERE OF CHEER

The right decorations make this small hall appear larger.

By Hope Hammond.

Here is an unpretentious hallway that has been endowed with a welcoming sense of cheer, convenience, practicality and good taste.

One ornament that is a most satisfying convenience is the electric clock attached to the wall above the bottom stair landing.

The hall although only seven feet by eleven, appears much larger, owing to the fact that it contains no furnishings except the clock and a pine bench in a niche close to the stairs.

This illusion of spaciousness also is helped by walls of rough plaster, reflecting light from the stairway windows.

Decorative features are provided by two gray hunting prints on the wall, an English coach lantern hanging from the ceiling, and a basket of lively green ivy high up in the corner of the staircase.

Rough plaster in yellow on the walls reflects a cheerful atmosphere at all hours.

The floor here is covered with a heavy domestic rug in a shade known as "briar," and the same material is used for the stairs. Each stair is covered with a separate rug—a method that facilitates cleaning.

Each unit of the rug is bound and faced on all edges with an attractive inch-wide worsted braid of mingled blues and henna. The front edge is finished with a narrow fringe of block colors to match. Ends of the hall rug are bound with the same braid as used for the stair carpets.

Two pairs of hemstitched casement curtains are used for the stairway windows. Exceedingly sheer melon-toned mohair gauze provides a sympathetic fabric for this purpose.

ACTIVITIES OF WIFE OF NEW ENGLAND'S CABINET MEMBER

(Special to The Bulletin)

WASHINGTON, Dec. 7 — Mrs. Charles Francis Adams, wife of the distinguished secretary of the navy, bids fair to be the most tactful and generous hostess in the administration set, judging from the way the official social season has opened.

When entertaining out at the great mansion which the secretary purchased as his residence during his term of office as a member of the cabinet, ancestors of many generations of distinguished "Adamses"—be sure you spell it that way if you want the favor of this generation—look down on the gay scene with marked approval. You see Mrs. Adams is just the type of woman they would have picked to represent them now. For in her the charm of dignity and cordiality is well blended.

Beginning way back when Washington was president, there has always been an Adams in the front rank of administrative circles—and there is one there now, in the person of the secretary of the navy, who, by the way, often assists Mrs. Adams at her formal receptions.

Mrs. Adams is an enthusiast on water sports; and when the annual champion yacht race was held at Cohasset last summer Mrs. Adams presided over the affair and personally awarded the cup, which she had provided as gift to the local club. Mrs. Adams has long urged women to take up yachting as a sport and this year she presented the Indian Harbor Yacht club with a cup. Mrs. Adams wanted the girls to take part in seagoing and water sports, long before the fashions of today gave them a "square deal" with the middy, in the way of bloomers and no swirling petticoats to get in their way.

Connecticut Notes

Representative Freeman has arrived here but Mrs. Freeman will not join him here till after the holiday's recess, which Mr. Freeman will spend with her at their home in New London.

Col. John Q. Tilson of New Haven has taken an apartment at the Mayflower. Mrs. Tilson is coming here for the season after the holiday recess. The colonel will spend the Christmas holiday at home with Mrs. Tilson and the three children.

Mrs. Hoover was an interested attendant at the recent exhibit of sculpture of Susanne Silvercruys, wife of Mr. Henry Farnum of New Haven. Mrs. Farnum is a sister of Robert Silvercruys former counselor of the Belgium embassy here, but now attached to the Belgium embassy at Tokio, Japan.

Representative and Mrs. Edward W. Goss of Waterbury came just before the convening of congress, where Mr. Goss succeeds the late James P. Glynn as member of the house from the 5th Connecticut district. They have taken an apartment at the Mayflower. Mrs. Goss remaining but a short time, returning to Connecticut to be with the four Goss children who are at school in Waterbury.

Senator and Mrs. Bingham had with them over the Thanksgiving holiday their son, Brewster Bingham, now a student at Yale.

Representative and Mrs. E. Hart Fenn had their holiday guests their son Francis T. Fenn of West Hartford, who is on his way west for a hunting trip.

Mrs. Hiram Bingham was an assistant hostess at the tea given a few days ago by Baroness Kroff for the presentation to Washington society of her daugter.

Several of distinguished Washingtonians spend Thanksgiving in Greenwich, Connecticut, as holiday guests of Mrs. Alfred J. Brousseau, former president general of the D. A. R.

HOME-MADE APPLE BUTTER RAISES FUND FOR CHURCH

PITTSBURGH, Dec. 7—(AP)—Women of the Carnegie Episcopal church were discussing fund-raising to obtain money for completing a new $80,000 church.

The answer was apple butter.

The women went about their business on a large scale. Large kettles were obtained and placed in the yard of one of the members, and many women gathered to assist in the operations.

After much stirring, tasting and fire building the net result was gallons of apple butter, with a "home-made" label—and it found a ready sale.

Cavalier Cuff Gloves

PARIS, Dec. 7—(AP)—Gloves with cavalier cuffs are an alternative for elbow length gloves.

Most of the cavalier cuffs are embroidered or trimmed with incrustations of contrasting color.

LAUNDRY HINTS.

To avoid ironing, and to hold the shape, dry hats on an inverted bowl of the proper size.

Linen that is wrung through the clothes wringer produces wrinkles that are sometimes very difficult to remove with the iron.

Remove peach stains from linen by soaking the spots in a weak solution of chloride of lime. Apply cream of tartar and place in the sun to dry. Then wash.

When white clothes have turned yellow with much washing, put them in the boiler, half full of water, to which a handful of salt and washing soda has been added. Bring this to a boil and keep simmering for some hours. Rinse the clothes in plenty of cold water and hang them in the sun to dry. Clothes treated in this way will be perfectly white.

ON USING A NEW WAFFLE IRON.

In using a new waffle iron for the first time, it is usually necessary to pre-heat it for about fifteen minutes to sterilize it. Except in cases where it is so stated, the grids should then be brushed over with oil. This is done only upon the first occasion, and need never be repeated. Then pour in sufficient batter to make one waffle—about six tablespoons is usually right—and bake it. When it is done, throw it away. The first waffle will clean off the iron thoroughly. You can then go ahead and bake and eat the rest of the waffles. Do not wash the grids after using the iron. Let it cool, brush offf any crumbs and set it away. It needs no further attention.

LINGERIE COLLARS.

Even if you cannot readily detach the lingerie collar and cuffs from a dark silk dress, they can be kept dainty and crisp at all times.

First make a compact roll of the dress and wrap it securely in a towel, letting only the collar protrude. Place this on the ironing board or some other flat surface and go over it with a brush that has been dipped in thick warm soapsuds, brushing away from the neckline. When the dirt has been removed, rinse the collar several times with a cloth wrung out of clear warm water.

CONCERNING WOMEN.

Poland now has 50 policewomen.

Cuba is establishing a technical school to train women for industrial employment.

Seventy-two women now hold the rank of commissioned officers in the red army of Russia.

Geisha girls in Japan are now employed to accompany boating parties to sea, serve drinks and provide entertainment for a fee of one yen an hour.

The third generation of her family to follow the hotel business, Mrs. Winnifred F. Reynolds, is owner and operator of the leading hotel at Blytheville, Ark.

Ever since she was able to mount a horse, Mrs. John Van Schaik Bloodgood, of Setauket, Long Island, who is one of America's few masters of hounds, has ridden side saddle.

Because menfolk are at work, women of Chalfo, Pa. have organized a fire company of their own for the protection of property. A big fire truck will be driven by Mary Fedoris.

CLEANING THE STOVE

To keep the stove clean rub off all grease with newspaper while stove is still hot. When the stove needs polishing use a paint brush and thus avoid getting your hands soiled. You can also reach the small crevices more readily with the brush.

TREATING CANDLES

Take a candle by the wick and give it a coating of white varnish, then put it away to dry for several days. When lighting the candle this prevents the grease from running down the side and the candle will last twice as long.

NEW VOGUE FOR VEILS STRIKES PARIS STYLES

PARIS, Dec. 7—(AP)—French women seem to have changed their minds about veils.

When milliners first launched them more than a year ago, the vogue blazed merrily for a time and then burned itself out. They were called "whoopee veils." The smart few said that the wrong persons were wearing "whoopees."

Now the pendulum suddenly has swung to the other extreme. Some are wearing sheer short veils that just clear their eyebrows. Usually they are closely fitted and without pattern.

Blue For Business

For the business girl this bolero dress model in blue and white bemberg is extremely chic. The jacket has a distinctive cut, and there are small pockets on each side of the dress.

Sable With Lace

WASHINGTON, Dec. 7—(AP)—Mrs. Henry L. Stimson, wife of the secretary of state, at a recent garden party wore a lace gown of sapphire blue with the skirt made in tiers. Her hat was of thin black straw and she wore a sable scarf about her neck.

Wealthy Shun Elevators

WASHINGTON, Dec. 7—(AP)—Many wealthy patrons of capital banks like climbing stairs for exercise. Elevators installed in leading banks stand idle much of the time while the patrons climb stairs.

MANY HOMES IN NEED OF REPAIRS NOW

Homes acquired after years of planning and saving are often neglected. Upkeep is disregarded until the need for repairs reaches serious proportions and then the expense entailed is often considered too great to undertake at one time. Five out of seven homes in this country are at the present time in need of repair work. A large proportion of these could be improved at comparatively small cash outlay if home owners would look into one of the modern methods of financing for modernizing operations.

Roof repairs should not be put off until the second floor ceilings are ruined. If however such damage has been done an entirely new roof will be the most practical remedy. Painting is another exterior job which will improve the appearance of a house and preserve the wood shingles or siding.

No matter how trim and well-kept a home may be there are always ways to improve it. For instance another room in the attic will provide additional living space. The upstairs porch closed in would make a charming summer bedroom. It is a simple matter to convert the cellar into a comfortable usable room—to add an extra bathroom—to build a picturesque summer house.

An open fireplace in the living room would contribute greatly to the charm and hospitality of this room.

By discussing his home with a local contractor, builder, architect or building supply dealer the home owner can soon find out how his home can be brought into step with the progressive trends in small house architecture and decoration. Even the old-time "ginger-bread" architecture has in many cases been transformed into the most modern of residences. And of course houses built since mauve decade days can more easily and inexpensively be brought up-to-date.

Any home that is worth living in is worth keeping up. In this day of gay color in homes, clothes and art, no housewife will be content with dull monotonous rooms. Kitchen equipment with its colored sinks, refrigerators, cabinets, furniture and even stoves is more attractive and many times more convenient than the older types. New wallpaper or other kinds of wall finishes will brighten up the dining room, living rooms or bedrooms and hallways, making the home seem like an entirely new one.

INGLE NOOK HELPS TO MODERNIZE HOME

Not so long ago a seat by the fire was the coveted place in any room on blustery winter days. The charm of those times often inspires architects to suggest an ingle nook around the fireplace in the basement recreation room. So in a setting very like that in which the squire and his cronies quaffed their ale and retold old tales by firelight both young and the older members of the family can enjoy their books and chats.

The ingle nook is made of two bench-like seats at right angles to the chimney breast. The high backs of these benches, reaching often from floor to ceiling, once built only to keep the warmth of the fire within small compass, are retained because of their picturesqueness. Now, as then, they create a unity with the mantel, making the entire nook appears to be of one piece.

A colorful tiled floor is suggested within the ingle nook, and if the building budget warrants, it might be extended out into the recreation room. The convenience of a telephone in this part of the room can be added.

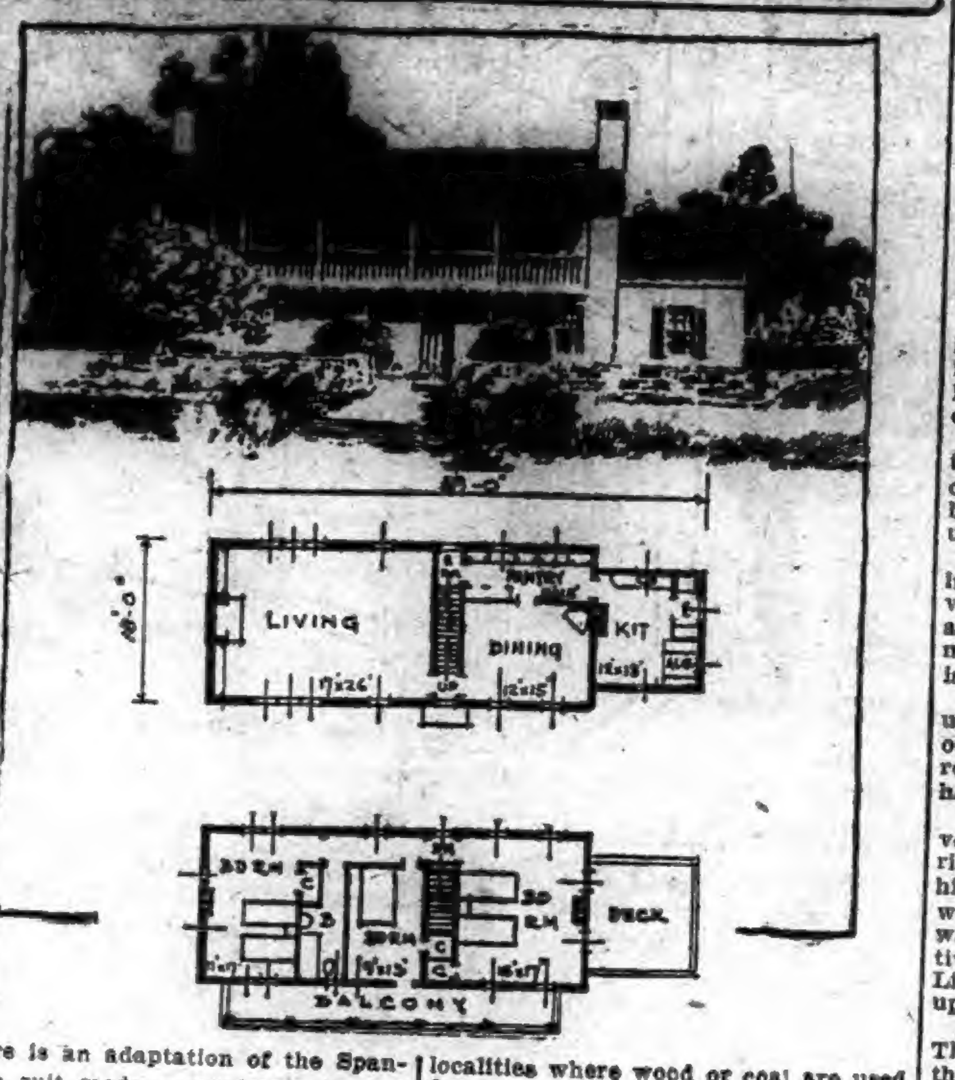
SPANISH TYPE SUITABLE FOR SUNNY CLIMES



Here is an adaptation of the Spanish to suit modern requirements that is well suited to the south, west and southwest.

It is a very logical type for warmer climates. However, many houses of this type also are being built in the north Atlantic coast states at the beaches and resorts for summer homes.

The living room comprises more than half the ground floor area and has ample window space on the eastern front and the western or garden side. A spacious fireplace flanked by ceiling high bookcases adds a pleasing note.

The kitchen and pantry with the service entry make for comfortable meal preparation and serving. Because of the wing the kitchen odors are absent from the balance of the house.

The corner fireplace in the dining room is an attractive feature of the room and the chimney which serves it also serves the kitchen range in localities where wood or coal are used for cooking.

Upstairs are three bedrooms and a bath. If desired, fireplaces may be added on this floor in the two principal rooms.

All three rooms and the bath have windows opening upon the long balcony across the front main portion of the house. The windows in the rooms on this side reach to the floor and serve to allow full use of the balcony.

The exterior wall finish is a warm stucco and the woodwork outside either a weathered French gray or white. The shutters where used are either French gray or light blue green.

Landscaping is an important factor in making the most of this plan and should be carefully studied by competent advisers.

The house can be placed on a lot 75 by 100 or 76 by 150 and is designed to face east. The garage should be at the rear of the lot.

The estimated cost is from $8,000 to $10,000, varying with the owner's choice of materials.

KITCHEN IS NOW UP-TO-DATE ROOM

Heretofore the kitchen and pantry have always been sort of a "tag end" in the building of a home and in most cases was just looked on as sort of a necessary evil and as a result got but little attention. Other parts of the home were developed and beautified, but the kitchen was set off by itself, and looked down upon. Not many housewives would have a visitor come into the kitchen with any feeling of pride.

With this day and age of improvement the kitchen has at last come into its own. The modern kitchen now is really a showplace of the home. New conveniences such as built-in cabinets, colored plaster effects, monel metal sinks that are easily cleaned, labor saving devices, all have helped to brighten up the kitchen and make it a room of cheerfulness and beauty.

Doing away with the old-fashioned pantry is one of the changes in the modern kitchen department. Of course, the function of the pantry still must be supplied and the modern practice is, instead of putting a pantry in a separate room behind a separate door, it is brought into the kitchen by the use of metal cabinets. By using these cabinets, appropriately placed, the storage capacity of the pantry is easily provided becoming much accessible and useful than the old-fashioned way. The varied color schemes in which such cabinets are obtainable do much to modernize and beautify the housewife's rendezvous.

Miss Katherine Perkinson, age ninety, in court at Kenosha, Wis., identified her signature as a witness on a will made sixty-eight years ago. Thomas A. Moran, then a farmworker, drew the will for her brother. Moran later become dean of the University of Chicago law school and was the professor of Judge R. V. Baker, who ordered the will probated after her testimony.

NEW PLASTER HAS ODOR OF CEDAR

By means of a new preparation fragrant cedar closets are now obtained with plaster. A new finish replaces wood at one-fifth the cost, according to the maker of this product. This plaster is said to be a concentrated mixture of genuine Tennessee red cedar wood and other ingredients which form the basis of the cedar fragrance in aromatic red cedar wood.

These materials are blended together into a special plaster which is used as a finishing coat wherever cedar closets are desired in new or old homes. A wall finished with this plaster has, it is claimed, the same amount of lasting cedar fragrance that a similar wall of seven-eighth-inch cedar wood presents.

Fireproof, washable, quickly applied, it is the color of cedar and applicable to situations where the usual cedar closet lining would be difficult to use. The price of one garment ruined by moths would probably more than pay the cost of finishing all closets in the home with this material.

BUILDING SHOWS INCREASE IN CONN. IN OCTOBER

New building and engineering work started in the New England states during the past month reached a total of $29,890,000, while the total for September was $35,309,00, and the total for October, 1929, amounted to $40,040,700, according to F. W. Dodge, corporation. Analysis of the October, 1930, record showed the following distribution $15,241,500 for non-residential buildings, $9,369,600 for residential buildings and $5,288,900 for public works and utilities. Of the non-residential class, $5,916,200 was for educational projects, $1,966,400 for commercial buildings, $1,408,200 for industrial plants and $6,861,700 for all other types of non-residential buildings. New construction work started in this district since the beginning of this year has reached a total of $308,104,900 as against $358,259,000 for the corresponding period of 1929.

Connecticut had $8,342,200 in contracts for new building and engineering work during the past month, according to F. W. Dodge corporation. The above figure compares with $6,359,900 for September and $15,677,600 for October of last year. The October 1930, total included $5,268,800 for non-residential buildings, $2,600,400 for residential buildings, and $473,000 for public works and utilities. Contracts let for new construction in Connecticut during the first ten months of this year amounted to $79,790,800, while the total for the first ten months of last year amounted to $103,78,700.

SALT USEFUL FOR CLEANING CHIMNEY

A common and efficient method of cleaning a chimney is to sweep it with a properly weighted bundle of rags or a brush attached to a rope and worked from the top.

Other methods of cleaning chimneys recommended as simple and efficient are the burning of salt and scrap zinc. The United States Fuel Administration strongly advocates the use of salt. The fire should be put in good condition with a substantial body of hot fuel. Well dried common salt is then scattered over the incandescent fuel in quantity depending upon the size of the furnace. For a household furnace a pound at a time is ample. The dampers should be kept open to maintain the furnace temperature until the fumes entirely disappear. This usually takes about half an hour. The soot is disintegrated by the action of the salt fumes. Scrap zinc thrown on a hot fire is said to remove soot also by disintegration.

KITCHEN BOOKS.

Books in the kitchen are no longer treated as intruders—kept in a drawer or among the spice boxes—but are now conveniently placed on narrow, hanging shelves which, lacquered in bright hues, make a gay bit of color besides the kitchen cabinet. Some of the latest kitchens provide in the tile wall a small niche, on the two or three shelves of recipes, dietetics and other literary aids to the modern cook, all bound in waterproof covers.

The principal use of oak today is for floors. Oak is friendly and companionable and there is something about the very feel of it beneath the feet that suggests comfort and ease.

JUDGE LINDSEY CREATES SCENE IN CHURCH; EJECTED

court judge from the table. The cathedral, one of the most famous churches of the world, buzzed with the voices of richly dressed women and men in formal morning attire.

A hundred or more men and women arose, pushed into the aisles and rushed forward.

A man's voice cried: "Punch him." Another man struck Lindsey over the head.

Profanity was heard. The aisle leading toward the press table at which Lindsey had been sitting and on which he had leaped, filled with pushing, excited worshippers.

Everyone seemed to have forgotten that the church was in prayer; everyone save Bishop Manning who, his back still to his congregation, continued his petition for divine blessing.

The words of prayer were drowned in the hubbub, above which arose the voice of Lindsey, crying: "He lied about me. He had no right to lie about me. This is no house of justice. This is no house of God."

No voice was raised to silence the uproar. The bishop himself remained occupied with his prayer. An effort by reporters seated at the press table to halt the chaos failed.

With his escort of ushers, the Denver advocate of companionate marriage was hustled to a side door. Behind him surged the crowd of men and women. At the top of a wooden stairway leading to the ground four detectives brought through in time to save Lindsey from being pushed headlong upon them.

A woman screamed: "Lynch him." The detectives pushed the crowd back, threatening arrests. Thirty or more persons broke through and followed on a long walk to the police cab in front of the great stone church. They continued their angry shouts.

Finally Detective Lieut. Flood turned and threatened to arrest the next man who spoke.

"But I'm a decent citizen," protested one, "you can't talk to me that way."

Lindsey was rushed to the 100th street police station and held there until the arrival of his attorney, Arthur Garfield Hays. The police at first were going to hold him for $500 bail. Hays persuaded them to release his client on his own recognizance.

Inside the church order was quickly restored. Bishop Manning finished the ascription and called for an unprogrammed hymn, "Fight the Good Fight." The organist could not immediately find the music.

The congregation broke into prolonged applause. There were shouts of "God bless Bishop Manning." It was the second time in history that applause had been heard in the great cathedral and the first time at an actual service. Communion followed.

Asked by police to lodge a charge, Bishop Manning replied: "I will make no charge."

A police officer, however, permitted his name to be used as complaining witness on a summons for Lindsey to answer a charge of disorderly conduct in court tomorrow morning.

Hays said he would cause a subpoena to be issued for the bishop to appear tomorrow. Hays also was trying to get in touch with Clarence Darrow to ask his aid. Darrow was in New York.

Judge Lindsey said if he had been allowed to continue his challenge to Bishop Manning he intended to say, "You read my telegram and my letter to you giving my side of the case, and if you are not sportsman enough to let me be heard, you have no right to hit beneath the belt even if you are a bishop."

He wrote the lines during the bishop's sermon, he said. What he objected to most, he told reporters, was the bishop's remarks about his disbarment by the supreme court of Colorado.

Judge Lindsey said it was the second time in his career that he had been arrested. He was arrested 15 years ago in Denver for what he called "refusal to betray the confidence of a boy charged with murder." He was convicted for contempt of court.

In his sermon Bishop Manning denied he had forbidden Lindsey's speech before the New York Churchmen's league and held his objection to have been legitimate.

"There is in this diocese a little group of clergymen who, with a motive I do not venture to say, have been doing whatever lay in their power to make difficulties for their bishop and to place him publicly in embarrassing situations," he said.

"This group is a very small one relatively, to the whole number of our clergy. It figures little when our diocese gathers in convention, but it figures largely in the newspapers, and it has the constant and active support of a religious journal miscalled Liberal.

"It is time for this unseemly agitation to cease."

Judge Lindsey was accompanied at the church by Symon Gould, director of the League of Public Discussion, his New York manager.

Gould said, "Judge Lindsey will speak Dec. 20. If Bishop Manning appears and wishes to answer the address we promise him he will not be ejected or arrested."

Lindsey was scheduled to speak tonight at Albany, N. Y.

BURGESS BEDTIME STORY

Farmer Brown's Boy Is Angry

Give way to anger if you must,
But first be sure that it is just.
—Old Mother Nature.

Farmer Brown's boy had been a very busy boy. To begin with there were his studies at school and the homework that went with them. Then there were many duties at home, for Farmer Brown's boy had been taught that it was his place to share in the farm work. So he did not have much spare time to roam in the green forest and keep track of what was going on in the old pasture and along the Laughing brook and on the green meadows. Whenever he could slip away without neglecting his duties he did so and enjoyed these trips the more for the fact that he felt they were fairly earned.

So it was that Farmer Brown's boy had not been aware of what was going on around the Smiling pool and along the Laughing brook. There were signs warning hunters and trappers that no hunting or trapping would be allowed there, and Farmer Brown's boy felt that these signs would be respected. He himself would respect such a sign on the land of another and so he expected his own signs to be respected.

One Saturday afternoon he had some spare time and decided to go down to the Smiling pool. "I want to see how Jerry Muskrat and his family are getting along," he explained to Bowser the Hound. "You'll have to stay behind this time old fellow, for you would be sure to scare Jerry or any other members of his family who might be about."

So Bowser mournfully watched his master trudge across the green meadows toward the Smiling pool. In his pockets were carrots and apples which he intended to scatter for the muskrats. It was a little before dusk, which is the time when Jerry and his family and friends delight to come out. Farmer Brown's boy sat down on an old log back of an alder bush. It was a favorite place. Many times had he sat there watching Jerry Muskrat going about his business and not once suspecting that he was being watched.

The Smiling pool was like a sheet of glass. Not a ripple stirred its placid surface anywhere. From the farther side the black shadows were beginning to creep out. Presently a faint pleasant odor of musk reached the nose of Farmer Brown's boy and he smiled. Jerry or Mrs. Jerry or some member of the family must be near. Then he heard a faint splash up the Laughing brook. A moment or two later a brown head appeared moving out into the Smiling pool. It was headed toward the big rock.

"That isn't Jerry," thought Farmer Brown's boy. "It isn't quite big enough for Jerry. It must be one of his children. Hello! Here comes another."

Sure enough another muskrat was swimming out from Jerry Muskrat's house. He was swimming straight toward Farmer Brown's boy. Just beyond the alder, behind which the latter was sitting was a little landing place made long ago by Jerry Muskrat. It was toward this that the swimmer was headed. Farmer Brown's boy held his breath, or almost held it.

"That isn't Jerry," thought Farmer Brown's Boy

He took care not to move so much as a finger. It was very still there and he heard faint squeaks from up the Laughing brook and down the Laughing brook and across the Smiling pool. The muskrats were talking. He wished he could understand what they said. Of one thing he was certain and this was that they did not suspect his presence. There wasn't a suggestion of suspicion or fear in those squeaky voices.

The swimmer coming toward him was very near now. Perhaps he would come out on that little landing. He was so near now that that queer tail rapidly moving from side to side could be plainly seen. It was a young muskrat. Farmer Brown's boy could tell this by his size and appearance.

"He must be one of Jerry's last family," thought Farmer Brown's boy. "Probably he'll spend the winter in that house over there with his father and mother."

Just then the young muskrat reached the little landing and started to climb out. He made hard work of it. He was clumsy. Farmer Brown's boy thought this queer. Then the young muskrat turned as he sat up and Farmer Brown's boy saw that he had only a stump where one of his front legs should have been. A wave of anger swept over Farmer Brown's boy. "Some one has been trapping here," he thought. "I must look into this. Poor little fellow! How you must have suffered before you got free from that trap. If I can catch that trapper he'll wish he never had set a trap. Yes, sir, he will so."

POETRY

Joy And Confidence

"Cast of away your confidence, which hath great recompense of reward."—Heb 10: 35.

Your sorrow shall be turned into joy.—John, 16: 20.

Sing, Pilgrim on Love's blissful road,
Nor mingle sad notes with thy song,
Weary—not he who walks with God,
For strength and joy with Him belong.

Low, minor strains in hymns betray
Christ's easy yoke not proving light,
Yet we are Children of the Day,
Redeemed from sin and death's dark night.

The Pilgrim's Song's a Song of Grace
(Not of good works that self has done),
With joy caught from the Father's face
When Love brought home His long lost son.

This joy sustains Christ's All in All,
They faint not on life's toilsome way,
On eagle wings they mount, nor fall
Though higher flights they dare essay.
Wait thou on God, strength He'll renew,
Push on across the desert sand,
Full soon thou'lt climb thy Pisgah—view
The glories of fair Canaan's land.

Then tune once more thy harp's loose strings
Pilgrim on Zion's sunlit way,
"My Joy I Give You" clear it rings,
Believe Christ's word, nor from it stray.

My trump I sound, echoes will ring!
My cup with joy is brimming o'er,
Of Christ's great love, love I to sing,
In Christ I glory, evermore.

—By Rev. George G. Phipps.

NEW LONDON-NORWICH NEGROES FIGURE IN NORWALK SHOOTING

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Dec. 7—Two former New London Negresses, a Norwich Negro and another Negro who claims to reside in this city are under arrest at Norwalk, in connection with a shooting that occurred there early today. The Negro, who gave his residence at 45 Hill street, New London and who identifies himself as John Henderson James, is charged with assault with intent to kill. There is no 45 Hill street and James is not known among the Negro residents of that street. He is believed t. be a resident of New Haven, for a Negro from that city was arrested here last August charged with driving while under the influence of liquor.

The Norwich Negro is Robert Scott, also known to the New London police, but who has not been residing in either Norwich or New London for several months. The Negresses are Evelyn Mendez and her sister, Monica Mendez, alias Jubrey. The women are known to the New London police and the Jubrey woman was arrested here several months ago charged with being the proprietress of a disorderly house on Golden street.

James, when arrested here, had been with John Simington, another Negro residing in Essex. They had been on a spree and while driving through Bank street, their auto collided with a car driven by an Ohio woman. Simington was driving, but when the crash occurred ,he turned the car over to James and the former fled. James was arrested as the drunken driver, but when Simington was later arrested by state police in Waterford, it developed that the latter and not James was at the wheel when the crash took place. Simington was fined $100 and costs and James was released.

Lost, Recovered, Lost Again

Peter Kapsalaris, 13, residing at 74 West Colt street, who ran away from home last Friday, was found early today by Automobile Patrol Officer Elwood Bailey and returned to his home, but the youth again fled and has not been found. The boy disappeared last Friday evening. When he failed to return home Saturday his mother requested the police to make a search for him. He was found shortly after last midnight and taken to his home by Officer Bailey. During conversation between the officer and the boy's father, Peter ran from the house and is still absent.

Thomas McElarney, 377 Bank street, has returned home, having attended the funeral of his mother in New Brunswick, N. J.

Patrolman Anthony Turello in making his rounds on Bank street this morning discovered a window of the Schwartz Furniture company, unlocked. A member of the firm was notified and secured the window.

Patrolman George Perkins is confined to his home, 151 Norwood avenue by illness, but not of a serious nature.

FUNERAL

Albert F. Crumb

The funeral of Albert F. Crumb was held this afternoon at 2 o'clock at his residence, 80 Ransdall street, Groton and was attended by a large gathering of mourners, including many members of the Groton Heights Baptist church, of which Mr. Crumb was senior deacon. The services were conducted by Rev. George R. Atha, pastor of the church. The honorary bearers were William O. Perkins, David Bosworth, Albert E. Cone, C. Tyler Lanphere, Washington S. Morgan and Adin Watrous. Burial was in Col. Ledyard cemetery, Groton.

Beat Up Chas. Bosky

John Sawicki, 20, of 34 Winthrop street, was arrested last night charged with intoxication and breach of the peace and will be in court Monday. In default of a surety on his bond, Sawicki was locked up. Sawicki was arrested by Automobile Patrol Officers George Cockell and Clarence Martin on Main street, after he had brutally beaten Charles Bosky, 17, of 49 Lewis street. Bosky will be a witness against his antagonist tomorrow.

Two men, charged with intoxication, were arrested Saturday night, the former on Bank street and the latter on North Bank street. The arresting officers were Automobile Patrol Officers George Cockell and William Corcoran.

Posts Bond of $35

Henry Wieble, Scarsdale, N. Y., was arrested today by State Police Officers John Smith and Donald Brown charged with reckless driving. He posted a bond of $35 to insure his appearance in the police court Monday. Wieble was arrested on Main street, corner of Crystal avenue and with him were three girls and two male companions.

Robert Bailey, a carpenter, residing on Crystal avenue, was arrested early today charged with intoxication and breach of the peace. He posted a bond of $35 for his apearance in court tomorrow. Bailey went to Ye London grill, about 1 o'clock and a half hour later created such a disturbance that one of the waiters, Charles Whitman made complaint to the police and the disturber was arrested by Automobile Patrol Officer Augustus Ray.

A Shapely street laborer, who has a police court record and who was in court about three weeks ago, will be there again Monday for he was arrested Saturday night charged with intoxication by Automobile Patrol Officer Clarence Martin and Patrolman Frank Philopena. He is at liberty, having provided a surety on his bond of $25.

Donald G. Mitchell, 5 Granite street was arrested Saturday night by Patrolman Ernest Opperman charged with passing an automatic danger signal, corner of Main street and Crystal avenue. He was ordered to present himself in court Monday.

Fred Ruhland, 33 Duane street, Farmingdale, N. Y., was arrested Saturday night by Patrolman Harold Goldberg charged with parking on Pearl street, which street is restricted to parking. Ruhland posted a bond of $5 and will be in court Monday.

Walter Ryder, 210 North Bank street, was arrested Saturday night by Patrolman Harold Goldberg charged with parking in restricted area on Green street. Ryder posted a bond of $2 and will explain in court Monday.

Cut Out of Traffic

Paul A. Martin, R. F. D., Bethel, Vt., was arrested this afternoon charged with reckless driving and ordered into court Monday morning. Martin was driving on the New London-Norwich highway and at a terrific rate of speed. When near the city line, he drove from traffic and passed a string of autos, Martin driving at such a high rate of speed that his car was swaying from side to side. State Police Officers William E. MacKenzie and James Dygert were patrolling the highway and when they observed Martin they gave chase and finally overtook him. He was released upon furnishing a surety on his bond of $35.

FOUND JOHNSON DIAMOND— J. W. WALSH WAS GIVEN $1,000

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Dec. 7—John W Walsh, of 188 Crystal avenue and who died Friday night at Lena hospital, many years ago received a reward of $1,000 for finding a diamond belonging to Mrs. Mary T. Johnson, of Chicago, former prominent resident of Norwich. Mrs. Johnson was in a throng of Yale-Harvard boat race attendants at the Union station and while on the platform lost the diamond. It was found by Walsh, then a youth, who ascertained the owner of the stone and returned it to Mrs. Johnson, with the result that he was liberally rewarded for his honesty.

WILLIMANTIC BOY LOST BUT FOR A SHORT TIME

A Syrian boy of six and residing in Willimantic, became lost here this evening when he strayed away from his father, while on State street. The man entered a store to make a purchase and did not take the child with him, with the result that the youngster strayed away. The boy wandered to the corner of Main street and when he was observed loitering there a long time, Patrolman George Bruhns questioned him and decided that the child was lost. The officer accompanied the boy to police headquarters, and a half hour later when the father went there to seek assistance in finding his son, he was greatly relieved when taken to the squad room to find the child being amused by officers.

Several streets in the southern part of the city are in need of the attention of members of the street cleaning department, for culverts and catch basins are filled with leaves and dirt to such an extent that water cannot pass through them and into the sewer.

Signs of Yuletide

Merchants are having the exterior of their display windows and store entrances decorated with wreaths and holly and in another week the decorations should be general, especially at stores on State, Main and Bank streets. Another evidence of the approach of Christmas is the solicitors of funds for the Salvation Army, who are on the business streets during the days with their pots, into which pedestrians drop coins. The solicitors will continue seeking funds until Christmas and the money obtained will be expended in purchasing food and clothing for the city's deserving needy.

Charles F. Tolcott, of Eastern Point, Groton, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles D. Tolcott, has been chosen treasurer of the class of 1935 of Moses Brown school, Providence.

POLICE MISS NABBING BRUTE WHO TERRIFIES GIRL

(Special to the Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Dec. 7—The police attempted tonight the arrest of a dangerous type of annoyer of females, but were not successful, for they were informed of the act of the apparent degenerate too late to bring about his apprehension, although several officers instituted a vigorous search and over a wide area. A girl of 13 was standing in the entrance of the Salvation Army barracks, Main street, about 8 o'clock and was accosted by the fellow, who attempted to engage her in conversation. The fellow attempted liberties with the child, who became frightened and screamed. Her cries attracted the attention of an employe of the Salvation Army who arrived in the doorway just in time to observe the man fleeing through Main street. The fellow was running at top-speed and was followed by the Salvation Army employe to Douglass street. Going through Douglass street, the man passed through the yard at 25 and then to the New Haven railroad tracks and to Water street, continuing along that highway to the East New London yard of the Central Vermont railroad. The pursuer of the brute lost track of the fellow as the latter entered the yard, so he then went to police headquarters where he reported what had occurred. Automobile Patrol Officer Clarence Martin and Patrolmen Harold Goldberg, Michael Dorsey, Anthony Turello and Frank Philopena made a diligent search for the fellow, Goldberg and Dorsey scouring Water street and Martin and Turello going to the railroad yard, while Philopena searched the streets in the vicinity where the fellow was lost sight of. Two men were found, who observed the fleeing man, but they could give but meagre description of him.

ALBERTUS MAGNUS TEA HAD LOCAL INTEREST

The resident students of Imelda Hall, of Albertus Magnus college, New Haven, entertained at a tea dance on Saturday, in celebration of the recent holidays. Dancing lasted from 4 to 7 with an intermission at 5 during which tea was served. Mrs. Eric Blank of New London, and Mrs. Joseph C. Kennedy of Waterbury, were at the tea table, and Mrs. Frank Lee of Danbury, Mrs. William Secor of Waterbury and Mrs. A. Cooke of New London, were among the hostesses. Decorations which were in charge of Miss Muriel Redmond of Stamford, were carried out in the spirit of the holiday, with autumn colors predominating. The committee for the dance included Miss Marion Tubridy of Willimantic, chairman and Miss Nora Booth of New London.

Card Party a Success

It is estimated that $450 was taken in at the bridge party given Friday afternoon at the Pond house for the benefit of the student nurses' welfare fund of Lawrence and Memorial hospital. Eighty tables were in play. The winner of high score at each table was given a prize. The committee in charge consisted of Mrs. Frank B. Walker, chairman; Mrs. Charles Kaufman, Mrs. Ward T. Alling, Mrs. Harold W. Wellington, Mrs. Samuel M. Prentis, Mrs. Waldo E. Clarke, Mrs. Thomas Reilly, Mrs. Clark D. Edgar, Miss Louise Johnson, Mrs. William Savard, Mrs. Alfred Labensky, Mrs. Jennie Garde and Mrs. Maurice E. Sherman.

Mrs. Kaufman, formerly of Norwich, who with a group of student nurses, her daughter Gloria, and Mary Prince, sold candy among the players, cleared about $70.

BUNGLING MESSENGER GETS SULLIVAN IN BAD

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Dec. 7—Maude Pijeaux, colored, of 28 Hill street, was arrested this afternoon charged with conducting a disorderly house. John Sullivan, white, was arrested in the house charged with intoxication. The woman is being held in bail of $200 for presentation in the police court tomorrow and Sullivan provided a cash bond of $50. He also will be in court tomorrow. The arrest of the woman and man was the result of the carelessness of a messenger instructed to perform an errand for Sullivan. Sullivan had been at the Hill street house the greater part of Saturday night and this forenoon. A colored member of the coast guard entered and the latter was requested to go to Huntington street and drive Sullivan's auto, which was parked there, to the residence of the Pijeaux woman. The messenger was supplied with the number of the registration of the auto, but when he arrived at Huntington street he mistook the auto of Dr. Eugene Peck, 138 Huntington street, parked in front of his residence, for Sullivan's car. When the messenger attempted to enter the physician's auto, he was observed and believing that the sailor was endeavoring to steal the machine, the police were notified. Patrolman Fardy speeded to Huntington street in a police auto and arrived there in time to intercept the Negro. When his explanation had been made, the Negro was accompanied to the Hill street house to make a check-up of his story and when the officer and messenger entered the residence Sullivan was there lying on a bed. All three were arrested, but the Negro was allowed to return to the state pier, but will be in court tomorrow, that he can be a witness if his testimony is desired.

BANK STREET NEAR-TOUGHS RUN UP AGAINST LAW

Two of a gang of Bank street sheiks, being a part of a contingent of youths, who cause trouble from time to time for Patrolman Henry Sylvia, were arrested tonight charged with breach of the peace, when the youths refused to obey an order of the officer to move on. As a result the youths were held in bail of $50 for appearance in the police court tomorrow, both obtaining sureties on their respective bonds. Sylvia has received orders to prevent groups of youths congregating in front of stores in the vicinity of Shaw street. Tonight, when Harry L. Shuman and Charles Camaroto were included in an assemblage of six or eight of the young men loitering, they refused to disperse when ordered to do so. Shuman and Camaroto continued to loiter and were arrested.

The arms of an orang-utan are so long that when one of these apes stands erect its hands hang at its ankles.

MONTVILLE

DRIVING WITHOUT LIGHTS, NIANTIC MAN PINCHED

Sherman Stone, of East Lyme, Conn., was arrested by Police Officer Howard E. Lamphere of Montville, Saturday evening on a charge of operating a truck on the state highway without any lights. Stone will do his explaining before the Montville justice court today (Monday) at 10 a. m.

Dinner Follows Christening.

The infant daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Antone Bibick, of Pequot, was christened Sunday afternoon at St. John's church by the pastor, Rev. Father Thomas Lynch, and was named Claire Antoniette. The sponsers were Miss Emma Gauthier and Frank Tryseck. After the ceremony a dinner was served at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Bibick to relatives and family friends.

French Mission To Open.

The four masses Sunday in St. John's church, Uncasville, were offered by Rev. Father Thomas Lynch and Rev. Father Terence P. Finnegan. There will be an anniversary high mass Friday for Wanda Orozette. The first communion class will receive instructions Monday and Friday at 4 p. m. There will be instructions for the children of the upper grade Wednesday at 4 p. m. The French mission will open Thursday evening at 7.30 and will continue for three days: the pastor urged the French-speaking people of the parish and their friends to make the mission. The children of the parish will receive first communion Sunday, Dec. 21st, following the 8.30 mass. A reception was held last Sunday following the 8.30 mass for new members of the Children of Mary and the Rosary and Scapular society, with a good number joining each society.

LOVE-LOYALTY SERVICE HELD AT BAPTISH CHURCH

The special Love and Loyalty service and dedication of the enlistments for the work of the church, of the Union Baptist church, Palmertown, was conducted by its pastor, Rev. Raymond F. Bates. The meeting of the C. E. society was held at 6.30 p. m. at the 7 p. m. Glad Hour services, the pastor closing the day's services with an address on Hidden Light, with special music by the Glad Hour orchestra.

Three Disregard Laws.

As the results of an inspection of motor vehicles, made by State Troopers Fred Johnson and Eric Swanson, of Groton barracks, Sunday afternoon, on the Norwich-New London highway at Uncasville, three violators of the laws will be tried in Montville justice court this (Monday) evening.

Josephine Tryseck has returned to Pequot following a week end trip to Boston and vicinity.

Constantine Pappas, of Uncasville, was a caller in Mystic, Sunday.

Furlough Ends.

First Class Cook Leo Casavant, stationed on U. S. S. Rawleigh, has returned to his ship which is docked at Boston, following a ten days' leave spent with his parents at Uncasville.

Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Kenyon and daughter, of Norwich, spent Sunday with Mrs. Kenyon's sister, Mrs. P. S. Gauthier, of Pequot.

Only one week more remains for the payment of the personal tax in the town of Montville to Collector Harry Watts.

OPENING OF FORTY HOURS' DEVOTION AT ST. MARY'S

The annual forty hours' devotion opened at St. Mary's Memorial church on Sunday morning with large congregations present for the three masses during the day and hundreds receiving the sacrament at the two early masses for the day, namely, at 7:30 and 9 o'clock.

The parishioners heard with much attention the sermons preached at each mass by Rev. Fr. Donahue, on the value of making the devotion and making it well. It was also quarterly holy communion Sunday for the men and boys of the parish. The 7:30 mass was offered by the pastor, Rev. George I. Donahue, the 9th o'clock mass by Rev. Arthur B. Sullivan and the high mass at 10:30 by Rev. Fr. McGuirk. Following the high mass there was the processional through the church when the devotion proper was opened.

To gain the plenary indulgence attached to the devotion, the reception of the sacraments, three visits to the church and prayers for the intention of His Holiness Pius XI are necessary. Visiting priests were assisted the local clergy with the confessions on Sunday afternoon and evening. The visitations to the church were numerous throughout the day and until 8:30 in the evening. The masses for today were announced as being at 5:30, 7 and 8 o'clock. Today, in the church calendar is the feast of the Immaculate Conception, one of the great feast days of the year when the Catholic world will pay special homage to Mary, the mother of Christ.

The church remains open all day today for the visitations and until 8:30 this evening at which hour the devotion closes with the holy hour.

The devotion which is only held once a year in each parish church is held at St. Mary's Memorial church on the second Sunday of Advent. The devotion covers the period of time the Savior's body remained in the tomb following the crucifixion.

The altars are handsomely decorated with choice cut flowers to honor the ceremonies while palms are arranged in the sanctuary.

OBITUARY

Stephen L. Cordone

The death of Stephen L. Cordone occurred Sunday evening at 6 o'clock at the W. W. Backus hospital following an operation for appendicitis. Up to the time of his operation Mr. Cordone was in good health and the news of his sudden death will be a shock to his many friends throughout this city. He was born in New York, the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. A. Cordone of Johnstown, N. Y. He resided at 265 Washington street, this city. Mr. Cordone was co-proprietor of the Cordone Shoe store business house with his brother, which is located at the corner of Broadway and Main street. He was a very successful business man and since the opening of the store in this city in March he had won the confidence of both the public and his fellow business men who transacted business with him. Besides his wife, Mrs. Thelma Wilce Cordone, Mr. Cordone is survived by two brothers, namely, Andrew Cordone of New York and George Cordone of this city, also a member of the shoe store; two sisters, Mrs. Amiella Remorino of Watertown, N. Y., and Miss Elizabeth Cordone of Watertown, N. Y. His many friends in this vicinity, upon learning of his death, will in turn express their heartfelt sympathy to the members of his immediate family.

GRANTS DIVORCE WITH CUSTODY OF CHILD

Judge Ernest A. Inglis granted a divorce in the superior court here Friday to Ethel Curran Sullivan of New Jersey from Maynard J. Sullivan of this city. Attorney Thomas M. Shields represented the petitioner and the divorce was granted on the grounds of a statutory offense. The couple was married June 12, 1925. The court gave the mother the custody of a minor child.

There was a continuance after partial hearing in the divorce suit of Sarah Kirkup Rankin of New London, formerly of this city, against Irving E. Rankin of Norwich. They were married May 20, 1921, and Mrs. Rankin testified that she went to work the next day and has been working ever since. She is now employed in a factory in New London. She asked for divorce on the grounds of intolerable cruelty and she testified that although her husband is a file cutter by trade, he is a bootlegger and is a patron of this trade. Decision in the suit was held up because no actual service had been made upon Rankin who is said to be a resident here.

TWO MEN JUMP FROM AUTOMOBILE AFTER WEST MAIN ST. COLLISION

Antonio Dubreuil, 21, and Albert Bruso, 18, two Norwich men, piled up motor vehicle law violation charges against themselves Sunday afternoon about 3 o'clock when the machine driven by one or the other of them hooked into a car driven on West Main street hill by Dr. Henry T. Johnson of New London.

According to the police, the men changed seats after the accident and the car was driven away along West Main street and around into Falls avenue, near the Central Vermont railroad station, where Dubreuil jumped out and Bruso also deserted the car.

Both of the men were arrested by Officers Lamphere and Crary, one of them when he was found walking down the Central Vermont railway track.

Dubreuil has charges against him of driving with defective brakes, reckless driving, evading responsibility and driving without license. The charges against Bruso are driving with defective brakes, reckless driving and evading responsibility.

Caught on One-Way Street

David Griffin, who is attached to the coast guard at the Woods Hole base, Massachusetts, drove the wrong way on a one-way street in the city Sunday afternoon and when he was stopped by Officer D. J. O'Neil, it was found the coast guardsman had no driving license with him. The car he was operating was registered in the name of another coast guardsman from Woods Hole base, Stanley Zylinski.

Griffin was held at police headquarters to appear at the Monday morning session of the city court.

HOW KENTUCKY FEDUSTS BUILT AN INSTITUTE

J. A. Burns, known as "Burns of the Mountains," gave a most interesting address Sunday evening at the Central Baptist church on the school which grew out of the settlement of the Howard-Baker family feud in the Kentucky mountains. Mr. Burns, president of Oneida institute, established to educate the children of the mountaineers, spoke of the great work this school is accomplishing and of the imperative need of financial support. "In brain and brawn, the people of the mountains are the equal of any people on the face of the earth," he said. With reference to the mountain feuds, Mr. Burns said the people of the mountains taught their children to hate each other; that is, they taught their children to hate the members of other clans. Mr. Burns said he was a Kentucky mountaineer. He said he never killed anyone nor was he killed himself, although he had been left on the field of battle for dead, more than once. "I discovered that strife was the most costly thing in the world," he said. "I discovered that the other clan had just as good a reason for exterminating us as we had for exterminating them. It was an eye for an eye, a tooth for a tooth and a life for a life. I threw down my rifle and "45".

"A thought came to me," he said. "If you teach these boys to love each other, these feuds will stop automatically, I thought. That thought came to me with force enough to move me to action. I got 40 or 50 of the leaders of the Howard-Baker factions to meet in a shed one Saturday afternoon. One could almost feel the tenseness in the air as they assembled, one faction on one side of the shed and the other faction on the other side. I outlined my plan to end the feud. You can't stop this feud by killing each other, I told them. You are only making matters worse.

"Let's bury the bloody tomahawk. Then let's all join in building a school house and put our children in it. Let's teach them to love each other. One single wrong move on my part would have started a bloody strife. Suddenly the two leaders of the factions started towards me. One raised his hand in the silence that followed and said, 'Boys, let's do that thing!' "

Mr. Burns told of subsequent meetings with the result that the school house was started. With two steel crowbars, cut in pieces, he made a crude set of quarry tools, and with his own hands cut the stone for the foundation of the school house. "But I didn't work alone, long," he said. "Soon I had plenty of men at my elbows helping. That is the way we built our first school house and that is the way we built our other school houses."

Mr. Burns said that there are now 500 boys and girls at the institute and that it has been necessary to turn away at least 600 others. "We have sent more than 400 teachers into the fastnesses of the mountains and they are teaching over 10,000 children of the mountain regions," he said.

Mr. Burns said that for 15 years the teachers at the institute worked without salaries, and that, since, they have cancelled their salaries in order that the institute might carry on. The financial depression, he said, has cut the gifts to the institute sixty per cent. He appealed for contributions to aid in the work. The offering of the evening was for the benefit of the institute. Rev. David A. Pitt, D. D., was the leader of the service.

HAD 21 INITIATED IN GIRLS' CITY CLUB

Twenty-one girls were initiated as members of the Girls' City club (under the auspices of the Woman's City club) at the regular weekly meeting last Friday evening. A short business session opened the evening during which the questions submitted in the question box were answered by the club director, Mrs. W. C. McKean. The girls decided to adopt a girl at the Newington home for Christmas and ten club members are going to pack a box of Christmas gifts for her. In addition to this the members are also going to provide two boxes of food for needy families at Christmas.

Following the business meeting, the initiation of new members took place. A humorous initiation was held first and this was followed by the official "candle ceremony," adopted by the club last year. This ceremony is both beautiful and impressive. A social time followed during which delicious sandwiches, prepared by the club members, and punch were served.

Next Friday night the annual election of officers will take place and all club members are expected to attend this important meeting.

The sewing and dramatic courses of the club continue to meet on Tuesday night and the girls attending these classes are actively engaged in several projects.

Authority to Lecture on Compensation

Leading authorities on the subject of workmen's compensation will deliver a series of eight weekly lectures at Dunham laboratory, Yale university, 10 Hillshouse avenue, New Haven, at 7:30 every Tuesday evening, beginning January 13. The opening session of the lecture course will be held on Tuesday evening, January 6 and will be devoted to a discussion of the course for the benefit of those wishing to obtain full particulars of the subjects to be covered before enrolling.

Included in the lecturers for the course, which is sponsored by the Manufacturers Association of Connecticut, is Dr. James J. Donahue of this city, former compensation commissioner for this district.

OFFICERS CHOSEN BY CHORAL-DRAMATIC CLNB

The following officers have been elected by the Jozef Pilsudski Choral and Dramatic club at its meeting in Pulaski hall: President, Franciszek Duch; vice president, Kasimierz Jaskiewicz; recording secretary, Felicya Ksiazek; financial secretary, Regina Kordek; treasurer, Felix Szymanski; trustees, Jan Ostrowski, Antoni Laskowski.

The entertainment committee as well as various other committees reported the financial success of the concert and dance given at Willimantic, Nov. 29th.

It was voted to hold a Christmas party for members and their friends, the committee in charge of the affair being Mrs. A. Szymanska, Misses R. Kordek, A. Zalewska and F. Ksiazek.

Parts have been distributed for a three act operatta entitled "Clorki Aldermana," with a cast of nearly 25, which is to be given after the holidays.

NORWICH TOWN

When Home chapter of the King's Daughters holds its December meeting this (Monday) afternoon at the Johnson Home, it is expected the matron of the home, Mrs. Madeline Martin, will give a talk along her line of work, by special request.

FIRST CONG CHURCH SERVICES ON SUNDAY

"Bringing in the Advent," was the theme of the excellent sermon Sunday morning at the First Congregational church, of the pastor, Rev. Wilfrid M. Wilton, S. T. M., text, Philippians 3:10-11. That I may know Him, and the power of His resurrection, and the fellowship of His sufferings, being made comfortable unto His death; if by any means I might attain unto the resurrection of the dead. The Scripture lesson was the first 15 verses of the third chapter of Philippians, and the first nine verses of the 19th chapter of Revelation. Rev. Mr. Wilton began by declaring: "Every individual who lived his life and found his life to be worth while, had an ideal in life."

When the Junior and Intermediate C. E. societies meet Tuesday afternoon in the chapel, the intermediates will discuss the subject, What is the Christmas Spirit? All who can and wish to do so have been requested to send gifts and toys for the pleasure of needy children, to Miss Jessie E. Hyde or Mrs. Ernest Washington, before Dec. 16.

Mrs. Carleton Morse had as auto guests to Providence Saturday, her sister-in-law, Miss Elizabeth Morse, also Mrs. John L. Browning, Mrs. Lloyd Ames and Mrs. Charles Lasch, the last named of Norwich.

Miss Elizabeth Browning, of Plain Hill road, had as a week-end guest Miss Doris Seagraves.

The meeting Sunday evening of the Young People's C. E. society, under the heading, "The Christmas Season," was a consecration meeting, with Scripture reference in II Corinthians 8:1-5. The subject was The Best Christmas Gifts.

"TRUTH ABOUT PROHIBITION" THEME OF REV. W. D. PARDEE

Sunday morning in the Norwich Town Methodist Episcopal church, Rev. William D. Pardee, of New Haven, spoke on "The Truth About Prohibition." He is a young man of pleasing personality and is a most convincing and interesting speaker. In his work as educational secretary of the Connecticut Temperance and Anti-Saloon league, he travels all over the state and has first-hand knowledge of conditions. "The great task remaining before us or the truth about prohibition, is my subject," Rev. Mr. Pardee said. "You will recall those words, 'the great task remaining before us,' the words of our great Abraham Lincoln. The north and the south were engaged in a great war for the freeing of human slaves. We are now engaged in another great war, the freeing of the slave to alcohol. Gettysburg was the great battle that meant so much in the Civil war then and the battle we have won in this new civil war was placing the 18th amendment into the Constitution of the United States. In this new war we shall see whether the liquor interests or the United States government is the stronger. Today when we see a drunken man people will say that is what prohibition has done for the country; if young people have a wild party they give you the same reason. When the truth of it all is that alcohol is the cause of it all. The young people today don't know the conditions before prohibition, when there was enough liquor consumed in the United States to average 20 gallons to every man, woman and child. To fight this old enemy under its new name is the task of every true citizen today.

"Awake to the great task remaining before us; be on your guard, use your vote and your influence for God and country." The vested choir under direction of Mrs. Lewis E. Aldrich, sang the anthem, "Great King of Kings." The pastor, Rev. George Warren Potter, introduced the speaker. Rev. Mr. Pardee gave a very interesting talk to the church school following the morning worship service. Norma Rose and Mary Waters were leaders at the C. E. service which was well attended. At the evening service the pastor spoke on the topic, "The Haunted House," Luke 8:30, "Because many devils were entered into him."

Cubs Appoint Song Leaders

At a meeting of the Wolf Cub pack connected with the Methodist Episcopal church, Saturday morning, two song leaders were appointed, John Gibbs and Willard Wilbur. The Cubs recently secured a supply of the new song book published by the Boy Scouts. The books contain such a variety of songs enjoyed by the boys that the singing period at each meeting is one of the best in the program. There was an attendance of 19 at the meeting, including a visitor. The pack was inspected by Assistant Cubmaster Edward Jordan, who led the boys in a new marching drill which was greatly enjoyed. The Cubs are to bring in suggested names for the pack from some of the famous Indian chiefs or tribes of Connecticut. The meeting closed with Taps played by Bugler Ellis Bentley. The cubmaster, Rev. Mr. Potter, was in charge of the meeting.

Memorial Flowers

A large decorative basket of red and white carnations, lavender chrysanthemums and fern, was on a stand near the pulpit, in memory of Mrs. Gurdon F. Bailey, presented by her family. The flowers noted the date, Dec. 8, of Mrs. Bailey's birthday.

TROOP 2 SCOUTS TO LEARN WOOD CARVING, LEATHERCRAFT

John Mason, Troop 2, Boy Scouts, connected with the Methodist Episcopal church at Norwich Town heard a most interesting talk on wood carving and leathercraft at their meeting Thursday evening. Harry Norrington, manager o fthe Norwich Dairy company, not only gave the talk, but had a number of articles he had carved, the only cutter being a safety razor blade. The leather work of which he had a number of most interesting articles he had tooled. A class in carving of wood articles and in the leather work will begin Tuesday, Dec. 16th in the vestry of the church with Mr. Norrington as teacher. About 12 of the scouts have signed up for work in classes. There was an attendance of 17 at the meeting, which was in charge of the scoutmaster, Rev. George Warren Potter. Senior Patrol Leader Donald Olsen had charge of the inspection of the troop. Patrol Leaders Clayton Rose and Arthur Bennett had charge of a singing period. Scouts Robert Brown, Wendell Gomes and Woodruff Sullivan passed their compass test. The troop voted to hold an overnight hike at Harold Rose's camp, Lake Oxoboxo, during the Christmas vacation. Clayton Rose was elected to act as the committee on transportation. Donald Olsen was elected committee to plan the meals at camp and Earl Robinson was elected camp cook. The troop voted to put on a show during the winter season and the committee elected to take charge is Harry Pavey, Albert Eyberse and Edward Eccleston.

In the inter-patrol contest the Flying Eagle patrol which has held first place since the first of June fell into second place, the Stag patrol taking first place. The Stag patrol won 20 points by two tests passed, 28 points for hikes, making their total 467 points. The Flying Eagles have 435 points and the Wolf patrol 429 points.

ENLISTMENT IN NAVY BY NORWICH MAN

J. J. Kenerleber, C. T. M., officer in charge of the navy recruiting station announces the enlistment of Francis F. Smigiel of 234 Summit street. He was sent to the training station at Newport, R. I., for nine weeks' military training and if found qualified for a course of instructions at the radio school at Hampton Roads, Va.

Smigiel was one of the five candidates selected for enlistment for the December quota for the state. He graduated from Norwich Free Academy, class of 1928, and was employed as a clerk by an insurance company.

MATASSA HOUSE BURNED EARLY SUNDAY MORNING

In an early morning fire, Sunday, a frame dwelling house on the Shantok road, just off the Norwich-New London highway, was burned to the ground with a loss of $5,500. The loss is only partially covered by insurance.

The fire was discovered about 3:30 o'clock by two men passing along the main highway in an automobile. They roused the family and a call for aid was sent to the Norwich fire department. As there are no facilities for fighting the blaze it was useless for the local department to respond. The house is located in the town of Montville, and is owned by Mrs. Maria Matassa, who with her husband, James Matassa, occupied the residence. Mr. Matassa is a well known contractor.

The native home of the canna is the tropical lands of India and Malaya.

ELKS HAVE SCHEDULE FOR INTER-CITY SERIES

The schedule for the series of inter-city games events between the Elks lodges in Norwich, New London and Willimantic has been arranged as follows:

Jan. 11—New London vs. Willimantic, Jan. 29—Norwich vs. New London, Feb. 12—Willimantic vs. Norwich, March 19—Willimantic vs. New London, Feb. 18—New London vs. Norwich, Feb. 22—Norwich vs. Willimantic.

John H. Wilson is the Norwich chairman, Thomas A. Callaghan the Willimantic chairman and R. W. Rasmussen of New London, secretary of the committee.

SCOUTS ASK FOR MORE TOYS FOR CHILDREN

Boy Scouts are seeking more toys for the poor children. To date very few calls have been made to the local Boy Scout headquarters. All broken toys should be received at the earliest opportunity to enable the workmen of the New London-Norwich Poster Co., to repair them.

Chosen Class Treasurer.

(Special to The Bulletin.)

PROVIDENCE, R. I., Dec. 7—Charles F. Talcott, of Groton, Conn., has just been chosen treasurer of the class of 1935 at Moses Brown school, it was announced by L. Ralston Thomas, headmaster.

Talcott is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles D. Talcott of Eastern Point.

BRIDGE PARTY WITH BIRTHDAY SURPRISE

Mr. and Mrs. Willard Palmer entertained at their home in Groton at a bridge party Wednesday evening which proved later to be a surprise party in honor of Mr. Palmer's birthday.

Prizes in bridge were as follows: Mrs. Oscar Kerman, Mrs. Jabez Rogers, Henry Jatkowske, Norwich, Oscar Kerman.

Mrs. Palmer was assisted in serving by her sisters, Miss E. Bly Patridge and Mrs. Henry A. Jatkowske both of Norwich. Mr. Palmer was presented a beautiful birthday cake. A buffet lunch was served.

Scout Board Of Review.

In preparation for the court of honor to be held on Wednesday, the Boy Scout board of review is to meet this (Monday) evening at 7 o'clock in the Thayer building headquarters. It is required that all candidates for the rank of second class and first class must appear before the board if they are to receive their awards at the court.

"We invade a new field with vastly improved cars at the lowest prices in our history"

BY WILLIAM J. McANEENY
President, Hudson Motor Car Company

WE have built these models up to and beyond the 1931 standards of performance and quality in every way, and have never in our history offered so many improvements. Quality is greater down to the last detail. Every phase of performance has been greatly improved, and the luxury we have built into the cars is substantially greater than ever before. Motors are larger and more powerful. An efficient system of oil cooling is introduced. A marked improvement in carburetion increases flexibility and economy. Bodies are longer and wider. These cars possess the finest, easiest riding qualities. For the first time, such comfort is available at these low prices. Only great manufacturing economies and the fact that our large resources permit us to take the fullest possible advantage of reduced commodity prices have enabled us to offer the public the greatest combination of quality and low prices in our entire history.

Owner-Management Permits Exclusive Value Advantages

Owner-management enables Hudson-Essex to give you outstanding advantages in quality and price. The men who are now guiding its destinies have been with the company since its inception twenty-two years ago. Its department heads and principal distributors are its controlling owners. Their independence is backed by unusually large resources in capital and plant facilities. It enables Hudson-Essex to lead in design and engineering quality. It permits economies in manufacture and distribution that bring exceptional quality direct to the public at distinct price advantages.

MERCIFUL SOVIET POWER SPARES TRAITORS' LIVES

Death Sentences of Five Prominent Engineers Have Been Commuted to Ten Years' Imprisonment—Commutation Statement Declared That the Soviet Government Could Not Be "Guided By a Mere Desire For Revenge," as the Traitors Had Confessed and Repented

MOSCOW, Dec. 8—(AP)—Five prominent engineers, who at midnight heard a fateful verdict of four supreme court judges decree that they must die for plotting intervention in Soviet Russia, were made joyous today by a commutation of their sentences to 10 years' imprisonment.

Three others, condemned to 10 years' imprisonment by the verdict after a great public trial that had lasted since Nov. 25, were given commutation to eight years' imprisonment. All are deprived of citizenship rights for five years and their property will be confiscated.

The men whose lives were saved were Leonid Ramsin, leader of the conspirators; Alexander Fedotov, oldest of the group, who had pleaded for mercy throughout the hearing; Victor Larichev, first assistant to Ramsin; Nicolai Charnovsky and Ivan Kalinikov.

Those whose imprisonment was reduced from 10 years to eight were Vladimir Ochkin, 30, youngest of the band; Sergei Kuprianov and Xenophon Sitnin.

The commutation was decided by the central executive committee of the Union of Socialist Soviet Republics, which declared that since the defendants had confessed and repented, the soviet power could not be "guided by a mere desire for revenge."

It read as follows:

"First, seeing that all the sentenced men not only repented their crimes but by their testimony during the judicial investigation had disarmed the counter-revolutionary organization, acting as agent and executor of interventionist and military circles ruling in bourgeois France with their other organizations, such as the Torgprom (Russian emigre organization in Paris),

"Second, seeing that soviet power can not be guided by a mere desire for revenge, particularly in relation to confessed repentant criminals who have been rendered harmless,

"It has been decided to commute the death sentences passed on Ramsin, Charnovsky, Kalinikov, Larichev and Fedotov to 10 years' imprisonment, with five years' disfranchisement and confiscation of property, and the sentences of 10 years' imprisonment of Ochkin, Sitnin and Kuprianov to eight years, with confiscation of property and disenfranchisement for five years."

Thus was concluded a judicial investigation which was somewhat in the nature of a great public show for two weeks. It was held in the old ballroom of the house of columns, where aristocrats of the czarist regime paraded in rich raiment, and every sitting was packed with the proletarian masses of the new Russia.

As each defendant confessed his crimes, radio carried his words throughout the vast expanse of the country, and movie cameras recorded his facial expressions. Those inside listened avidly, those outside marched in numerous demonstrations demanding death for the eight men labeled as traitors.

EPIDEMIC NOT DUE TO COMMUNICABLE DISEASE

LONDON, Dec. 8.—(AP)—The mysterious "death fog" of the Meuse valley of Belgium which last week claimed more than three score human lives was not due to any communicable disease, in the opinion of Belgian health authorities, and they so informed the British ministry of health today.

The Belgian statement, which expressed the belief that the fog was clearly a matter of local conditions, was in reply to a communication from the British ministry of health.

Inhabitants of England became uneasy over fears that the intense fog which has shrouded the isle for the last few days might carry the deadly effects of the Meuse fog.

Their anxiety was increased by reports of the death yesterday near Grosmount, Yorkshire, of ten cattle from an unknown malady. The fog in the Meuse valley killed a large number of cattle and livestock.

CABINET TO INVESTIGATE EPIDEMIC IN BELGIUM

BRUSSELS, Dec. 8.— (AP)— While speculation continued as to the cause of deaths during a fog which descended on the Liege district last week, the cabinet of ministers today moved officially to fix the cause of the horrors at an investigation opening tomorrow.

Postmortems on the bodies of two victims were made, and blood specimens from the brains were taken to determine the presence if any of suffocating gases. The results of the examinations will be announced at the official inquiry.

Inquiries made by the Federation of Mines, as quoted by the newspaper "Peuple," show that a preliminary investigation indicated the possibility that "industrial fumes played a prominent part in the tragedy." Before making definite pronouncement, the Federation of Mines is awaiting results of the postmortems.

MARRIES FOR FIFTH TIME; EACH TIME NAVAL OFFICER

ELIZABETHTOWN, N. Y., Dec. 8—(AP)—Mrs. Golda Monroe Morrison Burdick Nixon Kenyon, today was married to her fifth husband, who like the other four is a naval officer. The fifth husband is Commander Charles C. Gill.

The marriage was performed by the Rev. James Frazer, pastor of the Congregational church here.

Mrs. Gill is the daughter of James M. Monroe, an Annapolis, Maryland, attorney. Her first husband was Lieut. Donald Morrison, killed in an explosion aboard a destroyer. She then married Lieut. Harold F. Burdick, who died. Her third husband, Lieut. Warren Nixon, died in 1923. In 1924, she married George W. Kenyon, a marriage which was dissolved by divorce.

BOOTLEGGER CLAIMS HE WAS HI-JACKED BY COPS

KANSAS CITY, Dec. 8.—(AP)—Three policemen were suspended here today on a complaint by Raymond Bell, self-styled "amateur bootlegger" that he was hi-jacked by the officers and robbed of liquor valued at $206.

Bell complained to police and federal prohibition authorities. The government has started an investigation.

Bell said his cargo of liquor purchased in Kansas was taken from him as he was about to make a delivery at a speakeasy.

The accused officers are Russell Reaves, Fred P. Beam, and E. T. Thelen.

POISONOUS SOUP FATAL TO 30 STUDENTS IN INDIA

BOMBAY, Dec. 8.— (AP) — Thirty young students in the London Mission school at Erode, Madras, died in agony today and fifteen others were in critical condition because they had eaten soup into which a poisonous lizard had fallen.

They dropped in quick succession a few minutes after they had finished their noon day meal. The cook who prepared the soup also died, and physicians, puzzled by the tragedy, found the lizard in the soup pot.

Fatal poisoning by deadly reptiles of this kind is not uncommon in India.

SHOOTS AND KILLS WIFE, THEN COMMITS SUICIDE

ALLIANCE, Ohio, Dec. 8—(AP)—Floyd Townes, 20, a farmer, shot and killed his wife and then committed suicide on a farm in Carroll county today, after attacking her father and overcoming the defense of her mother.

The young husband quarreled with his wife earlier in the day, and also with her father, William T. Thompson. Townes knocked down his father-in-law and then drove to Carrollton, Ohio, where he obtained a revolver.

Thompson was in the barn on his farm near Mechanicstown when Townes returned. Mrs. Thompson and Mrs. Townes ran to the barn when they saw the gun.

Townes rushed to the barn and shot his wife in the ankle. He then helped his mother-in-law carry her inside the house. As Mrs. Townes was placed on a bed, her husband reached around Mrs. Thompson and fired a shot into his wife's head. Then he turned the weapon on himself.

SIMPLE FUNERAL RITES FOR "MOTHER" JONES

MT. OLIVE, Ill., Dec. 8.— (AP) — Mary "Mother" Jones, characterized as the Joan of Arc of labor, was laid to eternal rest today.

The little woman who devoted nearly 60 of her 100 years of life to improving labor conditions and inspiring men and women to fight for the cause of organized labor, was buried at noon in the Union Miners' cemetery. Her grave faces the monument erected to those miners whom she called her "brave boys," who gave their lives in the Virden riot of 32 years ago. It was this which led to the eight-hour day in Illinois mines.

The last rites for "Mother" Jones were simple and in accordance with her requests. She died at her home in Hyattsville, Md., near Washington, November 30.

SOONER THE REICHSTAG ADJOURNS THE BETTER

BERLIN, Dec. 8—(AP)—When the reichstag resumes its sessions tomorrow one of Chancellor Bruening's first jobs will be to convince his party leaders that the sooner the parliament adjourns the better it will be for the interests of the nation.

He is anxious to send the members home for Christmas before they get started on a debate which probably would be focused on the government's foreign policy, particularly as regards the charges of Polish terrorism in upper Silesia.

ACCUSED MAGISTRATE HAS BEEN TRANSFERRED

NEW YORK, Dec. 8—(AP)—Magistrate Jesse Silbermann, against whom evidence was given in open hearings of the appellate division inquiry into magistrates' courts in New York city, was transferred today from women's court, where he has been sitting for several years.

Chief City Magistrate Corrigan, who testified at the hearings that Magistrate Silbermann had asked to be left in women's court, said the transfer "speaks for itself."

BETRAYER OF THE "DIAMOND GANG" SLAIN IN NEW YORK

NEW YORK, Dec. 8—(AP)—Twenty-one bullets punctuated the last remarks today of Nicholas "Cheeks" Luciano, betrayer of "the Diamond gang."

Luciano, 28, was the only one of six perpetrators of a $43,600 Brooklyn robbery seven years ago, in which two bank messengers were slain, to go unpunished for the crime. His testimony as star witness for the state helped to send three of his confederates to the electric chair and the other two to prison for life.

Three Armed Bank Bandits Get $25,000

Held Up First National [illegible] of Seacaucus, N. J. [illegible] Machine Gun

SEACAUCUS, N. J; [illegible]—(AP)—Three robbers armed with [illegible] machine gun and wearing masks held up the First National bank of Seacaucus five minutes before closing time tonight and made off in an automobile with $25,000.

The hold-up man with the riot gun lined up a dozen customers against a wall while the others with revolvers cowded the bank employes into sub mission.

They forced William Meisbach, the bank's president, and William Hulburt, cashier, to open the vault. It was Hulburt who estimated the amount of the booty.

While the three were operating in the bank four others with guns drawn waited at the curb in a motor car.

Passersby were few but one or two of them noticed the machine and a traffic policeman got its number.

GUNCOTTON EXPLOSION SHATTERED SALVAGE SHIP

LORIENT, France, Dec. 8—(AP)—Tons of guncotton submerged since the World war in the sunken hulk of the cargo boat Florence, suddenly flared and exploded yesterday, shattering the Italian salvage ship Artiglio which was engaged in removing the wreck, considered a menace to navigation.

Twelve members of the Artiglio's crew, including the captain, Bertelotto Giacomo, lost their lives in the explosion and the remaining seven of the crew, all injured, were rushed to hospitals at Belle Isle. The bodies of two divers, incased in their armored suits, were recovered from the wreckage.

The explosion occurred off the Island of Houat, on the west coast of Brittany not far from the spot where the liner Egypt went down in 1922 with $5,000,000 in gold ingots aboard. For more than a year the Artiglio had been seeking to recover the sunken treasure of the Egypt but, because of bad weather conditions and erratic tides had not been successful.

BISHOP W. T. MANNING SUBPOENAED AS WITNESS

NEW YORK, Dec. 8.—(AP)—Bishop William T. Manning of the Episcopal diocese of New York was subpoenaed late today as a witness for former Judge Ben Lindsey of Denver who yesterday was ejected from the bishop's church—the Cathedral of St. John the Divine.

The bishop merely bowed as a process server handed him the subpoena. The service took place in the rectory adjoining the cathedral where Lindsey, in the presence of 3,500 morning worshippers yesterday, shouted his demands for a chance to reply to Bishop Manning's pulpit excoriation of his views on companionate marriage.

Arraigned today, Lindsey pleaded not guilty and his case was continued until Friday. The technical charge is disorderly conduct.

ALLEGED PARTICIPANTS IN THE KILLING OF BUCKLEY

DETROIT, Dec. 8.—(AP)—Results of nearly five months' investigation of the assassination of Radio Announcer Gerald E. (Jerry) Buckley began to manifest themselves here today as Wayne county's law enforcement machinery was set in motion against three alleged participants in the killing.

Three events headed the day's list of developments. They were the arraignment in recorder's court of Ted Pizzino, alleged "trigger man" in the killing; the identification of Joe Bommarito, a friend of Pizzino, as another of the radio announcer's slayers, and the promise by Prosecutor Harry S. Toy that the Wayne county grand jury would return indictments in the case.

STRUCK BY AUTO WHILE RUSHING TO GREET FATHER

WATERBURY, Dec. 8.—(AP)—Rushing across the street tonight to greet his father on his return from a day of toil, little five-year-old Jerome Hatch, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ruel Hatch, became the latest victim on this city's greatly swelled list of hit and run drivers. The youngster was knocked to the pavement, suffering from possible fractures of the skull and leg by a truck which raced away and eluded the police. Police launched a hunt in vain throughout South Waterbury for the fugitive driver.

Drys Will Oppose [illegible]at'l Referendum

[illegible]orecast Defeat of Republican Party in 1932 if Candidates Show Wet Leanings

WASHINGTON, Dec. 8—(AP)—By an unanimous standing vote more than 100 dry leaders gathered in an executive session of the National Temperance council tonight condemned any move toward a national referendum on prohibition.

Earlier the leaders had listened to a forecast of a prohibition "battle royal" in the 1932 party conventions and a prediction of defeat for the republican party if its candidate showed any wet leanings. It was given them behind closed doors by F. Scott McBride, superintendent of the Anti-Saloon league.

After arguing for more than two hours as to the wording of their anti-referendum resolution during the afternoon, the council made short work of it at their previous unscheduled night meeting. The resolution said in part:

"Having won the eighteenth amendment, there is no occasion for the dry forces to join in any movement by referendum or other process for its repeal.

"Believing as we do in the eighteenth amendment and the laws pursuant thereto as the best governmental policy yet devised for dealing with the liquor problem, we are definitely and unequivocally opposed to the submission of any referendum which would weaken or repeal in whole or in part amendment eighteen, or to any national referendum thereon as contrary to the American principle of representative government."

Dr. Clarence True Wilson, secretary of the Methodist Episcopal board of temperance, who has advocated a referendum if the wet forces would agree upon a single alternative to place before the people, was not present at the night session.

He said at his office he would place his proposal before the annual meeting of the board of managers of the temperance board tomorrow, and that action probably would be taken upon it. He added this was not necessarily a split with other dry forces on the subject, but merely a difference in the types of strategy they favored.

Meanwhile, President Hoover's law enforcement commission put in a full day of deliberation as to what it shall report about the dry law, and in still another quarter of the capital a small group of wet advocates, met in a "national constitutional convention," listened to an assault upon prohibition and a prediction that this country cannot "endure half wet and half dry."

The name of Mrs. Mabel Walker Willibrandt, former assistant attorney general in charge of prohibition, and now counsel for a grape concentrate concern, was inserted into the discussions of the dry leaders in the form of a motion ~~inviting~~ her to address them. The council, however, declined to consider the proposal and the motion was tabled.

45 ARRESTS FOR STRIKE DISORDERS AT DANVILLE

DANVILLE, Va., Dec. 8—(AP)—The first strike disorder to occur in the city, which resulted today in the arrest of 45 persons, caused preparations tonight for 60 policemen, armed with rifles and shotguns, to guard the Riverside Cotton mill tomorrow morning.

City authorities said approximately the same number of officers from the enlarged city force would be on duty tomorrow morning and that a tentative call has been placed with the state militia at Schoolfield as a precautionary measure.

The persons arrested today, several of them women, will be given a preliminary hearing Thursday on charges of unlawful assembly. Grover Brumfield, one of the 45 who police said were strikers, also is charged with carrying concealed weapons. Police said he was carrying steel "knuckles."

Strikers, estimated by Chief of Police Martin to be more than 1,500 strong, gathered early today at the gates of the Riverside plant and blocked the entrance to the mills for non-union workers. Orders from the police to disperse were greeted with cries of "Arrest us."

TWO PERSONS KILLED BY A RECLUSE FARMER

PAWNEE, Okla., Dec. 9.—(AP)—Jess Powell, 65-year-old recluse farmer who went on a shooting rampage, ascribed by officers to "just plain meanness," killing two persons and wounding two others, was held in an unnamed jail tonight for safe-keeping.

Powell last night killed a youthful trespasser, wounded his companion and then fired a fatal shot from ambush at Deputy Sheriff Ed Hartwick, who went to Powell's farm to arrest him. He was captured early today at Ralston, Okla., near here.

But before he was taken to jail Powell whipped out an automatic pistol and severely wounded Louis Raba, a posseman.

"BILLION DOLLAR MERGER" OF FOUR NEW YORK BANKS IS DECLARED OFF

NEW YORK, Dec. 8—(AP)—The contemplated "billion dollar merger" of four large New York banks was called off tonight when representatives of the Manufacturers Trust company, the Public National Bank and Trust company, the Bank of United States and the International Trust company announced they had been unable to agree upon details and final terms.

Public progress of the proposed merger had gone so far as to include the statements that the board of directors of the consolidated bank would be strengthened by the addition of several officials of other New York banks. The list included Mortimer N. Buckner, chairman of the New York Trust company; Walter E. Frew, chairman of the Corn Exchange Bank Trust company; George W. Davison, president of the Central Hanover Bank and Trust company, and Park A. Rowley, president of the Manhattan company and vice chairman of the Bank of Manhattan Trust company.

No other reason was given in tonight's statement for the failure to reach an agreement than that representatives of the four banks were unable o effect a satisfactory settlement of details.

NO DEM. COOPERATION WITH HOOVER FROM THE SENATE

Senator Robinson, Democratic Leader, Who Joined in Pledge of Party Leaders For Cooperation on Relief Legislation, Has Broken From the Hoover Program on Drought Relief—Senator Walsh of Massachusetts Leads Opposition to President Hoover's Unemployment Program

WASHINGTON, Dec. 8— (AP) —A democratic uprising in the senate against President Hoover's unemployment program signalized the reporting today by congressional committees of the first of the emergency measures

Led by Senator Walsh, of Massachusetts, a half dozen democrats took the floor to denounce the administration proposals as a "drop in the bucket" and to demand a democratic program of greater dimensions even at the price of increased income taxes.

Senator Robinson, of Arkansas, the democratic leader, who joined in the pledge of party leaders for cooperation on relief legislation, listened intently. Already he has broken from the Hoover program on drought relief and tomorrow the senate will take up the $60,000,000 drought bill reported today by Chairman McNary, of the agriculture committee. The administration urged $25,000,000 for this.

Walsh compared the Hoover administration to "the fiddling by Nero as Rome burned." He proposed that the government appropriate $100,000,000 to divide with states the cost of unemployment relief. He also asked a five-day week for government employes.

Senator Barkley, democrat, Kentucky, urged his bill to pay World war veterans cash for the face value of their bonus insurance certificates. Senators Caraway, of Arkansas; Dill, of Washington, and Copeland, of New York, joined in the democratic attack and in support of a party program beyond that recommended by the president.

Meanwhile, the house received the $30,000,000 drought relief bill from its agriculture committee and prepared to meet the issue of $60,000,000 demanded for this work by Representative Aswell, democrat, Louisiana.

The house appropriations committee will report tomorrow the $110,000,000 public works appropriation. Mr. Hoover asked $150,000,000 for this to press construction as a means of aiding employment.

The house will take up the public works measure tomorrow and follow that with the drought relief bill. The end of the week should see both measures almost through congress.

For the speedy enactment of this legislation, the republican-democratic cooperation pledge is holding intact, but after that a dispute seems brewing on political lines over additional legislation.

Senator Vandenberg, republican, Michigan, put into the senate record the correspondence between himself and Secretary Mellon regarding cash payments on bonus insurance certificates. The secretary flatly opposed such action and the Michigan senator asked reconsideration.

Senator, Copeland criticized Secretary Mellon for using past treasury surpluses for the retirement of the public debt and described as "legalized' larceny' the practice of using income tax payments above the requirements of the government for retiring the debt.

Walsh said if increased income taxes were necessary to meet the cost of the expanded program, they should be raised.

"It is folly, it is absurd, it is hypocritical" he shouted, "to talk about relieving unemployment without understanding that it means increased taxes for the rich. Unemployment is war and what war was ever won without increasing taxes? I am sick and tired of the absence in high places of sympathy and understanding for this problem."

Caraway interposed that "many of those out of work today were those who gave their time to the nation when these rich men were piling up their fortunes."

Walsh advocated that if income taxes were raised, the increase be confined to incomes of $20,000 and more.

PUBLIC WORKS BILLS PRESENTED IN CONGRESS

WASHINGTON, Dec. 8—(AP)—Bills proposing expenditure of millions of dollars on public works were introduced today in both houses.

There also were several additional measures for relief.

Senator McNary, republican, Oregon, introduced a measure to establish an embargo against all importation of goods produced by forced labor.

Senator Smith, democrat, South Carolina, proposed to authorize federal land banks to advance money to cover installments due on mortgages which the borrowers were unable to meet.

Among the other bills were:

Senator Fletcher, democrat, Florida, to appropriate $8,500,000 for buildings at the Pensacola, Fla., naval air station.

Senator Copeland, democrat, New York, to authorize $16,000,000 during the next five years for care and rehabilitation of crippled children,

In the house, Representative Garber, republican, Oklahoma, introduced a bill to authorize distribution of 60,000,000 bushels of wheat now held by the Grain Stabilization corporation as a drought relief measure.

Several similar proposals are pending.

NOMINATIONS CONFIRMED BY THE SENATE YESTERDAY

WASHINGTON, Dec. 8—(AP)—The senate today confirmed William N. Doank, of Virginia, as secretary of labor to succeed Senator Davis, republican, Pennsylvania.

Confirmation was voted without debate upon motion of Senator Heflin, democrat, Alabama. There was no record vote and no opposition.

The senate also confirmed the nomination of Elwyn T. Clark to be collector of customs at Bridgeport, Conn.

HOOVER ASKS $150,000,000 FOR FARM BOARD STABILIZATION

WASHINGTON, Dec. 8—(AP)—An appropriation of $150,000,000 to enable the farm board to carry out stabilization and other projects was requested of congress today by President Hoover.

The chief executive said the sum was included in the estimate of expenditures before congress and did not increase the estimated treasury deficit.

Already $250,000,000 of the $500,000,000 revolving fund authorized has been appropriated. More than $100,000,000 of this has been expended in efforts to stabilize grain and cotton markets. Most of the remainder had been either loaned or committed for loans to cooperative marketing associations.

Chairman Wood of the house appropriations committee said Chairman Legge would be questioned as to the projects contemplated.

NAVAL CONSTRUCTION PLAN PLACED BEFORE CONGRESS

WASHINGTON, Dec. 8—(AP)—The first administration naval construction program laid before congress since President Hoover entered the white house calls for an outlay of $134,635,000, beginning in the next fiscal year.

It is the first step toward building up the fleet in accordance with the London naval treaty. Authorization is needed for only seven of the 18 vessels to be constructed.

Secretary Adams presented the program to the house naval committee today behind closed doors. Immediately thereafter Chairman Britten introduced the administration measure and announced hearings would begin Wednesday.

The measure calls for seven ships to be built at a cost of $82,635,000, 168 airplanes for an aircraft carrier, a flying deck cruiser and a light six inch gun cruiser.

In addition, the bill asks for 130 airplanes to cost $5,000,000, which would be placed aboard eight-inch gun cruisers built or building.

Eelven destroyers, including one destroyer leader, are to be built at a cost of $47,000,000. These have been authorized previously.

TO SEEK $100,000 TO $200,000 TO BUY FOOD FOR INDIANS

WASHINGTON, Dec. 8—(AP)—Commissioner Rhoads of Indian affairs, today indicated he would seek an emergency relief fund of from $100,000 to $200,000 to buy food and other supplies for many Indians he fears might starve this winter as the result of the drought.

Rhoads said he could not fix definitely the number of Indians threatened, but that there were hundreds of them.

"PEACHES" BROWNING DEFENDING $15,000 SUIT

NEW YORK, Dec. 8—(AP)—The golden harvest Mrs. Frances Heenan "Peaches" Browning reaped on the vaudeville stage from the public curiosity crop sown in her separation from "Daddy" totaled $61,000 in eleven months, it was testified today in the trial of the $15,000 suit against her by her former manager, Edgar Allen.

A public accountant who made out her income tax report for 1927, 1928 and 1929, testified that from June 4, 1928, to March 31, 1929, her stage earnings totaled $61,504, of which $41,000 was net profit. Allen claims 25 percent of the gross.

Peaches took the stand and said she had paid Allen all he had coming, $200 a week, a sum he deducted himself from her salary before turning it over to her.

SENATOR LAVAL FORMING NEW FRENCH MINISTRY

PARIS, Dec. 8—(AP)—A new-comer in leading French political roles, Senator Pierre Laval, noted lawyer, worked feverishly tonight to construct a government where an older hand had failed.

Invited today by President Doumergue to form a new cabinet, after the efforts of Senator Louis Barthou had failed, Laval was meeting with difficulties similar to those encountered by his veteran colleague.

Laval will call on President Doumergue tomorrow morning to inform him of the progress he has made.

CUBAN STUDENTS CONTINUE TO CLASH WITH THE POLICE

HAVANA, Dec. 8—(AP)—With the student situation still unsolved and clashes with police reported with increasing frequency not only in Cuba but through the island, troops were again stationed at the National university today and precautions against serious disorders were redoubled.

Despite conciliatory steps taken by the government, students continued their demonstrations. Several were injured in a clash with police and a large number were arrested, but there was no shooting.

OBITUARY

Charles Dean Kimball

PROVIDENCE, Dec. 8—(AP)—Charles Dean Kimball, former governor of Rhode Island, died at his home here tonight, in his 72nd year. He had been ill six months.

Elected lieutenant-governor in 1900, he became acting governor at the death of Gov. William Gregory in 1901. He was inaugurated governor on January 1, 1902. When he ran for Governor on the republican ticket in that year, he was defeated, chiefly, it was believed, because of his action in calling out the militia during the street car men's strike in June, 1902.

He was a member of many state commissions during his political career and at one time was president of the board of managers of Rhode Island State college.

Father Jerome S. Ricard

BOUND OVER TO SUPERIOR COURT ON SERIOUS CHARGE

(Special to The Bulletin)

WILLIMANTIC, Dec. 8.—Harry M. Everett, 31, of Chaplin, was bound over to the next criminal term of the Windham county superior court in the Chaplin town court this forenoon when Justice of the Peace Theresa Daubeneck found probable cause on charges of seduction and of fornication on two counts. Bonds of $1,000, furnished by Rosa Moran of Chaplin at the time of Everett's arrest one week ago Sunday by Deputy Sheriff Ernest A. Holland of this city, were ordered continued. Grand Juror George M. Reed prosecuted the case and Attorney Harry E. Back of Danielson represented the accused who pleaded not guilty and did not present any defense testimony.

Witnesses for the state were Miss Helen Victoria Ernberg, her sister, Miss Edith Ernberg, her mother, Mrs. Edith Carlson, all of Chaplin, and the first named, the complainant in the case, and Dr. Charles A. Jenkins of this city. The case was heard in chambers.

The complainant, Helen Ernberg, who is now 21 years of age, testified that Everett had seduced her with promises of marriage and enticements and claimed that some force had been used on the first occasion of their intimate relations. Her sister, Edith, testified that Helen had admitted "going out" with Everett and that he was the only man with whom she kept company during the period of alleged seduction. The girl's mother testified that Helen was born in New York city, September 3, 1909, and that Everett had been at the Ernberg home to call for Helen on occasions in the presence of the mother and that she, Mrs. Ernberg, had made attempts to cause Everett to fulfill his promise to marry Helen.

Dr. Charles Jenkins testified that the girl is an expectant mother.

The case has been under investigation by Deputy Sheriff Holland.

PASS $300,000 MARK IN HOSPITAL DRIVE FOR HALF MILLION DOLLARS

(Special to The Bulletin)

WILLIMANTIC, Dec. 8.—The half million dollar drive for the new Windham Community Memorial hospital went over the $300,000 mark with a total of 1,598 subscriptions at the third report meeting held in the state armory tonight. With two days and one evening's work remaining in the ten-day drive the workers prepared for a grand finale when it is fully expected that the quota will be reached at the fourth and final meeting Wednesday night. The grand total to date is $309,345.50, an increase of $90,339 since the report meeting Friday night. Subscriptions were secured to the number of 686 over the week end.

In the reports the Willimantic Men's teams were six memorials, the Willimantic Women's, five memorials and the allied towns, four memorials. The total for the allied towns, $41,840 was nearly a match for the combined totals of the Willimantic divisions and carried out in gratifying manner a prediction that these towns would play a material part in reaching the quota. One memorial for which the credit was given to the memorial committee and amounting to $6,000 was from Willimantic lodge, No. 1311, B. P. O. Elks. Announcement of the memorial which was voted by special meeting of the lodge following the memorial services Sunday night was made by Exalted Ruler George W. Hickey and is specified for a children's ward of four beds.

Featured in the memorials were two reported from Willington, the first from Rosa O. Hall of $12,000 for a nursery given as a Christmas donation in memory of the Christ child and the other was from Alice H. Hall of $15,000 for an x-ray room and laboratory in memory of William Henry Hall. Other surrounding towns memorials came from Mansfield. H. H. Goldsboro gave $1,500 in memory of Mrs. Ella A. Nason and Prof. and Mrs. Richard E. Dodge of Storrs gave $1,500 for a ward bed in memory of "Our Mother."

The six memorials as secured by the Willimantic's men's teams were Team No. 10, William B. Sweeney, captain, three memorials, the Sweeney family, $1,200, in memory of William J. Sweeney; the children of W. F. Gates, $1,500 for a ward bed in memory of their parents; the Willimantic Chronicle, $2,500, for room 315 in memory of the late George A. Bartlett, former owner-manager; team No. 7, Raymond A. Parker, captain, Mrs. Charlotte Parker and Raymond A. Parker, $1,500, for a ward bed in memory of Dr. T. R. Parker; team No. 6, Harry J. Kaufman, captain, by team No. 6, $1,200; team No. 5, Rowland B. Jordan, captain, Nettie, Walter and Rowland Jordan, $2,400 for a bed in the flexible room in memory of Fred D. Jordan; team No. 19, Mrs. Albert E. Welsh, captain, by George W. Hickey, $1,500, for a ward bed in memory of Louis F. Hickey; team No. 13, Mrs. Helen B. Cummings and Mrs. H. C. Murray, co-captains, by Mr. and Mrs. George F. Taylor, $4,500 for room 206, in memory of their son, Edward Raymond Taylor; team No. 13, Mrs. H. B. and Carolyn Cummings, $1,500, for a bed in the maternity ward in memory of their parents and grandparents, Eugene Stoel and Arabella Alpaugh Boss; team No. 13, Miss Madelyn Shepard, $1,500, for a ward bed in memory of her parents, J. M. and Eva K. Shepard; team No. 12, Mrs. William A. Buck, captain, Dr. Clarence E. Simonds, $1,200 for sterilizing room 223.

Included in the report of Team No. 1, Louis H. Arnold, captain, was a donation of $500 from the employes of the Maverick laundry, donating one per cent of their salaries for three years. In the report of team No. 19 was the sum of $216 from members of the Calvary Baptist church and in the report of team No. 17 was the sum of $300 from the Windham County Poultry association.

ADOPTS BUDGET OF $215,155 AT ANNUAL CITY MEETING

(Special to The Bulletin)

WILLIMANTIC, Dec. 8.—A budget of $215,155, an increase of $2,000 from that proposed by the common council was adopted at the annual city meeting held with a large attendance in the town hall tonight. The police appropriation, which the councilmen had reduced by $5,000 or from $28,000 to $23,000 was increased to $26,000, by a vote of 104 to 88, following an address by Prosecuting Attorney Harry S. Gaucher, in which he presented figures that the reduction by the aldermen was too drastic. In overcoming this $3,000 increase on this item further decreases of the proposed budget of $1,000 were made in each of the following three items: Sidewalks, reduced to $11,000; gutters, reduced to $4,000, and new streets reduced $1,500. These reductions were made on amendments presented by Dr. George E. Wilcox, president of the Windham's Taxpayers Protective association.

Without a dissenting vote the meeting reinstated the annual appropriation of $2,000 for the Visiting Nurse association, which had been omitted from the proposed budget. An attempt to overcome the proposed decrease of $5,000 from $30,000 to $25,000 in the fire department was lost by a vote of 129 to 89.

The permanent roads appropriation of $10,000 was voted with an amendment presented by Dr. Wilcox, specifying that the sum be expended in the permanent construction of lower Main street to the junction of Ash street, Cardinal Old Square, so-called, provided that the state take up its project of building a new road and bridge from North Windham road at the Natchaug river to the square. The voters authorized the sale of the unused Hilltop Hose house on Summit street with an amendment presented by Justice George E. Hinman that the property be used for residential purposes only.

Tonight's budget is a decrease of $43,450.14 from last year's budget and entails several drastic reductions, some of which are offset by three new items amounting to $2,500, these being $1,000 for spraying trees, $500 for the veterans of Foreign Wars annual state encampment to be held here next June and a $1,000 for the fire pension fund, the latter representing a one-half division of the former police pension fund which has been cut from $2,000 to $1,000. But one increase over last year's budget appears, this being of $1,000 under the item of interest.

The budget: Police, $26,000; fire $25,000; V. F. W. encampment, $500; fire alarm, $1,500; police court, $600; garbage collection, $6,000; streets, $25,000; trap rock, $3,000; trimming trees, $750; spraying trees, $1,000; oiling streets, $12,000; snow and ice removal, $3,000; salaries, $8,100; printing and advertising, $1,000; rents $505; police pension fund, $1,000; fire pension fund, $1,000; library, $3,500; ice houses, $750; harvesting ice, $2,000; contingent, $7,500; engineering, $5,000; maintaining sewers, $3,200; permanent roads, $10,000; sidewalks, $11,000; gutters, $4,000; new streets, $1,500; lighting streets, $22,000; footbridge, $300; bond principal, $7,000; plumbing inspector, $300; Visiting Nurse association, $2,000; parks, $2,500; city yard, $700; collection of taxes, $500; interest, $14,000; sewer construction, $3,000; auditors, $700.

The action of the annual city meeting was ratified at the December meeting of the board of aldermen held tonight. In the annual election of a president of the board Alderman Cyril A. Lamoreux was re-elected to that office. The board voted to pay all claims as recommended by the claims committee. It was voted to extend the city water service on upper North street for a distance of 400 feet. The withdrawal of $300 for the annual pension to the wife of the late Chief of Police Allan McArthur was voted and the street committee was authorized to cause the installation of the annual Christmas tree at Lincoln square, which is wired by the fire department electrician. Mayor Walter R. King was authorized to appoint a committee of three for the sale of the Hilltop Hose house, the appointment of this committee being deferred to the next meeting.

COLUMBIA

The Ladies' Aid society met Friday afternoon with Mrs. Richard Arnold, Mrs. Cora Hutchins and Mrs. Edith Isham assisting as hostesses, 28 being present. TO BREAK UP A COLD IN A JIFFY

Feel Like a New Person In Just a Little While

People have found out that new-fangled ideas and notions don't break up colds. So millions have turned back to first principles and use what they know breaks one up in a jiffy. Even a "little" cold is too dangerous to trifle with.

The thing to do is to get Hill's Cascara Quinine at any drug store. Take two tablets now. Then follow directions on box. Drink lots of water, too—that's all.

Soon you'll start to feel like a new person. Things will loosen up, your head will clear; aching go—you'll be back on the job with a wallop.

Get Hill's now. It is a scientific formula made to do one thing well: to knock a cold—not to cure a thousand ailments. Get your money back if it doesn't work with twice the speed of anything else you've ever tried.

ACE NOW SOLE LIVING FLIER WITH HONOR MEDAL

WASHINGTON—(AP)—The award of the congressional medal of honor to to Col. Edward V. Rickenbacker, American "ace of aces," makes him the only living airman to receive the decoration for a world war exploit.

The only other aviator of the war to be honored with the medal was Lieut. Frank Luke, known as "the balloon buster of Arizona," whose memory was venerated with an award seven months after his death.

Lieut. Luke's honored exploit was his final sally across the lines in which he shot down three German ballons, killed six enemy ground troops, and landed, severely wounded, to die while defending himself with a pistol.

At the time of his death, September 29, 1918, he had scored the greatest number of American aerial victories, a figure that was surpassed later by but one U. S. airman, Rickenbacker.

DANIELSON

DONATIONS FOR NEEDY FAMILIES DISTRIBUTED

(Special to The Bulletin)

DANIELSON, Dec. 8.—Generous and considerate people here and in Brooklyn have been liberal recently in making donations of clothing and other acceptable things to the Civic federation for distribution through that organization's visiting nurse service.

In her report for November, Miss Miriam Boomhower, the visiting nurse, sets forth that 134 garments, 10 pairs of shoes, two hats, four overcoats, a mattress and cooked food for seven families were donated. The list of donors includes Mrs. E. M. Marlor, Mrs. Harry E. Magoon, Mrs. W. D. Brennan, Mrs. D. Fred Kenworthy, Mrs. E. T. Tillinghast, Mrs. Alfred L. Reed, Mrs. E. B. Wilbur, Mrs. Harold Roberts, Mrs. Eva Tripp and the Ladies' Benevolent society of the Westfield Congregational church. Several unmarked packages of clothing were left at the health station. Nine dinners were supplied by classes or individuals for needy families.

During the month Miss Boomhower made 143 nursing visits, 34 social service visits and 16 advisory visits. The number of medical patients during the month numbered 24, the surgical patients two, the obstetrical and tuberculosis patients three each. From October, 17 cases were carried over. Fifteen new cases developed during November, and 14 were discharged from further treatment. At the end of November 18 persons remained under care. During the month the number of paying patients was 10, the number of free patients 22. Amount received $26.40.

V. R. FRANKLIN IN HIS 44TH YEAR AS GRANGE TREASURER

(Special to The Bulletin)

DANIELSON, Dec. 8.—When at the week-end members of Quinebaug Pomona grange reelected Vine R. Franklin of Danielson to serve the organization as treasurer for another year they started him out on his 44th year of service in that office, which he has continuously held since the organization of Quinebaug Pomona in 1887. At that time he was a member of Brooklyn grange and still is, though a resident here for a number of years and at present in Florida for the winter season.

Likewise, Mrs. Susie G. Williams of Brooklyn is building up a record of long time service in this Pomona grange, for she has been its secretary for 17 years, and was reelected for another year at the meeting mentioned and which was held with Wolf Den grange at Abington, and which was attended by State Master L. G. Tolles of Southington, and Mrs. Tolles.

Quinebaug Pomona's list of officers for 1931 is as follows: Master, Milo A. Appley, Canterbury grange, No. 70; overseer, Frank D. Spaulding, Brooklyn grange, No. 43; lecturer, Mrs. Mabel E. Church, Natchaug grange, No. 68; steward, John Wetherbee, Wolf Den grange, No. 61; assistant steward, George E. Law, Quinnatisset grange, No. 5; chaplain, Myra B. Perry, Shetucket grange, No. 69; treasurer, Vine R. Franklin, Brooklyn grange, No. 43; secretary, Mrs. Susie G. Williams, Brooklyn grange, No. 43; gatekeeper, Charles L. Peckham, Senexet grange, No. 4; Ceres, Mrs. Ruth Lanphear, Echo grange, No. 180; Pomona, Mrs. Agnes E. Green, Plainfield grange, No. 140; Flora, Miss Katherine Byrne, Putnam grange, No. 97; lady assistant steward, Miss Annie L Page, Killingly grange, No. 112; member of the executive committee for three years, Albert E. Anthony, Echo grange, No. 180; legislative committee Senator-elect Walter C. Brown, Ashford grange, No. 90; C. A. Pomeroy Echo grange, No. 180; John Wetherbee, Wolf Den grange, No. 61.

NORWICH MAN FINED IN PLAINFIELD TOWN COURT

(Special to The Bulletin)

DANIELSON, Dec. 8.—Albert Frechette, Norwich, was fined $5 and costs by Judge George Torrey in the Plainfield town court this morning for failure to grant half the right of way. Last night, near All Hallows' church in Moosup, and at an intersection, Frechette's car was in collision with another machine operated by Guido R. Mancini of Providence. Both machines were slightly damaged.

Joseph Wollow, 14-year-old son of Anthony Wollow, who lives on what is known as the Shippee farm at the southern border of the town of Killingly, was also to be before Judge Torrey, but was discharged. This boy was found operating a truck owned by his father, and having no operator's license and being too young to qualify for one. The father said the boy took the truck without his knowledge or permission.

The first number of The Christian Messenger, official organ of the Danielson Federation of Churches, has made its appearance. It is to be a monthly publication, in magazine form. The current issue, with an attractive cover showing two children in prayer at their mother's knee just before bedtime, contains 14 pages of interesting matter dealing with church interests, coming events, brief articles of religious interest and an editorial announcement setting forth The Messenger's objectives.

Busy With Outside Work

Notwithstanding that the season verges on winter, the Connecticut Light & Power Co. is carrying on a very considerable amount of outside work, keeping many employes busy. A power line has been run over to Sterling, where electric service heretofore has been supplied by the U. S. Finishing Co.'s plant. In a short time the mill company will cease to do this. The light and power company is changing equipment where necessary, incident to the impending change from direct to alternating current. About 100 customers will be served in that community. By Dec. 15 the light and power company will have made a hookup at the new building of the A. T. & T. Co. on the West Side, to supply 100 kilowatts of power at the outset of operations there, and with an increase in consumption likely. Another line is being taken into Eastford, to serve territory never before enjoying the benefits of electric lighting service. Another 100 customers will be served in this area.

Married at Sterling

When Miss Teasie Potter of Danielson and George Bunning, Jr., of Sterling were married in that place Saturday afternoon, Rev. Dwight LaFollette was the officiating clergyman.

Additional strings of colored lights for use during the holiday shopping season were being put up today in the business section by a crew of linemen.

Hundreds of parishioners attended this morning's masses at St. James' church in observance of the feast of the Immaculate Conception.

The church school council of the Danielson Federation of Churches is to meet Wednesday evening at the Westfield Congregational church and, following a supper, will hold a conference.

Hundreds of persons here received their Christmas checks today from various banks doing business in Danielson, and many similar club checks went to people in surrounding communities. Trade is expected to benefit from these releases at once.

Though the season is late for this species of migratory birds, gypsies continue to be reported motoring about this territory. The majority of them are using automobiles that carry registrations from mid-western states.

The case of George LeTendre of Central Falls was continued from this morning to Wednesday in the town court. LeTendre was taken into custody in an early Sunday morning raid at a new home in a development area near Elmville, where considerable of a party was going on, state officers making the raid. Because he was unable to pay a fine of $5 and costs, imposed by Judge W. Fenner Woodward on an intoxication charge, William Robillard was sent to jail to work out the amount.

Contributions to the fund to buy Christmas dinners and other holiday cheer for needy families of Danielson are not increasing as rapidly as its sponsors would like to see them. More generous giving is urged.

CONN. LIGHT AND POWER COMPANY ANNOUNCES REDUCTION IN RATES

(Special to The Bulletin)

DANIELSON, Dec. 8.—A Christmas gift to thousands of users of gas and electric service in a large area of eastern Connecticut was announced here today by the Connecticut Light & Power Co., through Manager T. G. Ralph of the Danielson and Putnam districts. The board of directors of the corporation has authorized a reduction in gas and electric rates, effective Dec. 20.

The reduction in rates is widespread, extending to all sections of the state in which the company operates, and will mean a saving of approximately $500,000 a year to the 146,000 customers of the company. A large percentage of the customers of the Danielson and Putnam districts, which serve the territory between Jewett City and the Massachusetts state line to the north will benefit to the extent of approximately $20,000 a year, according to figures prepared by the accounting department of the local office.

The residence customers, who constitute a large percentage of the company's patrons, are particularly benefited by the coming reduction, although the commercial customers also participate to a substantial degree.

The reduction that has been announced, Mr. Ralph said, has been possible by the cooperation of the company's customers in making greater use of the service, and by confidence of the company's security holders, a large number of them in Connecticut, in investing during the last ten years upwards of $50,000,000, which has been expended for new and modern machinery and plant equipment within the past decade.

It was not until 1930 that full advantage was had of the operation of these new facilities. During the last few years a number of smaller utility properties have been joined with the Connecticut Light & Power Co. Their grouping with the larger unit has resulted in improved service, ample power supply and substantial economies, making possible the progressive lowering of the unit cost of service. The present announced reduction of rates, Mr. Ralph said, is a further contribution to this lowering of the cost of gas and electric service in the Danielson and Putnam districts.

As illustrative of the effect of the reduction, Mr. Ralph said that residence customers who are now on the 5 1-5 cent energy rate will, under the proposed rate, be billed at five cents per kilowatt hour. He went on to say that it is the policy of the company to maintain its rates at as low a level as is consistent with good service, and in pursuance of that policy, it was among the first in New England to adopt a form of rate that places additional service at the disposal of the customer at a low price unit. The large participation of the Danielson and Putnam districts in the total reduction is due, to a large extent, to the fact that the domestic customers have been alive to the advantages of the promotional form of rates.

The new schedules, according to Mr. Ralph, are in course of preparation in detail for filing, and they will shortly be announced. Towns in the Danielson-Putnam areas that will benefit are: Brooklyn, Canterbury, Eastford, Griswold, Hampton, Killingly, Lisbon, Ledyard, Plainfield, Pomfret, Putnam, Sterling, Thompson, Voluntown and Woodstock.

PLAINFIELD

GEORGE WESTON BROADCASTS FROM STATION WJZ NEW YORK

Sunday evening George Weston, Plainfield's noted writer was heard on the air as follows:

A number of years ago when I was in Nikko, one of the most beautiful shrines of the Far East, I talked with an ancient priest who had achieved the title of Manayaka, the Wise. We were told that he was nearly 100 years old, and although it would be hard to vouch for that, he that venerable, benign, and peaceful expression which betokens a life which has been well spent.

For a few minutes, through on interpreter, we talked of this and that —of the beauty of Nikko, of why some things are beautiful and some are not, of colors, of the constancy of human nature, of dreams, and finally, I said to him, "Manayaka you are called the Wise, what do you consider the highest pinnacle of human wisdom?" After a moment's hesitation, he replied, "You must please the gods."

"Yes," I said, "But how can I always know that I am doing that?"

After a somewhat longer period of reflection, he replied, "As a rough working rule, a man will know that he is pleasing the gods when he is also pleasing the ladies—by whom," he quickly continued, "I mean the mothers, the wives, the sisters, and the daughters of men."

Thinking this over later, I wondered if as I reached my hundredth year I might be known as George the Wise, for certainly so far, near the halfway mark, I cannot remember the time when I haven't tried to follow Manayaka's rough working rule—when I haven't tried to please the ladies.

Time is too short to tell you the history of my efforts; but at least I can tell you that they have been magnificently well paid. Indeed, there are moments when, as I reflect upon the rewards that have come from following the rule laid down by the wise man of the East, I not only believe in a Santa Claus for Christmas—I believe there is a Santa Claus for every day of the year.

Mr. Kennedy has asked me if out of the wealth of my experience and observation I will describe the type of girl who can play the most tricks with a man's heart.

I will start this description by saying that there are certain details which I believe are utterly immaterial. She may be light or dark—tall or short—thin or not so thin. Her name is equally immaterial. When you meet her you may say, "Hello, Amy," or "Hello, Zoe," or her name may begin with any letter in between. She may be 25—or she may be younger—or she may be older. She may like to lie in bed in the morning, or she may get up early if she won't wake me, but the following things, to my mind, are essential.

The girl who can play the most tricks with a man's heart is the one who knows best, first—how to challenge his attention, second—how to arouse his interest, and finally how to warm his fancy to that divine frenzy which not only leads to all great poetry but also to all the marriage license bureaus.

And after that, of course, everything is simple.

She must do her best to mabe him comfortable. And he should follow the words of Manayaka the Wise—and should please the gods by continuing to please the one who has either made a poet or a husband out of him.

PUTNAM

LOCAL TRUCKMAN FILES $5,000 SUIT TO COLLECT DAMAGES

(Special to The Bulletin)

PUTNAM, Dec. 7—Papers in the $5,000 damage suit instituted by Fremont S. Bruce of School street, prominent Putnam mover and truckman against Dr. George E. Bitgood and Dorothy Parkhurst, both of New London, were received for filing in superior court records today by Miss Marjorie C. Bradford, assistant clerk of courts.

Attachments to the amount of $5,000 have been served upon the defendents by M. J. Martin, a New London county deputy sheriff and the writ and complaint containing the allegations and claims of the plaintiff have been returned, together with announcement that the case is returnable on the first Tuesday in January, 1931. Attorney Irving H. Miron of this city, is counsel for Mr. Bruce.

The suit is the outgrowth of an accident occurred in the town of Marlboro, Conn., September 29, 1930, involving a large truck owned by Fremont S. Bruce, and an automobile owned by Miss Parkhurst, at the time operated by Dr. Bitgood. The co-defendant was a passenger in the car. John Paine of this city, an employe of the plaintiff, was driver of the van.

According to one of the allegations, the accident took place at the intersection of the Colchester, and Middletown-Willimantic state highawys. The plaintiff has inserted in the writ that the crash occurred without negligence on his part or on part of Paine, his employe. In the subsequent clause, the plaintiff asserts that negligence of Bitgood in traveling at an excessive rate of speed and failing to grant right of way at the intersection is responsible for the mishap, which, he claims, damaged his truck to the extent of $2,000, considered beyond repair, and by crippling the van for further service the plaintiff claims that between the date of the accident and the date of institution of suit, (Dec. 2, 1930) he has sustained a loss of $1,000, which he seeks to recover.

It was understood today that the defendants, Bitgood and Miss Parkhurst, are intending to counteract the Bruce suit and already have taken steps to do such, in the superior court of New London county where, it was said, that a Parkhurst countersuit against F. S. Bruce for damages of $20,000 is pending. According to additional information procured today, Bitgood, a defendant in the Bruce suit, in filing a counter action has named Mr. Bruce defendant in a $10,000 damage action now pending in New London county superior court.

Good news came out of the local office of the Connecticut Light and Power company this morning with the announcement that reduction in electricity rates, which will mean a saving of approximately $200,000 a year, will be inaugurated in this district on Dec 20. A detailed account of the announcement and a complete listing of rates in the various towns of the Putnam and Danielson district will be found this morning in the Danielson column of the Bulletin.

DRUNKEN DRIVER'S CASE CONTINUED THREE MONTHS

(Special to The Bulletin)

PUTNAM, Dec. 8—In city court this morning Walter Carey, 61 Railroad street, was found guilty of a charge of operating a motor vehicle while under the influence of liquor and was fined $100 and costs. Carey was represented by Attorney Irving H. Miron who in behalf of his client, sought to secure remission of a portion of the fine. Judge M. H. Geissler presiding at the session, found no motive to entertain the plea, but in consideration of the attorney's request, he granted a three months continuance in the case. Charges against the Putnam man were preferred by State Officer James M. Carmody of Danielson barracks, who ordered the man to appear in court following the investigation of a complaint filed Saturday evening by Milton Wordell of Brooklyn, N. Y. Wordell alleged Carey had piloted his car into the New York vehicle, while he and a friend were driving to Providence.

Colonel Guy Cushman, 11th cavalry, U. S. A., retired, is officially recognized as the father of English fox hunting in northeastern Windham county where the ancient and colorful "sport of kings" was recently introduced for the first time. A special feature writer for a well known state paper on Sunday devoted nearly an entire page to Colonel Cushman's exploits in the sporting world and described in detail the Pomfret fox hunt arranged by Mr. Cushman and his nephew, Charles V. B. Cushman, which took place on November 8. "Hunting with horses and hounds has come to Pomfret!" says the Hartford writer. The statement is true and before another year will have passed fox hunting in Pomfret will undoubtedly be a popular pastime, although none expects that the popularity to be accorded the sport will surpass the enthusiasm of devotion being offered at the temple of miniature golf.

So complete was the success of the initial hunt staged last month, that Colonel Cushman feels certain that the shrill of the huntsman's horn will summon the scarlet coated riders together at some time in the future and on this occasion the chase will be in pursuit of fleet Reynard, rather than on the trail of a bag of aniseed. A year hence the retired army sportsman who is now a resident of Pomfret, hopes to have a pack of hounds at Pomfret that in trailing and driving skill will compare with the best of packs.

The Bulletin's feature writer in delving into the files of yesteryear for material for a ghost story, scraped up a bit of interesting information for Putnam readers which appeared on the editorial page of Monday's edition. The story which had its inspiration in the recent account of the apparition happenings in Jewett City, has to do with the oft quoted Mechanicsville ghost who "haunted" the once thriving textile village during the winter of 1878. Even though the black "spectre" went phfft after a time, the story is a unique and interesting one. Read it in Monday morning's Bulletin!

Amedee Bellerose, grand juror for the town of Thompson, who has been a patient at the Day Kimball hospital for the past month was discharged from the institution today in an improved condition.

Myron Perry, star Putnam high school athlete who has been a patient at the Day Kimball hospital for the past two weeks, is making a speedy recovery and expects to leave the institution this week.

JEWETT CITY

NEW KIND OF HOLD-UP ON QUINEBAUG BRIDGE

A new sort of hold-up took place on the new Quinebaug bridge the other afternoon. Emory Campbell was walking across from the Lisbon side when a big car with New York markers pulled up to the sidewalk behind him. Two women were occupying the front seat and one reached out, grabbed Mr. Campbell by the arm, shouting, "Here you! I'm goin' to tell your fortune right now." "Not much you won't," said Emory, and he pulled away and kept going, as did also the car. In relating the incident to an officer later, Mr. Campbell said she pinched his arm like thunder. It is believed that the destiny forecasters were a detachment from a gypsy gang that has been operating in this section of late, who, not satisfied with waiting for business to come, have adopted militant measures.

Archie M. Clarke Recovering

Thomas McBroome received a telephone call from Fred C. Clarke, of Boston, Saturday evening, that Archie M. Clarke, Fred Clarke's father, had been critically ill in a Boston hospital for two weeks, but was much improved. Mr. Clarke's serious condition followed a major operation which after some months' delay had to be performed in order that his life might be saved. The family, now of Jamestown, R. I., lived here for more than twenty years, and many friends are much pleased to learn that the father of the family is on the road to recovery.

The newly organized Polish Citizens' pinochle club was victor in a match played Friday evening against the American Polish Corporation pinochle club. Score: P. C. C., 119,700; A. P. C., 115,300. The winning players were: J. Keemon, A. Lefty, G. Osga, J. Ruszenas, William Buba, S. Casper. The losers were: J. Smith, William Casper, P. Crornecki, A. Brodacki, F. Koziol and S. Weylowis. There are now three pinochle clubs in the borough with stated nights of play every week. Mr. Keemon said Monday it is probable that several matches will be arranged during the season.

The attractive calendar of the First Congregational church of Griswold contains this week the following budget of the probable expenses for 1931: Pastor's salary, $1,200; organist, $50; sexton, $50; fuel, $35; lights, $50; repairs, $100; church calendar, $50; pastor's expense, $10; state and association dues, $10; church manual, $50; sundries, $10. Total, $1,615. To this very moderate and conservative estimate the pastor, Rev. H. L. Arnold adds the following note: "The probable income from invested funds will not be much over $550, so you can readily see that all the members and friends of the church will have to put their shoulders to the wheel in order that we may carry on."

Her sister, Mrs. Carrie Waters, will be obliged to remain two weeks more probably, on account of a fractured leg received in the same accident, when the automobile in which they were riding went down the bank on the River road

WEDDING

Pepin—Gill

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Gill of Aspinook street have announced the marriage of their daughter, Miss Susan Gill and Moses Pepin, Dec. second. The ceremony was performed by Rev. J. J. McCabe at St. Mary's rectory. The witnesses were the groom's brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Robinson. The bride wore blue crepe, a black coat and gold hat. The matron of honor wore a tan ensemble. A supper was served at the bride's home where Mr. and Mrs. Pepin will live. The bride has been housekeeper for her mother and the groom is employed in the Permatex department of the Aspinook bleachery. He is a graduate of Riverside grammar school and Plainfield high school.

Pile Sufferers

End Your Misery Without Salves or Cutting

External treatments cannot permanently end Piles. Nor does cutting remove the cause.

The cause is internal—bad circulation of the blood in the lower bowel. The veins are flabby—the bowel walls weak—the parts almost dead. To quickly and safely rid yourself of piles an internal medicine must be used to heal and strengthen the affected parts.

Dr. J. S. Leonhardt, a specialist, after years of study discovered a real internal Pile remedy. He named his prescription HEM-ROID, and prescribed it for 1000 patients, with the marvelous record of success in 960 cases, and then decided every Pile sufferer should be able to get HEM-ROID from their own druggist.

Don't waste time on external remedies or think of the pain and expense of an operation. Get a package of HEM-ROID from Lee & Osgood with their guarantee of money back if it does not end all Pile misery.

BRANCH MOTOR VEHICLE OFFICE

No report has been issued as yet as to the number of 1931 markers issued, but it is only a matter of three weeks to the end of the year and those who are planning to drive their cars throughout the winter must seek registrations very soon. It is to be expected that there will be the usual year-end rush, a struggle to get number plates at the last minute, with the force to take care of such service unable to meet the demands of the auto-owning taxpayers.

Down in Pennsylvania attention is being directed to the fact that but about one-seventh of the 1,700,000 auto owners have thus far seen fit to renew their licenses for next year. This reveals more procrastination than has prevailed for some time and threatens an 11th-hour rush that will mean both bustle and disappointment.

Inasmuch as it is known that new registrations are required for January 1, there is little to be said for the practice of putting off getting them until the last minute. Those in this state who wanted to retain their present numbers were given the privilege of doing so last month and the presumption is that many thousands are already prepared to fasten on the new plates just as soon as December ends. This is an accommodation to the auto owner and a help to the motor vehicle department.

It is also an encouragement to get the next year's registration early, and it seems only fair that equally as much encouragement ought to be offered to the much larger body of motor vehicle owners in the state by seeing that they are furnished sufficient branch registration offices to meet the demands for plates. This would not only accommodate those sections which are now without branches but it would furnish just that much relief for the other branch offices and the main office during the busiest month of the year.

It is to be hoped that the association of auto dealers will not be satisfied to let the matter of a branch office here drop with the declaration of its need. If it is worth having, and it is generally agreed that it is, it is worth working for. If the motor vehicle department is not willing to do anything or to advocate the establishment of such an office the advisability of getting the cooperation of the other cities of the state which have no such accommodation and carrying the matter to the general assembly should be seriously considered. It is time to end the discrimination which has prevailed for years.

RESTS WITH PEOPLE

Crime conditions in Chicago have become such that more than the people of that city are interested in whatever action is taken to combat them.

Recently Chief Justice McGoorty of the criminal court of Cook county has initiated series of conferences for the purpose of developing plans looking to the formation of a unified metropolitan police force. As this is apparently a step which he believes should be taken for the relief of the situation there will be keen interest in the encouragement which he receives, for in the fight against crime much depends upon the cooperation that is given and the amount of public sentiment that is back of it.

In an address which was made by a former police commissioner of the city of Detroit he stressed the point conditions in the cities are due largely to the people themselves, either through the active support which they give to them or to the indifference which they manifest. Much depends upon the right men being put in office and it is his contention that the right men can be put in public office whenever the "good people" are ready to join hands and accomplish it.

This is, of course, the old story of too much apathy in public matters. This former police commissioner indicates that he understands the alertness of the underworld when it comes to influencing elections and the filling of offices with men that will be favorable to crime conditions.

It has been repeatedly maintained that conditions in Chicago, or any other of the crime-ridden cities, are due to the people themselves. They are getting what they ordered at the polls and the answer to it is that it must be what they want when they not only tolerate it but vote for its continuance. It invariably finds those who are disgusted, or refraining from voting, as either divided in their opposition to deplorable conditions, or ready to follow the lead of the underworld in setting up candidates who will produce a split in their ranks and indirectly hamstringing any attack at the polls. The claim that better conditions rest with the people of the cities is applicable to more than Chicago.

BUS REGULATION

Demand for the regulation of interstate motor bus business has existed for years. Efforts to get legislation have not accomplished much. The interstate commerce commission has made recommendations but, as yet, congress has done nothing. How long it intends to allow the present situation to prevail is unanswerable.

In the last session of congress the house adopted a bill for the regulation of the interstate bus traffic. It went to the senate, where amendments were tacked on, and when the bill was brought out this week action was taken recommitting it to the committee on interstate commerce.

Here is a piece of legislation in which every state is interested. It is not a new proposition and it is not one that has been raised since the motor bus was put into operation, for regulation of interstate commerce has long existed. Until the motor bus business developed there was no chance for the regulation to be applied to anything but the railroads, but with the development of bus lines there exists the situation whereby the railroads must conform to the requirements of the interstate commerce commission, but the competing bus and truck lines are without any such regulating agency.

It is claimed that the railroads object to the senate amendment which would prevent the railroads from absorbing bus lines. If they do object it would appear to be a natural reaction. With the railroads subjected to restrictions and told what rates they must charge, and with the steam lines seeing their business going to the motor lines, which have a roadbed furnished by the various states, it is apparent that there is a competition there which is decidedly unfair.

If it is motor bus transportation which the public prefers, because of lesser expense, or other reasons, is it just to say to the railroads that they must continue to operate with tied hands while competitors are allowed entire freedom to do as they please concerning rates or operating methods? Is it just to deny the roads a chance to establish bus lines or to acquire bus lines in furnishing public transportation? There seems to be ground for the feeling of the roads that the senate-amended bill treats them unfairly, and it wouldn't be surprising if the public felt that a well-established transportation system whether operating steam trains or motor busses, is preferable to a fleet of lines without regulation or responsibility. The need of early bus regulation in interstate commerce is evident.

ANTIQUATED LAWS

Every now and then the question bobs up concerning some new Sunday diversion which causes a resort to some old and forgotten law which has not been enforced for a long period. It continues to occupy a place in the statutes and can be invoked if occasion requires, but just as soon as such is done it not only raises a storm of protest but it leads to ramifications which are decidedly bothersome.

Up in Vermont, at Bellows Falls, the people are going through an experience of that kind. A short time ago a similar situation developed in New Jersey. Occasionally the old Connecticut blue laws are held up to ridicule for much the same reason.

It means, of course, that legislation which was considered necessary to meet the conditions that prevailed years and years ago still remains to be employed to deal with the present-day situation and the new developments as they come along. As new problems arise they cannot be ignored, but the folly of trying to control them by laws a century or two old, when other conditions which run counter to other aged legislation are winked at, brings to attention the need of bringing legislation up to date.

Each year finds legislatures facing thousands of new laws. Some of them are needed. Conditions have demonstrated it, but while necessary new legislation is being considered there would seem to be an opportunity for giving a bit of thought to the elimination of those old and inconsistent laws which clutter up the statute books and which have outlived their usefulness.

Most people would be surprised to know what a raft of such legislation there is and how often they are violating it. It is so old and useless as to be ignored, and if that is the case it better be eliminated.

STRONG FOR THE COURT

The idea of a referendum on the world court so impressed the American Foundation that it canvassed the newspapers of the country for the purpose of learning their sentiment. Of the 2,036 daily papers which were included in the referendum, there were but 242 which took no stand upon the question of this country's adherence to the world court. There were but 265 which declared their opposition and there were 1,357 which expressed themselves as favorable to joining. In this vote in favor of adherence it is interesting to note that the 1,357 papers favorably inclined represent 68 per cent of the newspaper circulation of the country.

In nine states, including Connecticut and the District of Columbia, there was not a newspaper that opposed entering the court, although there were six dailies which did not respond in this state and two which had taken no stand.

As straw votes go, or as referendums go, there is significance attached to such an expression. It indicates a sentiment that is nation-wide and when it is shown that there is not a state where opposition predominates it must be regarded as indicating that it represents public opinion to a greater or less degree. It means support of the view that has been expressed by some of the country's biggest men and efforts that have been put forth by the last three administrations.

The importance of taking such a step to better insure the peace of the world is positively reflected.

WASHINGTON AFFAIRS

(Special to The Bulletin)

WASHINGTON, Dec. 8—Representative Goss of the 4th Connecticut district, says he has learned a great deal since he came into office, a week or so ago. He found on his desk a number of bulletins from departments. Here are a few things he gleaned from them the first day: "A rat may be worth $500, at least one rat did that amount of damage in evading traps and in destruction of valuable papers." The bulletins showed how one merchant estimated the damage by an old grey bearded rat, which successfully evaded traps and poison.

Next I learned, said Mr. Goss, that more than 20,000,000 acres of land had been surveyed during the last fiscal year to secure classification information regarding the proposed adjustment of crops by the agricultural department also that by careful inspection of tea, the country now gets only good qualities, that the strict inspection has worked out well is shown by the record officially given that out of 84,000,000 pounds of tea examined in 1930: 200,000 pounds were rejected as of inferior quality. That examination is done under the pure food and drug act.

Floor Leader John Q. Tilson of New Haven, who is the Connecticut member of the house committee on committees said today he had recommended that Representative Edward W. Goss of Waterbury should be assigned to the committee on military affairs, as he believed his knowledge and experience as a manufacturer of brass and other metals would be of great service to that committee and especially equips him for such service. Col. Tilson was ordnance expert of the military affairs committee all through the world war and said today he was convinced Mr. Goss would be equipped to succeed to that position. The committee assignments may not be made for several days and no advance assurance of how any one will be placed can be made, but Col. Tilson is hopeful his recommendation of Mr. Goss will be favorably acted upon.

Great regret is expressed here over the prospective loss of Representative Merritt from the Connecticut delegation. Mr. Merritt holds, by right of every qualification, a high place on the interstate commerce committee, and is regarded as one of the most influential and valuable members of the house. That Connecticut failed to return him, and instead has sent a democrat from that district, is receiving much unfavorable comment, and Mr. Merritt is being daily surrounded with friends who frankly tell him they regard his enforced retirement as a national disaster, at a time when men of his type are sorely needed in congress.

When you see the Hon. William Tyler Page, the courtly and distinguished clerk of the house, author of The American's Creed and of a number of books and other writings on the Constitution and the congress of the United States, it is hard to picture him as having been the "man of the house" and largely the breadwinner of the family at the age of ten years.

There was no child law in those days and there was his mother and a family of youngsters of which Page was the oldest boy. So he left school and began helping in the support of his mother and the younger kids by making paper bags, working from 7 in the morning till 7 at night, with an hour out at noon. And those helpful boyish hands were so blistered every night that mother had to swathe them in hog lard or goose grease to make it possible for the boy to "carry on" the next day.

All this came to light at a very informal small round table luncheon at the capitol the other day, where Representative Rogers had a couple of Massachusetts friends at luncheon, together with one or two other guests, of whom Mr. Page was one.

The talk drifted into the question of whether boys of wealthy parents or boys, who from the start, must be self-supporting, were best equipped to fight the battles of later life.

Some one asked Mr. Page his opinion. He smiled and said, "I have never tested it. For from the time I was ten years old I had to work my own way, and also help support my widowed mother and the girls of the family. You know women and girls didn't make their own way in the world in those days, so I became the man of the house, without feeling it unusual to do so."

Mr. Page went on to say that he worked making paper bags for three years. Then just about the time he was 13 years old, an old friend of the family became clerk of the house, the position Mr. Page now holds. This friend wrote Mrs. Page he "would like to do something for her boy," and that if she would send him to Washington he would make him a page of the house. "Mother scrubbed my hands that night with unusual care and gave them an extra dose of hog's lard, then bandaged them carefully," said Mr. Page. "Then she cut and made me a rough and ready homespun suit, sitting up all night to do so. For I was to start for Washington early Monday morning." From that day I have worked my own way. I don't know how it would have been had I started out with wealthy parents instead of being the "man of the house" when ten years old.

Mr. Page smiles with affectionate remembrance of his mother when he recalls that homespun suit and the bloody fight in which it involved him soon after he came to the capitol. It seems that one of the page boys of the house, who was much bigger, tougher and older than young Page, poked fun at the suit. Little William Tyler saw red. He seemed to see his devoted mother working on that suit all Saturday night, bending over it as she cut, planned and sewed in a dim light. Then it was that the little Page boy forgot all else and struck out fearlessly, landing a blow squarely between the eyes of the big fellow. In a moment the big fellow came back and landed a punch that blacked Page's eye, threw him to the floor with nose, jaw and eyes getting the worst of the fray. He was pretty well battered up, but says Page today, "I didn't mind that, for I had vindicated my mother."

You see, that's the type of man Page is, not only then, but today.

Another James Hamilton Lewis story has been revived. It is this: During the 1912 democratic convention at Baltimore, James Hamilton Lewis was neither a member of the senate nor a delegate, yet so great was his power of getting what he wanted and getting it because some one wanted him to have it, that when Senator Ollie James, the chairman of the convention was pounding the gavel along about midnight, Lewis stepped up to the platform and said to James: "You are all tired out—give me the gavel." James smiled broadly, handed over the gavel, and Lewis finished out the night session as if he really belonged there. And he did it well.

DEAD IN BROOKLYN, NORWICH MAN IS SEEN IN NEW LONDON—HAMPTON'S HAUNTED HOUSE

The laying of a "ghost" in Jewett City, as reported by the Bulletin correspondent the other day, revives a ghost story in which a former Norwich man was chief actor, and which, so far from being the hoax that the Jewett City mystery turns out to be, has never been rendered susceptible of rationalistic explanation. This old-time story relates to the appearance in New London of Dr. Luther J. Martin at the very time when he lay dying in a Brooklyn hospital.

The story opens as follows in the Bulletin of Thursday, July 8, 1886:

Career Ends Premature!

The New Haven News of yesterday morning noticed the death of Dr. Martin as follows: "Luther J. Martin, a graduate of the Sheffield Scientific school in the class of 1883, and who recently passed his final examinations at the Long Island Medical college, died at the hospital connected with the college Tuesday after an illness of six days from bronchitis. Mr. Martin though never possessed of great physical strength was an indefatigable student, and recently received a staff appointment at the hospital. He had been at his new and coveted post but two days when he was taken ill.

"The remains were brought to this city Tuesday afternoon and taken to the home of Mr. Martin's mother, Mrs. J. W. Martin, at 361 Elm street. The funeral services will be held at the house this afternoon at 3 o'clock. The interment will take place in Norwich Thursday. Dr. Martin had many friends in this city."

The New Haven Journal and Courier referring to Dr. Martin's decease says: "His age was 24 years. His mother lives in this city and came here to reside when her son entered college. She will have the deep sympathy of a large circle of friends in her sad bereavement, the deceased being her only child.

"Deceased was a native of Norwich, Conn., and resided there previous to coming to Yale. His death will be deplored by a large circle of friends. The funeral will be in Norwich, where his father and sister are buried."

Heart-rending as such a tragedy was in the lives of those who held this young man dear, nothing so far appears which seems to transcend the every-day experience of suffering mortals. It is with the narration of the subjoined developments, published in the Bulletin of Tuesday, Feb. 15, 1887, that the inexplicable element enters the tale of Dr. Martin's death:

A Caller in the Dead of Night

A New Haven dispatch on Saturday to the New York Sun read as follows: "A singular story came to light here today involving the late Dr. Luther J. Martin of New Haven, who died in a Brooklyn hospital recently. Dr. Martin was a Yale graduate, and had just obtained a position at the head of the staff of the hospital when he died.

"He was a very popular man in society here, and was attentive to an estimable young lady of New London. A few days previous to his illness he had written her, and she supposed him in the best of health. When he was taken sick he failed so rapidly that he was not able to write to her. His sickness lasted but a few days.

"On the night of his death the young lady was startled in her sleep by seeing the form of Dr. Martin cross the room, moving toward her couch. At the foot of the bed it stopped and regarded her for a moment silently but pleasantly, and then it moved toward the head of the couch and placed one of its hands caressingly upon her shoulders. It stood in this attitude for a moment and then vanished. At the breakfast table she related the occurrence, remarking:

"'I believe there is something the matter with Lute.'"

Half an hour later a telegram was received announcing the death of Dr. Martin at 4 o'clock that morning, the precise time at which the apparition visited the young lady's bedside."

Hampton's Haunted House

Writing in the Bulletin of Jan. 11, 1913, Sarah Orne Jewett tells of proceedings in Hampton, which are at least as uncanny as the circumstances surrounding the death of Dr. Martin:

There is scarcely a town in New England but that at some time in its history has boasted of a haunted house. Hampton is no exception; 70 years ago it had a genuine one and there are people living today, in Norwich as well as Hampton, who are terrified by the scenes in the Haunted House.

It stands today, an old tumble-down structure, in the southern part of the town, in Howard valley, just east of the Three Bridges on the road leading to Canterbury. It has not been habitable for many years, this little old gambrel-roofed house with its shingled sides and ghostly air, sunken door-sills, gaping window frames and sagging roof.

Tradition says that 100 years ago and more a peddler was murdered in the old house; anyway he disappeared mysteriously, after having lodged in the house, and when the uncanny sights and sounds were heard his memory was revived as being the uneasy ghost which was haunting the place.

A Sword That Groaned

One story goes that a family living there moved out because of the weird noises heard at night. One day the woman, going into the cellar, noticed a sword protruding out of the thick walls of the chimney. Wondering that she never noticed it before, she took hold of it and tried to pull it out, when an awful groaning and shuddering sounded throughout the whole house.

Terrified, she fled up-stairs and told her husband, who at once went into the cellar but failed to see the sword although he had heard the groans and shuddering sounds. Naturally they moved out as soon as possible.

The next family had even a weirder experience. Sounds such as water dripping from the ceiling of the rooms, drip, drip, drip, were often heard, in daytime as well as night. The front door, which opens into a small entry, would never stay fastened all night, no matter how much pains were taken to lock it securely. Nails driven over the latch would be removed; a knife placed in the latch to prevent its being lifted would also prove unavailing; the door was always found to be open when morning came.

In the night all over the house the latches would rattle mysteriously. Going to the doors to investigate, the rattling would cease, only to commence again immediately. Up and down, up and down the latches would rattle as if impish hands were delighting in keeping the family from sleep.

East of the entry opens a living room. Before the south window, which was the front window, the good woman of the house kept her spinning wheel. Her bed stood against the east wall, and a small fireplace was built on the west side into the big center chimney.

Saw a Headless Specter

One evening, some neighbors having come into the kitchen, she opened the door from the kitchen into this bedroom to take out an extra chair. Her little seven year old daughter followed her, as did also a small white dog, the child's pet.

They saw what appeared to them to be the bowed figure of a man outside the window, peering into the room. In a second it seemed to come into the window, right between the spokes of the wheel, and rolling over and over, a headless, hairy body as of a man, it vanished with a whishing noise up the chimney.

The child remembers it perfectly and also her terrible fright at the strange sight. The dog bristled and barked furiously and the mother was as frightened as the child.

The man of the house did not believe in ghosts; he poohed at their story, but one night, some time later he was awakened by something heavy falling on him from the ceiling. In horror he saw that it was the same headless, hairy thing which had frightened his wife and child; and it vanished in the fireplace with the same whishing sound. That frightened him, and he moved his family out at once.

For many years the house was tenantless. About 30 years ago a [illegible] committed suicide there; one of the younger generation who had not heard the stories and could not have been influenced by them.

Only a few of the old people know the story about the Haunted House. This tale is related by my father, Ebenezer Jewett, who says it was a matter of absolute credence, 70 years ago that was a Haunted House.

Perhaps if the house is ever demolished a skeleton will be found in its chimney as was found in another house not far from there several years ago. There are other ghost stories of Hampton, but this is probably the best known of any.

Micah Rood Legend Tomorrow

Tomorrow the Bulletin will republish from an issue of 42 years ago the colonial legend of Micah Rood, "as told to persons still living by old people whose birth dates reached far back into the eighteenth century." This legend, the scene of which is laid in Franklin, adduces the intervention of a supernatural power to account for the small red globule resembling a drop of blood that appears in the variety of apple named after Micah Rood.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

The Fatality At Trading Cove

Mr. Editor: Regarding the killing of one man and the serious injury of another by a criminally careless driver on Trading Cove hill on the 15th of November last. We understand the coroner has exonerated him. He calls it an accident. Now an accident is something that cannot be helped. That driver says he was blinded by the lights of another car. Still he rushed on blindly regardless of the safety of others. He could not have failed to see the trolley car stop and must have known that some one got off.

The streets and highways are full of those potential murderers who go crashing through the night, killing and injuring any others who may be on the road. And still they are given their liberty by a supposedly intelligent coroner to go and do it some more. Kill some more of the public that are keeping that coroner from starvation, whose judgment is moulding in the smugness and complacency of a public office.

We can only hope that driver may forever hear the heart rending cries of that wife and mother and the moans of a baby calling for daddy, and maybe realize the grief and despair of a family bereft of a husband and father and the loss of a friend to everyone he knew.

JAMES W. MURPHY AND DADDY'S FRIENDS

Norwich, Dec. 8, 1930.

The Snow

Mr. Editor: Now and then you will hear some one say: "Someway, I don't like the thought of winter." Everything looks so cold and dreary, the flowers, the foliage and all nature is paying the toll of dissolution, and all nature speaks in no uncertain tones. The wind sighs through the dismantled forests. We hear the rattle of the window blinds. We look through the windows and see some one hurrying by with their coat collar drawn up around their neck, hands stuck deep down in their pockets. You say to the family: "It looks like snow tonight," and this seems to please the younger element, who look forward to the time when they can go coasting down the hill. You can recall when you had the same thoughts, when you used to slide down the old Indian trail that was called in succession Providence turnpike, Back road and finally was dignified by the name of Boswell avenue as is today.

You recall you used to slide down the new road. Of course you know where that was, don't you? Well it was up at the head of 10th street where you started, then down across Prospect street, across Central avenue and so on down to the "lower road" now called North Main street, and yes, we went over the bank one night and up against the railroad embankment. Were we scared? Well for a minute, yes, but we went right back and tried it over again. Well, no use disguising the fact. We were a tough bunch of kids, and I can hear you old timers say, "Me too." Thanks. I accept the nomination.

Winter, too, had its charms, but we look at it now from a different angle. Perhaps there is a reason. How well do I remember when we used to slide down, I can't get used to saying coast down, so I just intend to be stubborn and say slide down, the back road, turn into 12th street and across Central avenue down into North Main street across the railroad track and right to the Grist mill. Boy, what a walk back! Wouldn't it be a good idea if we could tip the hill up and slide back again. After all, that wouldn't be so good, for you would have missed the walk back, not alone, oh, no, but with a nice girl. You held her hand in yours and the sled rope was around your shoulders. And what you talked about! Probably it didn't amount to a hill of beans. Alright, you old timers, don't need to look so bashful for all this was just the poetry of life, all so real and all so beautiful, the tender memories of those other yesterdays when life was just tinted with the bright colors of youth. It seems to me that there has come in recent years many noticeable changes in nature's world for we do not have snow storms of such intensity as we did in early days. That fact is apparent to all, but when we had a real snow storm and we looked from the window upon the trees all decorated with snow, and then the morning sun came out beyond the eastern horizon, we saw nature's crystals, sparkling, scintillating like millions of diamonds. You may never see anything more beautiful than all this and nothing more magnificent than this display of gems in the sunlit air. I wonder if you have ever wandered through the woods when the snow was underfoot like a great big carpet. Everything looked so bare, so bleak and cold. Here and there you can see the trail of Brer rabbit with his tell-tale tracks, or perhaps a partridge frightened at your approach rises with a sound like the bursting of a miniature bomb in the air. You note the pines all trimmed with white where the snow has fallen upon them. The sun is shimmering in all its winter brilliancy, dazzling, and you are pleased that you had the forethought to put on your darkened glasses so you would not get "snow blind." So we used to wander on with our pals, happy and without a thought of tomorrow. Here and there we would just wallow through the drifting snow. Somehow we have the hope and believe that spring will soon return with the flowers and the warm sun and nature will once again adorn the foliage. If we did not believe all this it would be indeed a dreary world. There is much more I could say about the snow for it is the friend of man and is not to be disliked for it covers all vegetation with a warm blanket, and as you look across the fields with the sun glistening upon it, it looks not unlike a great big carpet that is strewn with diamonds and pearls. Yet, now in the evening of my life, I don't like winter, for the reality has lost its charm.

YOUR HEALTH

Jaundice: What Causes It? Is It Serious?

By A. C. Ivy, M. D., Professor of Physiology, Northwestern University Medical School, Chicago.

(From Gorgas Memorial Institute)

Nearly every adult has seen or heard of a new-born baby or a sick person who has been afflicted with jaundice, a condition in which usually the whites of the eyes and the skin are yellow. They have wondered why this happens, what it means, and if it is serious. These are questions which mystified ancient peoples. But today we can answer these questions because of the advent of anesthesia and clean surgery, and the discoveries in chemistry and physiology.

Do you know that every new-born baby has jaundice! Some call this a "physiological jaundice," because it occurs so commonly and not serious. Not every new-born baby has a visible jaundice, but about one-third of them do. In the other two-thirds, it is necessary to test their blood. When this is done it is found that all have varying degrees of jaundice and that a rather large amount of yellow pigment (hence, the yellow color seen sometimes following a bruise) called bilirubin. This yellow pigment is excreted by the liver in the bile. The bile ducts in the liver collect it like so many little creeks, which join together to form a single duct has a branch connecting it with the gall bladder which serves as a reservoir. This single duct opens into the intestine into which the bile is emptied.

When this single or common bile duct is occluded by a gall stone, a cancer, or inflammation (inflammation stops it up just as inflammation occludes the nose when one has a cold), the bile cannot pass into the intestine, and the pigment accumulates in the blood and tissues. The kidney eliminates some of the bile pigments when this occurs, but not enough to prevent jaundice. This type of jaundice is called obstructive jaundice.

There is another type of jaundice. The liver not only makes bile pigment, but it excretes bile pigment formed by other tissues. So, if the liver is diseased, it cannot eliminate the pigment made by other tissues, and yellow pigment accumulates in the blood and tissues. This type of jaundice occurs occasionally in such diseases as typhoid and syphilis, in pregnancy and following poisons such as phosphorous. This is a very serious type of jaundice.

CHILD TRAINING

Mrs. "Jelly Roll"

Waldon J. Kain

The children called her Mrs. "Jelly Roll" and though their mothers were constantly insisting that they say Mrs. Jennie Rowle she was loved by them little better than by the younger generation. Her name, whatever it was, meant a lot of discomfort to the boys and girls of the neighborhood and mortification to their parents. She had gladly been the cause of many a trip to that institution of correction, the woodshed, through her careful scrutiny of children at play. It is needless to say that her unpopularity enjoyed an undaunted security in the minds of her child "friends," but she was so unselfish in her interest in "Young America" that she would even neglect her work, rather than see discipline withheld from the offending youth.

Today was a red-letter day with Mrs. Rowle, because at last she could go to Mrs. Brown and tell her of the misbehavings of the latter's two little boys, ages six and eight. So, with full enthusiasm, she dropped her dish-towel and hurried to meet the young mother who was coming down the road from the store.

"Good afternoon!" she fairly shouted. "You're Mrs. Brown, I believe."

"Good afternoon," was the reply. "Yes, I'm Mrs. Brown."

"Well, I'm Mrs. Rowle." She didn't notice the faint smile that flickered over the other's face. "I've come to see what you're going to do about those two kids of yours."

"You mean my two little boys?" A dangerous look crept into the eyes of the young mother. "What of them?"

"Well, I want you to give them a sound thrashing. I caught them in your woodshed, a-smoking a cigar, told them I was going to have you give them a beating," and she smiled victoriously.

"Please don't try to tell me how to discipline my children," Mrs. Brown replied with dignity. "I can do that without any help."

For once, Mrs. Rowle went home thoroughly chagrined, sputtering about the ingratitude of her young neighbor.

Mrs. Brown, on the other hand, was more deeply concerned with this bit of news than she had seemed. As every mother knows, the handling of such a problem is of the utmost importance. She would not punish her two small boys after the fashion suggested by her nosey neighbor, but she called them to her and explained to them the foolishness of smoking.

"Wise" and "foolish" had real meaning in their vocabularies because they had learned to try things for themselves. The cigars had not given the pleasurable sensations they had anticipated. Mrs. Brown's few well chosen remarks about the harmful effects of tobacco were believed because mother always told them the truth about things. It seemed to them that the use of tobacco must be like over-eating, lying in bed very late when well or sleeping with all the windows closed. The two lads were greatly impressed.

Thirteen years later Mrs. Brown was dusting in her sons' bedroom when she accidentally knocked down a bundle of papers. She straightened them up, and her eyes fell on a theme, written by her eldest boy, who was a college freshman.

The title of the writing was "My Most Valuable Lesson." Imagine the feeling of happiness and satisfaction that Mrs. Brown felt, when she read an account of the above mentioned incident. Evidently, from the paper, both of these boys had reaped great benefit from the watchfulness of Mrs. "Jelly Roll." But, doubtless, you will agree with me that their case was very likely the one exception that proved the rule which discountenances such services as hers.

A Washington Bystander

By KIRKE L. SIMPSON
Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, Dec. 8 — Gov. Franklin Roosevelt of New York, with his three-quarter million majority safely stowed away to make his re-election a record breaking affair, probably grinned when he read the list of contributors to republican state campaign funds.

It discloses some distinguished names. There is Charles Evans Hughes, for instance, only it's "junior," not the chief justice. And there is Henry L. Stimson, dean of the Hoover cabinet and who had unpleasant things to say about Roosevelt's abilities as a governor when he mixed in the New York campaign.

Or there is Roosevelt's personal friend and political foe, F. Trubee Davison, air secretary at the war department. He put up $6,500, records filed at Albany show. And all they got was that three-quarter million Roosevelt majority.

Cheap At That

Davison probably got off cheaply, at that. Gossip had it in Washington while the New York republicans were still looking about for a man to run against Roosevelt, that he had been sounded out. It is even said that he communicated with his friend, Roosevelt, about it and was assured it would be a waste of time.

That seems to have been good advice. Roosevelt apparently knew about as much as anybody did about what was going to happen on election day.

A pool was made up by the newspapermen "covering" Roosevelt's campaign. It involved guessing at his probable majority. They were all certain he would show a majority but differed widely as to its size.

Roosevelt himself insisted on taking a chance, and his guess was far the highest. He won the pool, the prize being a suit of clothes, although his guess was only about half his actual majority.

Gets a Chiding

Stimson was subjected to a bit of wise-cracking by the state department reporters when New York results were tabulated, since he took so active a part in the campaign. He took it in good part.

The internal row in Brazil was about all the reporters could think to ask about when they met Stimson in press conference the day after election.

"Is there any development in the Brazilian revolution?" one reporter asked.

There was none, and Stimson said so. Then another reporter spoke up.

"Could you comment on the American revolution?" he suggested.

Stimson laughed.

"Well," he said, "it seems to be almost as complete although accomplished by different methods."

Stories That Recall Others

Pleasant Pain

A boy walked into a dentist's office and after considerable hesitation said:

"Say, Doctor, my folks sent me to you to get a tooth pulled. I just couldn't get up the nerve to have it done—so I've spent the money."

"But what will I tell your folks?"

"Tell them nothing—just let me suffer."

Trying It Out

Bobby took keen delight in cutting kindling. His father had just bought a new hatchet and Bobby was trying it out. Father was watching him from a window and as Bobby seemed about to chop the hatchet into the ground he opened the window and said: "Bobby, you must not chop the hatchet into the ground; it will make it dull."

Bobby answered: "I won't, Daddy. I am going to chop this piece of iron in two."

DIAL PHONES CONTROL AIR BEACON REMOTELY

WASHINGTON—(AP)—Three widely separated dials resembling automatic telephones are the check and double check of federal airways engineers on a new radio beacon across the Potomac river.

One is in Maryland at a station where weather broadcasts go out to pilots in the air, another is in a downtown Washington office where commerce department officials work, and the third in the radio range house in Virginia.

The phones are on a private system and the dialing of two numbers at either of the three remote control points automatically stops or starts a stream of dots and dashes that go out from the range to form "paths" for airmen to follow to landing fields.

Civil Aviation Advancing

KINGSTON, England —(AP)— Indicative of the advance in civil aviation during recent years is the completion of a factory here which will be engaged exclusively in production of airplane engines for civil airplanes.

CROWDED HOUSE GREETS FIRST SHOWING OF AMER. LEGION PLAY

A crowded house heartily applauded the collegiate comedy, Aunt Lucia, staged Monday evening at the Masonic temple, under the auspices of R. O. Fletcher post, No. 4, American Legion, for the benefit of the unemployed of Norwich. The comedy is classed as among the most successful amateur productions of its kind ever staged in Norwich and well merited the splendid support accorded by the public of Norwich. The house is practically sold out for the second and final performance to be given this (Tuesday) evening.

Including the children's pageant, there are over 150 local persons in the cast. Many of those in the cast are well-known business and professional men and women.

The programme opened with a children's pageant, Take Me Back to Babyland, with Miss Dorothy Pasnik as the dramatic reader. The pageant was roundly applauded by the large audience. The Bula Bula Glee club appeared next and made a decided hit, as did the Co-Ed chorus.

The Famous Flapper chorus, comprising well-known local men in feminine attire, brought down the house.

The cast follows:

Y. M. C. A. SERVICE WITH PICTURE ON "HERITAGE"

An unusually large audience completely filled the large gymnasium of the local Y. M. C. A. Sunday afternoon. Quite a number stood during the entire service. The meeting opened with scripture reading and prayer, and this was followed by the singing of "America."

The four reel moving picture "Heritage" was shown with impressive effect. It was the story of a bright boy, who was stolen when a baby. For several years he went through hardships and suffering, but finally he came to his own when in a very unusual way he discovered his parents, and joy reigned in a home of affluence.

During the service Secretary Edwin Hill spoke briefly as follows: When we speak of heritage we mean that which was handed down to us. We have the heritage of our great America. George Washington and Abraham Lincoln, through sacrifice and suffering helped in a real way to make our country, and countless others did the same, that we might enjoy this wonderful heritage. Our parents and our homes are in most cases a genuine heritage to us. Our fathers and mothers were willing to sacrifice much for us. Alas, I wonder sometimes if the majority of the young folks of this day and time really appreciate what their parents mean to them or what our forefathers did for us.

The greatest heritage came to us from the kind Heavenly Father; He has made it possible for us to live and without His daily help we would not survive at all. Do we appreciate what God and Christ mean to us? Let us learn more and more to appreciate what others have done in our behalf, and let us act as though we appreciate their sacrifices.

Robert Otis furnished appropriate music on the piano.

DRAW HEAVY PENALTIES FOR MOTOR LAW VIOLATIONS

Heavy penalties were imposed on two men on motor vehicle law violations when they were presented in the city court Monday morning. Antonio Dubreuil, 21, and Albert Bruso, 18, were the two accused. Dubreuil was fined $25 and costs for driving without a license, $5 for driving with defective brakes and was sent to jail for 30 days for evading responsibility. Judgment was suspended on a charge of reckless driving. Bruso drew a fine of $50 and costs for reckless driving. He paid $60.60. Charges of evading responsibility and driving with defective brakes were dropped.

The duo were arrested Sunday afternoon after a truck driven by one or the other of them hooked into a machine operated by Dr. Henry T. Johnson of New London. After the accident the accused changed seats and the truck was driven away. They did not stop to see what damage they had caused to the physician's machine. They left the truck on Falls avenue, near the Central Vermont station. Officers Albert Lamphere and Clifford Crary later arrested the two. Dubreuil had previously been arrested on a charge of driving without a license and was convicted.

NEW MILFORD PASTOR AT LOCAL CHURCH MONDAY

Rev. Joseph H. King of New Milford, Conn., a native of Norwich, read the 8 o'clock low mass in St. Patrick's church Monday, the Feast of the Immaculate Conception. Rev. John J. Reilly read the mass at 5:30 and Rt. Rev. Msgr. M. H. May that at 7. The Altar society members had adorned the marble altar of the Blessed Virgin Mary with white chrysanthemums and pink rose buds and the same roses were at the shrines. The organist, Henry J. LaFontaine, played a program of festival music, the junior choir singing portions of the Gregorian Mass according to the Justine Ward method, also giving several hymns. The recessional was Holy God, We Praise Thy Name. The vestments and altar hangings were in white and gold. In giving holy communion to a very large number, Rev. Father King was assisted by Rev. James E. Dargan. Large congregations were at the earlier services also and there were many at communion.

A sixteen-year-old boy in Merrimack county, New Hampshire, canned 1,251 quarts of fruit and vegetables this summer.

HADASSAH DANCE WITH SKETCH CLEVERLY GIVEN

The Wauregan hotel ballroom Monday evening had a close to capacity crowd for the dance given by Norwich chapter of Hadassah, with an amusing sketch as a prelude, and the proceeds will be around $150.

The sketch, Just Out of the Hospital, was cleverly given by the cast who were the following in order of their appearance: Mrs. Weeks, Rivy Risenberg; Mrs. Strong, Fagie Mandell; Mr. Weeks, Harry Schwartz.

Dancing followed the sketch, the committee in charge of the evening being Mrs. J. N. Rosenberg, Mrs. F. Hertz, Mrs. J. Gordon, Mrs. I. Beckenstein, Mrs. A. Meyers, Mrs. M. I. Silverman, Mrs. A. Agranovitch, Mrs. M. Levine and Mrs. H. Libby.

MASSACHUSETTS WOMEN IN WESTERLY HOSPITAL

WESTERLY, R. I., Dec. 8.—(AP)—Mrs. Pauline Jacobson, 38, of 61 Knoll street, Roslindale, Mass., and Mrs. Minnie Weesul, 39, of 301 Otis street, West Newton, Mass., were brought to Westerly hospital early this morning, following an accident on the Nooseneck Hill road, near Hopkinton, in which automobiles operated by George Rumbe, of Dedham, Mass., and William Phillips, of Ashaway, were involved.

Mrs. Jacobson sustained numerous lacerations of the face when thrown into the windshield of Rumbe's car. Mrs. Weesul suffered injuries to her chest, nose and right leg. Rumbe was detained by state police, pending investigation of the accident.

ANNUAL LADIES' NIGHT BY PARK CHURCH MEN

The Men's club of Park Congregational church held its annual ladies' night Friday evening with a supper at 7 o'clock, having about 66 present. The entertainment for the evening was continued after supper by a programme by the Imperial Entertainers, of which Charles E. Hall is manager giving a very enjoyable rendering of Negro Spirituals, with recitations and a clever sleight of hand performance.

President Lyle H. Fillmore presided and there were interesting remarks by the pastor, Rev. Dr. T. M. Shipherd, and by Rev. W. M. Wilton of the First Congregational church. The entertainment was in charge of the committee of which Arthur Wirth is chairman.

VICTORY LODGE SUPPER FOR 12TH ANNIVERSARY

The members of Victory lodge No. 4, I. O. O. L. M. U., served a supper in Steiner hall Saturday evening in honor of their twelfth anniversary. Covers were laid for about 80 members, some coming from Baltic, New London, and Waterbury.

Meat and potatoes, pies, rolls, and pickles and assorted cakes, with coffee comprised the menu.

After the supper dancing was enjoyed, music being furnished by a Victrola kindly loaned by the Hanover-Curland company.

SABBATH OBSERVANCE THEME OF REV. J. E. DARGAN

Continuing his series of sermons on the ten commandments, Rev. James E. Dargan preached Sunday morning before the customary crowded church at St. Patrick's, at the third of the four masses of the day. His text was the third commandment, Remember to keep holy the Sabbath day. Recalling this solemn comand to Moses as recorded in Exodus, to observe and to sanctify the seventh day of the week, under the Old Law, the preacher touched upon the rest for mind and body which it implied, and the religious work which it enjoined.

Under the dispensation of the New Law we are observing the first day of the week as the Sabbath, the day of rest. The Apostles, the successors of Christ, by virtue of the authority conferred on them fixed the first day as the one to be specially observed, since the work of creation began on the first day, Christ rose from the dead on the first day of the week. He sent down the Holy Ghost upon His apostles on that day. The time is not so important as is the conviction of the necessity of such a command as is enunciated in the third commandment. While men in general have it in their conscience to worship God, mankind becomes absorbed in the pleasures and affairs of the world, turns away or drifts away from spiritual duties or obligations, hence the church has to remind us of what is required of us.

The "back-to-church" movement is one index of the reaction which sets in after Sabbath observance has been neglected or ignored. Conditions in Mexico and Russia were cited as among deplorable results of that spiritual laxity which Pope Benedict XV, in his time, bewailed as sheer forgetfulness of God and of religion. The church is wise in imposing upon her children the obligation of the observance of at least one day each week, when by words and works and prayers they may add to the volume of homage to Almighty God, giver of all gifts and worthy of everlasting praise, honor and glory.

Rev. Father Dargan announced that Monday the feast of the Immaculate Conception of the Blessed Virgin Mary and one of the six days of the year which are holy days of obligation, to be kept with the solemnity of Sunday masses would be at 5:30, 7 and 8 o'clock. In preparation for this feast, the priests heard confessions Sunday from 4 to 5 and from 7 to 8 of those desiring to receive holy communion at one of the three masses in the morning. Anticipating the feast, the organist, Henry J. LaFontaine had the junior choir sing "Mary, Conceived Without Sin," another of their hymns being "Praise to Thee, O, Sacred Heart." Mr. LaFontaine's organ interlude at communion time was The Lost Chord. Father Dargan assisted Rev. John J. Reilly in giving communion to such a large number of penitents as to give almost the impression of a Sunday during a mission time. The day was the second Sunday in Advent and all the priests read in their masses as the gospel of the Sunday, Matthew 11.2-10.

FOUR OF CHAMPION WESTERLY TEAM ON BULLETIN'S CONFERENCE ELEVEN

Two Academy men, Mike Abugie, center, and Ernie Stevens, guard, are placed on The Bulletin's annual all-conference football first team published today. This is the smallest Wildcat representation in at least the last six years that these teams have been published. Zictora cis the only Academy player on the second team, he being at quarterback.

Westerly high, which won its second straight title and went through the conference schedule without a defeat or tie, leads in first team selections with four places. Windham has two and Stonington, Bulkeley and Chapman Tech one each.

The backfield, one that would compare favorably with any in Connecticut and Rhode Island, consists of Bernie Stenhouse, Westerly, quarterback, Freddy Hewitt, Chapman Tech, and Bob Mudge, Westerly, halves and Eddie Goyette, Stonington fullback. The latter played at a halfback post during the year but seems capable of fitting into the fullback job and doing just as good work as he accomplished at halfback.

On the second team, besides Zictorac, there are two Chapman Tech men, three from Bulkeley, four from Windham and one from Stonington, Westerly having no representation.

There are several of the second team men, who, by some queer twist of fate, probably were kept off the first string array. One of these is Zictorne, who, with a winning team, would without a doubt have been one of the stars of the conference and by the same token one of the Academy's best of recent years. He seemed to have everything but interference.

There is hardly a player to recommend for all-state honors this year unless it be Bob Mudge, the brilliant Westerly halfback, who did so much to bring Coach Rogers' team through its tough schedule with only one defeat.

INGRAM PUTS CHARGES THROUGH SIGNAL DRILL

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Dec. 8—(AP)—Navy Coach Bill Ingram, believing the three weeks comparative rest which his regulars had before the Penn game last Saturday did them more good than a rough-and-tumble preparation programme, today started to prepare for the charity game with the Army in New York on Saturday with a light workout.

Ingram believes his regulars have reached the peak of their strength, having recovered from the battering received in five hard games in a row in mid-season with little replacement material to rest his varsity. Just enough work to keep the Tars in shape was the programme at the academy for the three weeks preceding the Penn game, which Navy won 26 to 0.

All regulars came out of that clash in good shape, and one of the most cheering results was the return of Johnny Gannon, halfback, to the form he displayed in the 1928 season when he was one of the most dependable backs on the Middy list.

Gannon faded from the picture after the Dartmouth game last season, but Saturday he gave a highly satisfactory demonstration of ball carrying.

Another spark of cheer gained from the last few games was the development of Tom Hurley, another back who showed great driving power in the conquest of Pennsylvania. He has been a dependable ball carrier, but reached the height of his game Saturday.

The rest of Ingram's backs, including the little 152-pound battering ram, Lou Kirn, are in good shape.

Only a signal drill was given the squad today. Tomorrow a light scrimmage session to perfect new plays is on the programme. The team is to leave here Thursday and hold the final workout in New York Friday.

FOUR GAMES SCHEDULED FOR TONIGHT AT PLAINFIELD

Tonight's Schedule

7:30—Jewett City vs. Westerly.

8:30 New London Independents vs. New London Boys' club.

9:30—Willimantic vs. Putnam

10—Plainfield vs. Danielson.

Referees, Bitgood and Williams.

Tonight at the Plainfield Community house the weekly play of the popular southern New England basketball league will be staged with four likely-looking contests on the schedule. This league, which was formed over a month ago, has produced some exceptionally fine exhibitions and tonight should prove no exception.

One of the highlights of the evening will be the clash between the two New London teams, the Indies and the Boys' club. This goes on at 8:30 and will be fraught with rivalry aside from the regular league competition.

Another battle is seen in the 10 o'clock or closing game when Plainfield and Danielson tangle. These two teams are seen by some as the class of the circuit and these fans claim that this game may have quite a bit of a bearing on the championship.

BASS GETS HAIRLINE DECISION OVER JADICK

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 8.—(AP)—Benny Bass, Philadelphia, junior lightweight champion, belted his way to a hairline decision over Johnny Jadick, also of Philadelphia, in a terrific ten-round battle at the Arena tonight. Bass weighed 129; Jadick 132. Bass' title was not at stake.

Matt Adgie, Philadelphia Iceman, made short work of Mike Sullivan, Atlantic City, in the eight-round semi-windup, knocking him out with a right to the chin 16 seconds after the opening of the second round. Adgie weighed 172, Sullivan 191.

DENY NEW RULING IS DIRECTED AGAINST JONES

NEW HAVEN, Dec. 8—(AP)—The Yale A. A. tonight made public a ruling of the board of control of the association under which, in the future, any person connected with Yale athletics, will be prohibited from speaking over the radio or writing newspaper articles.

Announcement of the ruling followed circulation of rumors that such a ruling had been passed. In making the announcement, officials of the Yale A. A. denied that the action had been directed against the activities of Tad Jones, as rumors had declared. On the contrary, according to Prof. R. Selden Rose, chairman of the board of control, Jones himself favored the move.

Jones, his connection with the advisory committee automatically severed with the dissolution of the body at the end of the football season, was not today expected to become a member of the new committee now being formed. This supposition, voiced by those close to Yale athletic matters, was confirmed by a report tonight from Los Angeles, where the former Yale coach is meeting with other leaders of the football world, that he has indicated not to be reappointed, and did not expect to be.

Officials of the association today reported that no word had been received from Jones in this matter.

Jones has for several years been writing a series of articles on football for newspapers. Mal Stevens, Yale head coach, has also engaged in such activity recently. Both have been mentioned in radio broadcasts.

The ruling of the board of control, passed at the meeting November 24 and just made public today, reads:

"No one associated with Yale athletics in any official capacity shall write for the daily press or speak over the radio."

ARMY STARTS PRACTICE FOR BIG CHARITY GAME

WEST POINT, N. Y., Dec. 8.—(AP)—Launching practice today in preparation for the big charity game with the Navy in New York on Saturday, Major Ralph I. Sasse, Army football coach, sounded a warning that "the Navy is 100 per cent better than at any previous time this season."

"Bill Ingram has developed a smooth running attack which is perfectly coordinated," said Sasse, who saw the Midshipmen in their decisive victory over Penn last Saturday. "It is obvious that the team has found itself"

In practice today, Sasse lined up his first team with Messenger and King at ends, Carlson and Humber, guards; Suarez and Price, tackles; Miller at center, Bowman at quarterback, Glattly and Fields, half-backs, and Herb at full-back.

The workout started with group work, then moved to the scrimmage machine, where Sasse worked to smooth out the new combinations in his attack. Particular attention was given to Carlson. In the back-field, Kilday, Carver and MacWilliam were also worked.

In full speed scrimmage, the Army Plebes put on the Navy attack with considerable success. Several weak spots developed, particularly at right guard and in the secondary defense of the varsity, and the Plebes rushed through for big gains.

The session closed with the varsity team on the attack against the scrubs. During this workout Dick King, left end, was injured and replaced by Fletcher.

DETROIT CLOWNS SIGNED TO PLAY PLAINFIELD PROS

Thursday night the Plainfield Pros meet the Detroit Clowns in what is expected to be one of the fastest games to be played at the Plainfield Community house this season. They also have an extra attraction in Buster Keeney, king of clowns, regarded as Nick Altrock's greatest rival.

Manager Lester Saulsbury is still undecided who will oppose the strong Detroit team. He will have the following men to pick from: Conway, Marchiniak, Bernot, Casper, Williams, Nadeler, Karlin and Dissinger. Paul Bitgood will referee in place of Dave Harper, who has been called away to New York.

TO PLAY NOTRE DAME AT SOUTH BEND NEXT NOV. 21

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 8—(AP)—Three intersectional games are listed on the 1931 football schedules of Southern California, Stanford and California, announced today.

Southern California will repay the visit of Notre Dame to the Pacific coast with a game at South Bend next November 21. Stanford will play Dartmouth at Boston, November 28. Stanford and Minnesota are scheduled for Palo Alto, October 10.

Eight members of the Auburn football team will be lost to the varsity squad by graduation this year.

SPORT BRIEFS

CLEVELAND, Dec. 8—(AP)—The Cleveland Rosenblums, 1929-30 champions of the American Basketball league, withdrew from membership late today.

ADELAIDE, Australia—The South Australia cricket team today won the match with the West Indies by ten wickets.

TORONTO, Ont.—In an effort to patch up the forward line of the Maple Leafs, Manager Connie Smythe today announced the signing of "Hap" Hamel, former scoring star of the Hamilton Tigers in the International Hockey league and member of the Brantford club in the Canadian Pro league last season.

NEW YORK—Billy Jacobs of Baltimore City college will defend his national junior indoor tennis championship at the Seventh Regiment armory beginning Dec. 26, it was announced today. The boys' championship will be held at the same time.

LAKE PLACID, N. Y.—The sport of curling has been added to the programme of the winter Olympics at Lake Placid in February, 1932, as one of the two demonstrations permitted under Olympic rules, it was announced today. The other demonstration will be dog sled racing.

CHICAGO—President Walter Dill Scott of Northwestern university turned over a check for $100,000 to Gov. L. L. Emmerson's commission on unemployment and relief today. The check covers anticipated receipts from next year's Northwestern-Notre Dame football game in Soldier Field stadium.

COLUMBUS—Wesley Fesler was a one-man team for Ohio State this season. He started at fullback in the first game, then went back to his regular post at right end and wound up doing double-duty.

HOMOSASSA, Fla.—Dazzy Vance, the Brooklyn Robins' hurling ace, has bought the Homosassa hotel, and travelers may soon be greeted by the sign "Dazzy Vance, prop."

LOS ANGELES—Whittier college this year boasted the first victory over Pomona college in nine years of football competition. The Whittier Poets took their opponents, 33-6.

NORTH HUDSON, Wis.—Anders Haugen, former national ski champion, is building a huge ski slide here to replace the one blown down last spring.

SEATTLE—A new rule in the Pacific Coast Hockey league that prohibited offensive players from crossing the blue line ahead of the puck caused such a howl among customers that it has been abandoned.

SYDNEY, Australia—Hundreds of miniature golf courses are now operating in every Australian city and every state, so greatly has the craze caught on.

PULLMAN, Wash. — Mel Hein, Washington State center and All-America candidate, this year has kept his record clear of never making a bad pass in varsity competition.

NEW YORK—Alabama represents the south in the All-America eleven for the second straight year. Line-splitting Tony Holm was the choice for fullback in 1929 and Fred Sington, 215-pound tackle, was chosen this year.

NEW HAVEN—Yale fencers tonight defeated the team of the Canadian Internationalists by a score of 19 to 8. This was the first event of the Yale winter sports season.

PINEHURST, N. C.—S. C. Bradley, dog breeder of Fairfield, Conn., is one of the judges of the annual carnival of the Continental Field club of America, which opened here today.

HAMILTON, N. Y.—Tommy Doyle, veteran Colgate guard, today was added to the all-east team which will meet the west in San Francisco on New Year's day in the annual benefit contest for the Shriners' hospital.

PHILADELPHIA—The annual Interscholastic basketball tournament held under the auspices of the University of Pennsylvania, will not be arranged this season, Ralph Morgan, chairman of the Red and Blue basketball committee, announced tonight.

Capt. John McEwan, Holy Cross football coach, has signed a new three year contract.

NORWICH JR. BASKETBALL LEAGUE FORMED WITH SIX SCHOOL TEAMS

The listing of St. Patrick's and St. Mary's schools on Monday completed the organization of the first Norwich Junior basketball league and, according to the co-sponsors of the circuit, everything is now ready for the opening on Friday, Dec. 19, at 4:30, at the Norton Memorial gym at the Academy. This is a week later than the original starting date, this being made necessary because of the limited time the schools have had to practice.

The first week's games bring together Broadway and Greeneville, Elizabeth street vs. St. Patrick's and Samuel Huntington vs. St. Mary's. The remainder of the schedule for the first round follows: Jan. 9, Greeneville vs. Elizabeth, Broadway vs. St. Mary's, St. Patrick's vs. Samuel Huntington. Jan. 16, Elizabeth vs. Samuel Huntington, St. Patrick's vs. Broadway, St. Mary's vs. Greeneville. Jan. 23, St. Patrick's vs. St. Mary's, Elizabeth vs. Broadway, Samuel Huntington vs. Greeneville. Jan. 30, St. Mary's vs. Elizabeth; Samuel Huntington vs. Broadway, Greeneville vs. St. Patrick's.

A practice schedule has also been arranged in order to allow the schools an opportunity to get used to the game. This is as follows: Friday, Dec. 12, all teams at Norton Memorial building, 4:30-6 o'clock; Saturday morning, Dec. 13, all teams at Norton Memorial building, 9-11:30 o'clock.

The purpose of the league is to develop a spirit of friendly competition among the students of the grammar schools and to accustom the boys to the fundamentals of this sport. The aim will be to promote healthy bodies, clean sportsmanship and fair play among the boys of the city.

The following are the rules and regulations which will govern the league:

1. Each team must be uniformed in gym clothing, consisting of shirt, shorts and sneakers.
2. A towel must be brought by each player each time he comes to actually play or practice.
3. All games are to be played at the Norton Memorial building.
4. Time of games is Friday afternoons promptly at 4:30.
5. Any team not on the floor and ready to play at starting time will forfeit the game to its opponent, unless notice is given four hours previous to starting time.
6. A list of players from each school must be in the hands of the directors one week before the opening of the schedule which is December 19th, 1930. Additions to this list may be made at any time by the principal of the school.
7. It is requested that teams be accompanied by a teacher or principal of the school.
8. All games to be governed by Spalding's official rules.
9. Playing time — four, six-minute quarters, with ten minutes between the halves.
10. All officials to be appointed by the Messrs. Bitgood and Demarest.
11. Basketballs for the games and practice periods to be furnished by the sponsors of the league.

PUTNAM DEFEATED BY PLAINFIELD IN SOCCER

The Plainfield soccer team defeated Putnam at Plainfield Sunday. The first half started at a fast pace, both teams battling on even terms for about 25 minutes, Putnam finally breaking through to score the first goal. This was followed quickly with a shot by Lang. The score remained the same until half-time when Plainfield came back strong in the second half, scoring their second goal in about the first two minutes of play, which was followed by another score by Wilkinson. The Plainfield backs kept the Putnam forwards away from the Plainfield goal throughout the last half.

Mette, Plainfield's center halfback, kept Fenton, Putnam center forward, under cover at all times, beating him to the kick, time and time again. Fenton, who had scored a goal in every game up till today was at no time in scoring position or even as much as to get a shot within 15 yards of the goal. Mette was easily the outstanding player for Plainfield, being backed up by some of the best defensive work ever seen in Plainfield by Marriott and Allard.

Plainfield will play Baltic at Baltic Sunday.

GREENLEAF BEATS BOATMAN 125 to 18 IN EIGHT INNINGS

NEW YORK, Dec. 8.—(AP)—With the same cool, calculating stroke that has marked his parade through the billiard world for 11 years, Ralph Greenleaf successfully opened the defense of his world's pocket-billiard title tonight at Dwyer's Billiard academy.

Meeting Thomas Boatman, of Portland, Ore., in the opening match of the round robin tournament involving eight of the nation's best, the "Boy Wonder" of a decade ago reeled off two brilliant innings and won 125 to 18 in eight innings. In the fourth inning he clicked off 43 points before scratching on a comparatively easy shot, lost three points on scratches in the next three frames and then finished the game with a brilliant unfinished run of 85.

Clapper Pays $269.20 For $2.

NEW ORLEANS, La., Dec. 8.—(AP)—Clapper, owned by G. H. Foster, and ridden by Apprentice Danny Froggate at Jefferson park today won the sixth race by a nose and paying $269.60 for each $2 certificate. Clapper paid $99.20 for $2 to place and $19.40 for $2 to show. His approximate odds on the board were posted as $60 to $1.

SHYMAS PLAY STAFFORD TONIGHT

For this evening's game at Parish hall, Taftville, the management of the Shymas club has signed the Stafford Springs quintet, members of the Southern New England Basketball league. Stafford Springs is in fourth place in the league standing with two wins and three losses, and are right behind Willimantic in third. And the members of this league are supposed to have the fastest basketball teams in this section.

How the Shymas will fare against this aggregation will be seen tonight in their fourth contest of the season, having won one and lost two. That record is not considered bad insofar as the team is playing together for the first season and are not expected to start off with all wins to their credit. The team has been putting in a great deal of practice in preparation for the up state boys and from the way it played in its last tilt it would not be surprising to see the local boys take a fall out of Stafford Springs.

Lefty Dugas, who is better known in the baseball world, will probably see service tonight in the right forward position, either he or Lefty Wilk starting the game. Wilk has shown that he understands a thing or two about basketball in past games and much is expected from him against the opposition. Tom Coleman will be there to jump at center, with Les Pingree, captain, at right guard and Lemieux at left guard, Adams acting as sub.

The teams' lineups:

Shymas.	Stafford Springs
Gauthier, lg	rg, Bidorni
Lefty Dugas, Lefty Wilk, rg	lg, Ricci
Tom Coleman, c	c, Smith
Les Pingree, rg	lf, Tantiera, McLagen
Lemieux, lg	rf, Houle

In the preliminary game the Shymas Juniors will play the Y Emps.

TO CONFER WITH MAJORS WED. ON DRAFT PROBLEM

By HERBERT W. BARKER

NEW YORK, Dec. 8—(AP)—The well-known draft controversy came to the rescue of harassed baseball reporters covering the mid-winter meetings of the National and American leagues today and gave them something to write about.

While major league club owners and managers indulged in spirited but fruitless conversations in the lobby of the Hotel Commodore, the committee of nine from the three class AA leagues, International, Pacific Coast and American association, went into a huddle on the 20th floor and finally came forth with the announcement that a conference with the majors on the draft problem would be held in the Hotel Roosevelt at 10 o'clock Wednesday morning.

This announcement came after a series of incidents that sent the "war correspondents" scurrying up and down the hotel elevators in a spectacular chase after the "low down" on the draft situation.

Originally an informal conference between the rival groups had been set for 1 o'clock but it was abandoned, chiefly, it was said, because the American league was not represented.

After that failure another effort was to have been made to get the two parties to the dispute together at 4 o'clock, but before that happened representatives of the committee of nine came forth with their announcement and added that nothing would be done until Wednesday.

Just who was to represent the major leagues at the draft conference was problematical tonight, nor was it known just how or by whom they would be appointed. It was said neither major league president, John Arnold Heydler or Ernest Barnard, would join the conferees, leaving the meeting in the hands of the club owners themselves. It was intimated, however, that John J. McGraw of the New York Giants and William L. Veeck of the Chicago Cubs would form part of the National league delegation for it was generally believed that they were behind the movement to have the troublesome question thrashed out once and for all.

There was little other official business transacted today. Managers of the American league clubs went into a conference with President Barnard to discuss possible improvement in playing conditions but no definite policies were adopted. President Barnard called the conference, the first of its kind, in the belief that an interchange of ideas among the managers might develop some interesting suggestions that might well benefit the league as a whole.

The day was a total loss so far as important trades were concerned. There was plenty of talk but none of it developed far enough to bring about any deals.

Tomorrow both the National and American leagues will hold sessions and the national board of arbitration will hear evidence in the claim of Vic Aldridge, former major league pitcher, for back salary from the Newark Internationals.

PHILLY BASEBALL CLUB IS NOT FOR SALE—NUGENT

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 8.—(AP)—The Philadelphia National league baseball club is not for sale, the management announced tonight.

Since the death last week of William F. Baker, president of the club, there has been speculation regarding the future ownership of the Phillies. The management, taking notice of this, tonight issued the following statement over the signature of Gerry P. Nugent, business manager of the club:

"On behalf of the executors of the estate of William F. Baker and L. C. Ruch, I desire to state that the Philadelphia National league club is not for sale and the affairs of the club will be continued by those long associated with Mr. Baker in the management of the club."

Mr. Ruch is vice-president of the club. Mr. Baker died in Montreal while the minor league clubs were in session there, and was buried in New York yesterday.

HENRI COCHET LEADING TENNIS PLAYER IN FRANCE

PARIS, Dec. 8.—(AP)—Henri Cochet, who shared the top position with Rene Lacoste in 1929, was ranked alone as the No. 1 tennis player of France today. Lacoste, weakened by ill health, did not engage in competition tennis this year.

Jean Borotra, the famous Bounding Basque, is rated second but Jacques Brugnon, who paired with Cochet to turn back the American doubles team of John Van Ryn and Wilmer Allison in the Davis cup challenge round, is placed fourth, behind the youthful southpaw, Christian Boussus.

The ranking list for 1930, as announced by the French Lawn Tennis federation, follows: 1. Cochet; 2. Jean Borotra; 3. Christian Boussus; 4. Jacques Brugnon; 5. Edouard Durplax; 6. Antoine Gentien; 7-8. Pierre Landry and Edouard Rodel; 9-10-11, Paul B. De Ricou, Rene De Buzelet, and Paul Feret.

ADVOCATES CHANGE IN FOOTBALL AGREEMENT

MONTCLAIR, N. J., Dec. 8.—(AP)—A definite move in the direction of a revision of the Yale-Harvard-Princeton agreement restricting fall football practice has been made by Yale alumni.

Gathering in Nick Robers' old barn here Saturday night, Yale football men advocated a change in the agreement because the brevity practice allowed under its terms had not served to reduce over-emphasis on football nor improved the ideals of sportsmanship as had been expected. Instead, it was contended it had proven definitely harmful sending players into early season games without enough preparation and thus subjecting them to risk of injury.

Revision of the agreement has been urged some time by campus publications at Princeton and New Haven.

Charged With Fraud.

NEW YORK, Dec. 8.—(AP)—A. Arthur Carter, sports promoter, Samuel Von Kessler, securities salesman, and J. A. Post Van Derberg went to trial today in federal court on mail fraud charges. The government alleges they mulcted investors of a million dollars through sale of stock in "sugar corporations."

Ebbets Kayoes Franklin

NEW YORK, Dec. 8.—(AP)—Harry Ebbets, Freeport, N. Y., light-heavyweight, knocked out Billy Franklin, New York, in the second round of their ten-round match at the Jamaica arena tonight. Ebbets weighed 172; Franklin 169 1-2. Franklin substituted for Paul Carter of Philadelphia.

BRITISH GOLF CHAMP TO INVADE U. S. NEXT SPRING

NEW YORK, Dec. 8.—(AP)—Diana Fishwick, British champion, will lead a golfing invasion of the United States next spring, it was announced today.

Miss Fishwick with Betty Dixperkin, Kathleen Garnham, Marjorie White, Jessie Firth and Vera Haycock, will compete in three tournaments in Florida in February and March. The party will leave from Southampton Jan. 28.

The British invasion is a purely informal affair and no team competitions with the United States will be arranged. The invaders will play in the championship of Florida at Palm Beach, Feb. 16 to 20; the South Atlantic championship at Miami Beach, Feb. 24-28, and the Florida East Coast championship, March 3-7.

PAYS $10,000 FOR PRIVILEGE TO BROADCAST FIGHTS

NEW YORK, Dec. 8.—(AP)—The National Broadcasting Co. today turned over $10,000 to the New York American's Christmas fund for the privilege of broadcasting the featherweight championship fight Friday night between Bat Battalino and Kid Chocolate. The title match heads the annual Christmas fund show at Madison Square Garden.

TO BROADCAST ARMY-NAVY GAME ROUND WORLD

WASHINGTON, Dec. 8.—(AP)—A round-the-world broadcast of the Army-Navy football game will be undertaken Saturday by the navy.

A running account of the game in high frequency code will be sent out by naval communications and transmitted to the far Pacific by the naval radio station at San Francisco.

The broadcast is expected to be picked up by naval radio stations at Balboa and Honolulu, as well as by naval radio in the far east.

AETNA ROLLS TAFTVILLE IN RETURN MATCH TONIGHT

The Aetna bowling team will appear at Dugas' bowling alleys this (Tuesday) evening in a return match with the Taftville five. The Taftville pin crashers tripped the Norwich boys in the first match here several days ago, but they had to extend themselves. The match was won by a small margin. Norwich is out to make it one all tonight and a hot match is expected as a result.

BARE-FIST DAYS RETURN ON LONELY WELSH PEAKS

CARDIFF, Wales, Dec. 8—(AP)—Old-fashioned, bare-fisted prize fights are being held regularly on lonely mountain tops in South Wales during early morning hours.

The fact was revealed at a meeting of boxing interests held by the Welsh Boxing association.

A resolution condemning the "return to the primitive" was passed.

Tie For First Place

WATERBURY, Dec. 8.—(AP)—Torrington went into a tie for first place with New Britain in the state duckpin league tonight by virtue of a 3-1 victory over Stratford, while New Britain was losing to Southington by the same score. Results of other matches tonight were: Waterbury, 3; Derby, 0. Hartford Charter Oaks, 3; Meriden, 0.

Sixteen Students Barred.

SPRINGFIELD, Ohio, Dec. 8.—(AP)—Sixteen members of the freshman football team at Wittenberg college were barred from participation in inter-collegiate athletics today on the grounds that they received aid toward their college expenses. Twelve of the men have left the college.

Cochran Beats Hoppe.

CHICAGO Dec. 8—(AP)—Welker Cochran tonight defeated Willie Hoppe, 300 to 125, to even up their six block match at 18.2 balkline billiards. Hoppe won the afternoon block, 300 to 30. Cochran's average tonight was 43, and Hoppe's 21. They will play six blocks of 18.1 starting Thursday.

Notre Dame En Route Home.

LAS ANGELES, Dec. 8.—(AP)—Knute Rockne's raiders from Notre Dame having swept Southern California aside were en route home today with two undefeated seasons, 19 straight victories, and a 27 to 0 triumph over the Trojans, to their credit.

BITGOOD TO FORM INTRA-MURAL BASKETBALL LEAGUE AT ACADEMY

On Thursday afternoon at the Norton Memorial gym, Coach Paul Bitgood of the Academy will inaugurate something new in Academy sports, an intra-mural basketball league. It will consist of 16 teams, divided into four sections, which will, for convenience, be labeled the New England conference, Western conference, Southern conference and Pacific conference, each consisting, of course, of four clubs.

The players will be graded off as to ability, size, etc., so that each conference should find its four teams evenly matched. This is being done to give those boys a chance to play who would not otherwise get the opportunity to display their wares.

The school court squad now numbers 62 boys, 26 of whom are listed on the A side and 40 on the B division. There has been one cut made by Mr Bitgood when he sliced his original turnout of 51, which had been augmented by arrivals from the football and cross-country squads.

The A squad will practice this afternoon at 3:15 and the B members at 1:15.

The varsity season will open three weeks from Friday evening, or Jan. 2, playing Putnam high at Putnam. Coach Bitgood stated Monday evening that, although Putnam is a smaller school, they are one to be feared as basketball has been kept up year in and year out at this school, while at N. F. A. it was dropped last winter. Putnam, it will also be remembered, won the title at the Storrs tourney last winter.

MINIATURE GOLF RAISES WESTERLY SUNDAY QUESTION

(Special to The Bulletin)

WESTERLY, Dec. 8 — Several amendments to town ordinances were considered at a special meeting of the town council tonight with Councilman James Naccarata the only absentee.

Director of Public Aid Oliver P. Crandall was present at the council's request to explain to them on the complaint of Undertaker James Salimeno why he had not recognized a bill of $252 for the town burial of the Pierce street resident. Mr. Crandall replied that he had directed Undertaker Gaffney to care for the body and upon his arrival at the house, when he found that there was another undertaker there had departed, because he didn't want to butt in. In the last few years seven funerals had been cared for by the town at a total of $478.75 for a $68.39 average, the largest payment being for a person who died at the state infirmary at a cost of $100. He said he thought the charge was too high. Mr. Salimeno said that he had never been called upon before and thought that he should be considered, especially if the families of the deceased had preferred him to act. Replying, Director Crandall said that he did not know Mr. Salimeno was in the undertaking business and would consider him in the future as the council had indicated that family requests were to be considered. This outcome followed the suggestion of Councilman Meikle that Messrs. Crandall and Salimeno confer in the council conference room and Mr. Salimeno later emerged to inform the council fathers that an agreement had been arrived at between them.

A second request from the South County Public Service Co. for the location of additional electric poles in the swampy section of the Westerly-Bradford highway near the land of Thomas H. Collings, was like a previous one voted to Town Solicitor Ferguson and the Westerly highway committee.

The Sunday licensing hearing brought out much discussion, the first speaker being Joseph T. Grills, manager of the Ninigret miniature indoor course on Canal street. Mr. Grills said that following suggestions he had remained closed on Sunday and did not consider he was being fairly dealt with as he was the only one who was obeying the state closing law.

Mr. Grills said he knew many places which did business on Sunday not the least of which were golf clubs where council members held memberships and played on Sunday. An open-air golf course had been allowed to run on Sundays all last summer. He said if he was kept closed on Sunday by council action or lack of action then other places not conforming to the law should also be closed. In reply to a council question Solicitor Ferguson every member of the golf club could not be prosecuted but, unless the provisions of the state law were met every member of the golf clubs could be prosecuted. Contrary to the general council belief, Mr. Ferguson stated that the state law was in effect and it only remained for the council to set up the machinery and collect the fees.

Deacon John Saunders of the Post road of the Seventh Day Baptist church who is closed on Saturday was declared to be legally conducting his Sunday wayside stand business under the old Rhode Island general law. Speaking on the amount of fees to be fixed and recommending a much less amount than the $50 tax suggested were Charles Rathbun, George B. Morris and Ernest H. Schwam, all of the Post road, who spoke at length on their present position and likelihood of prosecution for doing Sunday business.

An ordinance amendment recommended by Chief of Police Thomas E. Brown and voted passed by the council was to prohibit radio loudspeakers of advertising nature to be placed on sidewalks or projected from places of business, with a fine not less than $ nor more than $20.

PITTSBURGH, Dec 8.—(AP)—Tony Herrera, 137½, Chicago, was given a ten round decision over Cowboy Eddie Anderson, 134, Wyoming, here tonight.

FOUR OF CHAMPION WESTERLY TEAM ON BULLETIN'S CONFERENCE ELEVEN

Two Academy men, Mike Abugle, center, and Ernie Stevens, guard, are placed on The Bulletin's annual all-conference football first team published today. This is the smallest Wildcat representation in at least the last six years that these teams have been published. Zictorac is the only Academy player on the second team, he being at quarterback.

Westerly high, which won its second straight title and went through the conference schedule without a defeat or tie, leads in first team selections with four places. Windham has two and Stonington, Bulkeley and Chapman Tech one each.

The backfield, one that would compare favorably with any in Connecticut and Rhode Island, consists of Bernie Stenhouse, Westerly, quarterback, Freddy Hewitt, Chapman Tech, and Bob Mudge, Westerly, halves and Eddie Goyette, Stonington fullback. The latter played at a halfback post during the year but seems capable of fitting into the fullback job and doing just as good work as he accomplished at halfback.

On the second team, besides Zictorac, there are two Chapman Tech men, three from Bulkeley, four from Windham and one from Stonington, Westerly having no representation.

There are several of the second team men, who, by some queer twist of fate, probably were kept off the first string array. One of these is Zictorac, who, with a winning team, would without a doubt have been one of the stars of the conference and by the same token one of the Academy's best of recent years. He seemed to have everything but interference.

There is hardly a player to recommend for all-state honors this year unless it be Bob Mudge, the brilliant Westerly halfback, who did so much to bring Coach Rogers' team through its tough schedule with only one defeat.

INGRAM PUTS CHARGES THROUGH SIGNAL DRILL

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Dec. 8—(AP)—Navy Coach Bill Ingram, believing the three weeks comparative rest which his regulars had before the Penn game last Saturday did them more good than a rough-and-tumble preparation programme, today started to prepare for the charity game with the Army in New York on Saturday with a light workout.

Ingram believes his regulars have reached the peak of their strength, having recovered from the battering received in five hard games in a row in mid-season with little replacement material to rest his varsity. Just enough work to keep the Tars in shape was the programme at the academy for the three weeks preceding the Penn game, which Navy won 26 to 0.

All regulars came out of that clash in good shape, and one of the most cheering results was the return of Johnny Gannon, halfback, to the form he displayed in the 1928 season when he was one of the most dependable backs on the Middy list.

Gannon faded from the picture after the Dartmouth game last season, but Saturday he gave a highly satisfactory demonstration of ball carrying.

Another spark of cheer gained from the last few games was the development of Tom Hurley, another back who showed great driving power in the conquest of Pennsylvania. He has been a dependable ball carrier, but reached the height of his game Saturday.

The rest of Ingram's backs, including the little 152-pound battering ram, Lou Kirn, are in good shape.

Only a signal drill was given the squad today. Tomorrow a light scrimmage session to perfect new plays is on the programme. The team is to leave here Thursday and hold the final workout in New York Friday.

FOUR GAMES SCHEDULED FOR TONIGHT AT PLAINFIELD

Tonight's Schedule

7:30—Jewett City vs. Westerly.

8:30 New London Independents vs. New London Boys' club.

9:30—Willimantic vs. Putnam

10—Plainfield vs. Danielson.

Referees, Bitgood and Williams.

Tonight at the Plainfield Community house the weekly play of the popular southern New England basketball league will be staged with four likely-looking contests on the schedule. This league, which was formed over a month ago, has produced some exceptionally fine exhibitions and tonight should prove no exception.

One of the highlights of the evening will be the clash between the two New London teams, the Indies and the Boys' club. This goes on at 8:30 and will be fraught with rivalry aside from the regular league competition.

Another battle is seen in the 10 o'clock or closing game when Plainfield and Danielson tangle. These two teams are seen by some as the class of the circuit and these fans claim that this game may have quite a bit of a bearing on the championship.

BASS GETS HAIRLINE DECISION OVER JADICK

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 8.—(AP)—Benny Bass, Philadelphia, junior lightweight champion, belted his way to a hairline decision over Johnny Jadick, also of Philadelphia, in a terrific ten-round battle at the Arena tonight. Bass weighed 129; Jadick 132. Bass' title was not at stake.

Matt Adgie, Philadelphia iceman, made short work of Mike Sullivan, Atlantic City, in the eight-round semi-windup, knocking him out with a right to the chin 16 seconds after the opening of the second round. Adgie weighed 172, Sullivan 191.

DENY NEW RULING IS DIRECTED AGAINST JONES

NEW HAVEN, Dec. 8—(AP)—The Yale A. A. tonight made public a ruling of the board of control of the association under which, in the future, any person connected with Yale athletics, will be prohibited from speaking over the radio or writing newspaper articles.

Announcement of the ruling followed circulation of rumors that such a ruling had been passed. In making the announcement, officials of the Yale A. A. denied that the action had been directed against the activities of Tad Jones, as rumors had declared. On the contrary, according to Prof. R. Selden Rose, chairman of the board of control, Jones himself favored the move.

Jones, his connection with the advisory committee automatically severed with the dissolution of the body at the end of the football season, was not today expected to become a member of the new committee now being formed. This supposition, voiced by those close to Yale athletic matters, was confirmed by a report tonight from Los Angeles, where the former Yale coach is meeting with other leaders of the football world, that he has indicated not to be reappointed, and did not expect to be.

Officials of the association today reported that no word had been received from Jones in this matter.

Jones has for several years been writing a series of articles on football for newspapers. Mal Stevens, Yale head coach, has also engaged in such activity recently. Both have been mentioned in radio broadcasts.

The ruling of the board of control, passed at the meeting November 24 and just made public today, reads:

"No one associated with Yale athletics in any official capacity shall write for the daily press or speak over the radio."

ARMY STARTS PRACTICE FOR BIG CHARITY GAME

WEST POINT, N. Y., Dec. 8.—(AP)—Launching practice today in preparation for the big charity game with the Navy in New York on Saturday, Major Ralph I. Sasse, Army football coach, sounded a warning that "the Navy is 100 per cent better than at any previous time this season."

"Bill Ingram has developed a smooth running attack which is perfectly coordinated," said Sasse, who saw the Midshipmen in their decisive victory over Penn last Saturday. "It is obvious that the team has found itself"

In practice today, Sasse lined up his first team with Messenger and King at ends, Carlson and Humber, guards; Suarez and Price, tackles; Miller at center, Bowman at quarterback, Glattly and Fields, half-backs, and Herb at full-back.

The workout started with group work, then moved to the scrimmage machine, where Sasse worked to smooth out the new combinations in his attack. Particular attention was given to Carlson. In the back-field, Kilday, Carver and MacWilliam were also worked.

In full speed scrimmage, the Army Plebes put on the Navy attack with considerable success. Several weak spots developed, particularly at right guard and in the secondary defense of the varsity, and the Plebes rushed through for big gains.

The session closed with the varsity team on the attack against the scrubs. During this workout Dick King, left end, was injured and replaced by Fletcher.

DETROIT CLOWNS SIGNED TO PLAY PLAINFIELD PROS

Thursday night the Plainfield Pros meet the Detroit Clowns in what is expected to be one of the fastest games to be played at the Plainfield Community house this season. They also have an extra attraction in Buster Keeney, king of clowns, regarded as Nick Altrock's greatest rival.

Manager Lester Saulsbury is still undecided who will oppose the strong Detroit team. He will have the following men to pick from: Conway, Marchiniak, Bernot, Casper, Williams, Nadeler, Karlin and Dissinger. Paul Bitgood will referee in place of Dave Harper, who has been called away to New York.

TO PLAY NOTRE DAME AT SOUTH BEND NEXT NOV. 21

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 8—(AP)—Three intersectional games are listed on the 1931 football schedules of Southern California, Stanford and California, announced today.

Southern California will repay the visit of Notre Dame to the Pacific coast with a game at South Bend next November 21. Stanford will play Dartmouth at Boston, November 28. Stanford and Minnesota are scheduled for Palo Alto, October 10.

Eight members of the Auburn football team will be lost to the varsity squad by graduation this year.

SPORT BRIEFS

CLEVELAND, Dec. 8—(AP)—The Cleveland Rosenblums, 1929-30 champions of the American Basketball league, withdrew from membership late today.

ADELAIDE, Australia—The South Australia cricket team today won the match with the West Indies by ten wickets.

TORONTO, Ont.—In an effort to patch up the forward line of the Maple Leafs, Manager Connie Smythe today announced the signing of "Hap" Hamel, former scoring star of the Hamilton Tigers in the International Hockey league and member of the Brantford club in the Canadian/ Pro league last season.

NEW YORK—Billy Jacobs of Baltimore City college will defend his national junior indoor tennis championship at the Seventh Regiment armory beginning Dec. 26, it was announced today. The boys' championship will be held at the same time.

LAKE PLACID, N. Y.—The sport of curling has been added to the programme of the winter Olympics at Lake Placid in February, 1932, as one of the two demonstrations permitted under Olympic rules, it was announced today. The other demonstration will be dog sled racing.

CHICAGO—President Walter Dill Scott of Northwestern university turned over a check for $100,000 to Gov. L. L. Emmerson's commission on unemployment and relief today. The check covers anticipated receipts from next year's Northwestern-Notre Dame football game in Soldier Field stadium.

COLUMBUS—Wesley Fesler was a one-man team for Ohio State this season. He started at fullback in the first game, then went back to his regular post at right end and wound up doing double-duty.

HOMOSASSA, Fla.—Dazzy Vance, the Brooklyn Robins' hurling ace, has bought the Homosassa hotel, and travelers may soon be greeted by the sign "Dazzy Vance, prop."

LOS ANGELES—Whittier college this year boasted the first victory over Pomona college in nine years of football competition. The Whittier Poets took their opponents, 33-6.

NORTH HUDSON, Wis.—Anders Haugen, former national ski champion, is building a huge ski slide here to replace the one blown down last spring.

SEATTLE—A new rule in the Pacific Coast Hockey league that prohibited offensive players from crossing the blue line ahead of the puck caused such a howl among customers that it has been abandoned.

SYDNEY, Australia—Hundreds of miniature golf courses are now operating in every Australian city and every state, so greatly has the craze caught on.

PULLMAN, Wash. — Mel Hein, Washington State center and All-America candidate, this year has kept his record clear of never making a bad pass in varsity competition.

NEW YORK—Alabama represents the south in the All-America eleven for the second straight year. Line-splitting Tony Holm was the choice for fullback in 1929 and Fred Sington, 216-pound tackle, was chosen this year.

NEW HAVEN—Yale fencers tonight defeated the team of the Canadian Internationalists by a score of 19 to 8. This was the first event of the Yale winter sports season.

PINEHURST, N. C.—S. C. Bradley, dog breeder of Fairfield, Conn., is one of the judges of the annual carnival of the Continental Field club of America, which opened here today.

HAMILTON, N. Y.—Tommy Doyle, veteran Colgate guard, today was added to the all-east team which will meet the west in San Francisco on New Year's day in the annual benefit contest for the Shriners' hospital.

PHILADELPHIA—The annual Interscholastic basketball tournament held under the auspices of the University of Pennsylvania, will not be arranged this season, Ralph Morgan, chairman of the Red and Blue basketball committee, announced tonight.

Capt. John McEwan, Holy Cross football coach, has signed a new three year contract.

NORWICH JR. BASKETBALL LEAGUE FORMED WITH SIX SCHOOL TEAMS

The listing of St. Patrick's and St. Mary's schools on Monday completed the organization of the first Norwich Junior basketball league and, according to the co-sponsors of the circuit, everything is now ready for the opening on Friday, Dec. 19, at 4:30, at the Norton Memorial gym at the Academy. This is a week later than the original starting date, this being made necessary because of the limited time the schools have had to practice.

The first week's games bring together Broadway and Greeneville, Elizabeth street vs. St. Patrick's and Samuel Huntington vs. St. Mary's. The remainder of the schedule for the first round follows: Jan. 9, Greeneville vs. Elizabeth, Broadway vs. St. Mary's, St. Patrick's vs. Samuel Huntington. Jan. 16, Elizabeth vs. Samuel Huntington, St. Patrick's vs. Broadway, St. Mary's vs. Greeneville. Jan. 23, St. Patrick's vs. St. Mary's. Elizabeth vs. Broadway, Samuel Huntington vs. Greeneville. Jan. 30, St. Mary's vs. Elizabeth; Samuel Huntington vs. Broadway, Greeneville vs. St. Patrick's.

A practice schedule has also been arranged in order to allow the schools an opportunity to get used to the game. This is as follows: Friday, Dec. 12, all teams at Norton Memorial building, 4:30-6 o'clock; Saturday morning, Dec. 13, all teams at Norton Memorial building, 9-11:30 o'clock.

The purpose of the league is to develop a spirit of friendly competition among the students of the grammar schools and to accustom the boys to the fundamentals of this sport. The aim will be to promote healthy bodies, clean sportsmanship and fair play among the boys of the city.

The following are the rules and regulations which will govern the league:

1. Each team must be uniformed in gym clothing, consisting of shirt, shorts and sneakers.
2. A towel must be brought by each player each time he comes to actually play or practice.
3. All games are to be played at the Norton Memorial building.
4. Time of games is Friday afternoons promptly at 4:30.
5. Any team not on the floor and ready to play at starting time will forfeit the game to its opponent, unless notice is given four hours previous to starting time.
6. A list of players from each school must be in the hands of the directors one week before the opening of the schedule which is December 19th, 1930. Additions to this list may be made at any time by the principal of the school.
7. It is requested that teams be accompanied by a teacher or principal of the school.
8. All games to be governed by Spalding's official rules.
9. Playing time — four, six-minute quarters, with ten minutes between the halves.
10. All officials to be appointed by the Messrs. Bitgood and Demarest.
11. Basketballs for the games and practice periods to be furnished by the sponsors of the league.

TO CONFER WITH MAJORS WED. ON DRAFT PROBLEM

By HERBERT W. BARKER

NEW YORK, Dec. 8—(AP)—The well-known draft controversy came to the rescue of harassed baseball reporters covering the mid-winter meetings of the National and American leagues today and gave them something to write about.

While major league club owners and managers indulged in spirited but fruitless conversations in the lobby of the Hotel Commodore, the committee of nine from the three class AA leagues, International, Pacific Coast and American association, went into a huddle on the 20th floor and finally came forth with the announcement that a conference with the majors on the draft problem would be held in the Hotel Roosevelt at 10 o'clock Wednesday morning.

This announcement came after a series of incidents that sent the "war correspondents" scurrying up and down the hotel elevators in a spectacular chase after the "low down" on the draft situation.

Originally an informal conference between the rival groups had been set for 1 o'clock but it was abandoned, chiefly, it was said, because the American league was not represented.

After that failure another effort was to have been made to get the two parties to the dispute together at 4 o'clock, but before that happened representatives of the committee of nine came forth with their announcement and added that nothing would be done until Wednesday.

Just who was to represent the major leagues at the draft conference was problematical tonight, nor was it known just how or by whom they would be appointed. It was said neither major league president, John Arnold Heydler or Ernest Barnard, would join the conferees, leaving the meeting in the hands of the club owners themselves. It was intimated, however, that John J. McGraw of the New York Giants and William L. Veeck of the Chicago Cubs would form part of the National league delegation for it was generally believed that they were behind the movement to have the troublesome question thrashed out once and for all.

There was little other official business transacted today. Managers of the American league clubs went into a conference with President Barnard to discuss possible improvement in playing conditions but no definite policies were adopted. President Barnard called the conference, the first of its kind, in the belief that an interchange of ideas among the managers might develop some interesting suggestions that might well benefit the league as a whole.

The day was a total loss so far as important trades were concerned. There was plenty of talk but none of it developed far enough to bring about any deals.

Tomorrow both the National and American leagues will hold sessions and the national board of arbitration will hear evidence in the claim of Vic Aldridge, former major league pitcher, for back salary from the Newark Internationals.

PUTNAM DEFEATED BY PLAINFIELD IN SOCCER

The Plainfield soccer team defeated Putnam at Plainfield Sunday. The first half started at a fast pace, both teams battling on even terms for about 25 minutes, Putnam finally breaking through to score the first goal. This was followed quickly with a shot by Lang. The score remained the same until half-time when Plainfield came back strong in the second half, scoring their second goal in about the first two minutes of play, which was followed by another score by Wilkinson. The Plainfield backs kept the Putnam forwards away from the Plainfield goal throughout the last half.

Mette, Plainfield's center halfback, kept Fenton, Putnam center forward, under cover at all times, beating him to the kick, time and time again. Fenton, who had scored a goal in every game up till today was at no time in scoring position or even as much as to get a shot within 15 yards of the goal. Mette was easily the outstanding player for Plainfield, being backed up by some of the best defensive work ever seen in Plainfield by Marriott and Allard.

Plainfield will play Baltic at Baltic Sunday.

GREENLEAF BEATS BOATMAN 125 to 18 IN EIGHT INNINGS

NEW YORK, Dec. 8.—(AP)—With the same cool, calculating stroke that has marked his parade through the billiard world for 11 years, Ralph Greenleaf successfully opened the defense of his world's pocket-billiard title tonight at Dwyer's Billiard academy.

Meeting Thomas Boatman, of Portland, Ore., in the opening match of the round robin tournament involving eight of the nation's best, the "Boy Wonder" of a decade ago reeled off two brilliant innings and won 125 to 18 in eight innings. In the fourth inning he clicked off 43 points before scratching on a comparatively easy shot, lost three points on scratches in the next three frames and then finished the game with a brilliant unfinished run of 85.

Clapper Pays $269.20 For $2.

NEW ORLEANS, La., Dec. 8.—(AP)—Clapper, owned by G. H. Foster, and ridden by Apprentice Danny Froggate at Jefferson park today won the sixth race by a nose and paying $269.60 for each $2 certificate. Clapper paid $99.20 for $2 to place and $19.40 for $2 to show. His approximate odds on the board were posted as $60 to $1.

PHILLY BASEBALL CLUB IS NOT FOR SALE—NUGENT

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 8.—(AP)—The Philadelphia National league baseball club is not for sale, the management announced tonight.

Since the death last week of William F. Baker, president of the club, there has been speculation regarding the future ownership of the Phillies. The management, taking notice of this, tonight issued the following statement over the signature of Gerry P. Nugent, business manager of the club:

"On behalf of the executors of the estate of William F. Baker and L. C. Ruch, I desire to state that the Philadelphia National league club is not for sale and the affairs of the club will be continued by those long associated with Mr. Baker in the management of the club."

Mr. Ruch is vice-president of the club. Mr. Baker died in Montreal while the minor league clubs were in session there, and was buried in New York yesterday.

HENRI COCHET LEADING TENNIS PLAYER IN FRANCE

PARIS, Dec. 8.—(AP)—Henri Cochet, who shared the top position with Rene Lacoste in 1929, was ranked alone as the No. 1 tennis player of France today. Lacoste, weakened by ill health, did not engage in competition tennis this year.

Jean Borotra, the famous Bounding Basque, is rated second but Jacques Brugnon, who paired with Cochet to turn back the American doubles team of John Van Ryn and Wilmer Allison in the Davis cup challenge round, is placed fourth, behind the youthful southpaw, Christian Boussus.

The ranking list for 1930, as announced by the French Lawn Tennis federation, follows: 1, Cochet; 2, Jean Borotra; 3, Christian Boussus; 4, Jacques Brugnon; 5, Edouard Durplax; 6, Antoine Gentien; 7-8, Pierre Landry and Edouard Rodel; 9-10-11, Paul B. De Ricou, Rene De Buzelet, and Paul Feret.

ADVOCATES CHANGE IN FOOTBALL AGREEMENT

MONTCLAIR, N. J., Dec. 8.—(AP)—A definite move in the direction of a revision of the Yale-Harvard-Princeton agreement restricting fall football practice has been made by Yale alumni.

Gathering in Nick Robers' old barn here Saturday night, Yale football men advocated a change in the agreement because the brevity practice allowed under its terms had not served to reduce over-emphasis on football nor improved the ideals of sportsmanship as had been expected. Instead, it was contended it had proven definitely harmful sending players into early season games without enough preparation and thus subjecting them to risk of injury.

Revision of the agreement has been urged some time by campus publications at Princeton and New Haven.

Charged With Fraud.

NEW YORK, Dec. 8.—(AP)—A. Arthur Carter, sports promoter, Samuel Von Kessler, securities salesman, and J. A. Post Van Derberg went to trial today in federal court on mail fraud charges. The government alleges they mulcted investors of a million dollars through sale of stock in "sugar corporations."

Ebbets Kayoes Franklin

NEW YORK, Dec. 8.—(AP)—Harry Ebbets, Freeport, N. Y., light-heavyweight, knocked out Billy Franklin, New York, in the second round of their ten-round match at the Jamaica arena tonight. Ebbets weighed 172; Franklin 169 1-2. Franklin substituted for Paul Carter of Philadelphia.

SHYMAS PLAY STAFFORD TONIGHT

For this evening's game at Parish hall, Taftville, the management of the Shymas club has signed the Stafford Springs quintet, members of the Southern New England Basketball league. Stafford Springs is in fourth place in the league standing with two wins and three losses, and are right behind Willimantic in third. And the members of this league are supposed to have the fastest basketball teams in this section.

How the Shymas will fare against this aggregation will be seen tonight in their fourth contest of the season, having won one and lost two. That record is not considered bad insofar as the team is playing together for the first season and are not expected to start off with all wins to their credit. The team has been putting in a great deal of practice in preparation for the up state boys and from the way it played in its last tilt it would not be surprising to see the local boys take a fall out of Stafford Springs.

Lefty Dugas, who is better known in the baseball world, will probably see service tonight in the right forward position, either he or Lefty Wilk starting the game. Wilk has shown that he understands a thing or two about basketball in past games and much is expected from him against the opposition. Tom Coleman will be there to jump at center, with Les Pingree, captain, at right guard and Lemieux at left guard, Adams acting as sub.

The teams' lineups:

Shymas.	Stafford Springs
Gauthier, lg	rg, Bidorni
Lefty Dugas, Lefty Wilk, rg	lg, Ricci
Tom Coleman, c	c, Smith
Les Pingree, rg	lf, Tantiera, McLagen
Lemieux, lg	rf, Houle

In the preliminary game the Shymas Juniors will play the Y Emps.

BRITISH GOLF CHAMP TO INVADE U. S. NEXT SPRING

NEW YORK, Dec. 8.—(AP)—Diana Fishwick, British champion, will lead a golfing invasion of the United States next spring, it was announced today.

Miss Fishwick with Betty Dixperkin, Kathleen Garnham, Marjorie White, Jessie Firth and Vera Haycock, will compete in three tournaments in Florida in February and March. The party will leave from Southampton Jan. 28.

The British invasion is a purely informal affair and no team competitions with the United States will be arranged. The invaders will play in the championship of Florida at Palm Beach, Feb. 16 to 20; the South Atlantic championship at Miami Beach, Feb. 24-28, and the Florida East Coast championship, March 3-7.

PAYS $10,000 FOR PRIVILEGE TO BROADCAST FIGHTS

NEW YORK, Dec. 8.—(AP)—The National Broadcasting Co. today turned over $10,000 to the New York American's Christmas fund for the privilege of broadcasting the featherweight championship fight Friday night between Bat Battalino and Kid Chocolate. The title match heads the annual Christmas fund show at Madison Square Garden.

Attention Basketball Teams!

The Miracle Five, an amateur basketball aggregation of Norwich, desire games with teams in this section. They would like to hear from the Shyma Juniors, Baltic Juniors, Polish Citizen Juniors, Montville Aces and others. Call 2666-R any night after 7:30 o'clock.

TO BROADCAST ARMY-NAVY GAME ROUND WORLD

WASHINGTON, Dec. 8.—(AP)—A round-the-world broadcast of the Army-Navy football game will be undertaken Saturday by the navy.

A running account of the game in high frequency code will be sent out by naval communications and transmitted to the far Pacific by the naval radio station at San Francisco.

The broadcast is expected to be picked up by naval radio stations at Balboa and Honolulu, as well as by naval radio in the far east.

AETNA ROLLS TAFTVILLE IN RETURN MATCH TONIGHT

The Aetna bowling team will appear at Dugas' bowling alleys this (Tuesday) evening in a return match with the Taftville five. The Taftville pin crashers tripped the Norwich boys in the first match here several days ago, but they had to extend themselves. The match was won by a small margin. Norwich is out to make it one all tonight and a hot match is expected as a result.

BARE-FIST DAYS RETURN ON LONELY WELSH PEAKS

CARDIFF, Wales, Dec. 8—(AP)—Old-fashioned, bare-fisted prize fights are being held regularly on lonely mountain tops in South Wales during early morning hours.

The fact was revealed at a meeting of boxing interests held by the Welsh Boxing association.

A resolution condemning the "return to the primitive" was passed.

Tie For First Place

WATERBURY, Dec. 8.—(AP)—Torrington went into a tie for first place with New Britain in the state duckpin league tonight by virtue of a 2-1 victory over Stratford, while New Britain was losing to Southington by the same score. Results of other matches tonight were: Waterbury, 3; Derby, 0. Hartford Charter Oaks, 3; Meriden, 0.

Sixteen Students Barred.

SPRINGFIELD, Ohio, Dec. 8.—(AP)—Sixteen members of the freshman football team at Wittenberg college were barred from participation in inter-collegiate athletics today on the grounds that they received aid toward their college expenses. Twelve of the men have left the college.

Cochran Beats Hoppe.

CHICAGO Dec. 8—(AP)—Welker Cochran tonight defeated Willie Hoppe, 300 to 125, to even up their six block match at 18.2 balkline billiards. Hoppe won the afternoon block, 300 to 30. Cochran's average tonight was 43, and Hoppe's 21. They will play six blocks of 18.1 starting Thursday.

Notre Dame En Route Home.

LAS ANGELES, Dec. 8.—(AP)—Knute Rockne's raiders from Notre Dame having swept Southern California aside were en route home today with two undefeated seasons, 19 straight victories, and a 27 to 0 triumph over the Trojans, to their credit.

BITGOOD TO FORM INTRA-MURAL BASKETBALL LEAGUE AT ACADEMY

On Thursday afternoon at the Norton Memorial gym, Coach Paul Bitgood of the Academy will inaugurate something new in Academy sports, an intra-mural basketball league. It will consist of 16 teams, divided into four sections, which will, for convenience, be labeled the New England conference, Western conference, Southern conference and Pacific conference, each consisting, of course, of four clubs.

The players will be graded off as to ability, size, etc., so that each conference should find its four teams evenly matched. This is being done to give those boys a chance to play who would not otherwise get the opportunity to display their wares.

The school court squad now numbers 62 boys, 26 of whom are listed on the A side and 40 on the B division. There has been one cut made by Mr. Bitgood when he sliced his original turnout of 51, which had been augmented by arrivals from the football and cross-country squads.

The A squad will practice this afternoon at 3:15 and the B members at 1:15.

The varsity season will open three weeks from Friday evening, or Jan. 2, playing Putnam high at Putnam. Coach Bitgood stated Monday evening that, although Putnam is a smaller school, they are one to be feared as basketball has been kept up year in and year out at this school, while at N. F. A. it was dropped last winter. Putnam, it will also be remembered, won the title at the Storrs tourney last winter.

MINIATURE GOLF RAISES WESTERLY SUNDAY QUESTION

(Special to The Bulletin)

WESTERLY, Dec. 8 — Several amendments to town ordinances were considered at a special meeting of the town council tonight with Councilman James Naccarata the only absentee.

Director of Public Aid Oliver P. Crandall was present at the council's request to explain to them on the complaint of Undertaker James Salimeno why he had not recognized a bill of $252 for the town burial of the Pierce street resident. Mr. Crandall replied that he had directed Undertaker Gaffney to care for the body and upon his arrival at the house, when he found that there was another undertaker there had departed, because he didn't want to butt in. In the last few years seven funerals had been cared for by the town at a total of $478.75 for a $68.39 average, the largest payment being for a person who died at the state infirmary at a cost of $100. He said he thought the charge was too high. Mr. Salimeno said that he had never been called upon before and thought that he should be considered, especially if the families of the deceased had preferred him to act. Replying, Director Crandall said that he did not know Mr. Salimeno was in the undertaking business and would consider him in the future as the council had indicated that family requests were to be considered. This outcome followed the suggestion of Councilman Meikle that Messrs. Crandall and Salimeno confer in the council conference room and Mr. Salimeno later emerged to inform the council fathers that an agreement had been arrived at between them.

A second request from the South County Public Service Co. for the location of additional electric poles in the swampy section of the Westerly-Bradford highway near the land of Thomas H. Collings, was like a previous one voted to Town Solicitor Ferguson and the Westerly highway committee.

The Sunday licensing hearing brought out much discussion, the first speaker being Joseph T. Grills, manager of the Ninigret miniature indoor course on Canal street. Mr. Grills said that following suggestions he had remained closed on Sunday and did not consider he was being fairly dealt with as he was the only one who was obeying the state closing law.

Mr. Grills said he knew many places which did business on Sunday not the least of which were golf clubs where council members held memberships and played on Sunday. An open-air golf course had been allowed to run on Sundays all last summer. He said if he was kept closed on Sunday by council action or lack of action then other places not conforming to the law should also be closed. In reply to a council question Solicitor Ferguson every member of the golf club could not be prosecuted but, unless the provisions of the state law were met every member of the golf clubs could be prosecuted. Contrary to the general council belief, Mr. Ferguson stated that the state law was in effect and it only remained for the council to set up the machinery and collect the fees.

Deacon John Saunders of the Post road of the Seventh Day Baptist church who is closed on Saturday was declared to be legally conducting his Sunday wayside stand business under the old Rhode Island general law. Speaking on the amount of fees to be fixed and recommending a much less amount than the $50 tax suggested were Charles Rathbun, George B. Morris and Ernest H. Schwam, all of the Post road, who spoke at length on their present position and likelihood of prosecution for doing Sunday business.

An ordinance, amendment recommended by Chief of Police Thomas F. Brown and voted passed by the council was to prohibit radio loudspeakers of advertising nature to be placed on sidewalks or projected from places of business, with a fine not less than $5 nor more than $20.

INTENTIONAL SECOND EXPOSURE

WESTERLY

CONDITION OF SUICIDE VICTIM MUCH IMPROVED

(Special to The Bulletin)

WESTERLY, Dec. 8—On Tuesday the condition of Hugh A. Dunning, former Westerly retail hardware merchant, who was found by Police Lieutenant George H. Champlin at 2.10 a. m., Sunday, barricaded in his Misquamicut garage, unconscious from carbon monoxide gas and with two bullet holes in his head, was reported as much improved. At the Westerly hospital where he was taken by the police he was reported on Tuesday morning as able to be out of his bed for a short time.

Developed X-ray plates taken on Sunday showed the location of the two .32 bullets which Mr. Dunning stated he had fired into his head near Ye Old White Inn on the Westerly-Stonington road after he had left his New London office at 5:30 p. m. Saturday night. It was near the inn that the revolver was recovered by the police authorities where Mr Dunning claimed he had thrown it and then drove his auto to his Misquamicut garage where he was found collapsed behind his car on which a red hot engine was running and his glasses on the seat of his auto. A coat the absence of which was unexplained was later found at Mr. Dunning's Summer street home, but his watch had not been located. There was a small sum of money in his clothes when he was discovered by the police.

One of the bullets was found at the Westerly hospital to have lodged high up in the back of his neck and the other in the back of his mouth. One shot was said to have been fired through his cheek and the other through his ear. They were not located in dangerous positions and the only chance for trouble from them lies in the question as to whether or not infection should start as the result of his wounds.

Real Estate Transfers

Recorded in the office of the Westerly town clerk appear the following transfers:

Dec. 6. Antoinette F. Barber, Orson R. Clarke of Auburndale, Mass., William C. Young of New Hartford, N Y., and Cora E. Guy of Hudson Falls, N. Y., to Walton F. Clark of Westerly a certain tract or parcel of land together with all buildings and improvements bounded northerly partly by lands of Thomas Sculco, Pasquale Furcolo and wife, easterly by lands partly of Vincenzo Turco, Thomas Sculco, et als, Dayton street and Samuel Allen, southerly by lands of Samuel Allen and Pleasant street and westerly by lands of the town of Westerly.

Dec. 6. Maria Morrone to Angelo Morrone an undivided one-half interest in a certain tract of land approximately 3.72 acres, being Lot No. 1, Replan of Liberty Park and adjoining Lawton street.

On Sunday evening Elks memorial services for the deceased members of Westerly lodge, No. 678, B. P. O Elks, were held in the rooms of the organization on High street. The ritual was conducted by Exalted Ruler M. Walter Flynn and the officers of the lodge. Solos were sung by Dr. Harold F. Doyle and Frank LaPere.

MONTVILLE

Milton Arbuckle of Chicopee Falls, Mass., who was arrested by State Trooper Clarence Hoxie of Groton barracks Sunday afternoon on a charge of speeding on the Norwich-New London highway at Uncasville, had his case tried before Justice of the Peace Oscar E. Church who found the accused guilty and imposed a fine of $10 and costs.

Gets Light Penalty

Sherman Stone, of East Lyme, arrested by Officer Lamphere of Montville, Saturday evening when the officer observed Stone operating a Ford delivery truck on the Norwich-New London highway at Uncasville without lights, had his case tried before Justice Church Monday morning. The accused told the court that his car had a defective wire and he was proceeding to the garage to have it replaced when the officer overtook him. A fine of $1 and costs was imposed upon Stone by Justice Church.

Local admirers of little Miss Ruth Brooks, of Hartford, formerly of Uncasville, will tune in on Wednesday at 9:00 p. m., when she will be heard over Station WTIC.

BITGOOD AUTOMOBILE DAMAGE SUIT EXPECTED TO REACH JURY TODAY

(Special to The Bulletin)

WESTERLY, Dec. 8—The third week's session of the Westerly adjournment of the November term of Washington county superior court with Associate Justice Jeremiah E. O'Connell of Providence on the bench was late in starting on Monday morning. A jury with Henry G. Clark of Richmond, R. I., foreman for the fifth day, was to hear the automobile damage suits of Elisha R. Bitgood of Hope Valley, R. I., vs. Harry O. Williams and Edith C. Williams and they were not called into the courtroom until 11:40 a. m. Judge O'Connell informed the jury that the reason for the delay was the fact that he had been in conference with Attorneys Hurley for the plaintiff and Slade for the defendants as to the progress of the case and to discuss certain testimony to be offered in the cases. Juror No. 8, John E. Jenkins, ice cream manufacturer of South Kingstown, hobbled into the jury box on two crutches. He was excused from further service on this panel when both attorneys had agreed that they could proceed with but 11 jurymen on the panel and the court announced that it was understood that he was suffering from injuries sustained by having a nail stuck in his foot. He was excused from further jury duty this term and directed to see Deputy Court Clerk Mrs. Edna H. Treat and be paid off. He was further directed by Judge O'Connell to secure proper medical attention that he might not contract blood poisoning.

A week's continuance of a citation was requested and granted to Attorney C. E. Roche on the divorce petition, Raymond H. Frazier vs. Esther E. Frazier, and a new citation ordered to issue for the same.

Providence Insurance Investigator James Lenihan, who made investigations following the automobile accident, interviewing Messrs. Perkins, Heath, Rathbun, "Joe Pep" and the plaintiff, Bitgood, testified that although he had prepared a written report of his interview with Mr. Bitgood he had not dated the same and was not sure of the date. He declared that the paper had been read to Mr. Bitgood while he was in bed and that he had signed it. He testified that he did not consider Mr. Bitgood to be in a serious condition at the time of his visit.

Westerly Insurance Agent Arthur E. Trotman, who accompanied Mr. Lenihan to Hope Valley and introduced him to Mr. Bitgood, was the second witness following Mr. Lenihan's continuance on the witness stand in the afternoon's session. The jury was withdrawn while Mr. Trotman was instructed by the court as to what line of testimony was permissible to prevent a mistrial.

There is a possibility that this case may reach the jury today (Tuesday) when the spare jurymen have been ordered to again report at the courthouse at 10:45 a. m. With the end of the week this panel of jurymen will have served their two weeks' term and should a number of jury trial cases remain to be heard on this calendar a new set of jurymen will have to be summoned for duty the coming week.

Mathilda M. S. Swenson vs. Horace E. Litchfield and Woods, Young Co. vs. Edward J. Fenelon, Jr., appear next on the Westerly trial calendar for a jury hearing. It is understood that the contested will case of Ella Drysdale, widow of Robert Drysdale, appellant, vs. Robert Drysdale, Jr., and George H. Bray, executors of the will of the late Robert Drysdale, has for lack of sufficient time for a hearing gone over to the next February term of Washington county superior court.

MYSTIC

At the next communication of Charity and Relief lodge, No. 72, A. F. & A. M., the Master Mason degree will be conferred.

Miss Ruth T. Russell, of Norwich, home demonstration agent, has sent notices to the two local farm bureau groups, that a meeting for the Old Mystic group will be held with Mrs. L. E. The basketball season opens this week in the third district hall when the local Whirlwinds will meet the fast U. S. Marines from New London. The local boys have been practicing hard and are preparing for a successful season. They had a very successful season last winter. They have purchased new suits and other necessary equipment. The line-up for the Whirlwinds is as follows: Forwards, Chesebro, D. Robertson and B. Bracci; centers, Clark and Searles; guards, Buddington and Sweet. John Scroggins is coaching the local team and Neil Morrison has been elected manager. A preliminary game has been scheduled between the Noank Trojans and the All-Irish from Mystic. The line-up for the Trojans is: Wilfred Ellis, Carlo Bracie, M. Ballestrini, R. Ballestrini, Eldridge and Burlime.

E. D. Carroll of Norwich was a business caller in the village Monday.

Mr. and Mrs. John B. Tourjee were recent callers on Westerly friends.

The Boy Scouts will meet Wednesday evening.

The clammers with about 20 in line with their hoes and pails held a parade and out in front was the Aunt Sarah Peabody club band of 20 pieces and Band Leader B. Bracci swinging the stick, a line of march down Pearl street to East Main street and Elm street to Prospect Hill to the lowest tide, the clammers went to Palmer Cove for action on the clams that was peeping out of the mud for the first time in many moons, then the band marched back to the club rooms and disbanded for the day. Sure was some fun when many jokes were sprung, one old clammer, who has seen about 20 presidents of this North American and is around 83 years old and with all his hair on his head, claimed he has seen a low tide that you could walk from Graves Point over to Groton Long Point and we got a wagon load of clams; there were three of us. The clams then almost jumped in the wagon, so thick, so the clammers listened for a half hour at the old salt and he sure likes to dig clams. Up at the other end of Palmer Cove a voice came calling for help. A clammer by the name of Peter Lang was stuck fast in the mud and could not get out so four men went up with a rope to haul Hard Luck Peter from the mud. Working for one hour, they could not move the 200-pound man so one fellow went to a farm and got a pair of horses to get him out and then it took 15 minutes before he was free on land again, up to his neck in mud. It took one hour and 15 minutes, four men and a pair of horses to get a 200-pound clammer on land again. When the sun was going down over the Midway hills and darkness coming fast, the clammers thought it was time to go home; some had two pails of clams and one fellow had 300 round clams. Had to have an auto to come over and take them home. Everyone got more than their share. Clams sure caught it that day. They could not stick their neck out of the mud for a smell of the air unless some one had one. The clammers were singing a song. Clams to the right and left of us and plenty today, enough of clams to feed an army of 300 men. Instead of Nick naming Mystic the clam diggers, it ought to be Noank, they are called the peanut eaters. Everyone would meet on the street corner or the gas station, "Gee, some clam chowder I had, and talk about fried clams, sweet as honey." You could almost see them sticking out of their shirts. Allie Crowell, for the first time he ever went clamming with a hoe, got tired digging them and he had 400 round clams. Never got his feet wet and never wore a pair of rubber boots or rubbers. For supper he had an Elm street chowder without an onion in it, and he had a party for the young fellows that are on their last pair of shoes and not a cup of coffee. The unlucky ones sure had a good time, they thanked the big-hearted man on Elm street, also for the lowest tide in ten years.

Allie told about the baseball season that is coming and who would win the flags. While the fellows were resting after eating too much clam chowder, he said, "Brooklyn in the National league and New York Yankees in the American league." It was late when the party broke up and Noank will never see such a low tide again.

HAND STICKING FROM LEAVES WAS MERELY A FREAK

Farmer T. O'Hara has a 50-acre farm about four miles from the fishing village and raises his Green Mountain potatoes that last all winter; also carrots and everything a farmer needs in a cellar. His hired help, Mike Overall, took out the western horses to plow up ground to get ready for next spring. Under some dead grass was a hand sticking out of the ground. Slim Overall let the horses stand and ran to the barn to get Owner O,Hara. Gee! he was white as a piece of paper and all out of wind. His boss said, "What is the matter?" "There is a human hand sticking out of the ground! Someone must have sunk down in the mud and is buried alive and left only his hand showing!"

Happy-go-lucky O'Hara scratched the few hairs on his head and bit off a piece of Liberty bell tobacco, then started where the hand was, with a hoe to dig out the man. Reaching the spot, eight minutes' walk from the barn, he dug down about six inches and found out it was a freak carrot, that was the shape of a human hand, four fingers and a thumb, also the palm. "Well, I have raised garden stuff nigh on to 42 years and this is the first time I ever saw a carrot like a hand, and so real! Well, Slim, I don't blame you for running after help, to think a man was buried alive! It would make anyone afraid, to see a carrot hand sticking out of the ground in the winter!"

Look what nature can do. The carrot was seven inches long and three inches wide, the fingers were two and one-half inches long, the thumb two inches long. It had all the farmers guessing around this section and over 50 farmers came with glasses on, also leather boots on and were from 21 years old to 92. They gathered to view the freak carrot hand that grew in the ground along with its brothers during the season.

In some way the farmer and his help had overlooked this spot—believed it only a bunch of dead grass. Slim Overall said, "It was high in the air where a blind man could see it! I don't know how we overlooked it when digging up its pals right near; but when in a hurry and with other things to do, the carrot hand was left alone. Never will nature grow such a perfect hand out of a vegetable!"

Slim said, "Once in Canada, where I was on a farm, the owner picked a triple tomato and had a part of a face to make it perfect. Although one eye was missing, it sure was a freak and queer looking tomato. The owner got $25 for it. A man from England was visiting some friends right next door and wanted that freak tomato to show his friends back across the ocean what nature can do in Canada, but Farmer O'Hara has them all stopped in raising a freak carrot-hand!"

Over 200 people came from different parts of the country to see the human hand-carrot and pictures were taken to show it is the truth when the story is told. One automobile came from California and this owner's name was Sam Tiger—an orange grower. He wanted to buy the freak carrot to take back to the golden west. "Well, Mr. O'Hara, how much do you want for the carrot?" "I don't know," came back the answer? "Will you take $27 for it? "Gee, that is some money for a carrot that grows on a farm!" Mr. Tiger took from his pocket a roll of greenbacks that would make a Ledyard cow cry, and paid for the freak carrot-hand. So the freak carrot traveled 3,000 miles to California to go on exhibition there.

THOXINE

For Coughs Too Deep
To Risk A Lesser Help

Creomulsion was made to deal with coughs from colds which hang on. A three-day cough is a danger signal. There the utmost should be done.

But a trifling cough may develop into something deep and difficult. Don't you think it wise to use the utmost help, even if a lesser help might do?

Creomulsion combines seven major helps in one. The seven best helps known to medical science. One is best for one type of cough, one for others. Nobody can tell in advance. So the best way seems to be to combine all in one prescription.

Creosote stands first. Here it is blended, emulsified and tasty. For soothing membranes and combating cold germs, the world knows nothing better.

But some coughs best yield to white pine tar, some to wild cherry bark, some to menthol, some to ipecac, etc. So we combine all these factors at their best in a single formula.

For some coughs Creomulsion is better than you need. One of its factors might do. But don't you feel safer when a minor cough is treated in the utmost way?

If so, get Creomulsion. It costs a little more than lesser helps—$1.25. But your druggist guarantees it. He returns your money if you are disappointed. You will feel safer in any cough if this master help combats it. Use it promptly.

A & P FOOD STORES OF NEW ENGLAND

AVERAGE OF 90 LEADING STOCKS DROPPED TWO POINTS YESTERDAY

NEW YORK, Dec. 8.—(AP)—Liquidation of the friendless railroad shares, many of which went to new lows for this year or considerably longer, carried the entire stock market lower today.

The average of 90 leading issues dropped just 2 points and at the close stood only 3.4 points above the November 10 minimum. Activity again increased, bringing sales to 1,983,840 shares, the largest volume since November 25.

Although there was nothing in the news to cause special pressure against the carrier equities, this group was battered persistently. Stocks like Atchison, Baltimore and Ohio, New York Central and Union Pacific skidded 5 points, making small recoveries, if any, the list of new lows in the group embraced; in addition to the first three of the above four, Frisco, Great Northern preferred, Erie, Nickel Plate, and Southern Railway.

Oils also had their troubles. A nine months income statement of Richfield Oil disclosed that little more than one tenth of the preferred dividend had been earned due partially to the necessity of purchasing at the market a large proportion of its crude requirements in view of voluntary production curtailments. Petroleum shares going to new lows included Standard of California, Pierce preferred, Phillips, Prairie Oil and Prairie Pipe.

Reports that the unfilled tonnage statement of the United States Steel corporation, due at noon Wednesday, would show a small increase steadied the steel stocks. Many of the industrial leaders, although heavy, confined their losses to a point or less. There was, however, a 3 point drop in American Can. General Electric, General Motors, Radio, U. S. Steel and Bethlehem Steel averaged about 3-4 of a point lower at the close. American Telephone recovered all but a fraction of a 2 point decline, but International Telephone, North American, Public Service of N. J., and Electric Power and Light were heavier.

Those who watch the government financing for clues as to what the treasury thinks of the money market's future could interpret favorably the record low rates for the forthcoming certificates. Easy money theoretically aids business recovery, this year, however, there has not been much opportunity to apply the theory and the security markets have ignored the lowest interest rates in years.

Until the last half hour shares prices displayed no hardening powers. But the improvement, such as it was, failed to regain the earlier losses, with two or three exceptions, and the absence of any support in the rails sent the list downward against the close. Union Pacific got back 3 points of its loss, closing 2 lower. Baltimore and Ohio and New York Central recovered fractionally.

Firmness in wheat was attributed in part to government estimates on the large amount being fed to stock, thereby reducing surplus. Final quotations were about a 1-4 cent higher. Corn rallied 3-8 to a cent in response to rumors of farm board buying. Cotton's losses were 60 to 90 cents a bale.

Foreign exchanges, mostly quiet and steady, were featured by the Canadian dollar's dip below par, thus reversing its recent trend. Sterling cables were firm.

BOND MARKET

NEW YORK, Dec. 8.—(AP)—Domestic bond prices tumbled today in sympathy with the share market.

Average declines were the largest in several weeks and selling pressure extended to a broad field of issues. Carrier obligations were offered in large volume at marked concessions from Saturday's closing prices and they led a long list of corporate bonds into new low ground for the year.

Many high grade bonds that have been little affected by the pressure against second grade obligations joined the decline and in a few instances losses of gilt edged issues amounted to a point and elsewhere ranged as wide as six points.

In foreign bonds the price movement was highly irregular. In U. S. governments, firmness prevailed only in Treasury issues. Liberties were a little better but did not duplicate the high levels of the year and short term treasury issues were quiet.

Announcement by the treasury of a $400,000,000 financing program for the final quarter at an interest rate less than 2 per cent—the lowest in a decade or more—was received in bond circles as reflecting a belief by the treasury that the easy tone of the money market will continue for some time. In bond circles it was expected that in view of the large demand for short term issues that banks would quickly over-subscribe the two issues of treasury certificates.

Selling was most persistent in the rail group and both liens and convertibles were reactionary. Among issues reacting 2 to 4 points were Allegheny 5s of 1944, and 1949, Burlington 4 1-2s, Rock Island general 4s, Denver, Rio Grande and Western 5s, Erie 5s of 1967, Missouri Pacific 5 1-2s A, 5s F and G, Frisco 4 1-2s, St. Louis, Southwestern 5s, Seaboard Airline 4s, Sna Dall Florida 6s, and Texas and Pacific 5s C. Six point losses in Wisconsin Central 4s, and Seaboard gold 4s represented the extreme losses in the group.

In the utility section losses were more moderate. American Telephone debenture and collateral 5s dipped 3-4 each and the convertible 4 1-2 issue was 6 1-2 lower at a new year's low. American and Foreign Power 5s reacted 1 3-4, and International Telephone debenture 5s, and 4 1-2s, Kansas Gas and Electric 4 1-2s, Postal 5s, and Utility Power and Light 5 1-2s were other soft spots.

Some large losses were registered by industrial bonds. Container corporation 6s sagged 4 5-8, Consolidated Coal of Maryland 6s lost 3, and General Steel Casting 5 1-2s, Inland Steel 4 1-2s, International Cement 5s, International Match 5s, from 1 to 2 points.

CHICAGO GRAIN MARKET

CHICAGO, Dec. 8.— (AP) —Surprise that the corn visible supply should exhibit but 11,000 bushels increase for the week led to a brisk late upturn today. The smallness of increase was in sharp contrast with the fact that recent receipts here and at other primary markets had been much enlarged. Aggressive buying also was promoted by knowledge that the Farmers National Grain corporation, a governmental sponsored agency, had purchased corn future deliveries.

Corn closed firm at nearly the day's top level, 1-4a1c a bushel higher than Saturday. Wheat closed irregular, 1-8 off to 3-8c up, oats at 1-4 decline to 1-2c advance, and provisions unchanged to a rise of 12c.

THE CURB MARKET

NEW YORK, Dec. 8—(AP)—The beginning of the new week found the curb market still on the downward path today which it took last Wednesday.

Trading quickened, piling up total sales of 534,100 shares, the largest since November 20. Several of the oils, farm implements and specialties penetrated new low ground.

In the oils, Gulf, Standard of Ohio, and South Penn declined 1 to 2 point to new minimum levels. Humble sagged fractionally to a new low. Cities Service sold off 3-4 of a point in a large turnover, then rallied 5-8 from the bottom. With the exception of Ohio, and Imperial, which sagged a point, losses in the Standards were fractionaly.

In the utilities, American Gas and Electric lost 2 points, but elsewhere losses were mostly moderate. Associated Gas common dropped 3 1-2 to a new low at 15 on a few sales, but Associated Gas class "A" stock eased only fractionally in active trading. Electric Bond and Share declined 1 1-4 points, then recovered 1-2.

Deere lost more than 2, and Gleaner Combine 1 1-2, both touching new low ground, along with Case on the big board. Others in the industrial and specialty group touching new lows included the Gorham, Inc., class A and preferred issues, Pittsburgh Plate Glass and Safety Car Heating, all of which were lightly traded. Bulova Watch preferred rallied 2 points, and in the chain stores, Lerner mounted nearly 3 and MacMarr, 1 in a few sales.

Investment trust and investment company issues were mainly under pressure. United Founders dipped fractionally to a new low at 7 5-8, and rallied slightly to close at 7 7-8, on the report of the company as of October 31, showing a net asset value of $10.89 a share, and cash of more than $16,400,000. Goldman Sachs lost 1-2 point.

NEW YORK, Dec. 8.—(AP)—Confidence in the future was expressed by executives of International Telephone & Telegraph Co. and Postal Telegraph-Cable Co. today, as division general managers of Postal opened their annual conference.

A. C. Thomas, secretary of Warner Brothers Pictures, in answer to an inquiry, said that the company is now making more money than it has made during the last eight months, although earnings are not running as high as at this time last year.

Arrangements have been made for the sale of a New York Curb exchange membership at $82,000, a decrease of $13,000 from the previous sale.

POETRY FOR THE WIDE AWAKES

Has Anybody Lost Two Cats

Has anybody lost two cats? Us hopes nobody ain't.
Because two baby cats is here; and they was thest as faint
As they could be when they first came to our back yard that day,
And so us feeded them, we did, and they won't go away;
But mama says that they ain't not our little cats at all,
And so us hides them in the shed
when people comes to call,
And one of us stays there with them
so's they'll be sure an' stay,
And does not let them out until the callers goes away.

And when it's me I hold them tight,
and peek out through a crack,
And watch them till they go away,
and hope they won't come back.
My mama says that probably nobody wants them much,
She says there is so many cats nobody
wants them much,
But us tells her us cares for cats, at leastways for these two,
Us don't think no one cares for cats
as much as usses do;
For these is speshul kinds of cats, and they can almost sing,
And they've got whiskers and a tail and legs and ever'-thing!

Our mama says that maybe some one had these cats, and they Did not want these and took them in a bag an' come away
And putted them in our yard; and my mama says that she Would like to have my father catch them doin' that, they'd see!
And she seems kind of fussy, but the cats don't seem to mind,
And usses thinks whoever left them
here was very kind;
And the cats both is fat and goes with us 'most ever'where,
And both their tails sticks straight up from them into the air.

I wish I had a million cats, an' sister wishes, too;
Us has had these cats quite a while,
and they are good as new!
And fatter than when they first come;
if we'd a million we
Would give them milkman's milk till they were fat as they could be,
And we would train them till they would go with us everywhere—
A million—with a million tails stuck right up in the air.
These is our cats! Now, ain't they fat?
An' ain't they long an' wide!
But 'scuse us, some one's comin' an'
us gotta go an' hide.

UNCLE JED'S TALK TO THE WIDE AWAKES

Now is the time for the Wide Awakes to start feeding their bird friends. It is often difficult for the birds to find enough food to keep them alive during the long cold months when ice and snow cover the frozen ground.

A small allowance of suet is ample for some of our winter birds, and bread crumbs or waste grain will supply the many who do not care for the suet.

Have your feeding station where it can be conveniently seen from the living room. In this way you can get a lot of fun out of the small service given.

An enjoyable method is to make a perch across the window and placed a few inches below the top of it. Lower the window from the top and fasten three or four small tacks or hooks in the top of the sash. From each of these suspend a piece of suet tied around with a cord. The suet can be renewed as necessary without going out in the cold simply by lowering the window and fastening it from the inside. The birds are safe from cats and all of their movements can be easily watched.

Don't worry about how you are going to get the birds to come to your feast. They'll look after that, and you will be surprised at how soon the first one will find it. You will be surprised again at how soon the word seems to be passed from one to another. The chickadee is usually the first to find the suet. It is them ost friendly of all our winter birds, and very graceful in all of its movements. It is easily recognized by its small size, black cap, and its little dee-dee-dee.

The white-breasted nuthatch is another regular visitor. It is a little larger than the chickadee, and not quite so chubby. It has the same black, white and gray coloring, which helps to conceal it in the snowy branches, but it has a slimmer head and a longer bill. It makes a sort of nasal drrr noise as it hunts over a neighboring tree trunk for grubs. In this it does what you will not find any other bird doing, it goes head downward quite as often as right side up. In this way it has two view points of the same spot, and lucky is the grub which escapes its sharp eyes.

Both chickadee and nuthatch take a back seat when a woodpecker comes. They just fly to a near tree and wait until the perch is vacant. There are two woodpeckers common at the country feeding station. The downy is the smaller and the more friendly. It is black and white with barred wings and a bright red spot on the back of the neck if it is a male. The female shows only black and white. It is interesting to watch how the downy uses its tail to brace itself while eating, after the manner of all woodpeckers.

When the hairy woodpecker comes, even the downy slides away. You can easily tell it by its larger size and more vehement pecking. Like the downy, only the male has the bright red on the napes of the neck.

The harsh call of the blue jay are often heard, especially when a storm is in the air. There is a flash of color and all the other birds yield place to the jay, which takes such big mouthfuls of suet that we wonder if there will be any left for the other birds. But it likes peanuts and all the smaller grains quite as well.

LETTERS WRITTEN BY WIDE AWAKES

A Berrying Trip

Uncle Jed: I am going to tell you about something that happened to me last summer. One fine day in July I woke up with the sun shining brightly through my window, the birds singing sweetly and the flowers beneath my window in full bloom.

I began to think "how shall I spend the day?" Suddenly a brilliant idea popped into my head. Why not go huckleberrying? So up I jumped and began to dress. As soon as I was dressed I ran down to the kitchen and asked my mother to hurry with my breakfast because I was going huckleberrying. I then ran out of doors.

Just then I saw my friend, Sally, and I told her of my plans. "Will you come?" I asked. "Yes," said she, and ran to tell her mother about it.

I went into the house and found my brother was up. He is only seven years old. As he is quite active, I was sure he would be quite a help in picking the berries.

When we were through with our breakfast we took our baskets, called Sally, and started off. The day was very beautiful and we felt like dancing for sheer joy. We soon turned into a small, shady path by the roadside. As we walked we talked about the berries and how large we expected them to be. By and by we saw two frisky gray squirrels playing tag in the treetops. Soon after we came to the berries. Bushes and bushes of ripe, luscious berries, while among them grew brilliant clusters of tiger-lilies and colombine in abundance.

We picked for about three-quarters of an hour when suddenly my brother said, "It's going to rain, I'm going home." "Don't you see the sun is shining?" we laughed. Still he seemed unconvinced. "Well, I'm going home anyway," he finally announced and began to walk away. "Good bye," we jeered and soon he was lost from sight. We picked in silence for about five moments then I noticed it was getting cloudy. "Don't you think we ought to start for home?" I said, uneasily. "Yes," agreed Sally, looking up from her berries. So after a few moments we started for home with our berries.

Just as we started it began to drizzle. So we began to run as fast as we could. "W-wa-wait a moment," I panted. So we began to go slower. Just then it began to rain (and it certainly rained hard!). Our thin clothing became drenched and in a moment our sneakers became soaked. We certainly were a sight! But Sally and I laughed at each other's plight and hurried on.

When we reached home we found my brother there, safe and dry! My mother gave me some dry clothing and soon I was sitting before the fire, warm, dry, and cosy, munching huckleberries.

Only a Dream

Dear Uncle Jed: Seeing I am in Switzerland for the winter, I will tell you a little about this country.

Now, of course, you know the first city I am going to visit. Why! it is Berne, the capital. Then I will go to Geneva and here I shall learn some poems, for it is noted for literature and science. Lake Geneva, near here, is a beautiful lake.

Now I will go to Zurich which is the largest city in Switzerland. I will go to St. Moritz next. Here is where many people go for the winter. Here we go skating, skiing and enjoy other sports.

Spring is coming. Now I must go back home. Just as I was starting what do you suppose happened? I woke up and found it was only a dream.

My Pigeon

Dear Uncle Jed: This is my first letter to you. I hope you are going to like it. I am going to tell you about my pigeon and the cats. One day my pigeon was eating out in the yard. When I looked out the window there were three cats in the yard, also. Just then one of the cats was going to spring upon the pigeon, but I rapped on the window and the cat jumped up and ran away. I said, "He will have to go somewhere else and get his dinner."

My Trip to Hartford

Dear Uncle Jed: I read the Wide Awake stories every week. But this is my first story. I am going to tell you about my trip to Hartford.

My mother, two sisters and I spent a week with my aunt and uncle. We stayed in their apartment which was very different from our cottage here in Baltic.

My sisters and I went in Colt park every day. The park was right across the street from where we stayed. There are all kinds of swings and things for children to enjoy themselves. Even little swings with bars across for little babies to sit in while their mothers sit on benches nearby.

Every night my uncle would take us for a ride in his machine.

One night we rode around the grounds of Wethersfield prison. Then we drove over to Elizabeth park, most noted for its beautiful arches of roses.

I met a little boy by the name of Dick. He lived next apartment to us. We spent a great deal of our time playing in a big lot.

How I Spent Thanksgiving

Dear Uncle Jed: I would like to tell you and the Wide Awakes how I spent Thanksgiving. We left here at 10:30 in the morning and went to Providence to see my sister, who lives near the Brown stadium. Brown was playing against Colgate. It was reported that 20,000 people were present. After watching the game for a while, we started for Warren, R. I. It was terrible driving among all the traffic near the stadium. We arrived in Warren, R. I., at 2:30. We went to see one of our friends. After having a turkey dinner, we played games, sang, and danced and had grapes, candy and fruit. Later we went down to auntie's house and had supper. We left for home at 8:30 and arrived home safely at 11:30. I had a wonderful Thanksgiving and hope all the other Wide Awakes did, too.

ROSE CURRIER, age 13

Socrates

Dear Uncle Jed: This is the first time I have written to you and the Wide Awakes. I hope you will like the topic I am going to write about, Socrates, which we have studied in the sixth grade.

The Athenians were not always just, although many of them acted as judges. One court, composed of 501 judges, condemned to death Socrates, the wisest man of the Greeks, and one of the wisest of the world. He did not make speeches or write books or teach in school. He went about in the market places, at the gymnasium and on the streets, asking men, young and old, questions about life, such as: "What is the true way to live?" If people did not give him an answer which seemed good, he asked more questions until sometimes they went away angry. Many of them thought because he asked questions about everything that he did not believe in anything, not even in the religion of his city.

J. ARMSTRONG, age 11

Autumn

Uncle Jed: One day last fall my brother and I went to work in the garden picking turnips. When our baskets were full we started for home. On our way home we came on to two young deer eating in our clover field. When we arrived home I told my mother about the young deer which interested her as she is fond of animals. The next day we returned to the turnip patch to get some turnips that I had left on the ground the night before but they were gone. It seems the deer were as fond of turnips as they were of clover.

A Story

Dear Uncle Jed: I had a book from the library. The name of it was "Heidi." Heidi had no father or mother. They both died after each other. She was going to live with grandfather upon the Alps. She liked it very much with Peter, the goat boy.

RUBY SHARPE, age 12
Norwich.

A Nutting Party

Dear Uncle Jed: Just a few weeks ago my brother, my sister and I went nutting. My father and mother came also. We got four or five quarts of nuts. We put them up in the attic to dry. When I went up there guess who I found there? My little baby brother was trying to eat the nuts.

GLADYS LARKIN, age 8

A Calf and A Deer

Dear Uncle Jed: I am hoping that you are in the best of health. It was a somber day in October when I went into the woods for a stroll.

The leaves were falling, the birds were flying about and squirrels were chattering with each other. I was walking leisurely when I came upon our cattle grazing on the bits of grass found here and there.

I noticed that one calf was missing. I started to search, knowing her favorite hiding place and sure enough I found her. And to my surprise there was a young deer. They were rubbing noses.

All was well, until I was seen.

The deer sprang away before you could say Robinson Crusoe.

I purposely go to that spot in hopes that I may see and enjoy that peaceful scene again.

A HISTORY OF CONNECTICUT INDUSTRY

Released by Manufacturers Association of Connecticut

The Silent Glow Oil Burner Corporation, Hartford.

The company was incorporated in the state of Connecticut on April 17, 1924, to manufacture and sell oil burners. The corporation entered into the field by manufacturing a burner for kitchen ranges. Although there was a great market for such a product, no product of sufficient merit had yet been developed—and the business of making oil burners for kitchen ranges could by no means be termed an industry. It was a hopeful experiment.

The start of Silent Glow was a modest one—made in modest circumstances. But its officers were men of purpose and they determined then upon the policy they have always adhered to and which has won so remarkable a success. They set out to develop a burner that would be as near perfection as human hands and brains could make it. They did this in the realization that their paramount duty was to the public and to their dealers who served that public.

The first burner was of the blue flame vaporizing type which had been on the market about a year. This burner consisted of two square units. Five men comprised the factory force that first year—but a service crew of eight men, required for Hartford alone, soon demonstrated that this burner was far from the ideal they had set.

Investigations swiftly followed. Experiments, based on experience and exhaustive tests, lead to improvements of major importance—and a new burner was the result. This was an oval burner, the model "O", which was a radical improvement, to say the least, over the square burner.

Sales were better after this. Less servicing was required, dealers showed signs of some enthusiasm. But the process of development continued. Engineers were constantly engaged in the never-ending task of improving the product. Perfection was the goal—as it is even today.

Next came the model "R", the earliest of the present type range burners. And in 1928 the model "W", or present type burner, was brought out. It represented still further progress and achievement from both field and factory men.

Continued advances are constantly being made—the latest being the Superheater, a device which gives even more heat than was before possible, and increases the speed of starting, a feature in which Silent Glow has always excelled. Today the Silent Glow range burner is the fastest lighting burner on the market.

Another development was the patented rings and covers for the burner. These, together with the patented carbon legs and other Silent Glow features, are evidence of the fact that the entire skill and experience of the organization has been employd to produce a high quality product—a product that carries a five year guarantee, backed by a $10,000 cash deposit.

More than 80,000 satisfied users are evidence of the merit of the product and the fact that Silent Glow insists upon responsible and reliable dealers to represent it.

The growth of the company has been phenomenal. Sales have doubled every year for the past four years and indications point to a continuance of this growth.

Over 100 men are now employed in the factory, as compared with five the first year. The service force has been done away with in favor of an installation force because now servicing is practically negligible.

Silent Glow is today the largest maker of kitchen range burners in the world, and besides thirteen branch offices in the United States, controls the Silent Glow Oil Burner Corporation, Ltd., of Canda. In addition to its branches it has several hundred active dealers all enjoying the success which has been achieved through the widespread distribution of the company's products. The fact that these products are profitable for dealers is shown by a dealer turnover of less than 1 per cent per year.

The corporation is amply financed and is very highly rated by Dun and Bradstreets' and has a reputation throughout the industry and trade that is equalled by none.

The rapid strides made by the corporation have been brought about by careful management and a keen sense of appreciation of its duty to the purchasers of its products. The officers of the corporation are:

Arthur L. Shipman, chairman of the board of directors, a prominent attorney in the city of Hartford and also a director of large insurance companies including the Aetna Insurance company.

Ralliston M. Sherman, president, who has designed and obtained patents on many oil burning devices, and is also president of the Silent Glow Oil Burner Corp., Ltd., of Canada

Charles B. Cook, vice president, also vice president and factory manager of the Royal Typewriter company.

Louis S. Kroto, treasurer and Henry P. Riordan, secretary, both of whom have been connected with the corporation since its early days.

In addition to these officers, the corporation has on its board of directors Clayton C. Chase, president of the City Bank and Trust company of Hartford.

An oil burner conscious public which has become educated to the value of oil heat is fast bringing the industry to the fore and this corporation, guided by the sound principles of fair dealing which have brought it to the lead in the small burner field today, intends to maintain its business on the same high plane as heretofore and thereby merit the confidence of this oil burner conscious public.

BURGESS BEDTIME STORY

Stumpy Bumps His Nose

Some knowledge is attained by thumps,
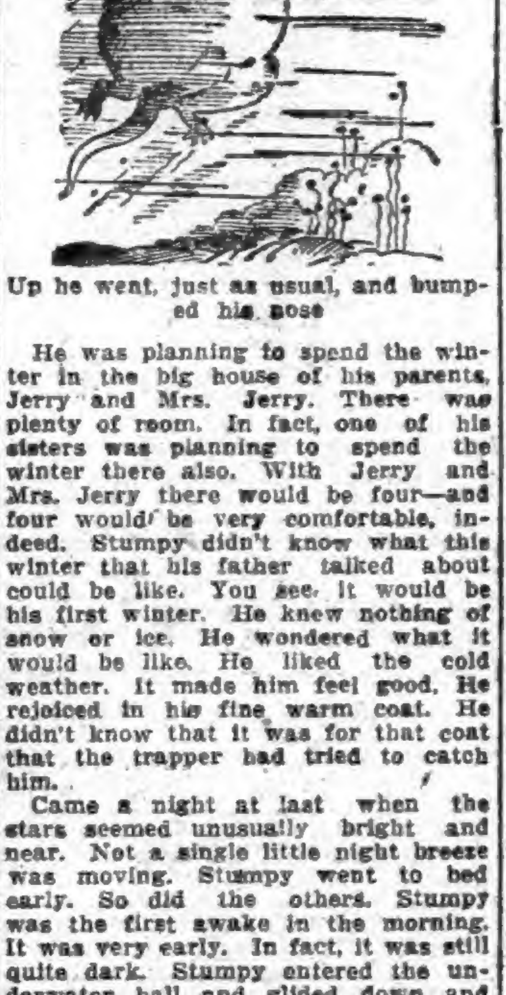
And wisdom often comes with bumps.
—Young Muskrat.

The young muskrat who had lost a leg in a trap on the edge of the Laughing brook had a name. Yes, sir, he had a name. He didn't know it, but he had a name just the same. Farmer Brown's boy had given it to him. He gave it to him the first time he saw him. The name was Stumpy. Farmer Brown's boy had been filled with great pity for that young muskrat and with great anger at the thought that any one had dared set traps around the Smiling pool or along the Laughing brook. He had searched everywhere for traps but had failed to find any. This was because the boy who had set them had taken them up after he had found Stumpy's paw in one. The Smiling pool and the Laughing brook were once more safe.

Never had there been a time when food was so easy to get around the Smiling pool. You see, Farmer Brown's boy was attending to that matter. Ever since he had first seen Stumpy he had slipped away as often as he could and taken a supply of carrots and apples over to the Smiling pool.

"I've got to make it up to that little fellow in some way," said Farmer Brown's boy. "It can't be as easy for him to get food as it was before he lost that leg. I am afraid that he will go hungry. I don't see how with only one front paw he can possibly dig roots even where the mud is fairly soft. If I leave plenty of carrots and apples around he will get some anyway. Of course, the other muskrats will get most of them, but what if they do? There are more apples this year than any one knows what to do with and I guess we can spare plenty of carrots."

So Jerry Muskrat and Mrs. Jerry and those of the children who were planning to spend the winter in the Smiling pool or along the Laughing brook were having any easy time of it and were growing fat. Stumpy was getting his share. In fact, Farmer Brown's boy would have been surprised could he have known how large a share Stumpy was getting. Not only was he getting plenty to eat day by day, but also enough to store away for future use. You see, now that he had grown accustomed to the loss of that foot he was surprisingly active on his remaining three legs and was quite ready to fight for his rights. His teeth were just as long and just as sharp the teeth of any other muskrat and he knew how to use them. So he had soon won the respect of his brothers and sisters and they seldom tried to take advantage of him.



Up he went, just as usual, and bumped his nose

He was planning to spend the winter in the big house of his parents, Jerry and Mrs. Jerry. There was plenty of room. In fact, one of his sisters was planning to spend the winter there also. With Jerry and Mrs. Jerry there would be four—and four would be very comfortable, indeed. Stumpy didn't know what this winter that his father talked about could be like. You see, it would be his first winter. He knew nothing of snow or ice. He wondered what it would be like. He liked the cold weather. It made him feel good. He rejoiced in his fine warm coat. He didn't know that it was for that coat that the trapper had tried to catch him.

Came a night at last when the stars seemed unusually bright and near. Not a single little night breeze was moving. Stumpy went to bed early. So did the others. Stumpy was the first awake in the morning. It was very early. In fact, it was still quite dark. Stumpy entered the underwater hall and glided down and out into the Smiling pool. Then he turned his head up to swim up to the surface to get fresh air. Up he went just as usual and bumped his nose! Yes, sir, Stumpy bumped his nose against the top of the Smiling pool. A more surprised muskrat never lived.

Dogwood trees, a picturesque feature of woodlands in Maryland, Virginia and Pennsylvania, were hard hit by the drought, because of their shallow roots.

POETRY

Winter Field

Against these shocks of corn the fallen snow
Heaves up a drift that deepens where the clear,
Cold wind cuts through. The field sinks
white below
The early evening and the crumbling year.
I have tramped far to find this troubled rest
Of harvest sinking under snow. This field
That goes to mice and grouse has chosen best—
It gives to earth again its taken yield.
I plunge my two hands deep and find an ear
All gold and plump; while covered deeper still
The dark is housed. Field mice hold harvest here,
And winter long wild grouse will feed their fill.
Some farmer with a gift for tardy care
Has left this far field for the earth to share.

—Howard McKinley Corning in the New York Sun.

Icy Winds

The dun and gold clouds float along
The pale blue of the sky,
A white moon like a silver gong
Is hanging far on high,
A flock of wild geese honk their song
While sedges bend and sigh.

The grass is sere, the trees are bare
There is a bitter chill,
As north winds from their icy lair
Come storming at the hill.
White snowflakes slanting down the air
Find rest upon the sill.

The ice is forming at the edge
Of brook and ponds, the breeze
Is changing to a gale. The ledge
Is piling high, the trees
Are whitening, and now the hedge
Seems crouched, on shivering knees.

PROMISING BETTER LIGHTING FOR STONINGTON PORT

Fishermen and other mariners having occasion to use the harbor of Stonington will rejoice in the news just received that the confusing light situation at entrance to that port is to be remedied at an early date. As it is now mariners on entering the harbor are first struck by the lights from the fishing wharf, which have a tendency to make the inner breakwater blend into the shore line and creat a dangerous situation thereby.

At one time there was a light maintained on end of this breakwater, which extends some 400 feet out from the Atwood property, but this light has been out of service for several years now.

Louis A. Round, Jr., circulated a petition, which received signatures of 180 mariners using the port, asking the lighthouse department to place a light on end of the breakwater. This was sent to the lighthouse department headquarters at Staten Island and apparently ignored as no response came.

Then the matter was taken up with officials of the Atwood Machine Co., who got in communication with R. S. Patton at Washington, director of the United States coast and geodetic survey. There was considerable correspondence and exchange of maps, following which the official acknowledged the necessity for a light at the point. He did not say that it would be of the blinker type with a red flash but that was the description of the light requested and the seafaring men hope that this will be granted.

A municipal opera school has been formed by the Santa Monica (Cal.) Bay Music Association.

THRIFT BANKS STOLEN FROM NORWICH SCHOOLS

The police blame boys for the theft of two thrift banks from local schools sometime Thursday night. The schools broken into were the Broad street school and the East Great Plain school. The schools are about four miles apart.

Entrance to the Broad street school was gained through a rear window, forced by a jimmy or a screwdriver. At East Great Plain school the thieves found a window open. Crawling in they got the bank and left via the door, leaving the door open.

At Voluntown, Frank Davis' sawmill which has been sawing timber for George L. Ingalls, of Norwich, has shut down for want of orders and will resume operation as soon as a market is found for the products. Some 20 men will be idle for a while.

WATCH IN NEW LONDON FOR DRIVER WHO RAN DOWN HARTFORD COP

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Dec. 8—The Hartford police this evening requested the New London police to be on the lookout for a New York automobile carrying registration, 4U-4736. The driver is wanted on a charge of evasion of responsibility. The auto was passing through one of the streets of Hartford and as an officer attempted to signal the driver to stop, the bluecoat was run down and the car was speeded away.

LAW GOOD TO JOHN JAMES—GETS OFF WITH $10 AND COSTS

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Dec. 8—John James, Waterford, was presented in the Waterford town court this afternoon charged on three counts of violation of the state motor vehile law, driving with improper markers, driving an unlicensed automobile and failing to notify the state motor vehicle department of change of address. James was penalized $10 and costs on each of the two former counts and on the third charge a nolle was ordered. James was arrested several days ago by State Police Officer William Elmer MacKenzie and in default of bail of $500, he had been locked up in New London. James gained considerable notoriety several months ago. He was employed as riding instructor at a club in Stonington and was arrested charged with too great friendliness with Isabelle Dickinson Findlay estranged wife of George Findlay, New London and Norwich washing machine salesman, James having been a lodger at the Findlay cottage in Stonington. When the case went to trial, however, the man and woman were found not guilty.

Part of Fine Remitted

George Raynes, Station 25, Waterford, employed in this city as an automobile mechanic, was presented on a charge of driving while under the influence of liquor. He pleaded guilty and was fined $100 and costs, but Judge Frederick Schofield ordered $50 of the fine remitted. Raynes was arrested last week by State Police Officers Frederick Johnson and Eric Swanson. He was driving in Waterford and lost control of the steering wheel with the result that the auto crashed against a stone wall.

MEAN FINDER SPENDS CASH—JOKES WITH AUTO LICENSE

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Dec. 8—Victor L. Beebe, of Old Lyme, was in New London recently and lost his wallet containing $118 in cash, a check for $35 and Beebe's driver's license. Today Beebe received a letter in which was the check and with the license pasted on the face of the envelope as its address. The envelope was mailed in Niantic Friday night. This dishonest finder had pocketed the money, but had returned the remaining contents of the wallet as they were of no value to anyone but Beebe.

With about 200 present, fine music, and an inspiring address by the Rev. J. Romeyn Danforth, pastor of the First Church of Christ, the local lodge of Elks at its Washington street clubhouse last night, paid tribute to the memory of its 243 departed members. Alba Camillucci, local soloist sang Guonod's Ave Maria, and later sang the Ave Maria from Verdi's opera Otello. She was accompanied by Leslie Burdick at the piano.

CORONER INVESTIGATES HILTON FATALITY AT BASE

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Dec. 8—Coroner Edward G. McKay, of Norwich, this afternoon conducted a hearing at the barracks of the state police, in Groton, for the purpose of ascertaining the facts in the case of Frank Ciereszeueski, driver of a mail truck, owned by Adam Rojeske, Jewett City, which hit and fatally injured Ernest M. Hilton, 20, a marine stationed at the submarine base on the morning of Dec. 4. But a very few witnesses were examined and from statements of those interviewed by Coroner McKay, it would appear that Ciereszeueski was not responsible for the running down of the marine. The witnesses included Ciereszeueski and State Police Officer Frederick Johnson, the latter having been assigned to make an investigation a short time after Hilton was hit.

Hilton was on guard duty at the entrance to the base. When a milk truck headed south arrived on the military highway at a point opposite the entrance, Hilton went beside the truck and engaged in conversation with the driver. It was dark, being about 5 o'clock. When Hilton started to retrace his steps, he did not observe the approach of the mail truck, which was en route from New London to Norwich and Putnam. Neither did Ciereszeueski detect the presence of the marine, almost in the middle of the road. When the driver did make out the form of Hilton in the highway, he attempted to reduce the speed of the truck, but only partially succeeded. Hilton was hit with much force and hurled to the road. Hilton was taken to the sick bay, where an examination revealed that the marine had suffered the fracture of several punctured ribs, one of which had pierced the lung. Hilton died about two hours after the accident. The body of Hilton was forwarded Saturday to his former home, in Bremert, Ga.

Mrs. Carl French and infant daughter of 845 Bank street; Mrs. Arthur Pettinari, 164 Shaw street; Mrs. George A. Williams, 67 Raymond street; Jack Bernstein, 15 Grand street; Mrs. Joseph Contanio, Station 9, Waterford and Mrs. Leslie Jones and infant son, Gales Ferry, patients at Lawrence-Memorial hospital, were discharged over the week end.

Mrs. Violet Stahler, 180 Norwood avenue, a patient at Home Memorial hospital, was discharged Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. B. W. Humphries, Waterford, entertained Frank Naughton and Miss Blanche Humphries, Brooklyn, N. Y., over the week end.

SAMUEL GOLDBERG DEED TRANSFERS REALTY

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Dec. 8—A deed was received for record at the office of the city clerk today transferring title in the realty, 58-60 State street, from Samuel Goldberg, Norwich, to Herman Goldberg, also of Norwich. The buildings are of brick and granite and three stories in height. Samuel Goldberg died Sunday at his Norwich home.

FUNERALS

Mrs. William J. Nealon

The funeral of Annette R., wife of William J. Nealon, of 41 Linden street, was held at 9 o'clock this morning at St. Joseph's church and was attended by a large assemblage of mourners. The high mass of requiem was sung by Rev. William C. Fitzsimons. The bearers were Leonard Sheflott, James Nagle, Louis Leiper, John Moriarty, Otto Eames and Henry Carey. Burial was in St. Mary's cemetery.

John W. Walsh

The funeral of John W. Walsh, of 188 Crystal avenue, was held this afternoon at 1:30 o'clock at the Methodist Episcopal church and was attended by many mourners, including delegations of several organizations in which Mr. Walsh had held membership. The services were conducted by Rev. Charles E. Spaulding. Members of Union lodge, F. & A. M., acted as bearers and conducted the committal service in Madison.

Mrs. Israel Rogers

Funeral services for Katherine, widow of Israel Rogers, were held this afternoon at 2:30 o'clock at 48 Shapley street, Rev. J. Romeyn Danforth officiating. Relatives acted as bearers. Burial was in Jordan cemetery.

Daniel Apicilli

The funeral of Daniel Apicilli, little son of Mr. and Mrs. John Apicilli, of 25 Ledyard avenue, Groton, was held this afternoon at 2 o'clock at Sacred Heart church, Groton, Rev. Michael Reagan reading the service. Friends acted as bearers. Burial was in St. Mary's cemetery.

OBITUARY

Miss Catherine Kennedy

Miss Catherine Kennedy, 78, died suddenly Sunday at her home, 41 Shapley street, death being caused by heart disease. She is survived by two sisters, Miss Margaret Kennedy and Miss Hannah Kennedy, of the same address. Miss Kennedy was a native of Ireland, but had resided in New London many years.

Miss Elizabeth Roath, assistant city clerk, and Miss Ella Howard, secretary to City Manager William A. Holt, are having a vacation of a week and are in New York, where they will remain until the latter part of the week.

ACCUSED NEGRESS FREED—SULLIVAN FORFEITS BOND

Maude Pijeaux, Negress, residing at 28 Hill street, was in the police court this morning charged with conducting a disorderly house. Because of insufficient evidence upon which to establish a conviction, Prosecuting Attorney Max Boyer moved for a nolle, which was granted. John Sullivan, white, who was in the house when the woman was arrested, was charged with intoxication, but he failed to present himself for trial and his bond of $25 was forfeited. The arrest of the woman and Sullivan was made by Patrolman Lawrence Fardy Sunday.

Vermont Driver Fined

Paul A. Martin, R. F. D., Bethel, Vt., charged with reckless driving, was fined $25 and costs. Martin was driving southerly on the New London-Norwich highway Sunday afternoon and at a terrific rate of speed, the auto passing a line of traffic and "rocking" because of the great rate of speed at which it was traveling. State Police Officers William E. MacKenzie and James Dygert were on duty on the highway and observing the reckless driving of Martin, pursued and arrested the driver.

Harry Shuman, of Spring street, and Charles Camaroto, of Belden street, were charged with breach of the peace but both cases were nolled. The youths were on Bank street Sunday night and loitering in front of a store, a practice that Captain Charles A. Pinney has ordered stopped because of numerous complaints made by merchants and pedestrians. When Patrolman Henry Sylvia ordered the boys to move on some of them obeyed the order, but Shuman and Camaroto refused to do so, with the result that they were arrested.

Robert Bailey, a carpenter, residing on Crystal avenue, was charged with breach of the peace and intoxication, but both counts were nolled, the complainant, Charles Whitman, an employe at Ye London Grill, withdrawing the charges.

Henry Weible, Scarsdale, N. Y., charged with reckless driving, failed to present himself in court so his bond of $35 was forfeited.

Donald S. Mitchell, 5 Granite street, was charged with violation of the state motor vehicle law in passing an automatic traffic signal set at danger. He was fined $5.

Fred Ruhland, Farmingdale, N. Y., charged with parking his automobile on Pearl street, which highway is restricted to all traffic, did not appear in court and forfeited his bond of $5.

Let His Bond Go

Walter Ryder, 210 North Bank street, was charged with parking his auto in restricted area on Green street. Ryder, also, failed to appear in court and his bond of $2 was declared forfeited.

A laborer charged with intoxication was fined $10 and costs. He was arrested on North Bank street Saturday night, but a few days after he had finished serving a sentence in jail for the same offense.

Joseph Sawicki, 20, of 34 Winthrop street, was charged with breach of the peace and intoxication but the charges were nolled.

Two men who were arrested Saturday, charged with intoxication, were not presented in court for they were discharged, by order of Prosecuting Attorney Max Boyer.

Long List of Offenders

The officers at the state police barracks, Groton, made several arrests over the week-end, all of the offenses being automobile law violations. Frank Chapperina, 518 Thames street, Groton, was arrested in that borough by Officer Arthur Whitmarsh, charged with driving while his automobile is under suspension. Arthur Hewlins, Woodman, Mass., was also arrested in Groton by Officer Whitmarsh, charged with driving without a license. Henry Kubalanka, 12 Sharaf street, this city, was arrested in Montville by Officer Frederick Johnson, charged with driving without a license. Alex Rovenchuk, Colchester, was arrested in Waterford by Officer James Dygert, charged with reckless driving. Carl and Gustav Larsen, 88 West Pleasant street, this city, were arrested in Waterford by Officer Dygert. Carl was charged with driving without a license and Gustav was charged with loaning his license to his brother. Joseph Willigham, Submarine base, was arrested in Groton by Officer John Smith, charged with driving without a license. William Weeman, Poquonoc Bridge, was arrested by Officer Smith in Groton, charged with driving while his license is under suspension. Hans Leckinger, Montville, was arrested in that town by Officer Dygert, charged with improper use of markers. Joseph Peompel, Willimantic, was arrested by Officer Dygert, in Norwich, charged with failing to file proof of financial responsibility at the office of the state motor vehicle department. Nelson Pobihun, New Haven, was arrested in East Lyme by Officer Smith, charged with driving an auto while not possessing a certificate of registration. ANNOUNCEMENTS

Palace Theatre

The Palace theatre is offering for the next three days beginning tomorrow a special bill of two super-fine features "Rain or Shine," the picture that is rocking the nation with laughter, with Joe Cook, Louise Frenda, Joan Peers, William Collier, Jr.

Joe Cook has earned for himself the unique title of "the one-man show," based upon his great versatility. He not only can, but does do an entire show himself. He sings; plays various musical instruments, performs difficult acrobatic feats, dances, conjures, walks a wire and does trick sharpshooting. All these stunts are performed by Joe Cook in "Rain or Shine."

Clever as these stunts are, it is the inexhaustible and rapid-fire flow of humorous conversation that is the high spot of the production. It may be that now, for the first time, patrons of the cinema will be able to hear Mr. Cook, personally and confidentially reveal his famous secret: "Why I cannot imitate four Hi--wy-ans."

Co-feature on this great bill is the masterpiece of the pen of James Oliver Curwood, who wrote of the great northwest as only he could bring life and love to those icy barrens.

"River's End" is generally considered Curwood's most dramatic story. Into it he has woven a golden romance and there is a stirring plot of danger, daring and suspense against a background of natural beauty which cannot be surpassed in any other part of the world.

The story of the man who could not prove himself a gentleman without proving himself a murderer, and who could only clear himself of murder by letting the world think him a cad, makes an extremely powerful screen play.

Today for the last times you can see "Sunny" with Marilyn Miller, a greater picture than Sally.

Broadway Theatre

Announcement was made today by the Warner Bros., Broadway theatre that the all-talking screen version of the successful stage play, "East Is West," featuring Lupe Velez, Lewis Ayres and Edward G. Robinson, has been obtained as the next attraction, opening Wednesday for an engagement of three days.

Originally produced in New York with Fay Bainter in the leading role, "East Is West" proved one of the most popular plays of recent years, enjoying a run of three years on Broadway.

The story deals with the love affair of Ming Toy and Billy Benson, son of a wealthy San Franciscan, who rescues the little Chinese girl from a "love boat" in China.

Miss Velez, whose career as a film celebrity started with her portrayal of the mountain girl in Douglas Fairbanks' "The Gaucho," is said to have been most admirably cast as Ming Toy and in this role she makes her debut as a screen singer with her rendition of the famous "Chinese Lullaby."

Lewis Ayres, who leaped to fame overnight as Paul Baumer in "All Quiet On The Western Front," plays his first romantic role as Billy Benson.

Edward G. Robinson, noted stage star, plays his first Chinese character, that of Charlie Yong, ruler of San Francisco's Chinatown, in the new production.

WARNING MERCHANTS AGAINST WOMAN CHECK FORGER

Merchants in cities in the state are being warned by police to be on their guard against a clever woman worthless check passer, who has been operating with signal success in various cities of the state during the past week. In the last two days she has put over several bad checks, first in Meriden and then in New Haven and it is believed she is working this way.

Her game is to go into a ladies' apparel store and engage a clerk to accompany her about while she makes several purchases. She appears to be a very sweet woman and calls the saleslady "Dearie" and compliments her upon her courtesy and ability. After making her purchases she tenders a check drawn on the Putnam Bank of Greenwich in payment and departs and later it is found that the check is worthless.

The woman is described as being very neat in her dress and appearance, is about five feet, six inches tall, weighs about 135 pounds and is attired in a dark coat with tan fur collar and wears tortoise shell glasses. In her operations about the state she has gone under the names of Mrs. Bennett, Mrs. Howard and Mrs. Gunther.

The tallest office building in Europe, towering 280 feet and housing twenty-four stories is to be erected on the ground sof the Zeiss works herein. It is Germany's first real skyscraper.

65TH WEDDING ANNIVERSARY BY FLANDERS COUPLE

Mr. and Mrs. Alvah Morgan of Flanders observed the 65th anniversary of their marriage, quietly at their home on Wednesday. Friends called during the day and a beautiful bouquet of chrysanthemums was presented to Mr. Morgan and a lovely begonia to Mrs. Morgan by the Daughters of Union Veterans of New London.

Mr. and Mrs. Morgan, whose maiden name was Sarah E. Bailey, were married in Salem, Dec. 3, 1865, by Rev. George Keeney, of Preston. The occasion was a double wedding service for Mrs. Morgan's sister, Mrs. Frances Tillotson, was united in marriage to Amos B. Tillotson at the same time.

Mr. Tillotson is not living but Mrs. Tillotson, now 90 years of age, makes her home with Mr. and Mrs. Morgan. Mr. Morgan is also 90 years of age, while Mrs. Morgan, the "baby" of the household, is a mere 84 years old.

Mrs. Tillotson's health is not of the best, but both Mr. and Mrs. Morgan are as active as much younger people. Mr. Morgan cares for a garden, chickens and until within three years, also kept a cow, while Mrs. Morgan does all the work of the home for the three.

In 1866, the year following their marriage, the Morgans started to operate a farm in Salem which they continued until 1909 when they moved to their present residence in Flanders. Mr. Morgan is a Civil war veteran, serving with the 26th Connecticut Volunteers in 1863, and was wounded in the battle of Port Hudson and still carries the bullet in his leg just below the knee. For the past three years he has been president of the 26th Association of Co. A, Connecticut Volunteers, which annually meets in Norwich in the month of August.

Favors Morin's Application

The New London County Bar association voted favorably Friday morning upon the application of Howard Francis Morin of New London to take the state bar examinations. The meeting was held here in the superior court room. Mr. Morin is at present employed in a government position in Washington and is a graduate of Georgetown University Law school.

To Round Up Tax Delinquents

Tax Collector Harold T. Robinson has turned over to Deputy Sheriffs O. H. Main, John R. Bowman, Jr., and Constable Meyer Blumenthal a dozen or more tax warrants to be served on delinquent taxpayers. Failure to pay a tax warrant leaves a person liable to imprisonment in the county jail, according to law.

GREENEVILLE

Thirty-six were present at the regular Christian Endeavor meeting held Sunday evening at the Third Baptist church. Miss Marilyn Lund conducted the meeting. The topic was on "Giving Christmas Gifts" and was very well discussed by the leader and the various members present.

Next Sunday evening the meeting will be in charge of Miss Winifred Haydon who will endeavor to put on a radio program.

A Christian Endeavor social will be held Friday evening in the chapel of the church.

FORTY HOURS DEVOTION CLOSES AT ST. MARY'S

The Forty Hours devotion at St. Mary's Memorial church proved successful in the opinion of the pastor, Rev. George J. Donahue.

Large congregations were present for the three masses Monday morning. The low mass at 5:30 was offered by Rev. Arthur B. Sullivan, for the benefit of the early workers; the second mass at 7 by Rev. Fr. McGuirk, a priest of the LaSalette order at Hartford, and the last mass at 8 by the pastor, Rev. George J. Donahue. The visitations to the church were very numerous during the day, both morning and afternoon. The devotion closed last evening with the devotion of the Holy Hour.

Yesterday was the Feast of the Immaculate Conception, one of the great feast days of the church year on which the Catholic world pays homage to Mary, the Mother of Christ.

The Do One Another club met Friday evening at the home of Hugh MacDonald for their weekly whist party. The president of the club, Vivian Allen, gave the roll call and found all members present. Plans were then discussed for a straw ride to Pachaug in the near future.

Mr. Heller offered the club his team of horses and wagon for the purpose. The president urged all members to be present and make this ride an enjoyable one. The president announced that Henry Cloutier was the host of the evening. Four tables of whist were in play and prizes were won: Ladies' first prize, Mrs. David Shahan; gents' first prize, Hugh MacDonald; ladies' consolation, Mrs. Allan MacDonald; gents' consolation, Vivian Allen.

After the whist a fine baritone solo "On the Road to Mandalay," was rendered by the host, Henry Cloutier, who was accompanied at the piano by Hugh MacDonald. Mr. Heller gave an interesting talk on his recent trip to Canada and, being an amateur photographer, he had many interesting snapshots to illustrate his talk.

Dancing was then enjoyed until a late hour, music being furnished by MacDonald's Melody Boys' orchestra of six pieces, namely: Piano, Hugh MacDonald; violin, Allan MacDonald; saxophone, Dave Shahan; clarinet, George Gauthier; banjo, Joseph Tighe; drums, Louie Heller.

JOHNSON HOME MATRON NARRATES EXPERIENCES

At the Johnson home Monday afternoon the December meeting of Home chapter of the King's Daughters was held, the leader, Mrs. William E. Manning presiding. There were 56 present to listen to a very interesting talk on Social Work, by Mrs Madeline Martin, matron of the home. The first half of the program was given over to devotional exercises, reports and other business. The Bible study lesson was the fourth chapter of Hebrews. For the lesson at the next meeting in January, 1931, the chapter will consider Proverbs XII. Three new members were received into the chapter. Announcement was made that the Home Chapter Sewing society would hold its next meeting with Mrs. William H. Whiteman of West Town street, Thursday, Dec. 11th.

The nominating committee, Mrs. Arthur Fulton, Mrs. Herman D. Gager and Mrs. Robert Hull reported that the list of officers had been chosen for the ensuing year. A Christmas committee was named which includes Mrs. Aubrey W. Jarvis, Mrs. Gertrude Tootill and Mrs. George A. Turner.

MUSTEROLE

Mrs. Martin outlined many experiences from the time of her graduation from the hospital as a nurse. It was brought out that her efforts had not been wasted and there was usually some reward which followed her painstaking efforts, in relieving the suffering and hardship of others.

A man patient, who had to have his leg amputated, was sent home from the hospital. Mrs. Martin then a young girl was sent there to do the surgical dressing. After a while, when conditions had been greatly improved as to the man's physical health, through the efforts of this nurse, the authorities were appealed to to render assistance in providing something for him to do. Although the idea was at first scoffed at, to procure a wheel chair for this man that he might get around to conduct a news stand as a means of earning a living, this nurse used every effort until that feat was accomplished. Today, of the man's large family of children, three are college graduates. One son is a doctor, and there is a teacher in the family, the education of these children being made possible through the help received by the father in getting a business started.

This kind of work developed in Liverpool, England. A kind hearted citizen, whose wife needed the care of a nurse after leaving a hospital, had his thoughts aroused as to what good could be accomplished in this way, alleviating distress in poor families. He worked up interest and the wife's nurse went into other families until such enthusiasm was awakened that public nursing was started, thus laying the foundation for what now is a never ending task in relieving the suffering. Following Mrs. Martin's talk, little Janet Cowan sang O Little Town of Bethlehem, her mother, Mrs. Walter T. Cowan accompanying at the piano. During the social period, cake and coffee were served by the committee.

A decorative basket of flowers, a memorial to Mrs. Gurdon F. Bailey in commemoration of her birthday Monday, Dec. 8, was presented to the First Congregational church by her family and was on the platform during Sunday morning worship.

TAFTVILLE

COUNCIL GAGNON ELECTS REV. DesSURREAULT CHAPLIN

Council Gagnon, No. 208, L'Union St. Jean Baptiste d' Amerique, held its annual meeting and election of officers Thursday evening. The following officers were elected: Chaplain, Rev. Frederick R. DesSurreault; honorary president, Edmond Proulx; dean, Frank Mathieu; president, Joseph C. Marsan; vice president, Mrs. Emma Dugas; secretary, Mrs. Leonie Adams; assistant secretary, Paul Peltier; treasurer, J. Omer Tellier, Sr.; collector, Philip Adams; master of ceremonies, J. B. Gauvin; commissioners, J. B. Gauvin, Sr.; Esdras J. Caron; visiting officers, Arsene Boureois and Mrs. M. L. St. Amour.

The members have decided to have their next meeting on January 5th instead of the 8th because of plans for installation of officers on the latter date at 8 p. m. Refreshments are to be served and a social affair held. Philip Asams has promised to provide the orchestra for the occasion, and other members are to provide cakes, coffee and money to make it a most enjoyable affair.

Fifty Rhode Island Reds owned by Savage brothers of Bolduc lane went into first place in the home laying contest being sponsored by the Connecticut Agricultural college at Storrs, with a total of 1,300 eggs, have a good chance of holding that place for November, as they have a record of 1,427 eggs for that month.

Saw Beauregard Fight

Theodore J. Benac, son of Joseph E. Benac of Pratte avenue and Theodore Pepin, son of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur J. Pepin of North A street, students at St. Michael's college, had the pleasure of witnessing the Beauregard vs Levine fight in Burlington, Vt. They also had the added pleasure of speaking to Beauregard at the ringside just before Al entered the ring. The local boys received the hearty congratulations of many of their college friends for the splendid pugilistic ability which one of their "home-towners" exhibited. Although Beauregard lost the fight, it was by a very close decision, and much credit is due to him for the game battle which he put up.

Realizes Good Sum

The members of the Dramatic club gave a very successful social and dance Friday evening at Ponemah hall, marking the close of the annual fair of the Taftville Congregational church. The D. and O. orchestra furnished the music and there was a large crowd on hand to enjoy the dancing which continued until midnight. The fair has been a big financial success, and the proceeds have been turned into the church treasury. Monday evening the Dramatic club held a dress rehearsal of their play "Some Little Fixer" which they are planning to present at the Lisbon Community club, under the auspices of the Lisbon Grange, P. of H.

Miss Ruth Greene of Providence, R. I., was a week end guest of Mr. and Mrs. John F. Greene and family of South Second avenue.

There was no session at the Wequonnoc school Monday.

It has been announced that the Lisbon Comunity club meeting has been postponed from the second Wednesday to the third Wednesday of December, owing to ts being the Christmas meeting.

Celebrates Eigth Birthday

A party of twelve friends helped celebrate the eighth birthday of little Miss Evelyn Bauer of 60 Maennerchor avenue, Saturday afternoon. Many games were played during the course of the afternoon, and suitable prizes awarded. The table decorations were vary effective, the color scheme being carried out in pink and white. Miss Bauer was the recipient of many pretty gifts. Those present were: Ethel Hedler, Marjorie Vetter, Arline Seidel, Margaret Tilley, Mildred Nevins, Marion Huntley, Betty Simoneau, Arline Haskell, and Evelyn Bauer; Doris Poloquin and Katharine Wascuk of Norwich, and Ruth Mae Benjamin of Jewett City. The following assisted in making the party a success: Mrs. Everett Haskell, the Misses Annie and Frieda Bauer, Mrs. Max Bauer, Mrs. Erhard Bauer, and Miss Dorothy Simoneau; Mrs. Benjamin of Jewett City, and Mrs. Jesse Poloquin of Norwich.

LISBON OBSERVER PRAISES THE WORK OF CHILD-CENTERED SCHOOL

In the group of town schools in this immediate neighborhood for which Edwin B. Floyd is supervisor, a new type of school, called the child-centered school, is being carried on, and in a communication to The Bulletin, Rev. William J. Reynolds of Lisbon gives the results of his observation of what is being done under this system.

Rev. Mr. Reynolds writes as follows of the child-centered school:

"There can be no doubt that the present generation is experiencing a marked disturbance of opinion and practice in the matter of education. Periods of revolution have occurred in this as in all human affairs. The days and the career of Horace Mann is a case in point. The reasons for the marked characteristics of the present disturbance are not difficult of statement. We must recognize a current of widespread dissatisfaction with everything of the existing order, the unexplainable mental drift of our modern age, the wonderful growth of modern science, the strong practical tendencies which urge the cry for visible fruit in education, and the varied interests of modern culture.

"Thus far it has been the schools of higher learning which have felt the pressure of the on-coming newer education. Under this pressure, these schools have largely changed the nature and increased the number of studies. It seems that upon no other stage will the burden fall, of making all things new, so heavily as upon the common schools of our country. There are four fundamentals which every child faces in obtaining an education. These he must have and cannot possibly escape; the natural world in which his life is cast; language, the vehicle of the mind, and that choice product of thought and language, which is literature; man as mind with his ethical, religious, social and political life, and human history.

"Now in order to educate boys and girls a great system has grown up and which has been followed for centuries. In the very beginning of a boy's school life in America, he has run up against a tyrant. He is marked and quizzed and graded and labeled, 'all his faults learned and conned by rote,' and if he does not come up to the standard he is demoted or if he attends a school of higher learning he is dismissed with dishonor because his mental quality is low. He has no rights, no point of view which his teachers are bound to consider. The time has come, is now here, when methods which have prevailed for centuries must be utterly changed. The teachers must right about face. Education should be undertaken by teacher and pupil walking hand in hand down through the fields of knowledge in joyous sympathy, looking into this flower, plucking fruit here and there, looking keenly at the markings here and there of a blazed trail over which myriads have passed on the same errand; the search after truth concerning the world, language, man himself, and his history. Recently a visit to our Lisbon Center school where the new ideas of the child-centered school are being developed, disclosed the fact that what is being tried may well be termed an attempt to break away from the old methods of teacher imperialism to that of the democracy of student or pupil control. Just where the methods now pursued will lead no one knows, but there can be no doubt that in the Lisbon Center school an entirely new spirit is developing, a spirit of cooperation and helpfulness on the part of teachers and pupils alike. The teacher can exert a most potent influence upon the child's life despite the fact of the influences at work upon it in the centuries before it was born. A teacher, a real teacher, is an asset of great power and moral force in any school, be it the kindergarten or in the university. The child-centered school is the kindergarten method applied to all grades, even to the university itself.

"Of course, the teacher plays a tremendous part as adviser and friend. It can best be understood, this child-centered school, by saying help is on tap in learning the lesson rather than after the lesson has been recited. The one great fact to be ever borne in mind is that education is a development from within. It is the personality of the teacher reacting on the personality of the pupil that makes school experience great. Recently a group of 12 supervisors from the eastern, middle and western sections of our state met in session in the Central school at Lisbon to study the character and results of the methods pursued in all the schools under Supervisor Edwin B. Floyd.

"I talked personally with a number of these trained educators and they expressed themselves as greatly impressed with the atmosphere, the simplicity and naturalness; the excellence of the work done, and above all the lack of confusion and nervousness on the part of both teacher and pupils.

"I asked Mr. Floyd to give me a line on the work as he understands it and the following letter is his reply. Personally, I feel flattered that such educators as Dakin of Hartford, Allen of New Haven, Dunfield of Naugatuck, Mills of Winsted, Young of Ellington, Garrison of Willimantic, Stanley of Putnam, Light of Hartford, Connolly of Norwich and Frost of Saybrook should commend our schools, and determine to carry out in the schools under their supervision the methods in vogue here, as far as possible."

Supervisor Floyd's Letter

The following is the letter from Supervisor Floyd to which Rev. Mr. Reynolds refers:

Mr. Light visited the Sterling Center school and the Lisbon Central school with me on Thursday, Oct. 23. He was very much impressed with the work we are doing and canceled his regular supervisors' section meeting usually held in New Britain, and as per the attached letter, brought this group of men to Sterling and Lisbon to observe the work we are doing in these schools.

One group visited the two-room building at Oneco for one and a half hours and then went to Sterling Center for the remaining hour and a half of the morning session. The second group spent their first hour and a half at the Sterling Center school and then went to Oneco school. We had lunch at the Lawton Inn and then came to the Lisbon Central school for two hours of observation of the work in this school.

The men were much interested and surprised at the type of work we were doing. After the observation period, the men gathered and continued the discussion until 6 o'clock that evening.

Among the comments that the men made were:

"The children seemed to have an unusually fine attitude toward their work, each other and the teacher."

"The teacher was evidently a supervisor of the children's work rather than a teacher as ordinarily thought of."

"In no case was there any evidence of any need for teacher control because the children were so interested in what they were doing. They went from one thing to the next without being asked to by the teacher."

The hand work was commented on by the men as being exceptionally good and some of them not so familiar with this type of work questioned me as to the mental development of the children in these activities. I brought forth the standard tests we have given for the last two or three years and showed them the graphs and they admitted that there was no falling down in acquiring the subject matter side of school life.

Several of the men have asked to send some of their teachers to these schools to observe the work in order that it may be more satisfactorily carried out in their own school systems.

As far back as the times of Froebel and Pestalozzi and others, there have been two types of educators; one group, to which the ones mentioned above belong, believe that if the child were given the opportunity, under guidance, he would develop into the best type of intellectual, social and physical citizen possible for that individual. The second type believe that a child does not know what he wants nor how to get it and everything has to be planned for him and handed out to him in doses as large as he is capable of taking.

About 70 years ago, Colonel Parker started the "child-centered" school in Quincy, Mass. He was followed by G. Stanley Hall advocating the learning through experiencing rather than through memorization. John Dewey and others of our own date have continued to promote this activity type of work in our schools until it has reached the present stage.

We began to develop this "child-centered" school work in the schools of my town, about five years ago. While in Prof. William Kilpatrick's class at Columbia Teachers' college in the summer of 1926 (Professor Kilpatrick was a student and co-worker with John Dewey), I was greatly inspired in this type of work and through continued study and research I have come to realize the value of such a type of school in the development of the boys and girls into good citizens, mentally, socially and physically.

I have, during these years, done considerable reading concerning this type of a school and have caused my teachers to read a great deal along these lines.

Through our demonstrations and exhibitions held each year, we have tried to educate the school committees and public to the value of this type of work, also my town reports have carried information to the public regarding this type of school.

This present success in our school work has been made possible only through the co-operation of the teachers and the willingness on their part to devote time to study in order that they might know more about this type of school, although I have felt that sometimes the school committees and townspeople have been at a loss to know just what we were doing in our schools. Yet, nevertheless, there has been no serious objection and I have appreciated the co-operation and confidence extended by the school committees and parents.

I have the interest of the schools and the individual child in mind and am trying to promote such a school system as will give every boy and girl the best opportunity we possibly can, a school which is typical of what a good home ought to be and a teacher capable of understanding and guiding the pupils.

JUDGMENT FOR $475 FOR INJURIES SUSTAINED

Judgment against the driver and the owner of an automobile that hit Mrs. Catherine Perkins of Fitchville was granted to Mrs. Perkins in the sum of $475 and costs in the common pleas court here Monday morning by Judge C. B. Waller.

Mrs. Perkins sued for injuries she received on Jan. 22 last when the car hit her as she was walking on the Norwich-Colchester road at Fitchville. The defendants in the suit were Charles Baldwin of this city, driver of the car, and Ruth Cone of Canterbury owner of the machine. Attorney Charles W. Cassidy represented Mr. Perkins and testimony as to the injuries she received was given by Dr. Louis T. Cassidy. The judgment was unopposed.

Judgment in the amount of $399.39 was given in favor of the G. M. Long Co., of Groton against Ira Edwards of New London, judgment being in accordance with a sworn bill of particulars.

Statutory continuance of three months was granted in the case of the J. Warren Gay Electric Co., of New London against Dominick Barbieri.

TOWN GETS JUDGMENT ON CLAIM FOR TAXES

On a claim for back taxes due for 15 years the town of Norwich obtained judgment for $113.83 in the common pleas court here Monday morning against Louise Mason Vinal, formerly of this city, but now of parts unknown. Judge C. B. Waller named Gilbert S. Raymond as committee of sale and set the date for sale by public auction on the third Monday in January. The property is a large lot at the corner of Hamilton and Smith avenues, which is valued at $1,000, according to the testimony of Arad R. Manning of the board of assessors.

Joseph Connor and Sons, Inc., of this city, obtained a judgment for $504 against Peter Bessette and wife of Plainfield. Judgment was in accordance with a sworn bill of particulars.

Motions in the following cases were postponed: Conn. Iron and Metal Co. against David Berger and others, nonsuit for failure to plead; Mary Harrington vs. Hillel Chasnof and others, foreclosure; Frank Beatrice vs. John H. Stivers and others, judgment by default for failure to plead; Morris Brandt vs. Isidore Diamond, hearing in damages; Barney Belgrad vs. A. Palencar, motion for non-suit.

Motions in the following cases went off the list: Benjamin Gallup vs. Tessie Alexander and others, judgment in accordance with sworn bill of particulars; Casper K. Bailey vs. William R. Lathrop, motion for default for failure to plead; Anthony Rosati vs. Gammino Construction Co., non-suit for failure to plead.

AUTOMOBILE TURNS OVER ON MILITARY HIGHWAY

While returning towards Norwich about 3 o'clock Monday afternoon an automobile in which there were three women and a baby skidded, whirled around three times and then turned over on its side on the Military highway at the junction with the road to Poquetanuck. Those in the machine had been attending the funeral of Samuel Goldberg at the Brothers of Joseph cemetery at Brewster's Neck.

Miss Anna Bellas of Boston had three teeth knocked out, her nose cut and a lip split. Mrs. J. Consadine and baby, of New London, suffered body bruises. The name of the fourth occupant of the machine was not learned.

Miss Bellas was brought to this city by Dr. K. K. Markoff for treatment by a dentist.

DONALD BROWN KILLED IN FALL FROM LADDER

Donald Brown, a New York merchant, who is a brother of Mrs. Mary Brown, wife of Judge Allyn L. Brown of 262 Broadway, was instantly killed on Sunday in a fall from the roof of his summer place near Brewster, New York.

Judge and Mrs. Brown were notified late Sunday of the fatal accident and went to New York on Monday.

It was understood here that Mr. Brown had been at work on a stepladder on the roof of an ell of his house when the ladder slipped out from under him and he fell head first upon a pile of rocks and was instantly killed.

Besides his sister in this city, Mr. Brown is survived by his wife, his mother, a brother, Douglass at Dobbs Ferry, N. Y., and another brother, Melville, who resides with his mother in St. Margaret's hotel, Brooklyn, N. Y.

Judge Brown is to return to Hartford today (Tuesday) to preside at a superior court session, but will return on Wednesday to New York where the funeral is to be held.

Pays Fine in City Court

David Griffin, 22, who is attached to the coast guard at the Woods Hole station in Massachusetts, paid a fine of $25 and costs, amounting in all to $36.50, in the city court Monday morning when he was before the court on the charge of operating a car without having his license with him.

He was stopped by Officer D. J. O'Neil when he was driving the wrong way on a one-way street.

FORECLOSURES GRANTED IN SUPERIOR COURT SUITS

Foreclosures have been granted in the superior court by Judge Ernest A. Inglis in a suit brought by Mrs. Emma Haubt of this city against Andrew and Eva Buksar, formerly of Norwich, and by Norwich Savings society against Sadie Levine and others of Colchester. The foreclosure in the Haubt suit is for $2,272.79 on a small farm located in the East Side section of the city. The Colchester foreclosure is for $2,019.23 on a large house and factory property, which was formerly used for manufacturing plant for cloaks and suits but has been idle for some time. In both cases the date for limit of redemption was set on Dec. 29.

Mary H. Moutran, of New London was allowed $50 to defend a divorce petition brought against her by her husband, Alfred Moutran. A motion for alimony pending the disposition of the divorce case was postponed for a week for hearing.

BOY HIT BY TRUCK SUFFERS SKULL FRACTURE

A seven-year boy, Raymond Jascnia, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ustin Jascnis of 43 Spring street, was struck Monday afternoon about 3:30 o'clock by a motor truck driven by John McComiskey, Jr., 332 Franklin street, sustaining a fractured skull and is in a semi-conscious condition at the Backus hosptal.

The accident happened on Mechanic street abnut opposite the silk mill property. According to the report of McComiskey, who was driving a truck belonging to Charles B. Bromley & Son, there was a horse and wagon standing at the curb and the little boy jumped out from behind it as the truck came along. McComiskey claimed he stopped within five feet, but not before he had hit the boy. He at once hurried the injured child to the office of Dr. J. W. Callahan and from there he was taken to the hospital in the police auto by Officers Clifford Crary and Eugene Calkins. The X-ray showed a bad fracture of the skull.

Officers Crary and Patrick Murphy later tested the truck which McComiskey was driving and upon their report a charge of operating with defective brakes was made against the driver and he is to appear in the city court this (Tuesday) morning.

HOOVER CHARGES CONGRESS WITH PLAYING POLITICS AT COST OF HUMAN MISERY

Informs Bolters in Congress, Who Are Boosting Relief Measures $4,500,000,000 More Than Recommended in the Budget, That "Prosperity Cannot Be Restored by Raids on the Treasury"—Further Advises the Solons That, No Matter How Devised, an Increase in Taxes in the End Falls Upon the Workers and Farmers—Democratic Cooperation Vanishes—In the Meantime Debate Opens in Senate on Who Started the World War?

WASHINGTON, Dec. 9—(AP)—President Hoover lashed out today at the congressional bolters from the cooperative emergency relief program in a statement charging "they are playing politics at the expense of human misery."

His statement demanding that relief expenditures be kept within limits of the treasury funds stirred a democratic attack in the senate that brought into action not only those who yesterday called for a party program but those who have been friendly to the cooperation pledge.

With the republican-democratic cooperation movement wavering, Senator Lafollette, republican, Wisconsin, introduced a resolution to declare the senate for "the relief of human suffering in this emergency over the consideration of the interests of wealthy income taxpayers."

Senator Reed, republican, Pennsylvania, hastened to defend the president and to give assurance that he meant no partisan attack in his declaration but democrats were still calling for recognition when the senate adjourned.

Senator Harrison, of Mississippi, who has been friendly to the pledge of democratic leaders for cooperation on an emergency relief program, called Mr. Hoover's declaration "unwarranted, uncalled for and without justification" and asserted "no man ever won more political favor upon misery of the people than has the present president of the United States."

Even as Mr. Hoover was reading his warning that "prosperity cannot be restored by raids upon the treasury," the administration position for a $25,000,000 limit on drought relief was under attack in the senate by Senator Robinson, of Arkansas, the democratic leader, who had pledged cooperation. The senate promptly passed the bill of Senator McNary, of Oregon, the assistant republican leader, for $60,000,000 drought relief and did not even consider any cut in this amount.

The president asserted that the total of relief measures before congress was $4,500,000,000 more than he had asked and he insisted that those he had recommended were "the maximum which can be financed without increase in taxes."

"No matter how devised," he said, "an increase in taxes in the end falls upon the workers and farmers, or alternatively deprives industry of that much ability to give employment and defeats the very purpose of these schemes. x x x

"The leaders of both parties are cooperating to prevent any such event. Some of these schemes are ill considered; some represent enthusiasts and

NEW PROBLEM IN SENATE; WHO STARTED WORLD WAR?

WASHINGTON, Dec. 9.—(AP)—The question of who started the World war was raised in the senate today and a brief but vigorous debate ensued.

Senator Reed, republican, Pennsylvania, blamed Germany. Senator Borah, republican, Idaho, thought Great Britain and France must share in the responsibility.

It all began in a discussion of international debt cancellations, precipitated by Senator Copeland, democrat, New York, who sought to insert a magazine article on that subject in the Congressional Record.

Reed asked if it was not German propaganda and said he would oppose with his last "ounce of strength" the cancellation of German reparations, because, in his opinion, Germany caused the war.

Borah immediately disagreed and opposed another Reed assertion, to the effect that Germany was not paying excessively.

Senator Dill, democrat, Washington, asked that the debt question be considered in the light of American adherence to the world court.

"I wonder what would be our position," he said, "if we go into the world court under the Root formula and can only protest but not prevent the court passing on questions vitally affecting us."

Meanwhile, it was learned the government is not considering any plan for permitting European nations to withhold their debt payments, or to return them as loans.

Nor has it entered into any agreement with France, Great Britain or other nations to control the world's gold supply. Both these courses have been suggested in recent reports.

DEADLOCK ON MUSCLE SHOALS STILL UNBROKEN

WASHINGTON, Dec. 9. —(AP)— The deadlock between the house and senate on Muscle Shoals remained unbroken tonight despite a new offer of compromise from the house.

Conferees were hopeful of working out some plan at the next meeting Friday, however, which will open the path for settlement of the ten-year dispute and thus remove one threat for an extra session in the spring.

MAGISTRATE MC'QUADE OF N. Y. RESIGNS UNDER FIRE

NEW YORK, Dec. 9—(AP)—Inquiry into New York magistrates' courts brought the resignation of City Judge Francis X. McQuade today and laid the background for criminal charges against at least 28 policemen accused of vice and gambling graft.

The hearings will resume Thursday.

Report of Magistrate McQuade's resignation was transmitted to Referee Samuel Seabury a few minutes before McQuade was to take the witness stand for interrogation into his personal and business affairs, which the referee said showed him to be unfit to hold public office.

The presence in court of President Charles A. Stoneham and Manager John J. McGraw of the New York Giants led to the belief Special Prosecutor Isador J. Kresel planned to question McQuade about his squabbles with associates while he was treasurer of the National Exhibition company, owners of the Giants.

The referee said McQuade's resignation obviated the necessity for a trial by the appellate court, which, he felt, would remove him from office, although no corruption had been shown.

BALANCE OF GENERAL FUND OF STATE DEC. 1, $11,153,775.26

HARTFORD, Dec. 9—(AP)—Edward F. Hall, state commissioner of finance, today made his financial report to Gov. John H. Trumbull, showing that the balance in the general fund of the state, was $11,153,775.26 on December 1, as compared with $8,882,973.57 on December 1, last year, an increase of $2,270,801.69.

DISCHARGE OF TEAR GAS PISTOL IN CITY HALL, N. Y.

NEW YORK, Dec. 9.—(AP)—A tear gas pistol carried by Chief Magistrate Joseph E. Corrigan acidentally discharged in city hall reception room today, driving Mayor Walker, his office staff and Police Commissioner Mulrooney from the room as the fumes spread.

OBITUARY

Dr. John C. Lawlor

DOVER, N. H., Dec. 9—(AP)—Dr. John C. Lawlor, one of the leading New Hampshire surgeons for the past 13 years and a former Holy Cross college football captain, died today of pneumonia. He captained the Holy Cross team in 1910 and was rgaduated from Harvard Medical school in 1915. He was a World war veteran.

SHIP CHRISTENED BY MRS HERBERT HOOVER

NEWPORT NEWS, Va., Dec. 9. —(AP)—The steamship President Hoover was launched here today with ceremonies befitting the new queen of the American merchant marine.

A bottle of water, collected from the seven seas and two canals, in the hands of Mrs. Herbert Hoover, christened the vessel as it glided down the ways into the James river.

R. Stanley Dollar, president of the Dollar line, said the ship was his answer to "rumors of business depression."

In an address at the launching luncheon, Representative W. H. White, co-author of the Jones-White shipping bill, asserted that American prosperity depends upon the disposal of surplus products, and the disposal of surplus products depends upon a great merchant marine. He advocated naval power commensurate with "America's needs, ideals and aspirations."

Collapse Of Scaffold Kills Five Workmen

Scaffold Split in the Mi[illegible] When the Center S[illegible] Gave Way

NEW YORK, Dec. 9—(AP)—Five bricklayers lost their lives today in the collapse of a scaffold at the tenth floor of an apartment house under construction at Seventh avenue and 16th street.

Only one of the other eight men on the scaffold was slightly injured when it parted in the middle, spilling the five to the roof of a two-story extension. The eight seized supporting cables at the ends of the scaffold and were pulled to safety through nearby windows.

Four of the five fatally injured men died immediately; the fifth died two hours later in a hospital. They were Herman Otto, 28, Henry Koerner, 23, of Irvington, N. J.; Alfred Maser, 35, and two others named Flynn and Olson. Maser died in the hospital.

The injured man is John Michlan, 38, whose right cheek and hands were lacerated when he lost his grip on the cable he seized and slid down two floors before fellow workmen caught him.

The scaffold was being raised when the center support gave way and the platform split in the middle.

FUNERAL OF REV. DR. W. E. BARTON HELD YESTERDAY

NEW YORK, Dec. 9—(AP)—The funeral of the Rev. Dr. William E. Barton, former moderator of the Congregational churches and an authority on Lincoln, was held today at the Broadway Tabernacle.

President Hoover sent the following telegram to the family:

NEW HAVEN, Dec. 9—(AP)—Nicholas Narvides, 35, was badly burned about the hands, face and body this afternoon, when a gasoline torch exploded, throwing the flaming liquid over his clothing also setting fire to a building at 155 Commerce street.

Running frantically from the building with his clothes ablaze, Narvides was overtaken by his fellow workmen and after the flames were extinguished he was taken to the New Haven hospital.

Firemen extinguished the burning building. Damage was estimated at $1,000.

FAIL TO FORESTALL SALE OF THE C. & A. RAILROAD

CHICAGO, Dec. 9—(AP)—An attempt to forestall the sale at public auction of the Chicago & Alton railroad failed in federal court today. Judge George A. Carpenter denied a petition presented by the stockholders' protective committee asking leave to intervene.

Judge Carpenter also denied a motion for appeal but agreed to rush the case to one of the judges of the appellate court if the stockholders' attorneys decided to present a similar motion for leave to intervene before the higher court.

GERMAN FASCISTS WOULD BAR AMERICAN APPLES

BERLIN, Dec. 9.—(AP)—The fascist party in the reichstag today presented a motion asking the government to prohibit the importation of American apples between July 1 and Nov. 15 each year.

Danger of introducing the American apple fly was urged in support of the motion.

Ag[illegible] On Two Year [illegible] Of Immigration

[illegible]entative Decision Reached Yesterday by the House Committee

WASHINGTON, Dec. 9.— (AP) —A tentative agreement to suspend immigration for two years was reached today by a house committee.

The immigration committee had not completed its study of a pending measure nor finished amending it. But the members agreed it should suspend immigration for two years instead of five, as would have been provided under the bill introduced by Chairman Johnson. The bill now conforms to the Reed proposal in the senate.

Johnson plans legislation to establish a commission to codify and clarify immigration and naturalization laws "during the two years" the suspension measure would be in effect.

While Representative Dickstein, democrat, New York, ranking minority member on the committee, indicated he would approve a two-year suspension, he said restriction for any time longer than that would be "dishonest," and that even the two-year measure might not be a true representation of facts.

Dickstein said if the administration could cut down immigration 84 per cent in one month, as the committee has been informed, he could see no stringent necessity for suspension legislation. Any absolute suspension, he said, would be a greater hardship than benefit.

"The better way to do it would be to deport the undesirable aliens we now have and let worthy applicants enter the country," he said.

PROTEST AGAINST RADIO PROJECT IN CHICAGO

WASHINGTON, Dec. 9.— (AP) —A protest against the radio lottery proposed by Mayor Thompson of Chicago to aid unemployment was filed today by Robert I. Randolph, president of the Chicago Association of Commerce, in a letter to the federal radio commission.

Writing under the date of December 9, Randolph called attention to what he termed "a projected lottery of tremendous proportions which is about to be launched in the city of Chicago and to ask that you take appropriate steps to bring to the attention of Chicago broadcasting stations rulings which we understand you have already made with respect to the use of broadcasting stations for advertising or otherwise furthering lotteries."

"We do this because we are informed there is a possibility that one or more Chicago broadcasting stations may be used in furtherance of the lottery project," he added.

WARNS AGAINST CRIPPLING OUR AMERICAN RAILROADS

WASHINGTON, Dec. 9.— (AP) — A warning against "crippling our American railroads" was given today before the national rivers and harbors congress by James Francis Burke, general counsel of the republican national committee.

Railroad executives not long ago protested against government operation of barge lines and other parts of the waterways program.

Burke said it must be realized that the railroads could not survive unbridled use of public money to support their competitors "while the railroads and other taxpayers foot the bills."

FOUR DEATHS ASCRIBED TO DENATURED ALCOHOL

PITTSFIELD, Mass., Dec. 9—(AP)—Four men died here today from alcohol poisoning after drinking, in the opinion of the medical examiner, denatured alcohol sold as an anti-freeze compound for automobiles.

They were Charles O'Connor, 44, William H. Fletcher, 37, Ellsworth Hermance, 37, and Frank Rixon, 54.

Police are endeavoring to learn where the four obtained the alcohol. Medical Examiner Henry M. Colt pronounced all the deaths due to acute alcohol poisoning.

DISARMAMENT COMMISSION HAS ADJOURNED SINE DIE

GENEVA, Dec. 9.—(AP)—The preparatory disarmament commission finished its work tonight and adjourned sine die, leaving as a legacy the outline of a general disarmament treaty the value of which only history can assess.

This outline, or draft convention, is to fom the basis for the deliberations of a world disarmament conference which probably will be called early in 1932.

CITIZENS BANK AND TRUST CO. OF NEW HAVEN SUSPENDS PAYMENTS

NEW HAVEN, Dec. 9.— (AP) — Shrinkage of deposits attributed in part to the recent suicide of one of its trustees and to unemployment, today forced the Citizens Bank and Trust company of this city to suspend payment of deposits.

The bank, which was incorporated in 1921, was ordered to suspend operations by Lester E. Shippee, state bank commissioner, who said that withdrawal of from 20 to 25 per cent of the commercial deposits during the past four weeks had created a shortage in the reserves of the bank and a lack of cash.

Plans were reported under way tonight which might result in the absorption of the bank by some other local banking institution or in a reorganization. Unless these plans materialize, a receiver for the institution will be sought by Commissioner Shippee, who expressed the opinion that withdrawal of money by unemployed was responsible for some of the shrinkage in the deposits of the bank.

Albert McClellan Mathewson, first president of the bank and one of its founders, said the recent suicide of Jonathan H. Rowe, a trustee, "precipitated the dilemma of the bank." Loans reported as totaling between $30,000 and $40,000 made to Rowe by the bank are covered by collateral which the bank has learned since his death cannot be readily liquidated.

The New Haven Clearing House association, following a meeting issued a statement expressing the hope that the bank's assets "can be so liquidated that the ultimate loss to depositors will be small, and it is possible that there may be no loss."

In its last financial statement issued September 24, 1930, the bank gave its surplus as $21,000; savings deposits, $399,137.12; general deposits, $391,559.91; Christmas savings and thrift funds, $33,286.75 and undivided profits, $31,179.62.

An examination of the bank's accounts were made about four weeks ago by examiners from the bank commissioner's office and the institution's affairs apparently were found in a satisfactory condition. Examiners, however, believed to have been prompted by reports of the loans made to Rowe, returned last week to re-examine the books and completed the task yesterday.

Rowe, a member of the board of assessors, was head of the Mortgage Investment company and the New Haven Mortgage company. Mathewson said the books and papers of the two mortgages companies had all been destroyed and that there was no way of determining the exact condition of either company as it affects the bank.

DR. CLARENCE TRUE WILSON RECANTS ON DRY REFERENDUM

Recommends Passage of Motion by the Methodist Board of Temperance That the Board Join With Allied Dry Forces in Opposing Referendum—Earlier in the Day Wilson Had Told the Group That "The Time Had Come to Call the Bluff of the Wet Propagandists"—Farm Board Criticized For Loaning Money to Grape Growers

WASHINGTON, Dec. 9.—(AP)— Dry leaders questioned a former federal prohibition prosecutor behind the closed doors of the national temperance council today, while at another meeting three blocks distant, the Methodist board of temperance, prohibition and public morals was moving to keep peace in the dry ranks by voting unanimously against a national prohibition referendum.

Mrs. Mabel Walker Willebrandt, former assistant attorney general in charge of prohibition, and now counsel for a grape concentrate concern, appeared before the temperance council at its own request, but only after objections had been raised against her.

Once there, however, her hearers said, she reaffirmed her belief in the efficacy of prohibition and readily submitted to questioning about the Volstead act and its relation to the making of wine from grape concentrates in the home. Mrs. Willebrandt declined to discuss her appearance.

The action of the Methodist board in voting, late in the day, against a prohibition referendum came as somewhat of a surprise. Dr. Clarence True Wilson, its secretary, had told the group in the morning "the time has come to call the bluff of the wet propagandists by saying, 'if you wanted a real referendum, we will meet you half way.'"

Dr. Wilson, himself, however, recommended the passage of the motion, which said in part that the board "joins with the allied dry forces of the nation in accordance with the action taken by them in opposing a referendum on or a re-submission of the eighteenth amendment. We favor the coordination of all the dry forces of the country."

The motion asserted the wets have "attempted to destroy prohibition," by obstructing its administration, "by the indirect use of criminals, by the incidental causation of murder, by resistance to government."

In still another section of the capital, the delegates to the "National Constitutional convention" had advanced six proposals as substitutes for the eighteenth amendment or the Volstead act, and were moving to reach an agreement on a single one of them. They ranged from light wines any beer to outright repeal of either the act or the amendment.

Meeting in a fashionable hotel, the national executive council of the Women's Moderation union adopted a resolution that work be done to arouse the women to action in the coming presidential election. It also proposed to "call upon congress to help relieve unemployment by passing legislation which will end prohibition and reduce taxes through the re-establishment of industries which the eighteenth amendment prohibited."

Whether the drys should support a referendum was raised again today before the national temperance council, despite a unanimous vote last night against it. Representative Fort, republican, New Jersey, was the sponsor. Fort said his plan called for "the wet and dry advocates in congress agreeing upon some amendment to the constitution relative to prohibition," provided the amendment was placed before state constitutional conventions and not the various legislatures.

"I favor having the conventions held at an early date and simultaneously," he said, adding that he had already talked to approximately 50 members of congress, both wet and dry, about such a proposal. The New Jersey representative said he would be willing to "let the unofficial committee opposed to prohibition in the house pick their own poison" as to what the recommendation would be.

Criticism of the farm board for loaning "millions of dollars to the grape growers for the purpose of manufacturing their surplus stock into wine concentrate," was made by the Methodist board by Deets Pickett, its research secretary.

"It is obvious that this is simply modification of the law by administrative action," Pickett said, "and we witness a house divided against itself.

"The government holds a mortgage upon a business which may fairly be described as a trade in partially manufactured liquor and which it is hoped will become enormous in proportions and perhaps even become a monopoly by favor of government."

CONTEST OVER BROSSARD FOR TARIFF COMMISSION

WASHINGTON, Dec. 9. —(AP)— Notice of a contest over confirmation of Edgar B. Brossard, republican, Utah, as a member of the re-organized tariff commission, was given in the senate today after the finance committee had approved all six commission nominees.

Chairman Smoot reported the nominations to the senate. Immediately Senator Harrison of Mississippi, a democratic member of the finance committee, announced Brossard would be opposed.

Brossard was approved in committee by 11 to 8. One democrat, King of Utah, voted with ten republicans for a favorable report, and one republican, Lafollette, of Wisconsin, joined seven democrats in opposition.

The only other record vote was on Alfred P. Dennis, democrat, Maryland. His nomination was approved 16 to 2, with Senators Couzens republican, Michigan, and Harrison, in opposition.

LAVAL STILL HOPES TO FORM NEW FRENCH MINISTRY

PARIS, Dec. 9.—(AP)—Senator Pierre Laval, charged by President Doumergue to form a new cabinet to replace the defeated Tardieu ministry, reported to the president tonight that he still hoped to succeed despite setbacks during the day.

After a conference with Edouard Herriot, former premier and a radical socialist leader, Senator Laval made a statement which was interpreted as meaning that he would assemble a cabinet without aid of the radical socialists, the chief stumbling block so far. This followed a meeting of the radicals.

"In view of the apparent deadlock of parties," he said, "and the evident differences of opinion between the senate and the chamber of deputies, it is most important that the government be formed as soon as possible."

AMERICANS TO RECEIVE NOBEL PRIZES TODAY

STOCKHOLM, Dec. 9.—(AP)—Three American winners of Nobel prizes this year will receive their awards tomorrow.

Sinclair Lewis, noted American author and winner of the prize in literature, and Dr. Karl Landsteiner of New York, winner of the medicine award, will receive their awards at Stockholm. Frank B. Kellogg, former American secretary of state and winner of the 1929 peace prize, will receive the award at Oslo.

The peace prize is awarded through the Norwegian parliament. Dr. Nathan Soederblom, Archbishop of Upsala, Sweden, winner of the 1930 peace prize, will receive his award with Mr. Kellogg.

50 PERSONS IN CLEVELAND OVERCOME BY AMMONIA GAS

CLEVELAND, Dec. 9.—(AP)— Fifty persons were overcome by ammonia gas and were treated at hospitals today when a refrigerating system broke in a downtown store. Only a few of the victims remained in the hospitals tonight, however, and they like the others, were believed recovering rapidly.

Some of those who breathed the fumes fell unconscious in the street as they staggered from the building.

BRUENING WINS TWO VICTORIES IN REICHSTAG

BERLIN, Dec. 9.—(AP)—Chancellor Bruening won two important victories in the reichstag today, shutting off debate on difficult international questions and silencing threats against Foreign Minister Julius Curtius. The ministry now looks safe until after Christmas at least.

By a rising vote, the reichstag approved Bruening's appeals and agreed that the nation's best interest would not be served by discussing the Polish situation, the Versailles treaty, the Young plan or other questions running through the minds of some of the reichstagers.

It was by an aggressive and open threat that the chancellor backed down attempts to unseat Foreign Minister Curtius. Bruening flatly told the reichstag that if such attempts were successful, he would take over Curtius' portfolio himself.

The warning was effective, and a non-confidence motion on Curtius was withheld.

PROMOTED FAKE SUGAR PROPERTIES IN COLOMBIA

NEW YORK, Dec. 9.—(AP)—A. Arthur Carter, sports promoter, was pictured by witnesses today in the trial of himself and several others, on charges of mail fraud, as the man behind the sale of stock in various companies supposed to own valuable sugar properties in Colombia.

John C. Anderson, former Connecticut legislator; Lawrence Barry, who gave his name to a stock selling house; Fred W. Dunn, a salesman, and others testified they were "yes" men to Carter.

The government charges Carter and the others with representing the Colombian properties as worth $1,500,000, when a tenth of that sum would have been a more accurate valuation.

RIOTING CONTINUES THROUGHOUT VALENCIA

VALENCIA, Spain, Dec. 9.—(AP)—Rioting that raged unabated throughout Valencia today resulted in the death of one striker, the serious wounding of a policeman, numerous minor wounded cases and 50 arrests.

The disorders started after a 48-hour general strike had been called in protest against failure of attempts to arbitrate a dispute between employers and workers in several crafts, crippling shipping and transportation facilities and proving numerous clashes between strikers and police.

The only casualty reported among the police was Bravo Nunez, who was seriously wounded. Previously he had been reported dead.

EARTHQUAKE RECORDED AT FORDHAM UNIVERSITY

NEW YORK, Dec. 9.— (AP)— Two earthquakes of slight intensity were recorded during the noon hour today on the seismograph at Fordham university.

Father Lynch said the first began at 11:58 o'clock and lasted until 12:03 and was apparently 1,500 miles from New York.

The second, and more intense, occurred from 12:28:50 to 12:34:30 o'clock and was 2,500 miles away. Fordham observers estimated the second shock at about the vicinity of Denver, Colorado.

COW POISONING CASE OCCUPIES COURT SESSION

(Special to The Bulletin)

WILLIMANTIC, Dec. 9—The case of Joseph Kishazy of Ashford, charged with poisoning with parish green a cow owned by Mrs. Elizabeth Varga, also of Ashford, occupied the attention of the Windham county superior court practically during all of today's session and was concluded at 6 o'clock this afternoon when Judge Newell S. Jennings announced that he would give his decision at 11:30 o'clock Wednesday forenoon.

The case began following a short calendar session and assignment of cases in the forenoon. Kishazy pleaded not guilty and was tried by the court with Attorney Porter Clark of Stamford defending him. To all charges that he had poisoned cattle of Mrs. Varga, causing the death of one, he made a sweeping denial and in his arguments to the court Attorney Clark sought to show that the criminal act charged against the elderly man was inducted by a hatred in which he is held by the Varga family. It was conceded that the Vargo cows, while trespassing on the Kishazy property, probably had eaten of a quantity of paris green which the accused claims to have placed all about his farm house and within the buildings to rid himself of a rat pestilence.

The state, through State's Attorney Howard C. Bradford based its contention of proving the guilt of the accused in the fact that there was bad feeling between the families and that John Bacskai, employed on the Varga farm, had seen Kishazy pick up a pan from which a cow had been eating and run into the house as he (Bacskai) came on the premises to round up the straying cattle. Two witnesses, George and John Tremko testified that some days before the poisoning of the cows Kishazy had purchased half a pound of paris green at the Ashford Cooperative store. The arrest of Kishazy was made by State Policeman Henry Zehrer of the Stafford Springs barracks following an investigation. One of the cows died on November 14, the day after the alleged poisoning incident.

The witnesses for the state were: John Bacskai, Mrs. Elizabeth Varga, her son, Andrew Varga of Ashford; George and John Tremko of Stafford; Edwin R. Dimock of Mansfield, veterinary who performed the post-mortem on the cow and Clarence Shepard, chemist, of New Haven. For the defense the witnesses were the accused, Siegfrei Peterson of this city, Mrs. Mary Sedany and her husband Michael Sedany of Ashford.

Court adjourned until 10 o'clock Wednesday morning when the case of Jennie L. Farnum, admr., estate Wheeler, appeal from doings of commissioners on estate, said Wheeler in regard Paul Locrasto, will be taken up. This case is to be tried by the jury.

Short Calendar

A short calendar session held this forenoon in the Windham county superior court included one uncontested divorce, that of Fred B. Greene of Putnam, versus Lucy Greene, who was awarded a decree from his wife on the grounds of desertion and also given the custody of their minor child.

A motion from Attorney Harry S. Gaucher for the transfer of the case of Fred Chapman vs. Ruth Tannar Chapman to a state referee was granted and Attorney Gaucher was permitted to withdraw as counsel for the defendant in the case of Charles Chester vs. Louis J. Haines.

The Brooklyn Savings bank received a foreclosure judgment of $11,063.34 over Alfred J. and Belle Bousquet, the court fixing the redemption date as the first Monday in February.

On motion of Attorney Irving Miron of Putnam the court appointed a committee of appraisers for the mortgaged property in the case of Wladyslaw Kozlowski vs. Peter Blash et al.

Judge Jennings announced that court would be engaged all next week at Putnam and that the next short calendar would be held in that city.

FUNERALS

Mrs. Celina Gelinas

Leaving from the home of her daughter, Mrs. Thomas A. Shea of 23 Lewiston avenue, the funeral of Mrs. Celina Gelinas was held this morning with a solemn requiem high mass in St. Mary's church at 9 o'clock. Rev. Urard Laurion was celebrant; Rev. Francis A. Duch, deacon and Rev. Edward A. Mathieu, sub-deacon. The organist, Mrs. Joseph F. Gaudreau assisted a special choir. There were escorting delegations from the Ladies of St. Anne and St. Anthony societies of the parish. Bearing the banner were Mrs. Gedeon Cote, Mrs. Henry Girard and Mrs. Alexis Caisse and the canopy bearers were Mrs. Arthur Bertrand, Mrs. Victoria Demers, Mrs. Pierre Cote, Mrs. Alzear St. Laurent. Brgeron, Philip Lapalme and Fred Dumaine.

Joseph Leblond

The funeral of Joseph Leblond was held this morning from the home, 11 Union street, with a high mass of requiem in St. Mary's church at 10 o'clock. Rev. Edward A. Mathieu was celebrant and Mrs. Joseph F. Gaudreau presided at the organ. The remains were escorted to the sanctuary rails by a delegation from the Sacred Heart society and several delegations from other societies with which the deceased was affiliated were in attendance. Buprial was in the family plot of St. Joseph's cemetery where the committal service was conducted by Rev. Father Mathieu. The bearers were Henry Delude, Alphonse D'Auteuil, Arthur Bertrand, Cyril Jubin. George Freeman and Edmond Sylvestre. Relatives attending the services came from Worcester, Mass., East Hampton, Hartford, Boston, Mass., and New-York city.

A New Year's eve dance and entertainment, the proceeds of which are to be given into the Windham Community Memorial fund, will be held by the Windham Men's Community club. This action was taken at the December meeting of the club which was largely attended and brought Mr. and Mrs. Tom Clyde Overholt and Bert and Betsy Ross of South Coventry before the audience in a splendid bill of entertainment. Dances and songs were features.

Boys' School Supt. Addresses Rotary

Roy McLaughlin, superintendent of the Meriden Boys' school where he has been instrumental in bringing about many tremendous improvements since taking office and since the state investigation into conditions at the school, gave some interesting insights on the nature of boys and the work of the Meriden school at the weekly meeting of the Willimantic Rotary club held in the Nathan Hale hotel this noon. Superintendent McLaughlin, who was introduced by Program Chairman Nelson A. Daniels, was formerly head of the Rhode Island Boys' school. He was given a rising vote of thanks for his talk which is not printed at his request. Dixon VanZandt was a guest of Fred L. Avery. At a meeting of the board of directors held immediately after the regular session the sum of $50 was voted for Christmas charity to be expended through the Welfare bureau with the assistance of the club treasurer, Wilfred A. Gagnon. Favorable action was taken on the staging of a public entertainment in January or February.

Gold Star auxiliary held another successful card party at which 16 tables were in play in V. F. W. hall Monday evening. Prizes went to: Mrs. Anna Clark and Walter Griggs, first; Mrs. George Parker and Henry Beauregard, second; Mrs. Dora Grady and Mrs. Margaret Moran, third. Mrs. D. M. Beauregard was in charge of the arrangements.

Papers have been served by Deputy Sheriff Lester H. Blish in the civil proceedings of Charles Rutman, doing business as local manager for the United Music company, against Joseph and Rose Ginteck of this city, for the collection of an alleged debt of $271. The case is returnable in the superior court the first Tuesday in January.

John James, a horse trader from Waterford, was charged with the theft of a saddle from the A. J. Gude stables on Windham road and possession of stolen property, at the police court session this morning. The case was continued until Saturday, allowing the accused time to secure counsel. Gude values the saddle at $100. Officer Victor Clark of the Stafford Springs state police barracks made the arrest. Two transients were sentenced to the county jail for 60 days on charges of intoxication.

Stafford Springs

There was a good attendance at the borough business meeting held in the Warren Memorial hall Monday evening when each article in the warning was taken up and discussed and adopted. A tax rate of six mills was voted, which is one-half mills lower than last year's rate. It was voted to add two street lights, one on Tolland avenue and one on Somers avenue, also it was decided to authorize the warden and burgesses to have a standpipe erected in the vicinity of Stafford high school in order that better fire protection may be available in that section of the borough. A resolution authorizing the installation of an additional hydrant on Highland Terrace was passed and it was voted to accept the layout of Willington avenue from the intersection of Westford avenue southerly to a point near by residence of Alfred Sabourin, in accordance with the map on file in the borough office. Another resolution of considerable interest adopted authorized the court of burgesses to take the necessary action toward having the borough accept for the purpose of assessment and collection of taxes in the borough, the completed grand list of the town of Stafford thus eliminating the boroug hboard of assessors and board of relief.

Mrs. G. Netto of High street has been entertained Mr. and Mrs. Antonio A. Netto and daughter.

Mrs. Charles Reynolds is ill.

Miss Spaulding Resigns

At the meeting of the town school committee Monday evening the resignation of Miss Ruth Spaulding was presented by Superintendent Brick and accepted. Miss Spaulding has been at the head of the commercial department for the past year and a half and her services have given general satisfaction. Her resignation will take place January 30th, 1931.

A party was held at the home of Joseph Clifford on Furnace avenue Monday, celebrating his 78th birthday. Friends and neighbors called and wished him many happy returns of the day.

Eight members of Bolton grange attended the East Central Pomona grange meeting held last Wednesday at Gilead.

WINDHAM TO CREATE SINKING FUND AS FIRST STEP IN REFINANCING

(Special to The Bulletin)

WILLIMANTIC, Dec. 9.—The town of Windham voted to go on a refinancing plan at a special meeting held in the town hall tonight attended by about 400 electors. The basis of the new plan is to create a sinking fund to retire three sets of school bonds bearing dates of maturity and to issue bonds to retire the floating unfunded indebtedness as shown in the report of the auditors who completed their work Sept. 15, last. All six clauses in the warning were adopted resulting in the addition of $22,950 in appropriations intended to put the town on a sound basis but resulting in an annual budget for next year amounting to $443,450. The annual budget as adopted at the annual town meeting on Oct. 24 was $421,500, representing an increase of $17,500 over last year.

It is indicated therefore that a tax rate higher than that prevailing last year, which was 14 1-2 mills, will be necessary, although it is within the plans of the town government that after next year lower tax rates will become the vogue, the decrease in interest payments being a prominent factor in accomplishing this. It is estimated that the maximum tax rate that will be asked early next spring will be 16 1-2 mills, which would net on the grand list of about $23,500,000 approximately $387,750, leaving some $56,000 to be derived from other income.

The moderator at the meeting was T. Frank Cunningham and the warning was read by Town Clerk Frank P. Fenton. Dr. George E. Wilcox, president of the Windham Taxpayers' Protective association, and Atty. William A. Arnold were heard in pleas that the citizens face the facts as revealed in the recent audit and proceed at once to pay off the town debts, which approximate $1,500,000. Remarks seeking to curb the approval of some of the clauses were made by Michael Falvey and Eugene J. Dion, the latter making amendments for no action on some of the clauses. In regard to the clause providing for an appropriation of $1,300 for clerical assistance in the office of town treasurer, Harold C. Lincoln, incumbent, explained that a salary of $350 per year is given the town treasurer for the handling of approximately $500,000 and that with the new system of bookkeeping to be installed he deemed the services of an assistant necessary. This position is aside and apart from that of town clerk, which office Mr. Lincoln will assume after Jan. 1. Resolutions covering the various clauses were presented by Town Counsel John H. King.

The clauses, as adopted:

1. To create a sinking fund on three sets of bonds bearing dates of maturity; high school, $100,000 Jan. 1, 1946; Natchaug school, $75,000 Jan. 1, 1940; high school, $75,000, Jan. 1, 1944. The sum of $19,000 per year was appropriated to meet the obligations of those bonds which total $250,000 and which will cover the time until maturity.
2. To authorize and direct the selectmen and town treasurer to apply to the next legislature to issue bonds to an amount not exceeding $700,000, the proceeds to be used solely for the purpose of retiring and paying off floating unfunded indebtedness existing Sept. 15, 1930.
3. To empower and direct the selectmen to contract with certified public accountants to prepare and install an up-to-date system of keeping the accounts of the town officers at a cost not to exceed $1,000.
4. To adopt section 362, general statutes, for the discharge of the town auditors and the appointment of certified public accountants to audit the town books at a cost not to exceed $1,260 annually.
5. To appropriate the sum of $400 through the selectmen to cause the audit of the books of the town made by W. A. Musgrave & Co., to be printed for public distribution within the town.
6. To empower and authorize the selectmen to procure clerical assistance in the office of the town treasurer at a cost not to exceed $1,300.

COLCHESTER

According to records kept by Town Clerk John Condren, during November, there were two births, two deaths and one marriage. The two births were: Olga Koshko, daughter of John and Anna Kosko, born Nov. 13 and Julius Balaba, son of Jack and Bertha Balaban, born Nov. 2. The deaths were: Andrew A. Stevens, 95, on Nov. 16 and Olga Koshko on Nov. 26. The marriage was that of Benjamin M. Tuber, son of Mrs. Ethel Tuber of 26 Warren street, Norwich and Sadie Zaltas, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Phillip Zaltas of Putnam the ceremony taking place at Jaffe's summer hotel here, Thanksgiving day.

DANIELSON

CIVIC BODIES TO UNITE IN DISPENSING CHRISTMAS CHEER

(Special to The Bulletin)

DANIELSON, Dec. 9.—There was general approval here today of the plan of Danielson's Rotary club to bring together representatives of the various organizations of the community that will be engaged in charitable work during the period between now and Christmas with a view to co-ordinating the distribution of relief work and the bringing of good cheer into needy homes.

Cashier Ralph H. Dunbar of the Windham County National bank said today, as a Rotarian, that he was making an effort to have a meeting next Friday evening of representatives of organizations referred to that the project might be discussed.

The incentive for this seeking for consolidation in doing relief work and giving substantial expression to the atmosphere of good will that prevails at Yuletide is the knowledge that last year, and in other years, there has been a duplication of effort and loss of efficiency, to the great advantage of some and to the detriment of others. What is meant may be illustrated by mention of the fact that some needy families received more food-stuffs than they could use at Christmas, while other equally needy families were overlooked and as a consequence received little or nothing.

This could not likely happen with a central organization in possession of all the facts functioning. An exchange of lists and information, it is held, would insure an equitable distribution of good things for all of those who should have them. The Danielson Rotary club is offering its services to that end.

Negro Tenor Pleases Audience

Curtis M. Sainsbury, noted Negro tenor, delighted his audience at the Westfield Congregational church tonight, when he appeared here under the auspices of the Danielson Federation of Churches.

Mr. Sainsbury was educated in the schools of New Haven and started his business career by learning the electrotyping business. During the course of 15 years spent in this occupation he was a member of church choirs and studying as a singer under eminent vocalists. In due time he began to fill concert engagements, and when not occupied with his regular labor gave song recitals. His health failing due to his occupation as an electrotyper, he was obliged to enter a sanatorium. In due time he recovered and has lived on to delight audiences everywhere he has appeared with the beauties of his voice. He specializes in sacred music and Negro spirituals.

Don't let your emotions run away with you—don't give money this Christmas to unknown and unauthorized persons who come around seeking donations in aid of this or that plan to help the needy. A few of these slickers have been operating in Danielson. Human vultures that are taking advantage of a period of stress to play on the sympathies of the public for donations of money to aid this or that project somewhere else, but not in Danielson. These solicitors are just plain grafters of the most deplorable type. Some of them even are impudent to persons they solicit without success. A business man said this morning that he felt that he is not of the type that would do any such thing, like throwing one woman out of his store who became peeved and insolent when he refused to give her money for some indefinite charitable cause about which she revealed little and about which he still knows less. She didn't get the money!

The point is there is going to be much of this here, in all probability, within the next two weeks. Give only to local organizations recognized as being legitimately in the field to aid the needy. Pass up the strangers. Better still, call the police. Such solicitors must have credentials to work here. The chances are plenty that they are without them.

As illustrating what this is all about, it may be mentioned that even the kids are getting into the racket of fleecing the gullible public of its money under the appealing plan of "Help the Poor." Two little boys, neither of them over 7 or 8 years of age, are reported as having walked into a store here, one of the chaps carrying a cigar box in his hands. The box had a slot cut in the cover and the usual adhesive tape to make such receptacles look real, for donation purposes. Approaching a clerk the boy extended the box with the usual "Help the Poor" request. The clerk inquired as to what poor was to be helped, and the youthful racketeer blandly answered, "All the poor." "Who gets the money?" the clerk inquired. "The boss," said the kid. "Who is the boss?" asked the clerk, and the very bad little boy had no answer.

Then the clerk gave that pair of kids some very good advice about getting money in the manner they were trying to make it in, under false pretense, and told them they could be arrested for that sort of thing. They grinned and walked out. A confederate awaited them outside. "What'd you get?" he asked as the pair emerged. "Bologney," replied one of them.

Now all of this may be funny in a way, yet a very serious proposition in another. Hence the warning, "Don't give money to unauthorized solicitors in Danielson," for grafters are really on the job.

It so happens that the trio of three little boys mentioned did get quite a few nickels and dimes—but it was for themselves, no mistake; never going to do the poor the slightest bit of good.

Announcement is made of the purchase of the business conducted in Dayville for a number of years past by N. P. Gingras, a former selectman of the town, by John J. O'Neill. This was the original LaBelle's Drug store, where Mr. Gingras, long in business in Dayville on his own account, was employed for about 14 years prior to launching forth for himself. Shortly after the first of the year Mr. Gingras will remove the stock from the store in the Patrick Riley building to another building that Mr. Gingras owns, almost directly across the street.

Christmas sale, Cong'l church Friday at 2:30 p. m.—adv.

Miss Blanche Reeves and Miss Molly Reid have returned from a visit to New York, where they visited with Miss Reid's brother, a student who has been at Salamance, Spain, and who is now en route to St. Patrick's college in San Francisco.

As had been forecast, the release of Christmas club checks here has stimulated business, and immediately. Various merchants reported good business for yesterday and today.

For a time last evening there was a flurry here over the disappearance of a business man's car from School street, but it was located within an hour only a short distance away, and state officers gave up a hunt for a stolen car.

It is a strange thing, not only here, but at a great many places in New England, and please do not be too critical about this item, that the death rate has dropped amazingly for this time of year, making business bad for the undertakers, as well as for most other people in this territory.

That very considerable number of of people who have not as yet had an engagement with the personal tax collector had better be on their guard, for the time for paying such taxes within the time limit is rapidly expiring, and there will be penalties for the delinquents after it does.

The official publication of the Danielson Federation of Churches, The Christian Messenger, makes it clear that the federation will willingly co-operate in supplying singers for the Christmas carols that the public hopes that it will hear in Danielson on the eve of the great holiday.

Only three weeks more to get your automobile registrations for 1931, if you would have your machines still in commission at the birth of the New Year. There's going to be a big rush for those coveted plates within the next fortnight.

FORMER DANIELSON PASTOR DIES AT HIS HOME IN CALIFORNIA

(Special to The Bulletin)

DANIELSON, Dec. 9.—Word came today to friends here of the death in South Pasadena, Cal., on Dec. 5, of Rev. Edwin A. Waldo, a resident of Danielson for many years. Rev. Mr. Waldo had been an invalid for a dozen years past. He was about 66 years of age.

Rev. Mr. Waldo was a son of Mr. and Mrs. Simon Waldo, his father during his long business career in Danielson a member of the firm of Waldo Bros. This concern owned the block now occupied by Gallup Bros. & Lindsey at the corner of Main and Academy streets, and was known far and wide as grocers and grain dealers. John Waldo was the business partner of his brother, Simon.

Rev. Edwin A. Waldo made his early studies in the schools of Danielson and was a graduate of Killingly high school. A more advanced course of study was later taken at Andover academy, and there followed a course of study in theology under Rev. Edward Anderson, D.D.; was for a term of years was the pastor of the Westfield Congregational church in Danielson.

In the course of the years Rev. Mr. Waldo, not yet ordained, was associated with the activities of Hull House in Chicago, later to be under the administrative direction of the famous Miss Jane Addams. It was while he was at Hull House that he was influenced to realize his ambition to enter the ministry, largely, it is understood, by Rev. Charles Dinsmore, D.D.

Danielson has seen little of Rev. Mr. Waldo for upwards of 30 years. His career kept him occupied elsewhere, but he is well remembered by the older residents of Danielson, especially by the members of the Westfield Congregational church, where he worshipped during his younger years. Among his pastorates for several years was one at fashionable West Palm Beach, in Florida.

He was a man of genial and most gracious personality, a talented musician, and it was recalled today that though never the regular organist of the church he frequently played at the Westfield Congregational church and sang at services there.

His brother, George Waldo, who, following studies in Paris, achieved considerable fame as an artist, died here many years ago. Rev. Mr. Waldo leaves his wife, but no other immediate relatives.

PLAINFIELD

JUNIOR GIRLS A. C. CLUB HOLDS 12-TABLE WHIST

The first in a series of whist parties was held at the Plainfield Community house Monday evening under the auspices of the Junior Girls' Athletic club, a club comprised of about 25 girls of grammar school age. There were 12 tables in play and prizes were awarded Mrs. Louis Lamothe, Thomas Hilton, Arthur Daigneault and Mrs. George Eastham. Misses Evelyn Lamothe, Rita Ouellette, Una Wright and Ursule Goblis were the committee in charge. Another party is planned later.

During the past week the Trappers and Hunters of Windham County held their annual banquet at Lawton Inn at Plainfield. About 100 members and guests sat down to a delicious game dinner, consisting of: Fruit cocktail, celery, soup, olives and celery, boiled salmon, rabbit pie, venison, mashed potatoes, peas, turnips, ice cream and cake, cheese, cigars, tea, coffee. Music was furnished by Krause's orchestra.

Friday evening at St. John's school a whist party was given by the altar boys for the benefit of the school. A large number was present and the party proved a pronounced success.

Saturday there is to be a requiem mass for Daniel Sullivan at St. John's church.

Thomas Waterworth spent the week-end at his home in New Bedford.

Mrs. George Greene, of Hope Valley, R. I., is at the home of relatives, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Edgerton.

Preacher From Goshen

Rev. Howard Bushnell, pastor of Goshen church, was the speaker at the union service at the local church Sunday evening. He was accompanied here by a vocalist, organist and two violinists, who assisted in the service.

Mr. and Mrs. Otho Smith and son Gordon, of East Providence, have been visiting Mrs. Smith's mother, Mrs. Edith Hatfield, and family.

Mrs. Bertha Wilbur is improving in health.

PUTNAM

MRS. H. N. BENOIT TO BE MEMBER OF AMER. LEGION

(Special to The Bulletin)

PUTNAM, Dec. 9.—Anselm Marcotte post, No. 13, American Legion, is one of the few World war veterans organizations in this part of Connecticut with women among its membership. The post already has one woman legionnaire who is Miss Isabel Byrne, superintendent of the Roosevelt hospital in New York city, a former Putnam woman and sister of Misses Katherine and Elizabeth Byrne. Miss Byrne served with distinction in the Roosevelt hospital unit during the war. At a date in the near future the class of newly approved candidates will be initiated and among the candidates is one woman, Mrs. Edna L. Benoit, wife of Town Clerk Henry N. Benoit and daughter of the late Mayor Victor Chapdelaine. Mrs. Benoit by reason of her service in the U. S. navy during the war is eligible for membership in the legion.

During the early days of the war Mrs. Benoit served with the naval forces in the yeoman corps and was stationed at the state pier at New London where she had supervision over a large force of patriotic young women who were serving in clerical capacities. Mrs. Benoit held the offices of matron and division officer and was in charge of physical training of the force of women workers. In 1919 her service with the navy ended and she was honorably discharged. Shortly afterward she enlisted in the army with the reconstruction department and was assigned to duty with the medical corps at Fort Oglethorpe, Ga. She received an honorable discharge from the army in 1920. Mrs. Benoit is a graduate of the Sargent Posse and the Emerson schools at Boston.

Thomas G. Ralph of Danielson has officially succeeded the late Ralph E. Thurston as general manager of the Putnam district of the Connecticut Light and Power company. Mr. Ralph, who is also in charge of the management of the Danielson district, makes his headquarters at the Danielson offices of the company, and to be a more central point than Putnam, where Chief Thurston for nearly 25 years was located.

The offspring of a Holstein cow, owned by Jacob Gurwitz, North Woodstock cattle dealer, has proved to be, in the opinion of all who viewed it, one of the most hideous monstrosities ever seen. Dr. James R. Hutchins, of Abington, a veterinary surgeon, who was present when the freak calf was born, said that no description, however carefully prepared, could adequately and accurately convey a clear and concise mental picture of the abnormally formed animal which he said was born dead. Pointing out the most prominent of its monstrous characteristics, Dr. Hutchins mentioned the absence of a head. He said the calf had been endowed with all of its animal senses, but that they were contained in the chest space between the shoulder blades. One small, human shaped ear was seen on one side of the shoulders, while on the other side of the body, above the shoulder joint of the front extremity, was the ear of a normal cow. What appeared to be the eyes, nostrils and mouth were irregularly placed between the shoulders of the forepart of the body. The hind quarters represented a normal calf, the veterinary said. Another unnatural feature of the monstrosity was the fact that the front half of its body was smooth skinned and free from hairgrowth.

The queer mass of animal life, which, in the opinion of veterinary surgeons who have seen it, resembled no other form of nature. Dr. Hutchins inferred that while he has seen many freak specimens during his 30 years of practice, he had never before viewed any subject so ghastly and abnormally shaped as the offspring of the North Woodstock Holstein, the birth of which has served to create considerable interest among veterinarians and cattle breeders.

A twin calf born dead shortly after the freak one in physical construction was in every sense perfectly normal. Mr. Gurwitz, owner of the monstrosity, after subjecting the creature to veterinarians and a few interested specialists in animal life for purposes of examination, disposed of the carcass.

The birth of the abnormal calf at the Gurwitz farm recalls the freak calf born in North Woodstock two years ago. This subject which died a few minutes after birth, possessed many human features, particularly those seen in the formation of its head organs. Its body was small and lower extremities were unlike those of the normal cow in that the joints of its forelegs were situated like the human arm. Only the hind legs had knees. This monstrosity was treated by a taxidermist and exhibited at fairs. The one recently born, the owner said, was too gruesome for this.

Dr. Ernest R. Pike, medical examiner for the town of Woodstock, in a statement today denied current rumors to the effect that an epidemic of diphtheria has broken out in the town. Dr. Pike said that one case was discovered, but the person was quickly administered treatment and is making a satisfactory recovery. Members of his family were quarantined and every possible outlet for further spread of the malady was checked with the result that the situation is well under control with regard to the general health of the townspeople. As far as the town officials could ascertain, only a small number of residents of the village of East Woodstock were subjected to diphtheria exposure.

THOMAS McKONE FOREMAN OF HOOK AND LADDER CO.

(Special to The Bulletin)

PUTNAM, Dec. 9.—Thomas McKone, for more than 25 years a member of the Putnam fire department, was elected foreman of the Hook and Ladder company at the central fire station by a 5 to 3 vote of the company members here tonight. Foreman McKone will succeed Edmund Kean as head of the company. Kean was elected deputy chief at the December meeting of the common council. Other members who were proposed for the office of company foreman were Euclid Favereau, assistant foreman, who received three votes, and Elzear Gauthier, who also received three votes. William Morgan was elected to the membership of the company to fill the vacancy caused by the promotion of Fireman McKone. At this meeting the resignation of Deputy Chief Kean as foreman of the company was submitted and accepted.

A community Christmas tree will be erected during the week preceding the Christmas holidays, it was announced today by Arthur F. Hughes, secretary of the Putnam Rotary club. The plan of placing a large hemlock tree, decorated with strings of vari-colored lights, in the horse watering basin in Union square, has met with municipal approval. Arrangements for the erection and decorating of the tree will be undertaken by members of the Rotary community service committee of which Supt. of Schools Leon N. Farrin is chairman. Such trees have been set up in the trough in Union square in past years and have served to instill a certain amount of holiday cheer into the business section, which has already changed its decorative colors to those of the Christmas season.

Upon returning from a short calendar session of the superior court held in Willimantic today, Attorney Irving H. Miron said that Judge Newell Jennings had granted a decree of divorce on grounds of desertion to Fred Green of School street, this city, from his wife, Lucy Green. The action was uncontested and under terms of the decree Green is awarded custody of his minor child, Fred Green, Jr. The plaintiff testified that he was married to Lucy (Wolteral) Green in Putnam, on March 29, 1919.

Excavation gangs in charge of the Pomfret street water system reconstruction work today had opened a trench line extending from the Memorial bridge to the west side of the traffic governor in Hughes square. A short gap in the center of the square was immediately filled in after a short piece of pipe line was put down in order to permit Main street traffic to enter the upper section of the street without confusing the open lane on the east side of the governor through which outgoing traffic lines pass. The route was also opened in order to permit quick exit of Central fire station apparatus, in the event an alarm in the lower Main street section should be received during the period work is progressing.

CHORE BOY WITH CHICKENS PROVED TOO EFFICIENT

The hard luck jinx stalked abroad one afternoon recently when a woman who owned 20 fine chickens, which she kept in a nice coop out in the back-yard near her home in Pachaug, decided she would have a chicken pie dinner. The day was Friday, when she told the boy who had been helping her during the week, doing odd jobs here and there, that he was to go out and dress off two of the roosters, and prepare them for the pot. Upon finishing the job he brought the two nice birds into the house and deposited them on the kitchen table. "Those are fine!" said the pleased housewife. "Now," said she, "I guess you may go and clean out the coop." The boy did just that, he went and chopped the heads off the remaining 18. The curtain was drawn when he returned to tell that the duty had been performed, and how! Next day local people purchased home-dressed poultry on a falling market.

DANIELSON

CIVIC BODIES TO UNITE IN DISPENSING CHRISTMAS CHEER

(Special to The Bulletin)

DANIELSON, Dec. 9.—There was general approval here today of the plan of Danielson's Rotary club to bring together representatives of the various organizations of the community that will be engaged in charitable work during the period between now and Christmas with a view to co-ordinating the distribution of relief work and the bringing of good cheer into needy homes.

Cashier Ralph H. Dunbar of the Windham County National bank said today, as a Rotarian, that he was making an effort to have a meeting next Friday evening of representatives of organizations referred to that the project might be discussed.

The incentive for this seeking for consolidation in doing relief work and giving substantial expression to the atmosphere of good will that prevails at Yudetide is the knowledge that last year, and in other years, there has been a duplication of effort and loss of efficiency, to the great advantage of some and to the detriment of others. What is meant may be illustrated by mention of the fact that some needy families received more foodstuffs than they could use last Christmas, while other equally needy families were overlooked and as a consequence received little or nothing.

This could not likely happen with a central organization in possession of all the facts functioning. An exchange of lists and information, it is held, would insure an equitable distribution of good things to all of those who should have them. The Danielson Rotary club is offering its services to that end.

Negro Tenor Pleases Audience

Curtis M. Saulsbury, noted Negro tenor, delighted his audience at the Westfield Congregational church tonight, when he appeared here under the auspices of the Danielson Federation of Churches.

Mr. Saulsbury was educated in the schools of New Haven and started his business career by learning the electrotyping business. During the course of 15 years spent in this occupation he was a member of church choirs and studying, as a singer, under eminent vocalists. In due time he began to fill concert engagements, and when not engaged with his regular labor, gave song recitals. His health failing, due to his occupation as an electrotyper, he was obliged to enter a sanatorium. In due time he recovered and has lived on to delight audiences everywhere he has appeared with the beauties of his voice. He specializes in sacred music and Negro spirituals.

Don't let your emotions run away with you—don't give money this Christmas to unknown and unauthorized persons who come around seeking donations in aid of this or that plan to help the needy! A few of the slickers have been operating in Danielson, human vultures that are taking advantage of a period of stress to play on the sympathies of the public for donations of money to aid this or that project somewhere else, but not in Danielson. These solicitors are just plain grafters of the most deplorable type. Some of them even are impudent to persons they solicit without success. A business man said this morning that he felt, though he is not of the type that would do any such thing, like throwing one woman out of his store who became peeved and insolent when he refused to give her money for some indefinite charitable cause, about which she revealed little and about which he still knows less. She didn't get the money!

The point is there is going to be much of this here, in all probability, within the next two weeks. Give only to local organizations recognized as being legitimately in the field to aid the needy. Pass up the strangers. Better still, call the police. Such solicitors must have credentials to work here. The chances are plenty that they are without them.

As illustrating what this is all about, it may be mentioned that even the kids are getting into the racket of fleecing the gullible public of its money under the appealing plan of "Help the Poor." Two little boys, neither of them over 7 or 8 years of age, are reported as having walked into a store here, one of the chaps carrying a cigar box in his hands. The box had a slot cut in the cover and the usual adhesive tape to make such receptacles look real, for donation purposes. Approaching a clerk the boy extended the box with the usual "Help the Poor" request. The clerk inquired as to what poor was to be helped, and the youthful racketeer blandly answered, "All the poor." "Who gets the money?" the clerk inquired. "The boss," said the kid. "Who is the boss?" asked the clerk, and the very bad little boy had no answer.

Then the clerk gave that pair of kids some very good advice about getting money in the manner they were trying to rake it in, under false pretense, and told them they could be arrested for that sort of thing. They grinned and walked out. A confederate awaited them outside. "Wha'd you get?" he asked as the pair emerged. "Bologney," replied one of them.

Now all of this map be funny, in a way, yet a very serious proposition in another. Hence the warning, "Don't give money to unauthorized solicitors in Danielson," for grafters are really on the job.

It so happens that the trio of three little boys mentioned did get quite a few nickels and dimes—but it was for themselves, no mistake; never going to do the poor the slightest bit of good.

Announcement is made of the purchase of the business conducted in Dayville for a number of years past to N. P. Gingras, a former selectman of the town, by John J. O'Neill. This was the original LaBelle's Drug store, where Mr. Gingras, long in business in Dayville on his own account, was employed for about 14 years prior to launching forth for himself. Shortly after the first of the year Mr. Gingras will remove the stock from the store in the Patrick Riley building to another building that Mr. Gingras owns, almost directly across the street.

Christmas sale, Cong'l church Friday at 2:30 p. m.—adv.

Miss Blanche Reeves and Miss Molly Reid have returned from a visit to New York, where they visited with Miss Reid's brother, a student who has been at Salamance, Spain, and who is now en route to St. Patrick's college in San Francisco.

As had been forecast, the release of Christmas club checks here has stimulated business, and immediately. Various merchants reported good business for yesterday and today.

For a time last evening there was a flurry here over the disappearance of a business man's car from School street, but it was located within an hour only a short distance away, and state officers gave up a hunt for a stolen car.

It is a strange thing, not only here, but at a great many places in New England, and please do not be too critical about this item, that the death rate has dropped amazingly for this time of year, making business bad for the undertakers, as well as for most other people in this territory.

That very considerable number of of people who have not as yet had an engagement with the personal tax collector had better be on their guard, for the time for paying such taxes within the time limit is rapidly expiring, and there will be penalties for the delinquents after it does.

The official publication of the Danielson Federation of Churches, The Christian Messenger, makes it clear that the federation will willingly cooperate in supplying singers for the Christmas carols that the public hopes that it will hear in Danielson on the eve of the great holiday.

FORMER DANIELSON PASTOR DIES AT HIS HOME IN CALIFORNIA

(Special to The Bulletin)

DANIELSON, Dec. 9.—Word came today to friends here of the death in South Pasadena, Cal., on Dec. 5, of Rev. Edwin A. Waldo, a resident of Danielson for many years. Rev. Mr. Waldo had been an invalid for a dozen years past. He was about 85 years of age.

Rev. Mr. Waldo was a son of Mr. and Mrs. Simon Waldo, his father during his long business career in Danielson a member of the firm of Waldo Bros. This concern owned the block now occupied by Gallup Bros & Lindner, at the corner of Main and Academy streets, and was known far and wide as grocers and grain dealers. John Waldo was the business partner of his brother, Simon.

Rev. Edwin A. Waldo made his early studies in the schools of Danielson and was a graduate of Killingly high school. A more advanced course of study was later taken at Andover academy, and there followed a course of study in theology under Rev. Edward Anderson, D.D., who for a term of years was the pastor of the Westfield Congregational church in Danielson.

In the course of the years Rev. Mr Waldo, not yet ordained, was associated with the activities of Hull House in Chicago, later to be under the administrative direction of the famous Miss Jane Addams. It was while he was at Hull House that he was influenced to realize his ambition to enter the ministry, largely, it is understood, by Rev. Charles Dinsmore, D.D.

Danielson has seen little of Rev. Mr. Waldo for upwards of 30 years. His career kept him occupied elsewhere, but he is well remembered by the older residents of Danielson, especially by the members of the Westfield Congregational church, where he worshipped during his younger years. Among his pastorates for several years was one at fashionable West Palm Beach, in Florida.

He was a man of genial and most gracious personality, a talented musician, and, it was recalled today, that though never the regular organist of the church he frequently played at the Westfield Congregational church and sang at services there.

His brother, George Waldo, who following studies in Paris, achieved considerable fame as an artist, died here many years ago. Rev. Mr. Waldo leaves his wife, but no other immediate relatives.

PLAINFIELD

JUNIOR GIRLS A. CLUB HOLDS 12-TABLE WHIST

The first in a series of whist parties was held at the Plainfield Community house Monday evening under the auspices of the Junior Girls' Athletic club, a club comprised of about 25 girls of grammar school age. There were 12 tables in play and prizes were awarded Mrs. Louis Lamothe, Thomas Hilton, Arthur Daigneault and Mrs. George Eastham. Misses Evelyn Lamothe, Rita Ouellette, Una Wright and Ursule Gobille were the committee in charge. Another party is planned later.

During the past week the Trappers and Hunters of Windham County held their annual banquet at Lawton Inn at Plainfield. About 100 members and guests sat down to a delicious game dinner, consisting of: Fruit cocktail, celery soup, olives and celery, boiled salmon, rabbit pie, venison, mashed potatoes, peas, turnips, ice cream and cake, cider, ginger ale, tea, coffee. Music was furnished by Krause's orchestra.

Friday evening at St. John's school a whist party was given by the altar boys for the benefit of the school. A large number was present and the party proved a pronounced success.

Saturday there is to be a requiem mass for Daniel Sullivan at St. John's church.

Thomas Waterworth spent the week-end at his home in New Bedford.

PUTNAM

MRS. H. N. BENOIT TO BE MEMBER OF AMER. LEGION

(Special to The Bulletin)

PUTNAM, Dec. 9.— Anslem Mayotte post, No. 13, American Legion, is one of the few World war veterans organizations in this part of Connecticut with women among its membership. The post already has one woman legionnaire who is Miss Isabel Byrne, superintendent of the Roosevelt hospital, in New York city, a former Putnam woman, and sister of Misses Katherine and Elizabeth Byrne. Miss Byrne served with distinction in the Roosevelt hospital unit during the war. At a date in the near future the class of newly approved candidates will be initiated and among the candidates is one woman, Mrs. Edna L. Benoit, wife of Town Clerk Henry N. Benoit, and daughter of the late Mayor Victor Chapdelaine. Mrs. Benoit by reason of her service in the U. S. navy during the war is eligible for membership in the legion.

During the early days of the war Mrs. Benoit served with the naval forces in the yeoman corps and was stationed at the state pier at New London where she had supervision over a large force of patriotic young women who were serving in clerical capacities. Mrs. Benoit held the office of matron and division officer and was in charge of physical training of the force of women workers. In 1919 her service with the navy ended and she was honorably discharged. Shortly afterward she enlisted in the army with the reconstruction department and was assigned to duty with the medical corps at Fort Oglethorpe, Ga. She received an honorable discharge from the army in 1922. Mrs. Benoit is a graduate of the Sargent, Posse and the Emerson schools at Boston.

Thomas G. Ralph of Danielson has officially succeeded the late Ralph E. Thurston as general manager of the Putnam district of the Connecticut Light and Power company. Mr. Ralph, who is also in charge of the management of the Danielson district, makes his headquarters at the Danielson offices of the company, said to be a more central point than Putnam, where Chief Thurston for nearly 25 years was located.

The offspring of a Holstein cow, owned by Jacob Gurwitz, North Woodstock cattle dealer, has proved to be, in the opinion of all who viewed it, one of the most hideous monstrosities ever seen. Dr. James H. Hutchins, of Abington, a veterinary surgeon, who was present when the freak calf was born, said that no description, however carefully prepared, could adequately and accurately convey a clear and concise mental picture of the abnormally formed animal, which he said was born dead. Pointing out the most prominent of its monstrous characteristics, Dr. Hutchins mentioned the absence of a head. He said the calf had been endowed with all of its animal senses, but that they were contained in the chest space between the shoulder blades. One small, human shaped ear was seen on one side of the shoulders, while on the other side of the body, above the shoulder joint of the front extremity, was the ear of a normal cow. What appeared to be the eyes, nostrils and mouth, were irregularly placed between the shoulders of the forepart of the body. The hind quarters represented a normal calf, the veterinary said. Another unnatural feature of the monstrosity was the fact that the front half of its body was smooth skinned and free from hairgrowth.

The queer mass of animal life, which, in the opinion of veterinary surgeons who have seen it, resembles no other form of nature. Dr. Hutchins inferred that while he has seen many freak specimens during his 25 years of practice, he had never before viewed any subject so ghastly and abnormally shaped as the offspring of the North Woodstock Holstein, the birth of which has served to create considerable interest among veterinarians and cattle breeders.

A twin calf born dead shortly after the freak one, in physical construction was in every sense perfectly normal. Mr. Gurwitz, owner of the monstrosity, after subjecting the creature to veterinarians and a few interested specialists in animal life for purposes of examination, disposed of the carcase.

The birth of the abnormal calf at the Gurwitz farm recalls the freak calf born in North Woodstock two years ago. This subject which died a few minutes after birth possessed many human features, particularly those seen in the formation of its head organs. Its body was small and lower extremities were unlike those of the normal cow in that the joints of its forelegs were elbowed, like the human arm. Only the hind legs had knees. This monstrosity was treated by a taxidermist and exhibited at fairs. The one recently born, the owner said, was too gruesome for this.

Dr. Ernest R. Pike, medical examiner for the town of Woodstock, in a statement today denied current rumors to the effect that an epidemic of diphtheria has broken out in the town. Dr. Pike said that one case was discovered, but the person was quickly administered treatment and is making a satisfactory recovery. Members of his family were quarantined and every possible outlet for further spread of the malady was checked with the result that the situation is well under control with regard to the general health of the townspeople. As far as the town officials could ascertain, only a small number of residents of the village of East Woodstock were subjected to diphtheria exposure.

THOMAS McKONE FOREMAN OF HOOK AND LADDER CO.

(Special to The Bulletin)

PUTNAM, Dec. 9.— Thomas McKone, for more than 25 years a member of the Putnam fire department, was elected foreman of the Hook and Ladder company at the central fire station by a 5 to 3 vote of the company members here tonight. Foreman McKone will succeed Edmond Kean as head of the company. Kean was elected deputy chief at the December meeting of the common council. Other members who were proposed for the office of company foreman were Euclid Favereau, assistant foreman, who received three votes, and Elzear Geurtin, who also received three votes. William Morgan was elected to the membership of the company to fill the vacancy caused by the promotion of Fireman McKone. At this meeting the resignation of Deputy Chief Kean as foreman of the company was submitted and accepted.

A community Christmas tree will be erected during the week preceding the Christmas holidays, it was announced today by Arthur F. Hughes, secretary of the Putnam Rotary club. The plan of placing a large hemlock tree decorated with strings of vari-colored lights, in the horse watering basin in Union square, has met with municipal approval. Arrangements for the erection and decorating of the tree will be undertaken by members of the Rotary community service committee of which Supt. of Schools Leon N. Farrin is chairman. Such trees have been set up in the trough in Union square in past years and have served to instill a certain amount of holiday cheer into the business section, which has already changed its decorative colors to those of the Christmas season.

Upon returning from a short calendar session of the superior court held in Willimantic today, Attorney Irving H. Miron said that Judge Newell Jennings had granted a decree of divorce on grounds of desertion to Fred Green of School street, this city, from his wife, Lucy Green. The action was uncontested and under terms of the decree Green is awarded custody of his minor child, Fred Green, Jr. The plaintiff testified that he was married to Lucy (Wolters) Green in Putnam, on March 29, 1919.

A meeting of trustees of the Day Kimball hospital, together with committees interested in the erection of the hospital nurses home, was held Monday evening at the community rooms of the Putnam Savings bank.

Captain John J. McGarry, of the headquarters company, 43rd Div., was in Hartford today on official military business. Captain McGarry has recently been appointed an aide-de-camp on the staff of Governor-elect Wilbur L. Cross, with the rank of major.

Today was the fourth day that the skies have threatened snow, but until a late hour this afternoon the promised wintry weather has held off, much to the satisfaction of rural residents who are still confronted with water shortage problems.

Excavation gangs in charge of the Pomfret street water system reconstruction work today, had opened a trench line extending from the Memorial bridge to the west side of the traffic governor in Bugbee square. A short gap in the center of the square was immediately filled in after a short piece of pipe line was put down in order to permit Main street traffic to enter the upper section of the street without confusing the open lane on the east side of the governor through which outgoing traffic lines pass. The route was also opened in order to permit quick exit of Central fire station apparatus, in the event an alarm in the lower Main street section should be received during the period work is progressing.

CHORE BOY WITH CHICKENS PROVED TOO EFFICIENT

The hard luck jinx stalked abroad one afternoon recently when a woman who owned 20 fine chickens, which she kept in a nice coop out in the backyard near her home in Pachaug, decided she would have a chicken pie dinner. The day was Friday, when she told the boy who had been helping her during the week, doing odd jobs here and there, that he was to go out and dress off two of the roosters, and prepare them for the pot. Upon finishing the job he brought the two nice birds into the house and deposited them on the kitchen table. "Those are fine!" said the pleased housewife. "Now," said she, "I guess you may go and clean out the coop." The boy did just that, he went and chopped the heads off the remaining 18. The curtain was drawn when he returned to tell that the duty had been performed, and how! Next day local people purchased home-dressed poultry on a falling market.

CONGRESSIONAL COOPERATION

How large the deficit will be depends entirely upon the action that is taken by congress. President Hoover has set forth that a deficit can be expected. He has also indicated the need of making certain emergency appropriations at this time, and in doing that he has acted in a manner which he believes is justified and with compliance in regard to the suggested appropriations the situation will be one that can be safely met.

But when there is manifested a determination to display no restraint, to demand all kinds of heavy outlays, to give no heed to the situation that is being created and to indulge in a lot of grandstand political play, the president is justified in calling the attention of congress to what is threatened by the demands.

It was but a few weeks ago that there was a great flourish made by a group of democratic leaders in which there was a promise of cooperation with the administration to see that needed legislation was adopted without delay. That was looked upon as a fine thing, a real recognition of a national duty, but it was also regarded as indicating a bid for temporary commendation rather than something which would or could be actually carried out.

Congress has been in session a little over a week and one needs a magnifying glass to see any marked evidence of such cooperation. Senator Robinson was one of the democratic spokesmen and as senate leader much was expected from him, but he is already urging liberality, advocating much larger appropriations than the administration's study considers necessary and even though the president sees billions added to the administration's programme, if all that is sought is voted, Senator Robinson considers it too early to talk about a big deficit or the need of increasing income taxes. So much for cooperation.

The demands that are being made, and made without regard for consequences or the manner in which they must be met, give every evidence of determined efforts to put the administration in a hole instead of lending cooperation. It is entirely possible that good judgment will sway a sufficient number to keep congress in a sane mood, but the need of stopping the runaway is already apparent. Unreasonable appropriations will mean increased taxation, a step out of keeping with the existing situation.

OLD AUTOS

The production of automobiles this year is not as great as estimated recently. That business has experienced the same lack of orders that has characterized others, but it is pointed out by the American Automobile association that out of the 23,000,000 automobiles registered in this country there are 5,000,000 of the vintage of 1925 and on which the rated value is $25. To the head of the association this means a great volume of replacement long overdue and puts that forth as an important factor in the look ahead for business.

Another view is that with so many of five years of age and older the safety of the highways would be increased if they were junked and new machines acquired.

It doesn't hold true that just because a car is old that it is a menace to the highway. It depends to a large degree upon the care that is given the machine. It is entirely possible that machines dating back to 1925 may have far less mileage on them than some which bear the date of 1930. It is also true that new cars are seen in smash-ups with quite as much frequency as old ones.

There is good and sufficient reason for insistence upon a careful checkup of all automobiles each year to see that they are mechanically fit and to keep the cars with none or bad brakes off the highways and to catch worn-out parts before they get to the point of causing accidents. If all states would require a test of machines every year it would be a step in behalf of greater safety. It would be a fine thing for the old cars and it would be equally good for the new cars, which may have received much harder usage and worse treatment than the old cars. It would do much to prevent breakdowns and to make it possible to keep in auto under more certain control.

It makes little difference whether it is an old car or a new one, provided it is mechanically fit, when recklessness is displayed by the person at the wheel. Modern cars invariably have better braking equipment, but even that calls for proper handling if cars are going to be kept from crashing and also kept right side up on the highway.

NEW YORK CONDITIONS

The longer the investigation continues into the court conditions in New York city the worse become the revelations as to what has been going on and the manner in which innocent people have been framed, made to hand over large sums of money and for failure to do so have been put in jail.

The disclosures have brought about the resignation of magistrates and the involvement of court officials and lawyers in a manner which indicates that certain parts of the court system in that city are rotten to the core. Instead of dealing out justice, they are preying upon the public, and doing under the guise of legality what others are doing at the point of a revolver.

While magistrates have resigned, police have been dropped and certain shakeups have taken place in the force, those who have been sent to jail through frameups and false testimony are still serving time and, so far as known, nothing has been done by the bar association for the removal of those lawyers who participated in such cases.

Interest may be centered at the present time on what is going to be done with those in the courts who are responsible for such conditions and weep over the thought that some are to get away by handing in their resignations, or possibly upon how much more there is that remains to be brought into the light. But it is evident that there cannot be a long delay before something is done for those who have been jailed and kept there for no other reason than they have not been able to or have refused to meet the financial demands that have been made upon them.

That efforts should be underway to have such cases handled in a manner that will do something for the victims of this vice ring is in keeping with the need of undoing the wrongs that have been going on too long. If perjured testimony was responsible for the jail sentences, they are certainly entitled to early pardons at least, but, more than that, there is being revealed in connection with this whole inquiry a state of affairs which should arouse the people of New York city to a recognition of what they have been and are tolerating and cause them to set in motion a house-cleaning effort that will bring different conditions. Somehow we hate to believe that New York citizens endorse all that has been going on and is now coming to light.

WILLIMANTIC'S HOSPITAL

Whatever efforts are made for the establishment of a hospital or the enlargement of existing facilities, there is every reason for the community that will be served to take a deep and abiding interest therein.

Just now Willimantic is engaged in raising $400,000 for a new hospital, $100,000 having been pledged if the rest necessary to bring the total up to a half million is obtained. Willimantic has not been without hospital facilities but it has gotten to the point where a new and modern institution is needed and in finding the people of that community, as well as those of the surrounding towns that would be served thereby, eager to secure the new hospital there is reflected due recognition of what is needed and proper concern in securing it.

A hospital is an institution which is of vital importance. More and more is dependence being placed upon it. More and more are people coming to realize the benefits attached thereto and to use them. Thus the announcement that more than the necessary three-quarters of what must be raised has already been secured shows not only how well the campaign has been conducted but how general is the recognition of the need of such an institution and the desire to have a hand in obtaining it.

Even though Willimantic has been appreciative of what it has had in the way of a hospital, the need of providing for the future as well as taking care of present requirements enters conspicuously into the effort to make certain of a larger and up-to-date institution. It certainly deserves to succeed and there is nothing but the most encouraging reasons to believe that it will. Windham and the towns surrounding understand that whatever they do in the way of providing this new hospital will be for the benefit of a large population, including themselves.

NOT A BEVERAGE

For most people there will be no need for the warning that has been issued by Surgeon-General Hugh S. Cumming of the federal public health service to the effect that methanol is "poisonous and more highly fatal than any denatured alcohol." This is, however, a preparation which is being used in automobiles for the prevention of freezing, so that it is probable that it will come in for considerable use and be available in quantities.

Since anything that bears any similarity to alcohol has long since been seized upon by those who are determined to have a drink regardless of consequences, there is justification for the warning by the surgeon-general concerning the character of the new anti-freeze. One might think that if the stuff was not brought to notice those interested in the kick in it would be slow to learn of its attractions. But the surgeon-general understands that any such product is not being kept out of sight by those who have it to sell. Publicity which is calculated to increase the quantity used will serve to attract attention if nothing else and it is revealed that those using it for beverage purposes have helped to increase the death list in Pennsylvania.

Thus the surgeon-general believes that if the liquid should be colored purple there would be a better warning to those who might get hold of it. Quite the same as a rose by any other name would smell as sweet, this anti-freeze stuff by any other name or any other color would furnish the same attraction to the reckless thirsty. If the fact it is poisonous, and probably so marked, isn't sufficient to restrain those who drink it, coloring it purple would offer no terrors. Even red coloring would probably provide no adequate danger sign.

"BLOOD CLOT" IN APPLES ATTESTS HOW FRUIT TREES HAUNTED FRANKLIN MAN

Superficially considered, it may seem to be a far cry from last week's hokum "ghost story," laid in Jewett City, to the grim 18th century tradition of Micah Rood, the Franklin farmer wrecked in estate and happy in mind, by the haunting menace that emanated from the fruit of his own apple trees. But insofar as these two stories deal with the eternal fascination that human nature finds in rumors of the other world, both tales are off the same piece of cloth. The legend of Micah Rood and his haunted apple tree appeared in The Bulletin of Dec. 3, 1888, where it was reprinted "from advance sheets of the New England Historical and Genealogical Register." In this theme the author, "P. H. Woodward, Esq., of Hartford, Ct.," seems to have sensed the makings of a story that Nathaniel Hawthorne might have immortalized though to say the least Mr. Woodward himself fell short of the effect that the tale might have achieved under Hawthorne's handling.

Here then, is Mr. Woodward's version of the Micah Rood legend:

The Tradition of Micah Rood.

In a deep valley in the town of Franklin, Conn., about 80 rods from the New London Northern railway station, stands a time-scarred apple tree, the lineal representative of a variety that from the early settlement of the region by the whites, has been perpetuated by successive sproutings over the original roots, and that for 170 years has kept alive in the vicinity a tradition of crime and retribution.

For nearly a century and three-fourths every apple grown upon that spot has contained a small red globule resembling a drop of blood. Within the memory of the living the fruit ranked as par excellence the local favorite, on account of luscious juiciness and rich, spicy flavor. Latterly its reputation has declined, partly from neglect and natural deterioration; and partly from the introduction of improved varieties.

It is claimed as a result established by numerous experiments that while seedlings grafted from the primitive stock preserve the other qualities of the fruit, in all such the blood spot refuses to materialize. This elusive peculiarity can only be fixed and diffused by transplanting shoots from the root. From its birthplace in Norwich, West Farms, now Franklin, the "Mike" or "Rood" apple for it is known by both names, spread over the adjacent country, and for a long period in eastern Connecticut no orchard was thought complete without it.

Migrated from East of Shetucket.

In 1699 Micah Rood, youngest son of Thomas Rood, migrating from east of the Shetucket river, settled in Norwich West Farms upon the lands where he subsequently lived and died. West of his house not far away the Susquetonscut danced through a wild, dark, rocky ravine, a retreat still unshorn of its weird, primeval beauty. On the east rose a steep hill destined in due time to be crowned by the Puritan church.

Then as now the whippoorwills lived in the deep seclusion of the well wooded, well watered valley, and with their melancholy notes broke the solemn stillness of summer nights. Indians were numerous though peaceful.

On the western slope of the hill toward the setting sun the colonist built his house. He was young and strong. The acres around were fertile. The situation seemed to hold for him the promise of a long, reputable and tranquil life.

In blessed monotony the seasons came and went, bringing moderate gains to the farmers. Suddenly, however, as the tradition goes, a great change clouded the spirits and altered the habits of Micah Rood. He lost interest in work and worship. Cattle were neglected and neighbors shunned. With swift decline, as autumn deepened into winter, he grew idle, restless and intemperate.

Some attributed the change to witchcraft. Others discerned in these wayward actions premonitory signs of madness. In a sparsely settled community, occupied as such are, outside of the routine of daily duties, with matters personal rather than general, the good people discussed the subject with curious but kindly interest.

Supernal Tree's "Blood Drops."

Winter wore away, the melting snows poured their roaring floods through the cham near by, the birds returned, and the orchard of Micah Rood blossomed again. On one tree, however, it was noticed that the flowers had turned from white to red.

In an age inclined to superstition and credent of marvels, the phenomenon attracted the attention of passers, assuming more ominous significance when afterwards recalled. To this tree, too, Micah seemed to be drawn by a cruel but resistless fascination. After the nerveless labors of the morning, which left his corn overrun with weeds, he sought beneath its shade relief from the heats of midday. Evening found him in the same retreat, alone with the katydids and whippoorwills.

Toward the close of August the red blossoms had developed into fruit. When the large, yellow apples fell from the branches, though as fair, juicy and toothsome as of old, each one was found to contain the well defined globule to be known thereafter as the "drop of blood."

If the conduct of Micah, his lapse from industry, thrift and contentment into idleness and solitude, had been discussed around many scattered firesides, the still more unaccountable behavior of the apple tree deepened the mystery. To a large degree the history of the different colonists was known to each other.

What was there, they asked, in the monotonous, commonplace record of this one to provoke the doom, already sounded in the multiform warnings? His father, Thomas, had lived decorously and died in the faith. No ancestral curse visited upon the son vicarious punishment for the sins of the sire.

Yet not only did the current judgment of the time pronounce the poor man accursed, but easily passed on to assert that the blight extended to the acres he tilled. Around the victim consumed by the fires of some hidden sin an occult power was throwing out signals of knowledge if not of wrath.

One circumstance, seemingly unimportant at the time of its occurrence, came into prominence a year later as offering the probable explanation of the secret. It was remembered that the previous fall a peddler of foreign aspect and vending wares too luxurious and costly for the lean purses of an outlying settlement, had called at several houses in West Farms and passed a night at Micah Rood's. No one in the township had seen him afterwards. Then and there all trace of the stranger disappeared. Rising early the next morning, he might have pushed on east or west; but if so his departure was unnoticed.

"Ghostly Interest" Intervenes.

Like countless other incidents, this one would speedily have been swallowed up forever in the sea of oblivion, except that it marked a turning point in the fate of the host. When pursuit fairly started on the trail indicated by the coincidence, the public made up for lost time in the collection of facts. The apparent intervention of a supernatural power, "the blood spot in the apple" lent a ghostly interest to the inquiry not dissonant to the moral tone of the period.

The usual mien of the peddler made it the more easy to trace his steps from door to door. After comparing impressions the settlers quite generally concluded that he was a French emissary, sent to spy out the weakness of the infant colony. Traffic could hardly have been his object, for his wares were too unsuited to the market. A secret agent of an unfriendly power, starting on an extended circuit in the character of a trader, could, they argued, naturally take a stock at once attractive to win admission everywhere and stimulate talk, and also unsalable that the pack might travel a long way without need of replenishment.

Having progressed thus far in the investigation, by a bold leap the public jumped to the conclusion that Micah, overpowered either by avarice or perhaps by a freak of patriotic frenzy, had stabbed the peddler in the orchard, and that the blood absorbed by the roots of the overhanging tree, became reincarnate in flower and fruit. Thus both in seed time and harvest that silent but awful witness denounced the murderer for the deed.

Signs of a Troubled Spirit.

We may imagine that stealthy visits were made to the orchard by persons intent on unearthing more substantial proofs of the crime. Early comers, however, found no seam in the sod to indicate that it had been broken for a grave. Cautiously as befitted the strange solemnity of the situation, but with an acuteness that suffered no fact which might throw light upon the case to escape attention, was the search pursued.

Yet the inquest failed to disclose a trace of the missing man. The foreign finery which made up the stock of the peddler had disappeared as completely as the owner. By not so much as a fragment of the well remembered stuff was the abode of Micah garnished. Zeal unrewarded by discovery was exhausted in time for lack of aliment.

After the inquiry, hushed by keen, had spent its force, the case remained precisely as at first. At the close as at the beginning, the evidence was summed up in the manifestations of a troubled spirit and in a blood, mottled apple. If a load rested on the conscience of the wretched farmer, it forced no confession from his lips.

Ruined by "Spectral Fears."

In time the suspicions of the neighborhood softened into sympathy. In sore need of sympathy did poor Micah stand, for his world affairs drifted from bad to worse as he sank even deeper in the slough of poverty and dejection. Around the orchard the fence fell to decay, the unfilled barn tottered in the winds which swept through the valley, and the habitation grew more and more desolate.

Too listless to cultivate the soil, or possibly terrified by spectral fears while working in the fields alone, he assumed the care of the meeting-house in 1717, receiving as compensation a peck of corn yearly from each family in the society.

For 10 years thereafter a curtain hides the sufferer from the view of posterity, but it is lifted to disclose the end. The records of the ecclesiastical society, still extant, contain these entries.

"July 5, 1727. The inhabitants do now, by their vote, agree to allow to each man that watches with Micah Rood, two shillings per night; also to those who have attended ad Rood by day, three shillings per day."

"Dec. 17, 1728. To Jacob Hyde for digging Micah Rood's grave, 0. 4s, 0d."

By Direct Word of Mouth.

Such are the outlines of the story as told to persons still living by old people whose birth date reached far back into the last century. Apparently they experienced no difficulty in accepting both the alleged facts and the implied philosophy. As then viewed, the seen and the unseen, the natural and supernatural, crossed each other in unaccountable ways. It did not seem unreasonable that nature should thus overtly record her abhorrence of human crime.

"For murder, though it have no tongue, will speak
With most miraculous organ."

On the other hand, traditions involving the improbable fare roughly in the alembic of modern criticism. Reasoning from the universality of invariable law, the iconoclast will say that a freak of nature was perverted to blast the life and blacken the memory of one who was probably little better or worse than the average of his neighbors, that in the confusion of sequences effect was confounded with cause. He will urge that the long endured misery resulted less from the stings of avenging conscience than from the cruelty of unjust suspicions. Be that as it may, while the blood spotted apple continues to grow, it will be linked with the name and fame of Micah Rood.

YOUR HEALTH

Jaundice—Continued

By A. C. Ivy M. D., Professor of Physiology, Northwestern University Medical School, Chicago.

(From Gorgas Memorial Institute)

There is still another type of jaundice in which so many red blood cells are destroyed and so much bile pigment formed that the liver cannot eliminate all of it. Although we are not absolutely certain, this is what probably occurs in the baby and explains that type of jaundice, which is not serious. But there are other kinds of this type of jaundice which are serious. The jaundice of malaria, Weil's disease, and hemolytic streptococcus infection are examples of this type.

It is clear, then, that jaundice may be due to a number of causes and it is a sign that something is wrong with the apparatus that forms and eliminates bile pigment from the blood. It is a sign that must not be considered lightly and steps should be taken immediately to find the cause. Long continued jaundice causes a disturbance of digestion, disturbs clotting of blood, produces changes in the bones, kidney, heart, liver, blood and other tissues, and frequently causes a very intense almost unbearable itching of the skin. Patients with protracted jaundice due to causes that cannot be relieved usually die within a year, but occasionally survive longer.

It is well to point out that there are other causes of yellow tinted skin than jaundice.

Ancient physicians could do little for these cases, and one of the miracles of modern medicine is that a surgeon or physician can take many of the cases of jaundice and within a few days restore them to health and normal appearance. But, it is no simple matter in some cases. For example, some patients have allowed the disease to advance to such an extent that the liver, kidneys, and other organs are damaged and in some the common bile duct referred to above is beyond repair. One might ask here, "What can the doctor do if the common bile duct is beyond repair?" With the assistance of nature, and the cooperation of the patient, he can do something wonderful. He can place a rubber tube in the good portion of the bile duct and drain the bile to the outside, thus relieving the jaundice. While this is going on, the patient's body makes a tubular wall of tissue about the rubber tube. Now, the surgeon can operate a second time dissect out the tubular wall of tissue the patient's body has made, pull out the tube, and sew the tubular wall of the tissue to the intestine. Nature and the doctor have worked together and have made a new common bile duct.

Unfortunately there are certain cases of jaundice which cannot be treated successfully and cured. But, there are a number of laboratories of physiology, experimental medicine and surgery in our country and throughout the world that are energetically and conscientiously working on problems suggested by the conditions found in such unfortunate patients. And, it is not too much to hope that the time will come when we shall be able to relieve the sufferings due to jaundice and its causes.

BURGESS BEDTIME STORY

Jerry Muskrat Hears the News

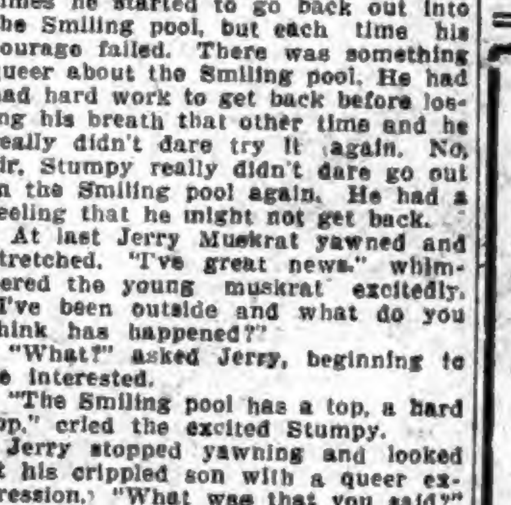
Sift well the news and it is clear
How little quite worth while we hear.
—Jerry Muskrat.

Stumpy, the three-legged young muskrat, had bumped his nose. He had bumped it hard against something hard and it had startled him so that he had very nearly let go all the air he was holding in his lungs while he swam under water. In vain he tried to put his nose out for fresh air. The Smiling pool had a top, a hard top or roof, or else he was having a bad dream. He turned back to the bottom, swam down to the underwater entrance to the underwater hall that led up to the comfortable room above water in Jerry Muskrat's house, and there drew a long breath of fresh air. How good it was. My, my, what a relief it was not to have to hold his breath, any longer.

His father, Jerry Muskrat, was asleep. So was his mother. His sister was awake and to her Stumpy excitedly told of his queer experience. "So the Smiling pool has not a top, a hard top on it," he concluded.

His sister yawned. "Go to sleep," said she. "You've been dreaming. Go to sleep and when you awake again you'll find the Smiling pool is just as it always has been." She yawned twice and then calmly went to sleep.

Stumpy couldn't. No, sir, he couldn't go to sleep. He wanted to. He tried to. It was of no use. He was too excited to go to sleep. He kept thinking about that hard top on the Smiling pool and wondering where it had come from and who had put it there and what it was for. He did wish his father would awaken. Two or three times he started to go back out into the Smiling pool, but each time his courage failed. There was something queer about the Smiling pool. He had had hard work to get back before losing his breath that other time and he really didn't dare try it again. No, sir, Stumpy really didn't dare go out in the Smiling pool again. He had a feeling that he might not get back.



Jerry grinned. "If that is the case you really ought to know"

At last Jerry Muskrat yawned and stretched. "I've great news," whimpered the young muskrat excitedly. "I've been outside and what do you think has happened?"

"What?" asked Jerry, beginning to be interested.

"The Smiling pool has a top, a hard top," cried the excited Stumpy.

Jerry stopped yawning and looked at his crippled son with a queer expression. "What was that you said?" he asked.

"I said that the Smiling pool has a top a hard top, a sort of roof," replied Stumpy.

"Have you been dreaming?" asked Jerry, and added: "You must have been. The idea of the Smiling pool having a hard roof or any kind of a roof for that matter! You've been eating too many carrots."

"I haven't been dreaming and I haven't eaten too many carrots," retorted Stumpy indignantly. "The Smiling pool has a high roof even if you don't believe it. I bumped my nose against it, so I ought to know."

Jerry grinned. "If that is the case you really ought to know. When did all this happen?" said he.

"Just a little while ago," replied Stumpy. "I started out for an early swim and a bit of breakfast, but bumped my nose against that hard top to the Smiling pool and had all I could do to get back here to draw another breath. I don't see what we are to do. If that hard top stays on the Smiling pool how are we ever going to get out again? How are we going to get enough to eat? Where did it come from and who put it there?"

Jerry Muskrat began to chuckle. He understood now just what had happened. It was news he had been expecting for some time. "I'll answer your last question first: Jack Frost put it there," said he.

A Washington Bystander

By KIRKE L. SIMPSON
Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, Dec. 9—Persons whose business carries them often to the capitol grounds have become familiar recently with the sight of a man, dressed more with an eye to comfort than to style, trudging about the place on personally conducted exploring expeditions.

Always he is puffing away at a pipe.

One day he may be seen prowling about the site of the new supreme court building.

Next day it may be the tumbled earth and busy steam shovels over where the new extension of the capitol grounds to the union station plaza is going on that has drawn his attention.

It is thus that Owen Roberts, junior justice of the supreme court, puts in his spare time. There is very little of aloof dignity about him.

He bids fair to become the great democrat of the court, not politically speaking of course, as Justice Holmes so long has been held its great liberal.

They're Dignified

Most of the justices, from Chief Justice Hughes down, are dignified in manner. Justice Holmes is no exception.

It would take rather bold man to speak to them in casual, pass-the-time-of-day fashion on the street. One might not know who they were meeting them that way but there would be no doubt that each was some one of importance. Look and manner reflect that.

Justice Roberts, however, probably has many a street conversation with all types of folks. He's that sort. The story of his casual habit of dropping into the public portion of the senate cafe for lunch, just like anyone else may do, is rather typical. He scorns suggestions that he move into the exclusive section reserved for senators.

Likes His Pipe

Withal, rumors drift from the sacred supreme court conference room since Justice Roberts joined up that have a hint of discord in them. It is not about legal differences or philosophical clashes.

Liberal and conservative cross currents in public affairs play no part. It merely has to do with that pipe, the only one ever participating in the deliberations of the learned justices so far as the memory of man runs.

For the pipe of Justice Roberts, it is reported, is his indoor as well as his outdoor constant companion. He'd be a lot happier on the bench itself, presumably, if custom permitted smoking there.

DO YOU KNOW CONNECTICUT?

Q. What additional territories were once owned by Conn.?

A. Long Island, the western half of Rhode Island, and a strip of land running westward as far as the Pacific Ocean. This territory, provided for in a charter obtained in 1662 from King Charles II, was called the English Colony of Connecticut in New England in America.

Q. How many persons visit Hammonasset Beach during a year?

A. About 500,000, which is more than three times the annual attendance at Yellowstone park.

Q. How much land in Connecticut is devoted to state forests?

A. From a modest beginning of 70 acres in 1903, our state forests have grown to some 36,000 acres.

Q. What city is called "The Silver City?"

Q. When was Hartford made the capital?

Q. How many cows does Connecticut import yearly?

(Answers to these questions will be published in Friday's paper.)

STAR TOUCHES FOOTBALL FIRST TIME IN COLLEGE

BELOIT, Wis. (AP)—Although he never touched a football before he entered college Dudley Porter made the Beloit college football team in his first year.

He now is a star halfback and a junior.

Young Porter, son of Lucius Porter, now of the American university of Peking, China, was born in the Chinese capital, and spent all his boyhood there.

The Feast of Lights

On Sunday evening, December 14, 1930, the Jewish people all over the world will light one candle in their synagogues and homes, and by lighting that one candle they will usher in the celebration of their feast of lights, called in Hebrew "Hanukkah." This festival is observed for a period of eight days in commemoration of the purification of the Temple from the pollution of the Syrian forces and its re-dedication to the service of the One God. It is celebrated by kindling a series of lights each evening—one the first evening, two the second, thus increasing the number daily by one candle.

OBITUARY

Eugene F. Sears

Eugene F. Sears died Tuesday evening about 6 o'clock at the home of his nephew, William Babbitt, in Hanover, following a long illness. He was born in Boston, Sept. 5, 1865, the son of Obin and Emaline Coggsall Sears, and had lived at Hope Valley, R. I., for many years before coming to Hanover. He had been in the employ of the New York, New Haven and Hartford Railroad company, but had retired five years ago.

He is survived by his wife who has lost by death two brothers and her husband in the last two months. There are also nephews and nieces surviving.

Frank A. Perry

The death of Frank A. Perry, 71, of 202 Mt. Pleasant street, occurred Tuesday evening at 6 o'clock after an illness of a week with pneumonia.

Mr. Perry's home had always been in this city where he was born 71 years ago and for 35 years he had been employed by the Edward Chappell company, having charge of their lumber yard and more recently in office work in connection with the lumber side of the business.

Mr. Perry was unmarried and made his home with his brother, Charles L. Perry, at 202 Mt. Pleasant street. He also leaves two sisters, Mrs. Jennie Murray of this city and Mrs. Dwight Tefft of New London.

In his long life in Norwich Mr. Perry had been a zealous and faithful employe and had made many friends through his social and business associations who will feel deep regret at the news of his death.

SCHOOL BOARD LETS CONTRACTS FOR PLUMBING IN TWO SCHOOLS

Contracts for the installation of modern plumbing at the Broadway and Falls school houses were awarded at the monthly meeting of the town school board at the court house Tuesday evening. The bids for the general and plumbing contracts were opened in the presence of the school board at the meeting as follows:

General Contract

Contractor	Broadway School	Falls School
Peck & McWilliams		$3,984
W. S. Spencer	$418	$2,888
Archibald Torrance	*325	*2,245
P. F. Sweeney	369	2,885

Plumbing Contract

John Morton	$1,200	$1,794.75
Williams Bros.	1,184	1,941
J. A. Fitzgerald	*890.68	1,950
Elmer E. Johnson ..	1,270	1,930
Thomas F. Burns ..	1,253	2,245
Harold C. Dahl	1,051	*1,664

* Awarded contract.

The work, it was anonunced, will be done during the Christmas recess of the schools. The Falls school contract includes the changing of the entrances and stairways. In each of the school buildings modern toilets, including tile floors and walls, will be installed.

What was described as an unsanitary condition in the toilets at the Broadway school was the subject of criticism at a meeting of the Norwich League of Women Voters last week. The Greeneville school building also came in for criticism on the same ground.

The board received and accepted the resignation of Miss Celia M. Brock, 7th grade teacher at the Greeneville school. The resignation will become effective at the close of the present term.

There was a discussion on ways and means of putting into effect protective measures at the various schools for the benefit of the children as they are entering or leaving the school buildings. Pleasure automobiles and trucks are often driven by the school buildings when the children are leaving or entering with little or no regard for their safety. It is hoped by the school board that some measures can be put into effect, whereby the children will receive the protection they are entitled to.

CRESCENT FIRE ARMS UNDER NEW OWNERSHIP

The Savage Arms corporation of New York has acquired the assets of the Crescent Fire Arms company, whose factory is in the Industrial building on Falls avenue. In connection with this announcement which was made on Tuesday, it was indicated that the business here will be continued in a consolidation with Davis-Warner Arms company plant on North Main street which was acquired last May by the J. Stevens Arms company, a Savage subsidiary.

The Crescent Fire Arms company, manufacturer of shot guns, has been one of the leading manufacturing concerns of the city ever since it was organized in 1892, with H. H. Gallup as its first president and George W. Cilley as manager. Mr. Cilley was succeeded by James E. Henderson, at present general manager. The concern employes about 150 hands and has a wekly payroll of about $3,000 on a 75 per cent working schedule.

An official of the company made the following statement Tuesday:

"By agreement with the H. and H. Folsom Arms company of New York city and the Savage Arms company, the latter concern will take over the assets of the Crescent Fire Arms company on Jan. 1, 1931. It is understood that it is the intention of the purchasers to consolidate the two local plants now in their control and continue the combination as a unit of their organization."

The Folsom Arms company, it was learned, has held the controlling interest in the Crescent Fire Arms company for about 10 years through ownership of virtually all the common stock. There is little preferred stock out.

The transfer of ownership in the Crescent works to the Savage company was announced as follows by a financial daily published in New York:

"The Savage Arms corporation has acquired the assets of Crescent Firearms company of Norwich, Conn., manufacturer of shotguns in the medium price field, and is to assume possession next January 1. No financing will be necessary in connection with the purchase. Savage's last previous acquisition was the A. H. Fox company of Philadelphia, which was taken over the first of the current year.

"The hunting season was not as satisfactory from Savage's point of view as had been expected, but it is likely that 1930 dividend requirements of $2 on the common stock will be approximately covered. For the nine months ended Sept. 30, the company earned $235,944, or $1.35 a share on 167,815 common shares, against $605,820, or $3.40 a share, on 174,948 common shares in the corresponding 1929 period. Savage showed a loss of $52,662 for the first half of 1930. The third and fourth quarters normally are the company's best, but results for the current period can not be determined accurately until after the inventory is taken.

"Toward the end of last year Savage purchased about 9,000 shares of its own common stock in the open market, accounting for the reduction in the amount outstanding.

"The company's electrical department has not been active lately. No effort is being made to push the sales of electric washing machines and refrigerators, Savage evidently feeling that market conditions are not suitable now for such a campaign."

SUPPORT FOR JONES BILL SOUGHT BY MISS LUDDINGTON

Miss Katherine Luddington of Old Lyme, head of the National League of Women Voters of Connecticut, and Mrs. Mary Bulkley of Hartford were on Capitol hill, at Washington, urging the Connecticut delegation to support the Jones bill, proposition to extend federal maternity and child welfare aid for a period of two years. The Connecticut women visited the capitol as part of an organized support movement by the National League of Women Voters.

The two women did not approach Senator Hiram Bingham on the question. Senator Bingham is known to be a very sincere enemy of the Jones bill and his indorsement was not solicited.

STATE HOSPITAL HEAD SPOKE BEFORE MINISTERS

Dr. E. S. Burdsall, superintendent at Norwich state hospital, was the speaker here Monday before the Thames Valley Baptist Ministers' association which held its meeting at 11 o'clock in the morning at the First Baptist church. Dr. Burdsall was introduced by the president, Rev. Herbert Hutchins of Quaker Hill. Dr. Burdsall spoke upon the work at the hospital and his address was followed by discussion conducted by Rev. E. E. Scates, of Jewett City, and Rev. L. J. Shepler, of Mystic.

Dinner was served by the women of the church.

Eighth Birthday Party.

A pretty birthday party was given Tuesday afternoon for the eighth birthday of Florence Paquette, daughter of Mr. and Mrs Francis Paquette of 125 Thames street. Sixteen of her little schoolmates had a merry time in the afternoon of games, after which refreshments were served by Mrs. Paquette for the children. Florence received a number of pretty gifts.

Will Read Christmas Carol.

When the weekly church night of the First Baptist church is held Thursday evening with a supper at 6.30, the pastor, Rev. P. A. Kilmister, is to give a dramatic reading of Dickens' Christmas Carol.

"AUNT LUCIA" PLAY SCORES ANOTHER HIT

The Masonic temple again had a capacity house on Tuesday evening for the second presentation of "Aunt Lucia," under the auspices of the American Legion post and auxiliary with the entire proceeds to go to charity work through the family welfare department of the United Workers.

The proceeds promise to be a good sum for this work.

As on the first night the cast of Norwich amateurs covered themselves with glory on the stage. Edward Rich as "Aunt Lucia" gave inspiring leadership to the cast and others of the principals who made their parts outstanding were Herbert Corey as the eccentric bachelor, Harold E. Robbins as Dick's Dad, Miss Bernice Willey as the dean of women, Miss Elizabeth Thumm and Miss Dorothy Messler, Frank Crowell and Dr. Andrew Sullivan as the freshmen.

One of the big scenes was the children's pageant, Take Me Back To Babyland, with Miss Dorothy Pasnik doing exceptionally fine work as the dramatic reader.

UNIVERSALIST LADIES' SUPPER AND SALE

A butterfly sale and turkey supper by the Ladies' Aid at the Church of the Good Shepherd, Universalist, had large patronage Tuesday evening with resulting good financial returns for the treasury of the society.

The supper was finely served under the direction of the following committee: Mrs. William E. Mitchell, chairman; Miss Nellie Bacon, Mrs. Mary Wentworth, Mrs. Annie McKenzie, Mrs. Iola Bjurstrom, Mrs. Ella Ellson, Mrs. Selina Armstrong, Mrs. Winifred Maguire, Mrs. Emma Barnes. The dining room committee was Mrs. Charlotte Pike, Mrs. William E. Mitchell, Mrs. Paul Givadon, Mrs. Charles Williams, Mrs. Clarence E. Barber, Miss Dorothy Parsons, Miss Alice Parsons, Miss Betty Pike, Miss Eleanor Pike, Miss Ruth Banning, Miss Marion Maynard, Miss Lorna Maynard, Miss Janice Jackson, Miss Mildred Banning, Mrs. Charles W. Parsons, Mrs. Elizabeth Hill.

Other departments were in charge of the following: Cake table, Mrs. William C. Young, chairman, Mrs. Nellie Bailey, Mrs. William R. Stevens; domestic, Mrs. Walter A. Bussey, Mrs. John H. Bell, Mrs. Thomas W. Wilson; candy table, Mrs. Helen Williams and her class of girls; grab table, Miss Betty Pike and class of girls; fancy work, Mrs. George A. Boon, chairman, Mrs. Charles H. Culver, Miss Agnes Woodruff; decorating, Miss Hattie Fowler, Miss Ruth Banning; tickets at the door, Charles W. Parsons.

The teams will meet next week at the Italian club rooms.

ARRESTED IN TAFTVILLE ON WET DRIVING CHARGE

Following an accident at Taftville, Jerry Bonney, 47, of Jewett City, was arrested about 6 o'clock Tuesday evening, by Constable Louis A. Paquette on a charge of driving while under the influence of liquor. Bonney, who is a painter, residing on Mechanic street, Jewett City, was engaged in painting a place at Taftville during the day. By the time he quit work, he was, it is understood, considerably liquored up. The result was a collision between the machine he was driving and another automobile. Both machines were somewhat damaged.

At police headquarters, a local physician who examined Bonney pronounced him under the influence and he was held in bonds of $300 which were later in the evening furnished by Lisbon friends. Bonney will appear before the city court this (Wednesday) morning.

NOLLE ON CHARGE OF MOTOR LAW VIOLATION

Joseph Pompei of Willimantic was presented in the city court Tuesday morning on a charge of failing to file proof of financial responsibility with the motor vehicle department but the charge was nolled after State Police Officer Dygert informed the court that the youth had provided the department with such proof as required.

Hans Seckinger of Montville was fined $5 and costs on a charge of improper use of number plates on an automobile. When arrested he was driving a Pontiac with numbers that had been issued for a Star. He claimed he was in the city looking for work, at the time he was arrested.

Food Specialist Was Speaker

Mrs. M. A. Dakin, food specialist of the farm bureau, met last week with the Poquetnuck group at the parish house for an all-day meeting. She gave demonstrations on the caloric value of different foods; also gave an interesting talk on food vs. weight. There were 18 present.

TORRINGTON HENS ARE SETTING FAST PACE

For five successive weeks Donald I. Goodenough's pen of Rhode Island Reds from Torrington, Conn., has set the pace for all breeds and varieties in the Storrs egg-laying contest. This ten-hen team has not in every instance laid more eggs by count, but by virtue of generous size their eggs, when weighed and averaged, scored more points. In the fifth week this pen of Reds led all the others with a lay of 64 eggs and 64 points. This means that they fully measured up to all requirements in respect to size; that these eggs weighing as they did, 24 ounces to the dozen, are right up to the standard for Connecticut New Laid Fancy.

Total production for the pens eased a bit, exactly as it has done in other years in the fourth and fifth weeks. All the pens taken together laid 4,268 eggs or a yield of 60.9 per cent. This is 123 less than for last week, but 173 eggs more than for the fifth week last year.

Alfred J. O'Donovan's pen of White Leghorns from Katonah, N. Y., ranked second for the week with a score of 59 points. Tom Barron's pen of the same breed from Catforth, England, was a close third with 58 points, and St. John's Poultry farm of Oronogo, Mo., was an equally close fourth when the Leghorns chalked up 57 points.

Under the point system gradations are so much finer that pens now much more rarely tie than when numbers of eggs alone were the determining factor. Still it sometimes happens, as when Leghorns owned by Mount Hope farm of Williamstown, Mass., and Reds entered by Globus Poultry farm at Attleboro, Mass., tied with 56 points each, albeit the Leghorns actually laid more eggs.

The leading pens to date in each of the principal varieties are as follows:

White Wyandottes—Ebenwood farm, West Bridgewater, Mass., 196; Jack Wrennall, Preston, England, 129.

White Rocks—E. A. Hirt, South Weymouth, Mass., 263; Kalerok farm, Westford, Mass., 236; Davidson Bros., Upton, Mass., 205.

Barred Rocks—James Dryden, Modesto, Cal., 280; R. Walter Bishop, Guilford, Conn., 263; Lewis farms, Davisville, R. I., 250.

Rhode Island Reds—Donald I. Goodenough, Torrington, Conn., 312; Globus Poultry farm, Attleboro, Mass., 289; Scott Poultry farm, Groton, Mass., 274; Homestead farms, Newtown, Conn., 278.

White Leghorns—Alfred J. O'Donovan, Katonah, N. Y., 292; Mt. Hope farm, Williamstown, Mass., 294; St. John's Poultry farm, Oronogo, Mo., 226; J. A. Hanson, Corvallis, Ore., 269; Leighton Orchards, Kingston, R. I., 270.

MRS. JEROME MAYER MEMBER OF NEW COMMITTEE

Mrs. Jerome Mayer, of Hartford, (Sadie Plaut, of Norwich) has been honored by being made a member of one of the three committees appointed at Hartford in connection with that city's newest and one of its most practical charities. The family of the late Moses Stern, former vice-president and treasurer of G. Fox & Company, has announced the establishment of the Moses Stern Memorial fund under the terms of which worthy young women of Greater Hartford who are dependent on their own efforts for support may receive medical and convalescent care. The fund will start with an amount in excess of $30,000 which will be increased from time to time.

A Hartford bank and trust company, named trustee, will pay the income semi-annually, in equal shares, to the Young Women's Christian association, the Diocesan Bureau of Social Service and the Young Women's Hebrew association, the three organizations for whom special committees will function independently in the administering of the fund.

PALMERTOWN SCHOOL WATER SUPPLY IS CONTAMINATED

The drinking water supply at Palmer Memorial school, Palmertown, has become contaminated and Dr. M. E. Fox, Montville health officer, has forbidden its use by the teachers and pupils of the school.

As a result the cooking classes usually held at the school were suspended Tuesday and can be resumed only when some arrangement is made with neighbors for use of their water supply in place of that belonging to the school.

The school's water was piped from a spring on the hillside above the schoolhouse, but there existed several farms on the heights above the spring and the water fell under suspicions in consequence, it being thought surface drainage might seep into the spring and contaminate it. Samples of the water were taken and sent away for examination, and the suspicions of its contamination were confirmed.

VISITED GURDON MILLER IN NEW LONDON HOSPITAL

Mrs. Frelove A. Miller of 20 Penobscot street was in New Haven Monday where she visited her son, Gurdon, who has been in the hospital since September, 1929, when he suffered extensive electric burns in the Cedar Hills yards of the New Haven railroad.

Mr. Miller was anticipating having the bandages removed Tuesday from his eyes where a week ago there had been a skin-grafting operation. His general health is so good that hospital authorities allowed him the pleasure of coming here to have Thanksgiving dinner withh is mother.

Philathea Meeting With Supper

The Philathea class of the First Baptist church met Monday evening in the social rooms of the church. A supper was served at 6:30, Mrs. George E. Dolbeare, Mrs. Edward Briggs and Mrs. Louis H. Maples being hostesses. The business meeting was called to order at 8 o'clock with several matters of business being discussed. A social hour followed the business session with guessing contests and the singing of Christmas carols. There were 22 members of the class in attendance.

A giant of the pumpkin world was exhibited at Loveland, Colo. It weighed 125 pounds, measured thirty-three inches across one way and twenty-two inches the other. Experts said it would make a lot of pies but Frank Carlson, grower, said he would feed it to his cows.

EDDIE CASEY NAMED HEAD COACH OF HARVARD FOOTBALL FOR NEXT YEAR

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Dec. 9.—(AP)—Edward L. Casey, Harvard's All-American halfback in 1919 and backfield coach for the past two seasons, today was promoted to the head coach's berth for the Crimson's 1931 football season.

He succeeds Arnold Horween, who has been directing Harvard's varsity football destinies for the past five years, during which his teams won 21 of their 40 games, including the last three clashes with Yale.

Casey's promotion has yet to be officially announced by the Harvard Athletic association. William J. Bingham, director of athletics, who is bound by a promise to withhold such announcement, said: "I have nothing to say about Harvard's coaching plans. The head coach for next season and all of his assistants, will be named at the Harvard football smoker at the Harvard club of Boston on Friday night."

Arthur Sampson, now backfield coach at Columbia, will rejoin Casey here next fall as supervisor of the Crimson's ball carriers. They worked together when Casey was head coach at Tufts, the position he held until he returned to Harvard five years ago as freshman coach.

Edward H. Bradford, who has been end coach for several seasons, will again act in that capacity and Walter A. Cleary, assistant under the retiring "Duke" Dunn, former Michigan line star, will return as line coach. He will be assisted by Benjamin H. Ticknor, 1930 varsity captain and All-American center. Victor P. Kennard has been reappointed kicking coach and Edward L. Farrell, the Harvard track coach, has again been named as football trainer.

Casey, during his playing career, was under "Tad" Jones at Exeter and Percy Haughton at Harvard. He played on the freshman team in 1915, the varsity eleven in 1916 and entered the navy the following year. The late Walter Camp, who picked Casey for his second All-American team in 1916, gave him a place on his first all-service team. On his discharge from the service, Casey returned to Harvard and played on the 1919 varsity eleven that was undefeated, though tied by Princeton. Casey and Horween were teammates in this eleven, that ended its season by playing the University of Oregon in the Rose bowl tournament.

After graduating, Casey started his coaching career at Mount Union college at Alliance, Ohio. He served there for two seasons and then moved back east to Tufts, where he served as head coach for three seasons. Since 1928, when Casey joined the varsity staff, the Crimson eleven has not lost to Yale.

"Naturally," Casey said, "I am most pleased at the honor of being named head coach of Harvard football. I intend to continue many of the policies to which Arnold Horween was committed. I have not yet decided definitely on the type of offense the Harvard team will use next season."

It is known here that Casey was selected with the hearty recommendation of the retiring Horween, who was forced to quit by his Chicago business interests. Casey has been promised Horween's closest co-operation.

MAJORS NAME COMMITTEES ON THE DRAFT CONFERENCE

NEW YORK, Dec. 9—(AP)—After appointing committees to confer with the minor league "committee of nine" on the disputed draft question tomorrow and transacting routine business, the American and National leagues adjourned their meetings today.

The American league selected President Ernest S. Barnard as chairman of its commitee, with Frank J. Navin of Detroit, Col. Jacob Ruppert of New York and L. C. McEvoy of St. Louis as his associates. The National league named Barney Dreyfuss of Pittsburgh, William Veeck of Chicago and Judge Emil Fuchs of Boston to confer with the minors.

Barnard was reelected president of the American league for the same period and William Harridge was named to continue as secretary for the same period. Navin was named as vice president for a one year term. The National league did not elect officers.

Appointments were made to the boards of directors of both circuits. The American league appointed Phil Ball, owner of the St. Louis Browns; Connie Mack of Philadelphia, Navin of Detroit, and Clark Griffith, Washington owner. The National league appointees were Sam Breadon, St. Louis Cardinals; Sidney Weil, Cincinnati, Frank York, Brooklyn, and L. C. Ruch, acting president of the Philadelphia club.

The National league's meeting took in more ground although more time was devoted to discussion than to actual action. Playing rules were discussed but no change was made and the subject of the lively ball came up late in the meeting in a conference with Julian W. Curtis, president of the company which manufactures the balls used. In a discussion of the annual financial report, President John Heydler said that despite the nation-wide business depression, the National league's 55th season was its best, although increased expenses kept many teams from making much money. The attendance for the circuits was approximately 5,500,000, an increase of 500,000 over 1929.

MONTVILLE ACES WILL OPEN SEASON TONIGHT

Manager Plouffe's Montville Aces basketball team will open the season this (Wednesday) evening in Montville Community house, Uncasville, with the fast Marine Five from the submarine base. The local boys have been practicing hard in preparation of winning their first start this season. Captain Murphy will probably start the same with the following lineup: Zip Gero, center; Deacon McDermott and Pete Moroskey, forwards; Bob Welchell and Kobos, guards; Ernie Moss, Walt Nortosky and Doctor Akraut will be kept in reserve.

The manager has also arranged the following games: Dec. 18, Noank Whirlwinds at Noank; Dec. 23, Jewett City at Montville; Jan. 2, Noank Whirlwinds at Montville; Jan. 3, Colchester Shamrocks at Colchester; Jan. 7, Colchester Shamrocks at Montville. Negotiations are also being made for games with the Norwich Y. M. C. A. loop; Polish Citizens, Shymas, Sr.; Plainfield Buddies, Battery E and Westerly Collegians and the New London Y. M. C. A. loop.

College Basketball

At New Haven: U. S. Submarine base, 32; Yale, 56.

Curtis high school (Staten Island), 16; Yale freshmen, 41.

SPRINGFIELD—The Springfield Indians continued their sensational plays in the Canadian-American Hockey league, when they annexed their eighth straight victory at the expense of the Boston Tigers, here tonight, the score being 5 to 1.

ARMY WILL BE HAMPERED BY INJURIES WITH NAVY

WEST POINT, N. Y., Dec. 9.—(AP)—With the entire corps of cadets and an improvised band on the sidelines, the Army football squad went through one of the hardest scrimmages of the season today in preparation for Saturday's charity game against the Navy. Practice will be open to the cadets and residents of the post all this week.

During the defensive part of the scrimmage, the plebe team put on Navy plays with considerable success. Johnson, plebe halfback, who is short and stocky, repeatedly found holes in the line and bored through for substantial gains.

On the attack, Coach Sasse again experimented with the number one back position, which was first filled by Letzelter and then by Sebastian. With both these players unavailable for the Navy game, Sasse used Frentzel and Glattly in the position. A new formation made its appearance in the drill. Coaches said it had been designed for use against Notre Dame but weather conditions prevented its use. They hope it will be effective Saturday.

Today was spent in polishing up the team's weak spots and it is expected that the last hard practice tomorrow will be given over to obtaining co-ordination.

Ed Messinger, right end, joined the injured list today with a shoulder injury received in Monday's practice. Trainer Wayne Hauck expects to have him in condition by Saturday.

At the close of today's drill, Coach Sasse said, "The Army will need its full strength Saturday but will not have it. We will go into the game more seriously handicapped by injuries than any other game this season."

LEGAL BATTLE AVERTED IN KELLY-GAINER BOUT

NEW HAVEN, Dec. 9—(AP)—A legal battle which threatened to disrupt plans for a return match in Waterbury between Jack Kelly and Al Gainer, heavyweights, was averted today with the withdrawal by the Arena company, of this city of its petition for an injunction seeking to restrain Kelly from appearing against the New Haven Negro in the fight.

Announcement of the withdrawal of the petition, was made following a conference between Judge Carl Foster of the superior court, representatives of the Arena company, and promoters of the fight, which will be held Thursday night for a charity fund.

The Arena company in seeking the injunction, charged that Kelly had agreed to meet Gainer in New Haven. Ben Embinder, however, also signed Kelly to fight in Waterbury. Appealed to by the disputants, State Athletic Commissioner Donohue ruled that the contract signed by Embinder was binding and that the fight should go to Waterbury.

Today's conference which brought about an amicable settlement of the dispute preceded a hearing which was to have been held on the Arena company's petition for an injunction. Officials of the Arena company said they had been influenced to drop the action because the Waterbury fight was to be in the interest of charity.

Gainer won a decision over Kelly last summer in a slam bang fight at Savin Rock.

VETERANS NAME CARIDEO AS OUTSTANDING PLAYER

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 9—(AP)—The board of directors of the veteran athletes of Philadelphia has singled out Frank Carideo, Notre Dame's quarterback, as the outstanding football player of the year.

The veteran athletes organization holds an annual dinner at which it awards trophies to individuals, teams or clubs for winning championships or for some outstanding performance in their respective fields of sport. The dinner will be held January 31.

Len Macaluso, Colgate fullback, eastern intercollegiate high scorer, will also be honored as well as the Notre Dame and Colgate teams. The Ramblers have been selected as the national champion football team and Colgate as the outstanding team of the east.

Others to be honored are Charles Gelbert, Jr., shortstop of the St. Louis Cardinals, the Philadelphia Athletics as the baseball champions of the world, the Cardinals as the champions of the National league, Cornell as the intercollegiate rowing champions, and Penn Athletic club crew as the international rowing champions.

LOCAL BOWLERS RANK HIGH IN STATE BOWLING LEAGUE

The averages recently published for the State Foresters' Bowling league show that Norwich pin smashers are among the leaders in the eastern district. F. Kellar of Court City of Norwich team leads the eastern district with an average of 117.3 and is second in the state standing. E. Smedick of the northern division who has an average of 126.6 but has bowled only three strings.

Michael Aldi another Norwich player is well up among the leaders with an average of 112.2 for 12 strings. Mr. Aldi also has high single with 155 and high three strings with 390. Court City of Norwich has high team single with 1687. F. Fontaine also a member of the Norwich team is in sixth place with an average of 108.5.

The Norwich team is in a tie for second place with 10 games won and two lost, with the Garibaldi No. 1 team of Hartford. Court Pequonnock of Bridgeport leads the league with 18 games won and none lost.

CITS CLASH WITH WESTERLY COLLEGIANS ON FRIDAY

The Polish Citizens will play their basketball on Friday evening this week, the scene is Pulaski hall and the opposition the Westerly Collegians. Encouraged by their opening victory over the New London Ockfords last week, the Cits believe they have the makings of a strong club and hope to make it No. 2 with the Collegians as the victim.

The same lineup that clicked so well against the Ockfords, namely Lefty Dugas and Jerry Peltier at forwards, Pete Finn at center and Capt. Lemieux and Les Pingree, will in all probability again be used.

Pocket Billiards

The Jewett City All-Stars defeated the Recreation Jrs. at the Recreation parlors last night, taking the third and final game of the series. Willey of the Rec Jrs., was the downfall of the Jrs., C. Liberty beating Willey 100 to 36, and won the match for the Jewett City All-Stars. The score:

Rec Jrs.—Anton, 84; Hiscox, 100; Teddy, 83; Willey, 36; Buchka, 100; total 403.

Jewett City—R. Liberty, 100; Gaska, 60; Burns, 100; C. Liberty, 100; G. Jarvis, 74; total 434.

LEMIEUX STARS AS SHYMAS BEAT STAFFORD

Stafford Springs courdt players came to Parish hall, Taftville, Tuesday evening, to receive a beating at the hands of the Shymas, who scored 39 points against their 32. Unleashing an attack that netted him six field goals for a total point score of 12 Lemieux was the star of the evening, making his baskets from all parts of the court. Houle, for the losers, also played a nice game, getting one more point than Lemieux.

Getting off to an early start Taftville piled up a good lead at the end of the first half, 26 to 17, and then slowed up a bit, to finish seven points ahead. Every man on the Taftville team, excepting Adams, contributed at least two points. In the preliminary the Y Emps nosed out the Shymas Jrs., 31 to 29. The summary:

The medal scores were: Gilman 51, Wrubel 53, Powers 56, Bernard 59, Donovan 67, Buster 68, Tibbals 75, Sullivan 77. The match is for three out of five.

The Ideals clash with the Smoke Shop this evening in the first match of a five match series.

PLAINFIELD PROS PLAY FAST DETROIT CLOWNS THURSDAY

The basketball attraction at the Plainfield Community house on Thursday evening is one of the best than can be procured in New England. The clever Detroit Clowns, a comedy basketball team that is touring the country, being the opponents of Plainfield. When we say comedy basketball it does not mean that the game itself is a comedy for the Clowns play a brilliant game and are as fast a five as any in the country. The clown part of the performance is before the game and during the intermission and is well worth seeing. Buster Kenney being to basketball what Nick Altrock is to baseball. The Clowns play in unique clown costumes but this apparently does not hamper their ability to pass and shoot baskets.

The Clowns are talented entertainers and there will be plenty of amusement for everyone at the game Thursday evening.

Attention Sons Of Rest

The Ice House Gang would like to play the Sons of Rest another game Sunday, Dec. 14, at the Mohegan park. The Ice House wishes to state that as a whole they think that they could give the Sons a run for their money. The Ice House boys also wish to state that there was no dirty work involved in the play in which Sam Stockwell, the Sons' star, was injured. It has been said that the Ice House used dirty tactics but they'll leave that to the public to decide. If this challenge is accepted please answer through this paper.

Velvetmen Win.

Before a fair sized crowd at the J. B. Martin grounds on Sunday the Velvetmen won from the Wauregan team 4 to 1 in an Eastern Conn. league soccer game. Benoit scored the only goal for Wauregan while Erickson scored twice, and Archibald and Rochead once each for the J. B. Martin club. Next Sunday Taftville plays at Wauregan.

MAJOR LEAGUES DEVOTE MUCH ATTENTION TO DRAFT PROBLEM

NEW YORK, Dec. 9—(AP)—The American and National leagues opened their annual conclave today by drawing up the battle lines and naming committees for the arguments with the minors tomorrow over the dangerous and complicated problem of the draft.

After re-electing Ernest S. Barnard president and treasurer of the American league for a five year term, naming the new board of directors, and solving minor problems without disposing of the questions of the lively ball and the increasing home run output, the American league named Barnard, Frank Navin, head of the Detroit Tigers, Jacob Ruppert, owner of the New York Yankees, and L. C. McAvoy, vice president of the St. Louis Browns, as its draft committee.

The National league, after a similarly routine session, chose Barney Dreyfuss, owner of the Pittsburgh Pirates, William Veeck, president of the Chicago Cubs, and Emil Fuchs, owner of the Boston Braves, as the league representatives in tomorrow's discussion with the committee of nine from the American association, International and Pacific Coast leagues.

The four American league directors chosen today were Clark Griffiths, of the Washington Senators, Phil Ball, of the St. Louis Browns, Frank Navin, of Detroit, and Connie Mack, of Philadelphia. The National league chose Sam Breadon, of the St. Louis Cardinals, Sidney Weil, owner of the Cincinnati Reds, Frank B. York, of the Brooklyn Robins, and L. C. Ruch, acting president of the Philadelphia Nationals, to its new board. William Harridge was re-elected secretary of the American league for five years and Navin vice-president for one year.

No indication of the stand the major league would take tomorrow in the draft conference came from the meetings and there was no intimation that the break between the big leagues and the minors could be healed. All player dealings between the majors and the five-non-draft minors ceased Dec. 1.

The National league magnates, meeting in regular session while the American league owners gathered in a preliminary session to the regular meeting late tomorrow, failed to reach any conclusions on the highly controversial problems of the promiscuous home run and the lively ball, subjects slated for bitter argument.

John A. Heydler, president of the National league, announced after the session, that zoning of the parks to restrict home runs, an idea favored by several owners, was not even discussed. There was talk of the lively ball, he said, but no decisions were made. The meeting adjourned after hearing Julian W. Curtis, president of the company manufacturing the present National league ball, explain its manufacture. The subject will be brought up again at another meeting of the league following the draft discussion tomorrow.

Heydler announced that the National league went through its greatest season in 1930 but failed to show the profits of previous years although the record for league attendance records was broken.

"Despite the nation wide depression, the 55th season of the National league was its best season," he said, a half stantly increasing expenses of operation, however, kept half the clubs from making real profit.

The total attendance figures for the season were 5,500,000 he said, a half million better than the 1929 season and 136,000 above the best previous year in the league's history, 1926. Chicago led in home attendance with 1,463,624. Brooklyn played before 1,000,100 fans at home, exceeding one million for the first time. New York proved the best road team, playing before 850,000 away from home.

Exceptionally good weather and a close race brought about the new records, Heydler said. Only 13 games were postponed because of rain in the final half of the campaign and only 67 all season. The league used 61,740 baseballs, another new record.

A discussion of the playing rules in the National league meeting brought no changes. A rule was passed permitting only uniformed players on the field during practice before league games. Resolutions of sympathy were adopted relative to the deaths of W. F. Baker, president of the Phillies, and William Hanna, New York sports writer. The American league decided to number all players, both at home and on the road, and discussed the screening of ball parks to prevent home runs but took no action.

HAL CHASE, FAMOUS STAR OF DIAMOND, IN JAIL

NOGALES, Ariz., Dec. 9.—(AP)—Hal Chase, once the most graceful first baseman in major league baseball, was in jail today.

The former star was given a choice of paying a fine of $75 or serving 30 days when he pleaded guilty to a charge of driving an automobile while intoxicated. He did not pay the fine.

Testimony was that the former first baseman for both New York clubs, Chicago and Cincinnati, crashed into two cars here yesterday.

YALE EASILY WINS FROM SUBMARINE BASE

NEW HAVEN, Dec. 9.—(AP)—Yale basketeers opened the 1930 season tonight by defeating the quintet of the Submarine base, at New London, 56 to 32.

Booth and Linehan, stars of the gridiron squad, played stellar games. Reaves of the Submarine base was high scorer with 15 counts to his credit, while O'Neil led the Yale squad with 12.

The first Yale conference game will be with Penn, Jan. 3.

Hebrew Boys Prove Too Strong

The Jewish five proved to be too strong for the Scotchmen on Monday evening in the opener of the Elks Bowling league when they won three straight strings. The bowling of Jackie Wilson and Jim Purdon for the clan and Sidney and Sollie Budnick for the Jewish five were the outstanding features. Joe Budnick was unable to compete as he is a member of the Burlington, Vt., lodge. His position was filled by Harry Blum. An orchestra comprising Al Heneault, Walter Kilroy, Jim Osten, Dan Driscoll and Sidney furnished music during the evening's affair.

BATTALINO WILL CENTER ON CHOCOLATE'S BODY

NEW YORK, Dec. 9.—(AP)—The "Achilles heel" of Eligio Sardinias, discovered by Fidel LaBarba, has convinced the experts that Christopher "Bat" Battalino, featherweight champion, has almost an even chance to defend his featherweight title successfully against the Cuban flash in Madison Square Garden Friday night.

Until LaBarba, the rugged Italian collegian from the Pacific coast, belted Eligio, otherwise known as Kid Chocolate, so roughly about the body that the Belting Bon Bon faded into defeat, the faithful could scarcely conceive of a 126-pounder capable of whipping the sensational "Keed." But LaBarba's recent victory, pounded out by way of Chocolate's mid-section, disclosed the weakness that Battalino, a mediocre champion, may follow to advantage.

Battalino, conqueror of Andre Routis in title fray but whipped by ordinary opposition in overweight matches since, is an aggressive, forceful body puncher. Until LaBarba turned up the "Achilles heel" around the Cuban boy's ribs, the faithful believed to a man that Chocolate, one of the most spectacular featherweights of all times, would lift Battalino's crown. Since the LaBarba victory, first of a series of form upsets that swept recent Garden shows and culminated in Jimmy McLarnin's defeat by Billy Petrolle, the featherweight king from Hartford, Conn., has risen almost to even money standing in the wagering.

Chocolate, in training, has shown no liking for body punishment, and Battalino has done little else than train his batteries on the ribs of his sparring partners. Over the 15-round route, championship distance, Christopher is conceded considerable chance to wear down the fleet, slim Negro and pound out a decision. The hunch players are backing Battalino because three Italians—LaBarba, Tony Canzoneri and Petrolle—scored the three most surprising upsets of the indoor season. LaBarba whipped an "uncrowned" champion in Chocolate, Canzoneri knocked out a genuine titleholder in Al Singer, lightweight king, in two punches, and Petrolle outclassed McLarnin, considered the best of the welterweights.

Battalino has experienced some trouble in making the class weight limit and still has a couple of pounds to carve from his slim frame. Chocolate is a natural 126-pounder.

DANIELSON TAKES LEAD BY BEATING PLAINFIELD

(Special to The Bulletin)

PLAINFIELD, Dec. 9.—By eking out a 25 to 20 victory over Plainfield in one of the three games played here tonight in the Southern New England Basketball league, Danielson cemented its hold on first place and incidentally kept its slate clean with five tilts won and none lost. In losing Plainfield slipped down a notch in the standing to third position, Willimantic, inactive tonight, moving up to second.

In the other fracas two New London teams competed, the Boys' club beating the Tel. and Tel., tailenders, 33 to 23, and Jewett City added a win at the expense of Westerly, the score being 30 to 27. Cropper of Westerly played a brilliant game, scoring eight field goals and one foul, but this, as it happened, was not enough to give his team a win.

Plainfield, at the end of the first half, had Danielson at the short end of the score, 11 to 10, only to lose out in the second half by the visitors' superior playing. The summaries:

CHURCH LEAGUE TO OPEN MONDAY NIGHT

The Southern New England Church league will start its third season Monday night. There will be six teams in the league, and the schedule will consist of each team playing the other teams twice. The league will close early in March so as to give the winner an opportunity to take part in the state church league championships which are held every year.

There will be three games every Monday with the exception of the opening night, Dec. 15. On that night the following teams will open the league season. St. Mary's of Willimantic will play Baltic Methodist, and Phi Delta Nu will play the 1930 champion Gamma club. They are going this year under the name of the Sons of Pericles. The Sons and Phi Delts will open the program at 8:15 p. m., with the other game following immediately.

The officers of the league are as follows: Herbert Cary, president; Theodore Montgomery, secretary and treasurer; directors, Arthur Armstrong, D. H. Burr, Hyman Handlemann, William Stavrou, Joseph Gaudreau.

The church league has taken an important part in the developing of basketball players. About seventy players every year take part, and it has provided an opportunity to promote an activity among the churches which is of the highest type.

Five members of this year's Senior Y. M. C. A. basketball team were last year on different church league teams. The league is expected to be much faster than at any time since it was started. According to Secretary Montgomery, the roster of the teams includes nearly all the basketball material in and around Norwich.

Steaks-Steaks-Steaks.

Last night at the Elks' club a special bowling match was held between two teams as follows: Capt. Al Heneault, Sidney Shabecoff and Saul Budnick vs. Capt. Henry Bamber, Danny Driscoll and Bill Siminelli. The losers were to treat the winners to a steak dinner at the Hotel Taft in New Haven on Saturday evening. The losers will also furnish the transportation.

The first string was won by Capt. Bamber's team, the second by Capt. Henault's boys with the third resulting in a tie. It was decided to roll a fourth string which was won by Capt. Bamber's trio when Dan Driscoll came through with a double strike and got enough on it to win by two pins margin. A return match will be bowled on Sunday.

BOSTON—The Boston Bruins overcame a great final period rally to defeat the Montreal Maroons, 2 to 1, tonight.

OLD NO. 1111 MAKES NO BONES ABOUT STEEP GRADE

(Special to The Bulletin)

WESTERLY, Dec. 9.—The 200,000-pound steam locomotive "Timkin" and "No. 1111" again made Westerly a visit on Tuesday afternoon but for but a brief interval, on the New Haven railroad. It was attached to a fully loaded 138-car freight train and east bound, and followed train No. 10, an east-bound passenger express which made the Westerly station stop at 1:28 p. m., on Tuesday. This was the third Westerly visit of the powerful locomotive. The grade to the east of the Westerly waiting station, which has been the Waterloo of many freight trains which have been stalled on the grade for lack of motive power and had to oft-time wait for a "pusher" engine to again get in motion, begins at the Palmer street grade crossing and continues until the down-stretch is reached at Frazier's bridge on the Old South road to Hopkinton off Oak street.

The "No. 1111" on Tuesday, when it passed the Westerly station, seemed to gain momentum as the heavy freight train started up-hill. In the month's time that the locomotive is to be operated on the New Haven system it is expected that it will be operated on the Shore Line attached to the Merchants Limited express to prove what its performance will be as a speedster as well as load puller.

Ribs Broken in Fall

Alexander Dulelo, a carpenter of 57 Henry street, Central Falls, R. I., in the employ of the Rowley Construction Co. of Pawtucket, R. I., while at work on a staging at the Westerly Junior High school about 11:15 a. m., Tuesday, sustained an accidental fall to a floor in the building. He was taken to the Westerly hospital, where Dr. Michael H. Scanlon found that he had broken several ribs on his right side and sustained a lung injury. His right arm was fractured at the wrist, and was reduced by Dr. Sancion.

FINED FOR PART IN CAUSING AUTO ACCIDENT

(Special to The Bulletin)

WESTERLY, Dec. 9.—Following the accident on the Nooseneck Hill state highway in the early hours of last Monday morning when an automobile driven by George W. Rumba, of Dedham, Mass., to avoid hitting a suddenly stopping auto just ahead and a deep gully to the right of the highway, crashed into the auto operated by William A. Phillips, of Hopkinton, R. I., Rumba was brought to Westerly and lodged in the Westerly police station where he remained until Tuesday morning. Tuesday at 8:30 a. m. he was arraigned before Judge Oliver H. Williams in a special session of third district court, on a warrant sworn out by Trooper John F. Kennedy of the Hope Valley barracks of the Rhode Island state police. Rumba placed himself in the hands of the court, which he informed he was returning from a Baptist church service in New York where his wife's sister sang in the church services. Investigation was made of the accident by Trooper Healy of the Hope Valley barracks and his findings reported to the court. To the complaint of operating an automobile so as to cause injuries to others he was found guilty by Judge Williams and sentenced to pay a fine of $25 and costs, which were paid.

The two women who were in the Rumba car and injured at the time to the extent that they were taken to the Westerly hospital were discharged on Monday. They were Mrs. Caroline Jackson of Roslindale, Mass., and Mrs. Minnie Weesule of West Newton, Mass. The condition of Mrs. William A. Phillips, who was a passenger in the car driven by her husband and who was badly injured, was reported as not as favorable on Tuesday.

The Misses Margaret S. Buffum and Helen Louise Buffum returned to their home Monday night on the Pittsburgher express from Boston and Portland, Me., after visiting with their sister, Mrs. Mary B. Johnson, wife of Dr. Henry L. Johnson, of Brunswick, Maine.

Mrs. Frederick Wilcox and Mrs. David Johnson have returned to their Westerly homes from attendance on Monday at the meeting of the Rhode Island Women's Baptist Missionary society.

Frederick I. Dana, president and general manager of the Shelter Harbor Country club, on the Boston Post road, was a Westerly business caller on Tuesday when he entertained guests from New York city.

Judge Frank H. Hinckley of Mystic was a Westerly business caller on Tuesday afternoon when he held a session of Stonington probate court for Pawcatuck in the probate offices in the Walton block.

Mr. and Mrs. George P. Clark and Mr. Clark's sisters, the Misses Hattie and Florence Clark, of Shannock, R. I., were Westerly motor visitors on Monday evening.

George E. Leonard of the drafting room of the printing press plant of the C. B. Cottrell & Sons Co., is enjoying his annual two weeks' vacation.

Edward E. Carpenter, of Charlestown, R. I., was a Westerly business caller on Tuesday.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles A. Freeman, of Pawcatuck, and Mr. and Mrs. Arnold H. Burdick, of Westerly, on a motor trip south to St. Petersburg, Fla., have written Westerly friends that the trip has been a pleasant one. On Sunday evening last they were in Illington, N. C.

ROCKVILLE, R. I.

Miss Olivia E. Chester, 84, a resident of Rockville for most of her life, died at the state infirmary at Howard, R. I., Sunday, Nov. 30. She had been blind and confined to her bed for over nine years. For many years she was cared for by her sister, Mrs. Mattie Greene, but after the death of Mrs. Greene, Aug. 17, 1925, Miss Chester had to be taken to the state infirmary for care. She was born in Rockville, Jan. 18, 1846, the daughter of Christopher N. and Clarissa Chester. She was baptized in and united with Rockville Seventh-day Baptist church in Sept., 1866, and remained a consistent member until her death. She is survived by a niece, Mrs. Lulu Lanphear, of Bradford, R. I., and a nephew, Fred Chester, of Brockton, Mass. Funeral services, conducted by her pastor, Rev. W. D. Burdick, were held Wednesday, Dec. 3, at a funeral home in Hope Valley. Burial was in Rockville cemetery beside her parents.

Mr. and Mrs. O. R. Smith, of Westerly, were callers Sunday at the Kenyon farm.

Mrs. H. C. Orndorff and sister, Miss Elizabeth Thompson, Mrs. Nettie Chester and son, and Mrs. Jennie Clough, all of Providence, attended the funeral of Miss Olivia Chester last week and were callers at J. P. Greene's.

Miss Ethel Ide has left for Florida.

Ezra Dunn, of Block Island, was a recent guest of his daughter, Mrs. D. Alva Crandall and family.

The Pribilof islands, now famous as the home of 1,000,000 fur seals, were discovered in 1786 by a Russian navigator, Gerassim Pribilof.

VERDICT GIVEN FOR DEFENDANT IN BITGOOD- WILLIAMS SUIT

(Special to The Bulletin)

WESTERLY, Dec. 9—The jury with Henry G. Clark of Richmond, R. I., as foreman, which has ben hearing the automobile damage cases of $26,000, Elisha R. Bitgood of Hopkinton, R. I., vs. Harry O. Williams and Edith C Williams of Westerly, as the result of an automobile collision at Cord Wood Corners four years ago, received the case Tuesday afternoon and retired to their jury room at 2:40 p. m.

At 6:20 after being out 3 hours, 35 minutes, they brought in a verdict for the defendants, Mr. and Mrs. Williams.

On Tuesday morning some of the doctors testimony was again heard and the plaintiff, Bitgood, again took the stand for a short time. Then for the respondents Attorney George P. Slade made his plea to the jury and was followed by Attorney George Hurley for the plaintiff. The court then adjourned for a noon recess until 2:15 p. m. when Associate Justice Jeremiah E. O'Connell made his charge to the jury with a nearly filled court room and many in the corridors. The judge said that the jury should arrive at a verdict even though it had followed the case through "a maze of testimony since last Wednesday." It was possible, the judge said, that the jury might find that the driver of neither car was at fault, in other words that it was a plain/or inevitable accident, for which no damages should be assessed. Should damages be found they were to be awarded equally between Harry O. Williams, the driver, and his wife, Mrs. Edith C. Williams, the owner of the car.

THE GAS INDUSTRY of NEW ENGLAND
. . . steps ahead

Makes decided gains in the face of economic conditions that during the past year have meant a falling off in the sales volume of many other industries.

There has been a marked increase in manufactured gas sales in New England during the first nine months of this year. For example, the number of gas house heating installations was 24.4% greater than last year and gas sold for this purpose was 37% more. During this period the sale of gas for cooking, water heating, refrigeration and other domestic purposes increased more than 31½%.

These results are indeed gratifying since they indicate that the people of New England are evidencing their appreciation of the vision of the gas industry in keeping abreast of the times—devising equipment by which the modern adaptation of this age-old fuel may be transformed, instantly, into a universal household helper. "What amazing facts I learned about gas!" said Floyd Gibbons recently. "I discovered that it is doing a lot more for this race of ours than simply frying our eggs and broiling our steaks. It astonished me to learn that there is hardly an activity we civilized humans indulge in—hardly an item among the manufactured things that make life worth living in this present day—that we could have without gas."

In this country the stupendous amount of five billions of dollars is invested in the gas industry. One hundred and twenty-five thousand workers are engaged in giving service to eighty million people who use gas for cooking, hot water and heating. And in the industrial arts, almost every factory employs gas in some manner in its manufacturing processes. While the use of gas is nation-wide, New England is one of its largest users and there are in the New England states alone 12,120 miles of gas mains—enough to half encircle the earth.

One of the most important of the more recent developments in the application of "the better fuel" to public welfare is the silent gas refrigerator—economically operated by a little gas flame and a trickle of water. The new gas fireplaces and radiators in modern designs supply quick heat anywhere. A gas garage heater makes cars start instantly on cold mornings and saves repair bills. The gas incinerator banishes all the evils of the old garbage can. The housewife who has a gas laundry dryer in her home can laugh at stormy washdays.

And so, if space permitted, we could go on and on about the devices which the gas industry has perfected as aids to better living. The handsome, modern gas ranges which cook automatically, are the quickest and most efficient of all made. Gas water heaters, of the most up-to-date type, now supply an abundance of hot water instantly and make the daily bath an American institution.

The gas industry will continue to "step ahead" in the future as it has in the past. Gas employees are attending training schools where, under able instructors, they are daily learning the art of serving you better. The gas industry is highly organized in the field of research, investigation and analysis, always with the object of gaining a more thorough understanding of its products and their adaptation to the needs of mankind. In the beauty, mechanical perfection and the utility of the gas appliances offered for your service, you are promised up-to-the-minute progress. We thank you for the appreciation you have shown of our efforts, as evidenced by the marked increase in sales.

LITTLE CHANGE IN STOCK PRICES AFTER SESSION OF FLUCTUATION

NEW YORK, Dec. 9—(AP)—Share prices fluctuated uncertainly and ended the day about where they started today, while bonds sagged further, grains held about steady, and bar silver dropped to a new low.

Rail equities were under considerable pressure during the early hours of trading, and the general level was depressed to a new low since May 1926, as measured by the average price of 20 issues. Several recovered during the late trading, however, and the price average showed a net loss for the day of only 1-5 of a point. The price average of 90 issues, including 50 industrials and 20 utilities ended the day unchanged. Trading picked up a little. Although the turnover was only 2,116,340 shares, it was the largest in about a fortnight.

The day's news was in the main again of a neutral character. Fresh heaviness in silver, which dropped 1 cent to 33 cents, which carried it below the bottom level of last June, was viewed in some quarters as a rather cheerless development. Other non-ferrous metals were very dull. Wheat and corn futures closed unchanged to 3-8 of a cent higher, the former grain reflecting a decrease in the world visible supply. Cotton futures eased slightly.

The carrier issues displayed a better tone in the afternoon, as rumors of early dividend reductions were generally discredited. New York Central directors meet tomorrow and current earnings estimates indicate that the year's results will about cover the dividend requirements on the present basis. Unfavorable dividend actions by a few smaller corporations naturally were of adverse psychological influence. Richfield Oil and Sloss Sheffield Steel omitted the preferred payments.

Call money remained plentiful at 2 per cent and a little was offered at 1 1-2, although about $20,000,000 in loans was called. The U. S. Treasury announced that the amount of money in circulation increased about $165,000,000 during November, which was regarded as a seasonal gain reflecting holiday requirements. The weekly condition statement of reporting member banks showed a decline of about $115,000,000 in time deposits, presumably representing withdrawals for Christmas shopping.

A long list of stocks recorded new low levels for the year, although the industrial and utility averages held well above the low levels of November 10. Support accorded leading industrials was regarded as encouraging.

U. S. Steel, General Electric, Radio, and Standard of N. J. closed fractionally higher. Eastman, Corn Products, and Allied Chemical gained about 2 points, and Bethlehem and American Can gained about a point each.

Several shares sagged to new lows in the morning, then rallied to close a point or so higher, including New York Central, Atchison, and American Water Works. Western Union sagged a couple of points to a new low, but closed 3 1-2 points higher. Case, Johns Manville, International Telephone, American and Foreign Power, and American Power and Light reached new minimum prices, but recovered partially. Rock Island dropped 3 to a new minimum, but was off only 3-4 of a point at the finish. Chesapeake corporation and Lackawanna lost about 2 points. Erie, however, closed up 3-4.

With the exception of Far Easterns, which were off with silver, foreign exchanges generally were firm. Belgian exchange reached the highest level in months, and sterling rallied a little.

THE CURB MARKET

NEW YORK, Dec. 9—(AP)—Curb stocks resumed their decline in an active session today and petroleum shares and a miscellaneous list of industrials dropped to new lows for the year, although there was some recovery toward the close.

Utility shares were steadier and gave only a little ground during the morning when the lows of the day were reached and were the first to turn upward during the final hour, a few closing with substantial gains. Trading accelerated and the total turnover of 612,900 shares was the best in a fortnight.

Heaviness in the petroleum group was marked in Gulf, Humble, Standard Oil of Ohio, all of which registered new minimums for the year, and Standard of Kentucky. Standard of Ohio, reacted 2 3-4 points, the largest loss in the group. Cities Service sold off 3-4 during the morning but recovered to close steady. Standard of Indiana was firm.

Such leaders in the utility group as Electric Bond and Share, United Light and Power A, Niagara Hudson, and American Super Power, gave ground stubbornly and closed only small fractions off from the previous final figures. Associated Gas A, which was virtually quiet during the early hours spurted under short covering to gain 2 1-8 net. American Gas & Electric rallied 2 7-8

Several of the most active industrials lost a point or more. Driver Harris new reacted 2 7-8 in a thin market, and A. O. Smith, an erratic issue, was depressed 7 3-4 to a new 1930 minimum. American Cyanamid B, and Technicolor were among stocks that closed at the lowest level of the year. Deere, Fajardo Sugar, Mead Johnson, Dresser B, were other soft spots Newmont Mining rallied 2.

Investment and holding company shares were heavy during the morning but reduced their losses near the close. Goldman Sachs dipped to a new low at 7 1-8 off 7-8, but its net loss was only 3-8. United Founders and Pennroad were steady.

BOND MARKET

NEW YORK, Dec. 9.—(AP)—A heavy tone was again manifest in the bond market today. Liquidation covered a large list of domestic bonds, and while the highest grade obligations gave ground slowly, second grade and speculative issues moved into new low ground for the year.

As on the previous day trading expanded and sales exceeded $11,000,000 for the first time in about a month.

Stock privilege issues were generally at new 1930 minimums and in some instances losses ranged as high as several points. Alleghany corporation 5s dipped 5 to a new year's low, Rock Island 4 1-2s, 2 1-2; Erie convestible 4s A, 3 1-4; and International Telephone 4 1-2s reacted 4 1-2. American Telephone 4 1-2s moved the other way, however, to gain 2 1-4.

As in recent sessions the sharpest recessions among rails were in obligations of about a dozen railroads, notably Baltimore and Ohio, Chicago and Northwestern, Rock Island, Erie, Denver, Rio Grande and Western, Nickel Plate, Frisco, Missouri Pacific, Southern, Seaboard, and Wabash. Virtually all obligations of this group moved lower. Pennsylvania 4 1-2s, and the debenture 4 1-2s, participated in the sag.

The sharp reaction in bonds of the International Telephone company influenced some selling in the utility group. International Telephone debenture 5s slipped off 3 1-8 and debenture 4 1-2s, 1 1-2. American Telephone debenture 5 1-2s, one of the highest priced issues in the utility group, dipped 1 5-8 and the debentures 5s of 1965 turned heavy. Brooklyn Union Gas 5s reached a new year's low. North American Edison issues sagged 1 to 2 points.

Short term treasury issues softened with the lower trend of domestic bonds but liberties were steady.

In the foreign section several European and Latin-American issues were liquidated. German bonds moved downward and this appeared to have influenced offerings of other foreign obligations. German International 5 1-2s yielded 1 3-4 in a large turnover. Australian 5s of 1955 and 1957 yielded more than two points. There were large offerings of Italian 7s which sagged 1-2 point and Polish governments were heavy. Peruvian and Bolivian governments were weak spots in the Latin-American section.

CHICAGO GRAIN MARKET

CHICAGO, Dec. 9.—(AP)—Brokers in wheat went on a virtual strike today. Many flocked over to the corn crowd, general trading interest in wheat having been reduced almost to zero apparently because government sponsored operations had permitted little or no freedom of movement. On the other hand, active commission house buying rallied corn briskly from price setbacks, associated with ideal weather over the corn belt.

Corn closed unsettled at yesterday's finish, to 1-2c higher, wheat irregular, from 1-4 decline to 1-2c gain, with oats 1-4 off to 1-4a3-8c up, and provisions unchanged to 17c lower.

WALL STREET BRIEFS

NEW YORK, Dec. 9.—(AP)—The total value of building permits issued in 194 cities during November, a short month with 7 non-business days, was $106,311,397, a decrease of 11.8 per cent from $120,594,780 for October, Bradstreets' reports. The figures also showed a decrease of 31.9 per cent from the $156,210,708 reported for November last year. For the eleven months to November 30, the total was $1,555,292,268, a decrease of 44 per cent from $2,779,816,956 reported for the like period last year.

Sheet mills of the Sharon Steel Hoop company and the Empire Steel corporation, in the Youngstown district, have resumed operations after a shutdown of more than ten days. The steel manufacturers average for the Youngstown district, however, was reported unchanged at 45 per cent.

Control of the New York Depositor corporation, sponsors of trusteed New York City bank stocks, has been acquired by John F. Barry and company, and John F. Barry has been elected president.

National Electric Power company reports a gain of 23.8 per cent in October sales of load-building appliances by subsidiaries in 15 eastern states. Total sales in October were $592,850, an increase of $113,788 over October, 1929.

HOOVER CHARGES CONGRESS WITH PLAYING POLITICS

represent the desires of individuals to show that they are more generous than the administration or that they are more generous than even the leaders of their own parties. They are playing politics at the expense of human misery. x x x The American people will not be misled by such tactics."

While Senator Robinson insisted upon appropriations for drought relief sufficient to permit loans to farmers with which to buy personal food, in opposition to the recommendation of Secretary Hyde, he had given no encouragement to the demands of other democrats for an expanded relief program even at the price of increased taxes.

Senator Glass, democrat, Virginia, who has assailed the cooperation pledge of his party leaders, likewise supported the increased drought appropriation but he gave notice he would not vote for measures "which will bankrupt the treasury."

Despite the democratic resentment of Mr. Hoover's statement which Harrison said was an attempt "to put the democratic leaders in a hole," it did not seem likely tonight that the Lafollette resolution would muster full democratic support.

The resolution said, in part:

"Whereas, the president of the United States in a public statement has indicated that the consideration for the interests of income taxpayers necessitates restriction upon governmental relief measures necessary to aid the jobless and their dependents, therefore,

"Be it resolved, that it is the sense of the senate of the United States that the relief of human suffering in this emergency should take precedence over the consideration of the interests of wealthy income taxpayers."

Senator Reed in reply to the democratic assault said the president had a "great responsibility" in trying to keep expenditures "within our means and I honor him for trying to do it."

"In all fairness to the president," he added, "we ought to recognize the fact that nothing in his statement begins to compare with some of the attacks we have made upon him here."

Senators Caraway, of Arkansas, and Walsh, of Massachusetts, opened the attack on the presidential statement in the senate. The Arkansan pointed to Mr. Hoover's relief record and said "stripped of that there would be nothing left to his biography except the date of birth."

Senator Harrison called attention to Mr. Hoover's activities in flood relief and in Belgian food relief and said "no one accused him of playing politics then, although republican orators ever since have said these actions qualified him as the best fitted man ever to run for the presidency."

Senator Glass recalled that Mr. Hoover as food administrator during the war recommended the appropriation of $100,000,000 for Russian food relief in questioning the disapproval by the administration against loans now for food for drought stricken farmers.

Robinson and McNary both told the senate that the $60,000,000 provided in the senate drought relief bill had been proposed by the president's own drought relief commission.

Harrison said he did not propose to cooperate with the president if it meant $25,000,000 for drought relief "when the facts show that $60,000,000 is required."

"If that is playing politics, then I plead guilty," he added.

Senator Copeland, democrat, New York, said the president "appears more sensitive to playing politics than to human suffering" and expressed the view that Mr. Hoover "does not recognize what the problem is."

On the other side of the capitol, another democrat criticized the president's recommendation for $150,000,000 for public works to aid employment. The house struck $40,000,000 from the proposal.

Representative Byrns of Tennessee asserted some of the administration recommendations "were proven so ridiculous" as unemployment measures in committee hearing that Chairman Wood of the appropriations committee "threw up his hands" and agreed to support the projects provided for in the amended bill.

Byrns said some of the proposals called for spending money for increased rations for the army, new uniforms for reserve corps officers, $3,000,000 for passenger carrying automobiles and trucks for the army, $3,000,000 for searchlights, submarine mines and fire control stations, $5,000,000 for ammunition for the Rock Island arsenal and $500,000 to kill bugs in the national forests.

A HISTORY OF CONNECTICUT INDUSTRY

Released by Manufacturers Association of Connecticut

The Bridgeport Gas Light Company Bridgeport.

Way back when Zachary Taylor was elected president of our United States, Bridgeport was a little town of 7,500 people. Up to that time, the people of Bridgeport made their trips to New York by boat. In 1849, however, the New Haven railroad, for the first time, carried passengers as far as the city of New York. That year also recorded an act of vision and faith in the future upon the part of a few Bridgeport men, who secured a charter from the state of Connecticut to manufacture illuminating gas for the sole purpose of permitting the citizens of Bridgeport to throw away the old tallow candles and oil lamps and use in their stead the then brilliant gas light for their evening pleasure and work.

The Bridgeport Gas Light company at that time had not laid a foot of main, nor did it own a single meter. In two or three years after its incorporation it began operation with a few thousand feet of mains. Today there are over 300 miles of mains. If the pipes were laid in a straight they would reach from Bridgeport to Providence and back again, with enough left over to reach New York city. There are now over 45,000 meters supplying that number of homes and factories and serving several times that number of individuals. Through these mains and meters the company sells one and a half billion (1,500,000,000) cubic feet of gas per year, serving a population (Bridgeport, Fairfield, Stratford) of approximately 200,000.

The development of gas has been remarkable. Originally it was used entirely for illumination, in homes and on the streets. Later the gas range for home cooking made its appearance. The gas water heater next appeared. Now in addition to the range and water heater we have the gas furnace for heating the entire house, gas refrigerators, incinerators, clothes dryers, ironers, and many other appliances.

It was not until electricity came to displace gas in large part as an illuminant that serious study was given to gas as an industrial heating medium. After some years a few simple appliances and furnaces were invented and used in the manufacture of various products. Today they run from great heat-treating furnaces to tiny appliances which shoot out a flame no larger than a pinhead, automatically controlled, adjusted, and operated. Twenty years ago there were only a few uses to which gas was put in industry. Today there are many thousands of uses for gas in industry alone.

An idea of the vastness of the industry is shown by the sales in the United States in 1929 of over 524 billion (524,000,000,000) cubic feet; and with the inventions and developments already under way or perfected, both as to methods of manufacture and utilization of the commodity, the immediate as well as the remote future unquestionably holds a more marked advance than the astonishing development which the past decade disclosed.

The Bridgeport Gas Light company has kept pace with the development of the industry generally. Naturally for many years after the organization of the company in 1849 it was a struggle to keep it in operation without too much loss. This is the history of probably most public utilities in the early years. Finally the day came when a modest dividend was declared, but even then for a long time it was difficult problem to make both ends meet. But as the city grew in population and industry, success came to the company. Today its assets are $7,000,000, its equipment modern and ample. There are outstanding $1,000,000 of bonds, and 131,500 shares of no-par stock. The bond interest is 4 per cent and the dividends on the stock $2.40 per share per year.

Two men, standing out preeminent in the history of the Bridgeport Gas Light company, are Dr. I. DeVer Warner and his son DeVer H. Warner. Dr. Warner was one of the pioneers in the business, and the solid foundations were laid in the main by him and his associates. After his death, DeVer H. Warner became president of the company, and he 's now chairman of the board. The success of the company is largely attributable to his care, foresight and broadminded policies.

At the present time the officers of the company are: DeVer H. Warner, chairman of the board; Frank M. Travis, chairman of the executive committee; George S. Hawley, president; Howard E. White, vice president; Robert A. Lewis, secretary and treasurer; Frederic C. Taylor, assistant secretary.

POETRY

If I Could Live Again

Sometimes folks say, "If it could be
That I could live my life again,
How different it all would be,
How free from grief and pain!"

But, friends, the dead days coffined lie,
Like corpses with their stiff, cold hands
Fore'er entombed, no moan or sigh
Can raise them from Time's sands.

But each new day a Golden Fleece
Holds temptingly before our eyes,
And only work without surcease
Grants that immortal prize.

So, if regrets and dull remorse
You'd keep not as Time's underlings,
Strive well each day; you'll find the source
Of joy from service springs.

—Julia Mae Williams in the Philadelphia Bulletin.

"Amid The False Dawn's Glimmering"

Amid the false dawn's glimmering
There steals a wistful twitter,
Far away it seems,
Though gliding from near boughs
Where a feathered sitter,
A robin, guards her nest,
High perched above wet grasses
And clumps of dew-chilled flowers,
She sees dim, gray cloud masses
That soon shall melt and vanish
Before the sun's gold crest—

The sun has risen and lighted
A day of varied stress,
And long, soft shadows now
The garden aisles caress.
The sun's disc sinks from sight;
Yet all the west grows wondrous
With amber-tinted splendor
Of springtime afterglow!
Then, hark, that same bird twitter!
Again the robin seeks her nest
To guard her nursling brood,
She greets the still-veiled moons' face
And, far beyond our sun's realm
Across empurpling space,
To unnumbered starry millions
Of Life's infinitude.

—William Struthers in Boston Transcript.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Palace Theatre

Now playing at the Palace theatre a strong double bill made up of two of the outstanding features of the season, "Rain or Shine," with Joe Cook, is one of the finest screen portrayals of a stage play that ran on Broadway for over two years. On the stage, Joe Cook broke all records in "Rain or Shine," and in all probability the screen version with Joe Cook will repeat. Joe Cook's film debut has been backed up with a picture that is lavish from every standpoint. An entire circus from sideshow to big top has been utilized to provide a background for Cook's diversified talents. It's the greatest, grandest, most glorious show. James Oliver Curwood, the mastermind of the great northwest put all he had in this great story of the wilds of the trackless barriers.

An innocent man, charged with murder, captured in the icy fastnesses above the Arctic Circle by an officer who resembles him closely enough to be his brother, makes his escape and is assured of his liberty if he is willing to leave his captor to die.

Faced with this very vital problem, will human consideration for another being, even an enemy who is sworn to deliver him to a mistaken justice, triumph over concern for personal safety? And if he does return to rescue his captor, will that man in turn be able to deliver his benefactor to a fate that he realizes may be unjust?

Such powerful forces as these are at work in "River's End," a melodramatic story of hate, love and danger in the frozen north.

New England Fresh Pork

A widespread newspaper campaign is appearing in practically every daily newspaper throughout New England in the interests of New England Dressed Fresh Pork. This campaign which is a continuation of the extensive campaign of last year, is more elaborately planned and much more complete in circulation. It is sponsored by John P. Squire & company of Boston, North Packing and Provision company of Boston, White, Pevey and Dexter company of Worcester, Mass., Springfield Provision company of Springfield, Mass., and Sperry and Barnes company of New Haven, Conn.

Considering the general business depression throughout New England these packers are making an appreciative step toward the stimulation of New England business by extenting their advertising for the coming year rather than decreasing their appropriations as many advertisers have done.

New England Dressed Fresh Pork has an entirely New England atmosphere in its preparation, for it is carefully prepared from the choicest of corn feed porkers which are brought on alive from the corn belt of the middle west to the modern government approved establishments of these five packers in New England. Pork as you know, is best when it is strictly fresh and New England Dressed Fresh Pork is the freshest obtainable for New England consumption, for it is delivered to New England dealers within twenty-four hours after cutting.

The slogan of these five companies is "Nothing Takes The Place of Freshest."

MOOSUP

The dramatic debate given at a union service at the Methodist church Sunday evening was enthusiastically received. It was between W. D. Pardee of Orange, Conn., and E. C. Prettyman of New Haven, subject, "Can the Prohibition Law be Enforced?"

Visitors Sunday at Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Hyde's were: Mr. and Mrs. Merritt Alfred and George H. Keene, of Hartford.

The next meeting of the Thursday club will be held with Mrs. John G. Gallup, Dec. 18. The readers will be Mrs. Albert Smith and Mrs. Shepard.

The young people's meeting of the Baptist church was postponed Sunday evening on account of the union service at the Methodist church.

The mid-week prayer meeting of the Baptist church will be held this week at the home of Mr. and Mrs. William Rose, Thursday evening at 7:30.

Friday evening the Baptist choir and pageant cast will rehearse at 7:15 the special Christmas music and pageant.

Dance Committee

The X. Y. Z. dance will be held this (Wednesday) evening. Mr. and Mrs. William Bailey and Dr. and Mrs. Alphonse Garcia comprise the committee.

The Fidelity Bible class will hold its regular monthly meeting Dec. 11th at the Girls' club.

Tall Cedars' Officers

Election and installation was held at the December meeting of Quinebaug valley forest, No. 117, Tall Cedars of Lebanon. Those elected were: Grand tall cedar, Richard W. Daggett; senior grand tall, Horace Burdick; junior grand tall, Noble Symington; scribe, Almond Colvin; treasurer, Harry Walker; chaplain, Floyd Main; sentinel, John B. Gallup. A large delegation from New London was present. There was a lunch of sandwiches, pie and coffee.

Friends in Moosup were sorry to hear of the illness of Henry Congdon of Sterling Hill. He was operated upon for appendicitis recently.

The prince of Wales, who has been provincial grand master of the Surrey Lodge of Freemasons for six years, has been installed as royal arch grand superintendent of surrey

NORWICH WOMAN AT NEW LONDON CAUGHT WITH BOOZE AT FT. WRIGHT

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Dec. 9. — Marie Shankle, colored, of 51 Scott avenue, Norwich, wife of James Shankle, of this city, is locked up at police headquarters tonight charged with violation of the prohibition law. She was arrested this afternoon on a military reservation and is being held for the state police of New York. The Shankle woman has been estranged from her husband some time and has been in New London at intervals performing housework. It was while engaged in these duties, she says, that she consented to a plan, which today resulted in her arrest. The woman went to Fort Wright this forenoon on the boat leaving New London at 10:30 o'clock and carried a suit case containing 15 pints of whiskey. She said that she did not have knowledge of the contents of the case, but was to deliver it to a man known as "Blondy." When she alighted from the boat her laboring with the heavy grip attracted the attention of the military authorities and when she was held up it was suspected that the woman carried an order for liquor and that she was intending to make delivery. When the case was searched and the liquor found the woman was placed under arrest and this evening was brought to police headquarters by Lieut. Schwackenberg. As the offense alleged was committed on New York territory and in New York jurisdiction, the woman will be held a prisoner until an officer arrives here and takes her to that city for trial.

Helen Ustch, 57 John street, made complaint to the police tonight that a man was at her home intoxicated and annoying her for he was creating a disturbance. When officers went to the house and the fellow was still there he was arrested and locked up. He will be in police court tomorrow

OWNER OF SLOOP TWICE ROBBED IN 72 HOURS

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Dec. 9.—Carmello Grillo, 35 Orchard street, made complaint to the police this evening that he had been victimized by a thief twice in 72 hours. Grillo said that Saturday night his sloop, which was moored at Chappell's wharf, was boarded and the cabin entered by the removal of a lock. A compass, underwear and a cap were stolen. After the placing of a new lock on the cabin, Grillo went to his boat tonight and discovered that another entrance had been effected and by the same method. There was also missing additional underwear, cap and oiler. Grillo estimated his loss at $25.

Application for a marriage license has been made at the office of the city clerk by Ellsworth O. Favro, salesman, of Montville, and Josie R. Austin, 54 Cutler street, New London.

Mr. and Mrs. John Cullin, Manchester, formerly of New London, are in this city to remain a few days.

Dr. and Mrs. Hugh McKeown and Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Brown, of Bronxville, N. Y., are being entertained by Dr. and Mrs. James T. Robinson of Mott avenue.

The meeting of Nancy Hempstead council, No. 11, Daughters of America, was held last night and the following officers were elected: Councilor, Anna Conkling; associate councilor, Gertrude Doyle; vice councilor Martha Brown; associate vice councilor, Gertrude Perry; associate recording secretary, Susie Roe; associate financial secretary, Maude Howard; conductor, Martha Gaskell; warden, Alice Eldridge; inside sentinel, Jennie Beatrice; outside sentinel, Mabel Dewey; trustee, Mary Thompson.

Mrs. Cyril V. Moore of Westerly, (Harriet C. Chappell of this city) went to New York today to be gone until the end of the week.

Dr. and Mrs. Gerard E. Jensen, of 51 Hall avenue, will be patrons at the second dance of the season to be given by the Service league of Connecticut college in Knowlton hall Saturday evening. As usual, the dance is open without charge to all students at the college. It will be informal and an orchestra composed of Brown university students will play for dancing.

SAILORS GET UNRULY, ARRESTED IN LEDYARD

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Dec. 9.— Ernest Sisco and Allen Spencer, sailors, stationed at the submarine base, were arrested in Ledyard this evening by State Police Officer Frederick Johnson, charged with lascivious carriage. The bluejackets were brought to New London and locked up. They will be presented i nthe Ledyard justice court tomorrow or Thursday.

Albert Gesner, of Uncasville, a patient at Lawrence Memorial hospital was discharged today.

FUNERAL

Catherine Kennedy

The funeral of Catherine Kennedy of 41 Shapley street was held this morning at 9 o'clock at St. Mary's Star of the Sea church and was attended by a large assemblage of mourners. The high mass of requiem was sung by Rev. James W. Roche. The bearers were Charles J. Ducy, Florence Sullivan, William T. May and Andrew Maher. Burial was in St. Mary's cemetery.

There was no session of the police court this morning. A man, who was arrested last night helplessly drunk on Main street, near Hallam street, was ordered discharged by Prosecuting Attorney Max Boyer, for the accused had not been in court for a long time.

The licenses of five drivers of automobiles were ordered suspended today by Commissioner of Motor Vehicles Robbins B. Stoeckel. Four of the drivers are members of the U. S. coast guard, Donald J. Mooney, Joseph Holcepl, George Dickson and Kenneth H. Whitlock. The fifth driver is Ralph Staplins, 19 Woodbridge street.

Shannock Driver Careless

Randolf Voit, Shannock, R. I., who was in the Groton town court yesterday, charged with driving while under the influence of liquor and who was fined $100 and costs, will experience additional wrath of the law for he was arrested again today by State Police Officer John Smith, charged with evasion of responsibility and driving without a license. The second arrest of Voit was made when it was revealed since his arrest Saturday night in Mystic that the car collided with another auto and the driver speeded away, together with the fact that Voit did not possess a license. The Shannock driver will be presented in court next Monday.

OBITUARY

John A. Bergen

John A. Bergen, about 68, died last night at his residence, 46 Mercer street, after an illness of but a few days from heart disease. He is survived by his wife, a brother, Augustus Bergen of Seattle, Wash., and a sister, Mrs. Christine Freeman of Medford, Mass. Mr. Bergen was born in Sweden, but had resided in New London since a young man. He was for many years employed by the late J. N. Harris as coachman and upon the death of Mr. Harris continued in the employ of Mrs. Harris. In recent years Mr. Bergen had been employed as janitor. He was well known and highly respected.

THINK TIRE WAS DECOY OF HOLD-UP MEN IN HIDING

(Special to The Bulletin)

Detective Sergeant Nelson Smith believes that he discovered an attempt at a hold-up on the New London. Smith last evening ascertained that a girl of 15, residing on Summer street, who had disappeared from home after a quarrel with an older sister, had been taken to a house at Palmertown and that a youth, Harold Staplins, of Hempstead street had accompanied the girl to the home of William LaBounty. Staplins was sought and found about 9:30 and accompanied by the officer and the girl's sister, Staplins drove to the LaBounty home. Arriving there, the girl was in bed and after she had dressed the trip back to New London was started. When in the vicinity of Quaker Hill, Staplins observed an object in the highway and stopped for he recognized his find to be an automobile tire. Instead of Staplins alighting alone, Sergeant Smith also alighted, and the tire was placed in the car. When the girl was returned to her home, the officer remained there and instructed Staplins to deliver the tire at police headquarters. This was done, but when the officer inspected the tire, it was found to be worthless, being much worn and long ago outserved its usefulness. But the tire was wrapped with the heavy wrapping paper that is always found on new tires and so carefully as to make it appear that the tire had never been used. The theory of the officer is that the tire had been placed in the highway and that the would-be holdup youths, had then secreted themselves in the brush and intended to holdup any auto driver who stopped to pick up the tire, but that when the officer and a second occupant of the Staplins car alighted the crooks decided to refain from any holdup attempt. The tire where found was in the middle of the highway and where it could easily be observed by the reflection of the headlights on the light brown paper.

A meeting of the New London Garden club was held yesterday at the home of Mrs. Elisha Turner, on Hempstead street. During the meeting it was voted to contribute $50 to the Caroline Black Memorial garden of Connecticut College for Women.

MRS. RICH. WALSH ROBBED— HAD TO BE TOLD ABOUT IT

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Dec. 9.—The police this afternoon rounded up a gang of bums as a result of the theft of about $325 and several hundreds of dollars worth of jewelry and valuable papers from the residence of Mrs. Richard Walsh, 29 Golden street. At least one man of the gang locked up will be charged with the theft, for some of the stolen money and jewelry was found on his person and the bag containing money, jewelry and papers was recovered where the thief is known to have placed it, after removing the money and jewelry found on him. He is Edward Neff, a fisherman and was released only Monday from the county jail, where he concluded a term on a charge of theft. The others arrested are Edward Foley and George Hapeny, both with police court records, "Capt." King, Daniel J. Reddy and James McArdle, also with police records and Charles Grossley and Martin Healey, the last named employed as a handy man by Mrs. Walsh. When the detective bureau has concluded its grilling of the men under arrest, one or more other than Neff is likely to be charged with the theft.

The round-up was the result of Mrs. Charles Serafin, 75 Union street observing a man, hatless and wearing a brown overcoat and overalls, emerge from her garage about 1 o'clock. Investigating, Mrs. Serafin found a black bag and papers scattered about the garage. She notified the police and Detective Sergeants John Cavanaugh and Nelson Smith, Sergeant Patrick Murphy, Patrolman Lawrence Pardy and Supernumerary Arthur Powell started on a hunt for the thief, for investigation revealed about $50 in the bag and the papers proved to be of value, but only to Mrs. Walsh. While the hunt was in progress, George Branch, employed by the Corticelli Silk company as truck driver, had observed two men on North Bank and John streets who were counting a large sum of money. He reported his observation to Patrolman William Riordan on duty at the corner of Main and State streets and Branch was instructed to go to police headquarters and make known what he had seen. Branch did so and Sergeant Murphy and Patrolman Fardy went to North Bank and John streets and there found Neff and Hapeny. Both were intoxicated and were taken to headquarters where a search revealed $141 in bills and $1.85 in the clothing of Neff, with two diamond rings and other articles of jewelry. Neff and Hapeny were locked up and the round-up of suspects resulted in the arrests of Foley, King, Reddy, Grossley, McArdle and Healy.

Mrs. Walsh was not aware of the theft until officers went to her home, after the papers found in the garage indicated that they belonged to the woman. She was unable to account for the theft of the bag and its contents for they had been kept in a closet off a living room, the entrance to which is protected by a Yale lock. She declared that no one had been to the closet during the day. However, the key to the closet was on a sideboard and it is the belief of the police that Neff had knowledge where the bag was secreted and watched an opportunity to enter the house about noon, while the occupants were gathered in another part of the building. Securing the key, the closet was unlocked and the key returned to where it had been found by the thief.

Neff was arrested in October for the theft of nine pounds of butter from the restaurant of Louis Telage, Main street, and only completed his sentence yesterday. Foley was arrested several months ago and received a jail sentence for robbing a Fishers Island man of a small sum of money, on Hallam street, while the latter was intoxicated.

HUSBAND AND WIFE TO BE CHARGED WITH ARSON

Anthony Gerwatoski and his wife, Anna, of 45 Terrace avenue, will be in court tomorrow morning both charged with arson, in causing damage, on the morning of Dec. 4, to the residence they and thier seven children occupy. The husband, who represents himself to be a real estate agent, and his wife were arrested on complaint of Fire Marshal Calvin Edmunds a short time after the fire was subdued and have since been at liberty under bail of $2500 each. The residence and its furnishings were damaged about $1200. Gerwatoski carried insurance of $7000 on the building and his insurance on his furnishings was about $1000. It is claimed that Gerwatoski was in need of money and that he had neglected to pay the interest on a mortgage note, which was due and payable Dec. 1. The investigation following the fire, as conducted by Fire Marshal Edmunds, brought about the arrest of husband and wife for it was claimed that rugs in the room where the fire occurred were saturated with kerosene and a gallon can, which contained the inflammable fluid was found in a small closet adjoining the room where the fire started. Fire Marshal Edmunds is authority for the statement that a kerosene stove, which it was claimed by Gerwatoski had exploded and which was used to heat a part of the house, was the cause of the fire, had not been used for a long time and this, as well as the alleged saturated rugs, were seized as evidence that the fire was the work of an incendiary. Pictures of the interior of the residence have been taken as additional evidence.

MONTVILLE

FIRE STATION SITE IS OFFERED BY FRED A. JOHNSON

A public meeting was held in the school auditorium, Uncasville, Monday evening, to organize a fire company in Montville, also to hear the report of a committee elected at the last meeting to secure data and insurance rates of other towns protected by a fire department. The committee was authorized also to learn what reductions in rates would go into effect in Montville, if the promoters succeeded in organizing a company by public subscription which company would be independent from the town.

The meeting was called to order by First Selectman Ambrose Sullivan. The motion was put to see if the citizens of the town would decide whether or not they would purchase fire equipment. The meeting voted yes.

Rev. Otis Lee Monson, pastor of Uncasville M. E. church, a member of the fire committee, distributed maps of Uncasville, Pequot and the Palmertown section, which was made up by him for the purpose of getting the exact site of the proposed fire station. The site is on land owned by Fred Johnson of Uncasville on the Palmertown road, a short distance from Pickett Bridge. He also stated that all persons living in a mile distance from the fire station would get a reduction of from 28 to 29 per cent on their fire insurance. People living outside the fire district would also get a reduction of rates.

Fred Johnson, owner of the land of the proposed fire station site, offered the citizens the land free of charge. Chairman Fred Rogers introduced Fire Chief Henry R. Taft of Norwich and Fire Chief Shipman, of New London, who talked on fire hazards and fire equipment and offered the citizens of the town their cooperation and assistance in forming the organization and helping them in any way needed.

The following officers were elected for the new company: President, Frederick C. Rogers; vice president, Frederick A. Johnson; treasurer, Mrs. Charles E. Ramage; secretary, Frank P. Richards.

The officers will first secure a charter. Then funds for the fire equipment and building will be sought by public subscription.

A bus owned and operated by Harry Carter, of Palmertown, which he uses to carry the Norwich Free Academy students back and forth to school, was hit by an automobile operated by Alfred Beebe, of Leffingwell, about 8 a. m., Tuesday. Mr. Carter was on his way to Norwich with the students. The bus' running board and rear fender were damaged, with slight damages to Mr. Beebe's car. None of the students were hurt. Mr. Beebe, who was coming out of his driveway, did not notice the approach of the bus, which was back of another car, and this resulted in the crash. Beebe's insurance company will repair the damages on the school bus.

The Girls' Sewing club will be entertained by Miss Delma Couture, of Uncasville, this (Wednesday) evening.

Legionnaires Invited

Montville post, No. 112, American Legion, will hold an important open meeting Thursday evening in the Community house. Commander William Bolles has invited all the ex-service men to attend and he has also extended invitations to the ex-service men's mothers, wives, sisters and young women friends.

Children were often employed in the mines of Rome and other ancient nations, because they could squeeze through tunnels to drag out the heavy sacks of ore.

GALES FERRY

During the opening days for November the Gales Ferry Public library was in charge of Mrs. J. Edmund Norman, Mrs. Charles Hoyt and Miss Laura A. Perkins. Mrs. Everett Noyes and Mrs. Joseph P. De Rusha were the attendants for October.

An all-day session of the Roller club was held the past week at the home of Mrs. James Abbott in the Lester district. A chicken dinner was served by Mrs. Abbott. Members present were Mrs. Charles Babcock, of the Unionville section, Mrs Avery W. Main and Mrs. Joseph H. Davidson of the Stoddard district, Mrs. Emil Gunuskey from Long Cove and Miss Mabel Smith of the village.

Mr. and Mrs. Nelson Parker are entertaining for a week Mr. Parker's brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. Charles H. Doyle and son, Watson Doyle, of Philadelphia. They motored to the village Sunday, evening having been dinner guests of Mrs. Doyle's sister, Mrs. George M. Brown and family, in West Haven, en route.

The Ladies' Aid society held an all-day session at the vestry Friday. The members present were occupied tying quilts, seven being completed during the day. There was a basket lunch at a short business meeting and reports were given by the secretary-treasurer, Mrs. Dudley C. Perkins. Holding another Christmas sale and tea was suggested and this was voted. Mrs. Charles Litwhiler, Mrs. Horace A. Newbury, Mrs. John Harold, Mrs. Avery Main, Mrs. Emil Gunusky, Mrs. C. Alton Chapman, Mrs. Nelson Parker, Mrs. Carl B. Lawson, Mrs. Morton Crawford and Mrs. Frederick W. Turner were appointed to have charge of the tea. The treasurer was instructed to add a deposit to the bank account of the society.

Eddie Simmons, who had been spending a few days at his home in the village, returned recently to Brooklyn, N. Y.

Dredgers, Tug, Noisy.

Two dredging outfits have been employed for over a week in deepening the channel from Allyn's Point to the crossover channel, at Red Top. They are operating on night and day shifts to complete the work before cold weather sets in. The sooner this is completed the better local residents will be pleased, as their sleep is being greatly disturbed by the operating of the dredges and the tug signalling.

Tax Collector John W. Finegan and Mrs. Finegan, as assistant, were at the store of Norman and Povey in the village and at the store of Mrs. Frederick W. Harvey at Allyn's Point, the past week to receive personal tax in this section.

A couple of tourists called at a Maine farm house of an early morning recently.

"We were wondering," spoke up the lady, "if we could get a glass of fresh milk?"

"Now that's too bad," sympathised the house wife, "but you see we live quite a ways from the city and the milkman hasn't got here yet."—Portland Express.

The play was under the direction of Miss Flossie M. Meyer.

FRINK BANKRUPTCY PAYS ABOUT 21C DIVIDEND

Judgment approving the final account of the receiver, Thames Bank and Trust company, in the Frink Dairy company bankruptcy of this city, discharging the receiver and dissolving the corporation, was handed down in the superior court here Tuesday by Judge Ernest A. Inglis.

According to the final financial showing there is a dividend of a fraction over 21 cents for creditors, on common claims. The final statement is as follows:

Assets held Oct. 23, 1930, $6,545.42, less deductions $6,141.26, leaving cash received $404.16; further receipts, $5,670.30, making total of $6,074.46; less preferred claims and expenses $2,055.62, leaving balance of $4,018.84 to pay common dividends, which are at the rate of $0.21265.

SETTLEMENT IN SUIT BROUGHT FOR $7,500

Settlement has been made in the $7,500 damage suit brought against the Groton and Stonington Traction company and Melvin F. Gilleney of Groton by William George Taylor of that town, which was on the docket for trial in the superior court here.

Taylor sued for personal injuries sustained on Feb. 15 last when the truck he was driving, owned by Marcus Trail of Groton, was struck by a bus of the G. and S. Traction Co., on the Boston Post road, operated by Gilleney.

PLAINTIFF WINS TITLE TO HAMBURG COVE TRACT

Judgment giving the plaintiff, Elisha H. Cooper of New Britain absolute title in a 90-acre tract of land on Hamburg cove in the village of Hamburg was given by Judge Ernest A. Inglis in the superior court here Tuesday in a suit brought by Cooper against People's Ice company of New York to settle the title to the land.

Farm Association Dissolved

Judge Ernest A. Inglis handed down judgment in the superior court here Tuesday morning approving final account, discharging receiver and dissolving the Connecticut Farm Association, Inc., which was established to form a Knights of Pythias farm home on a tract of land in the town of East Haddam, off the Norwich-Essex turnpike. The receiver was Manlius H. Norton of New Britain.

RAISES QUESTION ON BROTHERS IN $10,000 AUTOMOBILE SUIT

Trial of the $10,000 damage suit of George A. Beckwith of New London, where he is employed as a fireman, against Russell B. Starkweather of Plainfield, who is manager of a chain store in Southbridge, Mass., was in progress in the superior court here Tuesday afternoon before Judge Ernest A. Inglis and a jury and will be continued when court comes in this (Wednesday) morning.

Beckwith's automobile, a coach model, was struck in the rear by Starkweather's machine on Thanksgiving day, Nov. 28, 1929, at the intersection of Ledyard and Vauxhall streets in New London, and Beckwith suffered a broken arm and other injuries, but these were of a minor nature.

It is the defense claim that Russell Starkweather was not in the machine at the time of the collision, but that his brother, Homer, had the car and that it was driven by Anthony Paine of New London. Attorney G. C. Morgan is counsel for the plaintiff and C. Hadlai Hull for the defendant.

Elwood W. Bailey, a New London policeman, was the first to testify, giving measurements taken at the place of the collision.

Dr. Walter M. Douglas of New London, who attended Mr. Beckwith, described the character of the fracture in the arm and showed x-ray pictures of the break. He said there had been a loss of rotation in the arm to about 25 per cent. Beckwith was under the doctor's treatment about two months and the bill was $127.

Commander James C. Maher, U. S. N., of 180 Vauxhall street, told of hearing the crash and then seeing the Beckwith car lying on its side. He helped Mr. Beckwith get out of the car. On photographs shown in court Commander Maher showed the position of the Beckwith machine, lying on its right side in the street. It was turned completely around from the position in which it had been proceeding.

Walter L. Spencer, New London, photographer, described where he had taken the pictures in the case, one of which is a picture of the Beckwith machine.

George A. Beckwith, the plaintiff, of 257 Vauxhall street, testified that his 1925 Chevrolet coach was worth $140 at the time of the accident and was worth $20 afterwards, which was the price for which he sold it then. At the time of the accident he was getting $31.15 wages per week and was incapacitated until Feb. 3, 1930. Beckwith described his work as assistant stoke operator and rolled up his sleeves in court to show the jury his arms.

The witness said he was called upon the day after the accident by two men who showed operators' licenses of Anthony Paine and Russell B. Starkweather.

The jury was excused while Attorneys Morgan and Hull argued as to the admissability of evidence which Attorney Morgan wanted to introduce.

While the lawyers were questioning witnesses in the absence of the jury, Judge Inglis had Sheriff George H. Bradford tell the jury that they were excused till the following morning, when the trial will be resumed.

The jury in the case is:

Charles W. Burton, John Kukla, Dwight W. Avery, Norwich; Otis Browning, James Butler, Sr., Preston; Fred W. Holmes, Colchester; Frank Eccleston, Griswold; Irving R. Main, North Stonington; Leroy E. Lathrop, Bozrah; James W. Huntington, Franklin; Clement L. Perkins, Sprague, and Albert A. Rist, Lisbon.

TALK ON "ITALIAN RAMBLES" BEFORE ART ASSOCIATION

The regular meeting of the Norwich Art association was held in Converse art gallery, Slater hall, on Monday evening. After the transaction of routine business, Colonel H. Anthony Dyer, artist and lecturer, of Providence, R. I., gave a delightful talk on Italian Rambles. By his colorful descriptions, he kindled the imagination of his hearers until they, too, could visualize the things and places he described.

He spoke of the true beauty and lofty conceptions of art as shown by the old Italian masters in contrast to the sordid vulgarity of modern art as seen in an exhibition of the latter which he visited.

Colonel Dyer carried his audience through many delightful regions vividly portraying rural Italy—the plains of the Po—"the mystic land of beauty," Lake Como, old Italian gardens with their numerous statues, and a quaint old inn, built in 1260 where he stayed while in the Austrian Tyrol. He told something of the town of Bergamo. Of its public square, its fountain, the shrines made for the corners of the streets where people going and coming from market could stop and say an Ave Maria, and its ancient church, "the loveliest church in Italy," with its wonderful woodwork, tapestries and paintings by Giovanni Bellini. He pictured the poorer classes of people—people such as St. Francis used to live for, as they came to worship there.

After mentioning Padua and the Church of St. Antonio, Colonel Dyer described Venice with its "golden and silver lagoon"; the "lovely splash of its little wavelets in scintillating blue-y, green-y, gold-y ripples," the gondolas and fishing boats with their colored sails, San Marco, "the third finest church in the world," the Church of the Frari, with Titian's "Assumption" over the high altar, and Giovanni Bellini's "madonna and saints" in the sacristy. Both Titian and Bellini used much gold in their pictures.

In speaking of the prodigality of Venetian embellishment, Colonel Dyer characterized Venice as "the only place where you can't put too much decoration."

Notwithstanding the fact that there were several other attractions the attendance at the meeting was unusually large. A pleasant social time followed the lecture.

ICE COMPANY LOSES IN SUIT OVER HAMBURG ROAD

Judge Ernest A. Inglis in the superior court here Tuesday gave judgment against the People's Ice company of New York over the title to three tracts of land in the village of Hamburg.

Judge Inglis finds that the plaintiffs, Charles A. Morgan of Lyme, and Clifford A. Peck of Essex have absolute title to the first tract on Hamburg cove, that Morgan has absolute title to the second tract of about five acres, and that Morgan, with Virginia Morgan Jones of Norfolk, Va., and Jessie P. Morgan Jones of New York have absolute title to a third tract of about 28 acres and that all are entitled to the immediate and exclusive possession of the land against the defendant ice company.

CONTINUANCE IN CASE OVER DEFECTIVE BRAKES

Continuance was taken in the city court Tuesday morning until Dec. 16 in the case of John McComiskey, Jr., of 332 Franklin street, on the charge of operating a motor vehicle with defective brakes.

McComiskey was the driver of the Bromley & Son truck which struck Raymond Jascnia, 7, of 43 Spring street on Mechanic street Monday afternoon. The child has a fractured skull and is in the hospital. Police test of the truck after the accident showed that the foot brake was practically useless, but the emergency brake was working all right.

Hospital Dismissal

William Barstow of Plainfield was a patient who was dismissed at the Backus hospital on Tuesday.

COURT OF HONOR TO HAVE LARGE CLASS

A large class of second class scouts and first class scouts will present themselves tonight (Wednesday) before the court of honor to receive their awards. The new Jewish Community Synagogue troop will probably appear before the court to receive their tenderfoot badges. Quite a number of merit badges will be awarded to the older scouts.

According to the local scout headquarters, this court marks the fifth session of the Scoutleaders' training course and every leader is expected to attend. Scoutleaders will be encouraged to participate in the activities of the court and to present the badges to their own boys with suitable remarks. Parents and friends are invited. The court will be held in the council chamber, on the first floor of the court house, at 8 p. m. and because of the many entertainments and other meetings, will be marked by a brevity and an early dismissal.

COUNTY HOME HELPS FURNISH SCOUTS' CABIN

Through the courtesy of Mrs. F. A. Mitchell, of the state bureau of public welfare, Norwich Boy Scouts were shown through the old quarters of the county home on Tuesday and were offered many different articles for use in furnishing their cabin. Among some of the materials chosen by the scouts were old dishes, knives forks, spoons, oil stoves, cooking stove for out of doors, half dozen benches, old chairs, two cupboards, one strong ice box, one iron safe, half dozen buckets, shovels, one table, dozen or more wire mattresses for the attic of their cabin, several platforms and many other objects.

According to the local scout headquarters, the materials selected can be put to good use in developing the camp and the scouts are very grateful to the board of the local institution for affording them the opportunity to select materials before they were discarded in cleaning up the old home. The scouts still need some 2x4 boards and the help of carpenters to put up the frame of their cabin.

BELIEVES COMMUNICATION WITH MARS UNLIKELY

Prof. Frank Schlesinger of Yale university, was the speaker at the last convocation of the season Tuesday afternoon at Connecticut college, New London. The distinguished scientist entertained his audience with the thought that the possibility of life on Mars is not at all preposterous. The beginning of the lecture concerned Professor Schlesinger's idea of the possibility of life on Mars and what it would be like on the planet if it exists there at all. He maintained that while it is exceedingly likely that life exists on other planets besides the earth, its forms would be so different from what we are familiar with that we should hardly recognize it.

"Intelligent life on Mars may not be known," said Professor Schlesinger, "even though life may have existed there a much longer period than on the earth."

If there are beings on Mars, the scientist believes that it would be extremely unlikely that people of the earth could communicate with them. Even if these beings have developed a high degree of intelligence, it is practically futile to imagine that we could communicate with them in any manner.

Professor Schlesinger, who is director of the Yale observatory, gave the students many personal glimpses into his work at the observatory. His extensive knowledge of the "wandering" celestial bodies, the sun, moon, Venus, Jupiter, Mars, Mercury and Saturn, made for a highly entertaining as well as a most instructive lecture.

TELLS STORY IN COURT OF IMAGINARY ATTACK

John J. O'Malley, well known local character, sent to the state inebriate farm by Judge Arthur F. Libby in the city court Tuesday morning, told the court that he wasn't drunk when arrested. He claimed that three men set upon him, knocked him down and kicked him in the face, as the aftermath of a poker game he engaged in Monday night. He claimed he didn't remember anything after that until he woke up in a cell at police headquarters Tuesday morning. O'Malley said the men were from New York, that he lost considerable money at the beginning of the game, but afterwards won back about $40. It was then that the men set upon him.

The police, however, told a different story. They informed the court that O'Malley was very drunk when arrested and that he created considerable of a disturbance in his cell, yelling and shouting so that his yells could be heard outside the building.

SETTLEMENT IN SUIT OVER AUTOMOBILE ACCIDENT

In the case of Joseph Gromko of Preston against Charles Skindzier which was scheduled as the first case to be tried in the superior court here Tuesday morning, a settlement was effected at a reported price of $700. The plaintiff brought action for $900 damages for injuries received in an automobile accident Aug. 16, 1930 on the Norwich-Westerly highway, when Gromko was riding in an automobile operated by Skindzier's son. The machine went into a ditch, overturned and Gromko was thrown against the windshield.

Compensation Agreements

Workmen's compensation agreements as follows have been approved by Commissioner A. J. Bailey:

Hoffman Wall Paper Co., employer and William F. Davis, Jewett City, employe; injury to finger on Nov. 10 at $13.50.

A. J. Savin, employer and Anthony Barboxo, Fitchville, employe; strained muscles in back on Oct. 5, at $18.19.

Richmond Radiator Co., employer and P. Arnotki, Uncasville, employe; injury to foot on Oct. 31, at $11.57.

Windham Realty Co., Inc., employer and Grover C. Williams, 130 Valley street, Willimantic, employe; cutting logs in Griswold and axe fell on second toe of right foot severing same on Sept. 20. Compensation at the rate of $15 weekly for 13 weeks.

VACATED APPEAL OVER REUBEN WASHBURN WILL

The appeal of several heirs of the late Reuben B. S. Washburn of Norwich, which was to have been heard in the superior court in this city Tuesday, was vacated when it was indicated that a satisfactory settlement had been effected. The heirs claimed that in leaving the bulk of his estate to his widow the decedent was unduly influenced. The heirs bringing the suit included Thomas D. Washburn, John R. Washburn, Harry C. Washburn, Margaretta Tubbs, Meredith Yerington, Edith Woodworth and Florence Seng, children of Mr. Washburn. They alleged undue influence on the part of Annie H. Washburn and others.

Answer Calls For Toys

Boy Scouts collected about three bushel baskets full of toys Tuesday from a half dozen homes in Norwich and a number of calls still have to be made. The toys are being put into condition as rapidly as they are received and are being stored in the old Bankers' Trust room in the Thayer building, where they will be placed on display in the near future.

OPEN WARFARE ON HOOVER BY DISGRUNTED SENATORS

Senator Robinson Leads Bitter and Personal Assaults Upon the President's Demand That Relief Be Kept Within Limits of the Treasury—After Ascribing the President's Warning to Bad Temper, Senator Robinson Roared "I Would Raise Taxes Rather Than Refuse Our Primary Duty to Relieve at Such a Time"—Senator Bingham Was the Lone Republican to Defend President Hoover

WASHINGTON, Dec. 10—(AP)—The disgruntled senate forces were called upon to enter a new cooperation for emergency relief today by Senator Robinson, of Arkansas, the democratic leader, as he ascribed to bad temper President Hoover's denunciation of congressional proposals that fell outside the presidential program.

The $110,000,000 emergency public works measure progressed slowly as the democrats struck back at Mr. Hoover's statement that some members were "playing politics at the expense of human misery" with Senator Robinson finally coming before a crowded chamber to plead for cooperation for a full fledged relief program at the cost, if necessary, of a bond issue or increased taxes.

"We have proceeded to an unfortunate position" the democratic leader said in even tone and with obvious restraint. "The president lost his temper and made a statement that, of course, is to be condemned. For my part I do not propose to follow the example."

Robinsen warned that by cooperation he did not mean the following of any particular leadership but a common purpose to reach a common ground "in the enactment of measures for the welfare of our country."

More bitter and personal assaults upon the president's demand that relief be kept within limits of the treasury were made earlier by Senators McKellar, democrat, Tennessee, and Blaine, republican, Wisconsin.

Passage of the $110,000,000 appropriation tomorrow seemed certain although several amendments were pending at adjournment. After Robinson spoke, the parties divided widely on a motion by Blaine to make the $80,000,000 for federal road aid a direct appropriation without obligation of states to meet the sum. It lost, 43 to 32. Ten democrats voted against the motion which was supported by Robinson and seventeen other democrats.

Robinson said that if in speaking of a raid upon the treasury the chief executive referred to the $60,000,000 drought relief bill passed yesterday by the senate, he was willing to accept the "odium." He said Mr. Hoover's own drought relief committee has asked the $60,000,000 and he doubted if that were enough.

He defended the after-election pledge of cooperation given by seven democratic leaders including himself and denounced efforts to "make it appear that it was promoted with political motives or in disregard of the obligations of party loyalty."

The senate walls resounded for most of the day with vehement replies to Mr. Hoover and republican leaders in sizing up the situation found some discontent in their regular ranks. They were silent, although Senator Watson, of Indiana, the party chieftain, left the bedside of an ill wife to take charge of the situation.

Robinson advocated, in addition to the drought relief bill, that the government purchase and distribute the surplus wheat now held by the farm board; road improvements in the flood stricken states and continuation of the agricultural extension work.

He proposed that a bond issue be employed, if necessary, to meet the added costs for relief work rather than an increase of taxes.

"But I would raise taxes," he roared, "rather than refuse our primary duty to relieve in such a time.

"You didn't characterize it as a raid upon the treasury when we appropriated $20,000,000 to feed the starving women and children of Russia. You didn't call it a raid upon the treasury when you appropriated $100,000,000 to feed everyone in Europe at the close of the war except our former enemies.

"If the obligation was upon us to provide relief in those cases what shall I say and what shall you say in this danger and emergency that now faces us. Talk about precedents all you will but there are some things necessary to the preservation of life of the people and when those things bring discussion it is not an opportune time to raise technical objections."

Senator Bingham, of Connecticut, was the lone republican speaker. He characterized the speech of Senator McKellar as "playing politics" and termed his "insinuations" against the president as "unworthy" to go into the congressional record.

Walter Newton, executive secretary to the president was a caller late in the day in the senate but he said he simply passed on his way back to the white house from a visit to the house.

McKellar demanded that the president apologize for his "unwarranted, unprovoked, unconstitutional and untrue in fact," statement. He criticized the president for using a battleship to visit South America and spoke of "reports" that marines had been used in building roads to the summer camp of the president.

Blaine referred to the president as a "mediocre politician." He said Mr. Hoover had been "overpraised" and "his engineering ability has been limited to a gas engineer—that's about all we have had, is gas—as a result of his administration in the last two years."

VALENCIA STRIKERS ORDERED BACK TO WORK

VALENCIA, Spain, Dec. 10—(AP)—Striking workmen who walked out yesterday as the result of a disagreement between union carpenters and their employers tonight were ordered back to their shops and it was believed that disorders which accompanied the strike were at an end.

But at Alicante a sympathy strike was in progress and the authorities took precautions to prevent its extension after the fashion of the general strike last month which spread to half a dozen cities.

Sanchez Garcia, a labor leader, was killed in a riot yesterday which marked the beginning of the strike. He was buried secretly this afternoon and when strikers heard of it many of them went to the grave with flowers.

In the only serious disorder today an elderly man who was watching a street fight between strikers and police was wounded by a stray bullet.

POLICE GUARD LIFE OF "STOOL PIGEON" WITNESS

NEW YORK, Dec. 10.—(AP)—Prosecutor Isidor J. Kresel's chief witness at the appellate inquiry into New York magistrates' courts became as valued in person as a potentate today, with Police Commissioner Mulrooney assigning six picked lieutenants to guard him from harm.

The witness, "Chile" Mapocha Acuna, natty little Latin American, is expected to testify at several future open hearings of the inquiry and in police departmental and perhaps criminal trials of officers accused of framing charges against women to collect graft. Acuna was formerly a police "stool pigeon."

Departmental trial of six of the accused policemen, scheduled for today, was postponed until next Monday and the next open hearing before Referee Samuel Seabury of the appellate court was set for Friday instead of tomorrow.

EAST HAMPTON MAN HELD FOR RECKLESS DRIVING

WOLCOTT, Dec. 10.—(AP)—Charges of evading responsibility preferred against Marshall Bevin, of East Hampton, who on November 26, struck and badly injured George Watson, 7, of this town, were changed to charges of reckless driving in town court tonight at the request of Grand Juror Alexander M. Grant. Pleading nolle contendere on this count, Bevin was found guilty and fined $25 and costs, a total of $46.80.

$45,000 BANK ROBBERY BY FOUR UNMASKED BANDITS

KANSAS CITY, Dec. 10.—(AP)—Four unmasked robbers took charge of the Inter-State National bank for more than an hour today, awaiting the opening hour of a time lock on the vault, and then escaped with loot estimated at $45,000.

Officers and employes of the bank were held at bay with pistols while the hold-up was in progress.

TWO WOMEN APPOINTED JUDGES IN MASSACHUSETTS

BOSTON, Dec. 10.—(AP)—"Obsolete" was written across three hundred years of Massachusetts precedent today when, for the first time in the state's history, two women were appointed judges.

The pioneer names Governor Frank G. Allen laid before the executive council for confirmation were those of Mrs. Emma Fall Schofield and Mrs. Sale Lipner Shulman, both mothers, both prominent at the bar, both experienced as holders of public office.

Appropriately, they represent the far-flung diversity of the elements joined in the Bay State's population. Mrs. Schofield's family has lived in Malden since 1629. Mrs. Shulman, born in New York but now living in Boston, represents the newer blood in the nation's life. Each, upon confirmation, becomes a special justice in her own home neighborhood — Malden and the Dorchester district of Boston, respectively.

KINGSFORD-SMITH WEDS MISS MARY POWELL

MELBOURNE, Australia, Dec. 10—(AP)—Australia's foremost airman and the girl who waited behind while he flew around the world were married today.

In Scots' church, the ceremony was given that made Wing Commander Charles Kingsford-Smith and Miss Mary Powell man and wife. Only immediate friends were present, but 10,000 others waited outside the church to catch a glimpse of the bride and groom.

Climaxing a romance that began on an ocean liner and was twined around the earth by the adventurous flier, the marriage means a less exciting life for Kingsford-Smith.

It was in 1927, while traveling from Vancouver to Australia, that he met the pretty golden haired Irish girl and fell in love with her.

Then, as he prepared to take off from Ireland to New York this year in the Southern Cross, he announced their engagement.

PLOT AGAINST LIFE OF PRESIDENT IBANEZ, CHINE

SANTIAGO, Chile, Dec. 10—(AP)—More than fifteen persons, including two major generals, are being held in connection with the plot against the life of President Carlos Ibanez which was thwarted last night by government agents.

The agents, familiar with details of the plan, permitted the plotters to go ahead and even watched them as they placed 25 pounds of dynamite under a railroad bridge across the Rio Maipo, 20 miles from Santiago, a short time before the presidential train was due to pass.

Then the agents swooped down upon them, captured the plotters and disconnected the electric wires which were to have set off the charge.

The president unmoved by the incident went about his work today in his

Billions Behind Bankers Meeting In New York

NEW YORK, Dec. 11.—(AP)— Wall street's leading bankers were in conference early this morning at the New York Federal Reserve bank, after one of the city's newer and smaller banking organizations had weathered a flurry of withdrawals.

Although the bank experiencing the withdrawals—the Bank of United States, which is not connected with the government, despite its name—is not a Wall street institution, and caters to small depositors, heads of banks with total resources of more than $10,000,000,000 met to discuss effective measures of stilling financial nervousness.

Among those attending the conference were Thomas W. Lamont of J. P. Morgan & Co.; Albert H. Wiggin, head of the Chase National bank; George L. Harrison, governor of the Federal Reserve bank of New York; Owen D. Young, deputy chairman of the federal reserve and chairman of the General Electric Co.; Charles E. Mitchell, chairman of the National City bank, and Jackson E. Reynolds, president of the First National bank.

The conference recessed for luncheon at 1 a. m.

RUN ON BRANCHES OF THE BANK OF U. S. IN NEW YORK

NEW YORK, Dec. 10.—(AP)—Thousands of excited depositors congregated at eight branches of one of the smaller banking organizations of the city tonight, as a reassuring statement from the New York Federal Reserve bank and the Wall street banking fraternity was expected momentarily.

Police reserves were called upon to handle the situation, and had their most serious problem at a branch in the Bronx, where a throng collected demanding their funds before the bank's closing time at 8 o'clock. All those who were able to get inside before closing were paid in full. Most of the depositors gathered at the other branches after they had closed, but the early comers were paid in full.

These banking offices were branches of the Bank of the United States which has no connection with the government, despite its name, and which specializes in serving small depositors, many of whom do not speak English. Many of those who clamored for their money were of foreign extraction.

The Bank of the United States is not a Wall street institution, but it was learned the city's most powerful financial interests were acting to still the nervousness which developed among its depositors. The bank's main office is in the mid-town area, and it merely maintains a branch in the financial district. It is one of the newer banking organizations, having been incorporated under state charter in 1913.

The branches affected were in widely separated parts of the city—three in the Bronx, one in upper Manhattan and four in Brooklyn. The largest crowd, estimated by the police at 5,000 and more, was assembled in front of the Bronx branch at Freeman street and Southern boulevard. Here, mounted police preserved order.

Several of the city's leading bankers were in session at the offices of the New York Federal Reserve bank at midnight, and an announcement still was expected.

In the meantime, the Bank of the United States planned to open on schedule at 9 o'clock in the morning. Officers stated abundant cash would be available for any depositors desiring to withdraw.

CINCINNATI TYPO. UNION VOTES FOR FIVE-DAY WEEK

CINCINNATI, O., Dec. 10.—(AP)—Cincinnati Typographical union No. 3 voted favorably today on inaugurating the five-day week in newspaper and commercial printing offices in Greater Cincinnati employing union composers. Plans will be perfected immediately for placing the five-day week in operation.

The vote was 338 in favor of the five-day week and 220 against. The five-day week will remain in force for a period of six months, according to the notice on the ballot.

The local union officers said the general business depression and the discontinuance of the Commercial Tribune made the shorter work week necessary.

The Cincinnati local is the first of the International Typographical union to adopt the five-day week.

ARMED MEN HELD UP LUNCH CART IN THOMASTON

THOMASTON, Dec. 10.—(AP)—Three armed men held up the lunch cart here owned by Peter Matarese, early this morning, and stole $27 from the cash register and several dollars worth of cigarettes. The robbers selected the morning hour when the police officer had gone off duty for the night and the street was deserted.

They entered the cart, asked for coffee and while the chef was preparing it they pulled guns on him. After looting the place they jumped in a car outside and drove off. The chef described them as being between the ages of 20 and 25 but could give little other description.

FREE HAIRCUTS AND SHAVE FOR UNEMPLOYED IN SEATTLE

SEATTLE, Wash., Dec. 10. — (AP) — Free haircuts and shaves for the unemployed will be given here starting Monday by unemployed union barbers.

The barbers will be paid from a weekly contribution of master and journeymen barbers, the shop will be donated by Alfred Goddard, Barber college proprietor, and a linen and supply company will donate the equipment.

Cards from welfare agencies also will entitle the holders to shoe shines and baths.

Laval Fails To Form New French Cabinet

Had Sought Conciliation, But Encountered Nothing But Conflict

PARIS, Dec. 10.—(AP)—Caught in a no man's land between bitter warfare of the right and left parties, the youthful Senator Pierre Laval today gave up his efforts to form a government.

He called on President Doumergue and informed the president that he, like his veteran colleague, Louis Barthou, must renounce the task assigned him.

"I have sought conciliation, yet I have been confronted with nothing but conflict," M. Laval told President Doumergue, who announced he would call no other statesmen this evening.

For three days, with infinite patience, M. Laval had caused no fewer than 200 senators and deputies to call on him at the ministry of labor and offer suggestions. He consulted not only the leaders of groups and parties, but nearly every senator and deputy of France.

Finally, discouraged by an air of distrust and suspicion that permeates the halls of parliament since the Oustric bank failure controversy he abandoned the attempt.

"I wished to achieve a large concentration of all republicans in conformity with the vote of the senate and the general desire of the country," he said. "I have made an effort with tenacity and patience; I have sought peace, and have met nothing but conflict." The senate vote to which he referred was that of last Thursday when the Tardieu government was overthrown.

"I can only repeat," M. Laval added, "what I said yesterday —namely, that France needs a government and needs it at the quickest possible moment."

Meanwhile, France has been without a government a week, and indications are that the crisis will last fully another week.

The general impression is that if Foreign Minister Briand is called on to form a new government, he would likely decline rather than have an experienced political expert like himself meet with failure. M. Poincare the savior of the franc, although enfeebled by a recent operation, appeared once again tonight as the ultimate hope to lead France out of its present predicament.

NEW CROSS-COUNTRY FLIGHT RECORD BY RUTH NICHOLS

NEW YORK, Dec. 10.—(AP)— Ruth Nichols flew her fleet monoplane "The New Cincinnati" past all the transcontinental records of her own sex and took her place right up among the best of the masculine fliers today by completing a two-day, one-stop flight from coast to coast in 13 hours, 21 minutes and 43 seconds.

In a borrowed ship, a stock model from the Lockheed Vega factory loaned to her for the trip by a radio company (Crosley) of Cincinnati, Ohio, she came in from Wichita, Kans., in six hours, 21 minutes and 43 seconds, which was believed to be the fastest journey of its length ever made by man or woman in unbroken flight. The distance is 1,300 miles.

Her actual flying time bettered the previous marks of the Charles A. Lindberghs and Capt. Roscoe Turner by upwards of an hour, although her elapsed time was greater by virtue of an overnight stop in Wichita to rest, and the only faster flying time on record tonight for the 2,300-mile coast-to-coast journey was that of Capt. Frank Hawks.

BRIDE OF A YEAR THROWS HER BABY INTO A FURNACE

AMESBURY, Mass., Dec. 10.—(AP)—Mrs. Doris Gray, 25, a bride of a year, went suddenly insane at her home today and threw her three weeks' old baby into a blazing furnace. The child was burned to death.

Mrs. Herbert Gray, the young woman's mother-in-law, found her in hysterics upon returning to the house after a short absence. She discovered the infant's body and summoned her husband, who extinguished the furnace fire.

Medical Examiner Peter J. Mullen viewed the body and expressed the belief that the young mother was unaware of what she had done.

Late tonight, police had not decided what action to take in the matter.

WESLEY HILL, NEGRO ACTOR, KILLED BY TAXICAB IN N. Y.

NEW YORK, Dec. 10—(AP)—Wesley Hill, Negro actor, who portrayed the Angel Gabriel in Marie Connelly's biblical fable, "The Green Pastures," was killed by a taxicab today.

The cab struck the actor as he stepped from behind an elevated line pillar in Harlem. He died before he could be taken to a hospital and identification was not made until several hours later. Meanwhile, an understudy portrayed Gabriel at a matinee performance.

TILSON SAYS HOUSE HAS MUSCLE SHOALS COMPROMISE

WASHINGTON, Dec. 10— (AP) — Representative Tilson, of Connecticut, the majority floor leader, said today the house conferees had prepared a new compromise offer to break the Muscle Shoals deadlock.

The new offer, he said, would be submitted to the conference committee Friday. He added that he was very hopeful of success.

Kellogg Receives Nobel Peace Prize

Feels Sorry For So Many People Constantly Predicting a New War

OSLO, Norway, Dec. 10.— (AP) — Sounding a confident note on world peace, but at the same time warning that western civilization could not withstand a new war, Frank B. Kellogg, whose efforts toward world peace resulted in the Kellogg-Briand pact, today received the Nobel peace prize for 1929.

An orchestra played the Star Spangled Banner as the former American secretary of state, fifth of his countrymen to win the award, received a diploma and medal from Professor Frederick Stang, president of the Nobel committee.

King Haakon was present with Crown Prince Olav and a distinguished gathering of cabinet members and other Norwegian notables.

In an address preceding the presentation, Premier Johan Mowinckel described Mr. Kellogg as "the man of practical politics," contrasting him with Dr. Nathan Soederblom, winner of the 1930 award, whom the premier termed "a man of the church and a spiritual warrior."

There is no indication of war in the world, but rather the prospect is for continued peace, Mr. Kellogg declared in acknowledging the award.

"General unrest," he said," is a natural expression of hard times everywhere, but there has been no war and we should be thankful to take it as a good omen that peace prevails today on the earth.

Should there be a war, however, he warned, western civilization could not withstand it.

"For ten years the European nations have patiently worked on a solution of the difficult problems that in former days would have promoted international conflicts," he said.

"I feel sorry that so many people among them many of my own countrymen, constantly predict a new war. I have said it before, and will emphasize it as strongly as possible, that western culture will never outlive a new war, but will perish in a general chaos.

"I know of no nobler work for humanity than promoting peace. Men must adopt higher and greater goals than that of settling international quarrels by arms.

"Leading statesmen have taken steps to prevent a new catastrophe, and while these measures are no absolute guaranty of peace, they are the most secure arrangements hitherto adopted by the nations."

Mr. Kellogg said he regarded the award not only as an honor to himself but to his country as well, and as a recognition of America's efforts toward peace and a higher civilization.

The audience burst into applause when he arose to receive the prize from Professor Stang while the Star Spangled Banner was played. The playing of the Swedish national anthem that followed was the signal for Dr. Soederblom to receive the 1930 peace award. Dr. Soederblom has long been active in the cause of world peace.

Other Americans who have won the Nobel prize for peace were Theodore Roosevelt in 1906, Elihu Root in 1912, Woodrow Wilson in 1919 and Ambassador Charles G. Dawes in 1925.

SLAYING OF MANUFACTURER BLAMED ON RACKETEERS

NEW YORK, Dec. 10—(AP)—The slaying of a pocketbook manufacturer in May, 1929, was blamed today on racketeers as a county grand jury filed an indictment charging three persons with racketeering in the pocketbook industry.

Assistant District Attorney Impelliterri said witnesses he had questioned told him racketeers had assaulted and slain Hyman Leder, pocket-book manufacturer. He recalled that when Leder's body was found on West 21st street near Fifth avenue. Death was attributed to a skull fracture caused by an iron bar.

Witnesses told Impelliterri that intimidation caused Leder to arrange to move his plant to Poughkeepsie, but that the killing occurred a short time before the date set for the removal.

Other pocketbook manufacturers, they said, had been forced out of business by threats and employes had been prevented from working and others assaulted.

FASCISTS DEFEATED IN GERMAN REICHSTAG

BERLIN, Dec. 10—(AP)—The government today defeated attempts by its contentious adversaries, the fascists, communists and nationalist, to bring up questions which would delay early Christmas adjournment of the reichstag.

This morning the three opposition parties introduced non-confidence motions against Dr. Julius Curtius, foreign minister, Dr. Joseph Wirth, finance minister, and Gottfried Treviranus, minister of occupied territories, and this afternoon attempted to have them placed on tomorrow's agenda. The move was defeated.

J. HENRY RORABACK SAILS FOR VACATION IN BERMUDA

HARTFORD, Dec. 10—(AP)—J. Henry Roraback, chairman of the republican state central committee, and Clarence G. Willard, of New Haven, secretary of the committee, sailed from New York today for a vacation in Bermuda. They are expected to be gone about 10 days.

SKIPPER M.L. THOMSON, NEW LONDON, LOST OVERBOARD OFF POINT JUDITH

NEWPORT, R. I., Dec. 10.— (AP) — Morris L. Thompson, of New London, Conn., skipper ofthe fishing schooner Harold, was washed overboard and lost off Point Judith early today. The schooner reached here late today to report the loss of Thompson and to leave Earl Caswell, of Newport, who attempted to rescue Thompson, at a hospital to recover from exposure.

Thompson lost his balance when the schooner pitched in a rough sea and was seen to fall by Caswell. The latter dived after him but the sea was so rough and the water so cold he was soon in danger of drowning. James Mexan, of Stonington, Conn., threw a line toward Caswell and maneuvered the schooner so the latter could be pulled aboard.
